The fellow who sent in to us a lengthy rigmarole entitled "A Hockey Reminiscence" is hereby informed that he must write plain and not make us a guess-work affair.

Our readers will remember an item in our last issue stating that 1002 sheep had arrived in Tofield district from the east but to win for here. They are the property of the Sarma Ranching Co., of Walsh, Alta. This week the same company sent over 400 cattle and theirs to arrive from the East, also to winter in the Tofield district The company has got up over 300 tons of hay near Trent's ranch Hay and water are plentiful here

"Mr. Hamilton," said the lord, in the tone of one who is determined to be patient.

"Mr. Hamilton, sir. Mr. Richard Hamilton, and I've been in the service of your ancestors, sir, for—for—for—"

"Never mind how long," said the lord, "but I'm sure you've been a faithful servant. Now, Hamilton, I'm going to ask you a question, and I want you to answer it truthfully. Do you know anything about the disappearance of Miss Lorna Doone?"

Nobody ever dreamed that Lorna Hallows was aware of the existence of Gilles Perrygascoyne even, but such was the fact. Lorna knew all about Gilles, and had known all about him for years. She knew that he was in love with her, and that he was a smuggler, and that he was the leader of the band that had carried her father's honor and his fortune away from him. She knew all of the latter as being commanded by Perrygascoyne, except one which was in charge of a second lieutenant of Gilles's named Jack Latkin, who was in the service." You are further informed, "the gravity behind in the matter of remittations, the matter being the attempt to breach all the officers and men every thing," instead of speculating and sadly wishing that such was not the case, "and to make suitable applications for the same." Lorna knew that her father had always been very much interested in the welfare of his officers and men, and that he had entrusted Jack Latkin with the task of looking after their interests. She knew that Jack had been in the habit of visiting the cottage and that he had been very much interested in Lorna herself. She knew that Jack had been in the habit of visiting the cottage and that he had been very much interested in Lorna herself. She knew that Jack had been in the habit of visiting the cottage and that he had been very much interested in Lorna herself.

This is the car and the driver—McLaughlin-Buick and Billy Power—that made the first ten-than-a-minute mile ever run in Canada. The time and place: Kinsdale Track, the car and driver also won the Dunlop Trophy race—twenty five miles in twenty two minutes nineteen seconds

Municipal Elections

The time is now not far distant when it will be up to the ratepayers of Tofield to select three men to fill the vacancies in the council which will be caused by the retirement of Councillors Emery, Meawell, and Abbott. In considering the men who shall be selected to represent the Town on the Council it must be remembered that these men will sit on the board of management for the two years, 1911 and 1912. It is most desirable, therefore, and essentially important that these men should be broad-minded, courageous men—men competent to deal with large matters and with far reaching plans. The Council is divided into committees and much executive work devolves upon the men who are elected to constitute these committees. There is much need then, that the men who shall form the council shall be men who be can familiarize themselves with detailed and minor matters of management, and also men who are able to see ahead, act wisely courageously, and to fight unflinchingly for broader and better ideas.

We are at a point in the Town's history which is perhaps more important than appears on the surface and which may be missed by the unthinking individual. It is well that we should give this situation more than ordinary consideration. A railroad has been built through this town and another to it, and they are going to be a great advantage, we have a district second to none, about us, development is proceeding about us apace, and what we are going to be is according to the temper of the people of the town, and their representatives.

Let us ask ourselves, what are we going to be? Shall we be content to always be a place of the village stamp or shall we aspire to be a greater? To be the one is easy. To be the other requires men who are competent to see ahead. To act wisely and to fight unflinchingly for bigger and better ideas. Shall we have men who may be sincere but who are lacking in foresight, who are quite without vision. No, we do not want such upon the Council. We need men who through thick and thin will preach the tidings of a good advance as and when we can not be discouraged even at the set backs in the face of such apathy and thoughtlessness as we see in much of around about us.

The constructive period for Tofield is not yet over. There remains much—much to be done. What have we to offer to the multitudes who are yet to come and fill our fertile prairies? How are we to attract the manufacturer and jobber? How shall we develop those advantages which we have, and make them known to the waiting many? Shall we lay our foundations broad and deep? Shall we avoid that retrograde movement or even stagnant conditions which may be observed in places we have known? Let us all, then, lend a hand and help nail the ship along to victory and success, to win that golden future which awaits us and which is ours if we will only strive for it.

Closing Days of A Great Piano & Organ Opportunity

At the beginning of this year we perfected a plan with our manufacturers, by which we became obligated to purchase and sell a large number of pianos and organs in twelve months. Our ambition was to do a large volume of business, to make the MASTERS PIANO CO. a household word, and in place either a piano or an organ in each new community in Western Canada. Up to the present time our business has been greater than we anticipated, and we are stimulated to greater possibilities during the remaining days of 1910

Our superior methods and facility for buying in large quantities, enables us to quote prices much lower than the offerings of ordinary small dealers, and realizing that the strictest business integrity, is essential to success, and with a view of increasing our business in enormous proportions without the aid of travelling salesmen, or the expensive method of large newspaper advertising, we have decided to give those who desire a piano or organ, who live out outside of Edmonton, the benefit of a large number of due bills, which will be issued direct to those who answer this advertisement correctly.

Answer Quick

To the first person who sends in the correct reading of the above rebus, we will issue a credit due bill for $75.00 good to apply at face value on any new piano or organ in our immense stock. To each of the next five we will issue a due bill for $65.00. To each of the next seventy-five we will issue a due bill for $55.00, and to each of the next fifty we will issue a due bill for $35.00, and to each of the next seventy-five we will issue a due-bill for $25.00. These due-bills can be applied as so much paid on any new piano or organ selected from our stock.

All replies will be numbered and due bills issued strictly in the order in which they are received. Due-bills will not be issued except to people living outside of Edmonton. To accomplish our purpose and give our rural customers the advantage, this ad. will not appear except in papers which circulate in outlying districts

We are the largest dealers in pianos and organs, in Western Canada. Our store and offices occupy nearly five thousand feet of floor space. Our stock of instruments consists of over one hundred instruments picked from the world's best makes, all marked in plain figures and sold at one price to all. In pianos we handle the New Art Ball, Masters, Lockner, Schumann, Bachman and other standard makes. In organs we handle the Bell only.

We will send catalogues and full description and make careful selection for those who cannot visit our store in person and guarantee the utmost satisfaction in every case. Our large list of customers will testify as to the reliability of every statement made in this advertisement.

REGARDING THE MASTERS PIANO

We have had over thirty years of practical experience in the piano business. All these years we have been studying the methods of piano construction and have our own ideas embodied in this piano, for the double purpose of producing an instrument to satisfy the critical and artistic ideas of the musician, and withstand the severe changes of climate characteristic of this country, and also build a reputation for the house.

Our ambition has been rewarded by the production of a piano second to none. From the musician's standpoint the scale is exceptionally even and well balanced, producing a rich, mellow, resonant tone, while the touch is light and elastic. These qualities, coupled with the solidity of construction, and artistic case design, embodies all that can be desired in a STRICTLY HIGH GRADE INSTRUMENT WE ARE PROUD OF THE PIANO THAT BEARS OUR NAME, and unhesitatingly guarantee it for the term of TEN YEARS. Easy payments can be arranged on the balance for those who desire.

BE SURE AND WRITE YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS PLAINLY and mail your reply without delay.

That Reminds Me

HE was an observant little shaver, with a knack of shoving home bright little remarks. He was being wonderfully nice to Jimmy Jones, but I haven't much time for children.

"Jo," he said, "I hear Uncle Joe is going to be married on Friday."

"Yes, that's right," said Uncle Joe with a rather sheepish grin.

"What bad luck, Jimmy dear," he said, "they give them everything to sell that they can't use, don't they, pa?"

IN Zanesville, Ohio, they tell of a young widow, who, in consulting a lawyer with a view to marrying her late husband, ended the discussion with

"Now, Mr. Jones, all I want to say is, 'To Mr Husband,' in an appropriate way."

"Very well, ma'am," said the stone cutter.

When the headstone was put up the next day it was found that the engraver had spelt it most unrefined three words: "To Mr Husband in an Appropriate Way."

THERE is a young member of the diplomatic corps in Washington who is disgusted to hear that when or not always judicious. He was entertaining with a lady who combines intellectual and physical graces with considerable success.

"I have enjoyed talking to you very much," he said. "It is a pleasure to be in the society of some who have cultivated minds."

"But, Mr. Brown," she said, laugh ing, "perhaps I was not as silent as usual."

"I was, always sure of that," he said.

MR BLEATING dined the other evening with some friends. When the ladies were washing their hands in the bowl and fingers sparkling in a soft lather.

"Ah, what's that?" demanded Bleate, who had been asleep, and who is rather deaf.

The hostess smiled patronly and began again in a louder voice.

"Speak a little louder. I don't catch what you say," said Bleating testily.

The hostess of laughter went round the table, and Bleating, with his face flushed with embarrassment, raised his voice and talked. The poor old fellow did his best to hear, but failed.

"I had all my pay!" he demanded crossly.

The host sent him an angry glance.

"Dang it! I'm saying grace," he roared.

HERE is a story from Frank Ormerod's "Insensible Life and the insects."

On one occasion a synapse clerk, in scanning one of the forms to see that it had been properly filled up, noticed the figures 120 and 121 under the head ing "Age of father, if living," and "Age of mother, if living."

"But your parents were never married," he said to the astonish ed applicant.

"No," was the reply, "but they would be but if living."

ADAM BEDE, of Minnesota, the inventor of the Home of Superwealth, and at Washington while he was in the city and whose house still bids fair, despite the fact that he was elected to stay at home, tells the following of a friend of his who travels for a paper firm:

"My friend," said Bede, "is of a roaming disposition, and he recently had his wanderlust whipped out with two inches of birch. Arriving at the station he saw the principal swinging on the platform and said

"Are you going to Skegs on that train?"

"I am," said the conductor.

THE TOMB OF FOREST SHRUBS

THE United States Department of Agriculture is using this year on its experimental farms more than two tons of tree seed. Most of this seed has already been planted and the rest will be stratified later on favorable conditions for germination.

Forest trees are much slower than shade tree seed. Each year the most important tree for planting in the far treeless sand hills, will average more than 1,000 pounds to the bushel. Most of western yellow pine the tree used on experimental farms in order to make forest of forests as a whole. 10,000 seed make a pound, and a bushel of this seed is used this year represent perhaps three hundred million single seeds.

If every seed could be depended on to produce a young tree capable of living, the result would be a supply of young trees sufficient to fill every acre of two hundred thousand acres of land, but unfortunately only a small part of the seed will germinate and germinated. Most of the seed will be eaten, either broadcast or in seed beds, by rodents, birds, and blister, directly in the place where the trees are to stand.

Even when nursery stock is raised a liberal allowance must be made for loss in the first place, a considerable percentage of the seeds will be found to be infertile of those which germinate, many will be killed in the nursery seed beds, and more many will be destroyed by rodents. Of the number of seedlers yallow pine seed that can be planted in the field only about one-half of the seedlings are actually set out. Of the seedlings planted only about half will have developed sufficiently to survive.

Experience, largely twenty four national forest nurseries, having as normal production of about 1,000,000 seedlings. But there are many millions of acres in the forests of the national forests which are waiting to be restocked with young trees, and it is estimated that thus the actual planting of nursery stock will be about 10,000,000 trees. Therefore, the foresters are making experiments to find out the ground cover and method of direct sowing and planting, which will be cheaper than the way that was obtaining for this end.

Experiments have already been found for germination of seeds. Some of these will be tried in the Black Hills of South Dakota, where conditions are severe. To broadcast an acre of land with ponderosa pine seed, eight pounds of seed is used. One of the most successful methods of direct sowing is the extent to which the seed may be covered by leaves, litter and debris. The amount happens to be one in which four inches of material is the cover, the loss is very heavy. The problem of control of the seedlings which will be found in ground squirrels, and gophers, which eat the seeds. Experiments are furthermore in progress to determine the relative loss of preventing the depredations of rodents by poisoning, trapping, shooting, or the little trees themselves, whatever is the best method of protecting the seedlings, is receiving the attention of the forest service experts of the Department of Agriculture.

In some localities the department had had a considerable success in that the ground is gathered by Forest Service men in November. The cone of spring have started for the different regions from factory days of early winter. Be careful to a rule the seed is collected in the fall and winter, when most conifers ripen the seed. Parties of three or four men are usually employed in the work. Early spring is in progress the collectors follow the trees, which are then felled with axes, the limb is more man arduous. The cones from the branches as best they can. The cones from the branches as best they can. The cones from the branches as best they can

The sympathy of the community will be extended to Miss Swain and brothers who are homesteading west of Tofield in their sore bereavement. Last Saturday they received a telegram from England conveying the sad intelligence of the sudden and unexpected death of their father. The blow is doubly sad as the children here were expecting their parents to come out to Tofield to reside next summer.

The local helge U.F.A. is to meet in Tofield next Saturday to discuss the matter of sending a delegate to Ottawa with the grain farmer's delegation on Dec. 16th next. This delegation is to impress upon the government the advisability of lowering the tariff for the farmers and the undertaking by the government of the building of the Hudson Bay Railway. It is to be hoped that a good turnout of farmers will result from the call to action.

While the delegation is down at Ottawa, the opportunity is good to impress upon the Government other conditions which are a source of grievance to the farmers. Stock and horses are being killed all about the railways. In many cases this is due to defective cattle guards, dangerous crossings, fences along railway construction grades through farms, immediate attention to farmers claims for losses of cattle and horses killed by the railways. These and other important matters affecting the farmers interests should be brought up when the 500 farmers' delegation interviews the Premier and Minister of Railways.

Council

Gas Proposition Goes through Town well to be Tested

Council met last night in regular session with a full house.

A big mass meeting of the ratepayers is called for next Tuesday night to discuss the proposition to finance a municipal natural gas well and plant. The bylaw authorizing the issue of debentures to the extent of $20000 on the credit of the town for the above purpose passed its first reading last night and will be the theme under discussion. The council wishes to learn the temper of the ratepayers on the problem before going further with the matter.

A bylaw prohibiting the stacking of grain or hay in the town within one hundred and fifty feet of any building in which a fire is kindled was passed through its three readings and became law at once.

Edmonton city council sent a draft of a resolution recently passed by them calling upon the provincial government to look into the investigation of the water power possibilities of the province with a view of acquiring them from the Dominion and the development thereof for use within the province, and asked that the council adopt the same. This was done.

The contract with McBeth for sealing 1st avenue was closed and signed.

Coun. Fugi reported that Parslow was progressing well with the well test today. He was instructed

Pound Bylaw Scored

Interesting Debate By Council on Pound By-Law. Nothing Done.

Tofield has reached that point which is usual with all western towns some time in their history when the interests of the townspeople and those of the rural sections immediately surrounding clash. The inevitable has happened and the impounding of estray animals within the town is coming very heavy on the farmers who live in the vicinity.

At last night's council meeting Councillor Emery brought up the matter. He told of how complaint had been made to him by farmers that the working of the bylaw was retarding in a great hardship to them. If it were continued that some of them would have to move away, and others with these had decided that if some change was not made, they would have to deal elsewhere. Mr. Emery said that he thought the bylaw was too severe and that some change should be made whereby the inhabitants to the farmers, who are not compelled by law to herd their cattle and horses, but who were doing what they could to keep them away from town, would not be continued. Councillor Story agreed strongly that we had no need for the pound bylaw at all and stood for its repeal. Councillors Maxwell and Ferguson came out flatfooted for the bylaw to stay as it is. Abbott was dumb, and Coun. Fugi took the stand that the farmers who were pinched it should convince the ratepayers and get them to Wallaceburg, Ont., Special.—It is a common thing for children to wet the bed, but it is not generally known that the direct cause of Kidney Disease is often found in the weakness caused by bed-wetting. sheet those councillors at the approaching election who would promise to repeal the by-law. The matter rested there and nothing further was said. Emery showed that the local merchants were losing the trade of the farmers attended. Coun. Ferguson remarked that there were other farmers further away who would still deal in town.

A million dollar fire occurred in the business section of Victoria B. C. several days ago. Over forty fire alarms were wiped out of existence in one fell stroke and hundreds thrown out of employment. What more local interest to some of our Tofield readers is the fact that Rev. Mr. Whillans and Mrs. Whillans who a few months ago married from Tofield to Victoria passed through a thrilling experience in connection with this fire.

Mrs. Whillans annual experience last night. Shortly after we had gone to bed, fire broke out in a large store near us. We had to get up and out in a hurry, with such of our belongings as we could carry. Our place and the rest on the north are the only ones that escaped out of the whole block. I thought at one time that our place was doomed too, but fortunately for us it escaped. I was that Mrs. Whillans would catch cold in the chilly night air, while we remained on the street until nearly two o'clock watching the fire. She weeps, however, now that some I met any things into a back room of St. Andrews church, through the kindness of Rev. Mr. Uny, the pastor, who helped me carry them in. We took a rest in the vestibule of the night on the Balmoral Hotel. We could not rest until we saw good reason to hope that our place was likely to escape. After breakfast at the hotel, we returned to find all things just as we left them. The fire is said to be the worst that Victoria has ever had. Our Tofield friends will be glad to hear of our escape.

Friends of Mrs. Whillans, on account of whose health Mr. and Mrs. Whillans removed to Victoria, will be pleased to learn that she is making good progress towards health and strength.

R. N. Whillans on behalf of the Tofield Agricultural Society, applied to council for a grant of $200 to the Society. Moved by Coun. Haskell and seconded by Coun. Emery That if the town has authority to do so the old exhibition grounds be sold and amount required by Agricultural Society be paid out of proceeds of sale. If necessary the consent of the Legislature thereto be obtained.

At Court of Revision which followed the meeting, M W. Urquhart's name was put on the list as a ratepayer for M. W. Urquhart & Co. Her Nicholson's name was not added as the property was assessed in Mrs. Hunter's name and council had no authority to further revise the assessment roll.

How Shall the Situation Be Dealt With

Last Sunday we took a stroll over to Nolan's feed barn and found a horse being exercised which created much interest in the minds of the onlookers. One man held a horse by a rope in front of the barn while our exercised and enthusiastic constable on foot was assistingby turns to round up a bunch of other horses which were out on the prairie about half way over to Mr. McCauley's. The idea was, of course, to get the animals in the barn. We did not stay long enough to witness the closing act of the play but later learned that the finale was pulled off successfully. The horses, which belonged to a farmer in the vicinity of town, were safely lodged in "durance vile."

Now, this article is not intended as a criticism of the town constable or his assiduity in earning the $0 cents per hook allowed him by the town by-law. It is his duty to see that the pound by-law is observed although right here we might say that he might just as well, while he is about it, see that the by-law prohibiting hoodlums being lighted up too sun-down, which is flagrantly and repeatedly violated, is also respected. We repeat, that it is his duty to see that the by-laws are respected, such are his instructions from the council. Yet with reference to this pound by-law it does seem that it is a hardship upon farmers residing in the vicinity of the town. It would seem fair and just to all parties concerned if the by-law were so amended as to distinguish between the farmer and the citizen. The by-law with its present provisions as to penalty might well be made to apply to persons residing within the incorporated within the municipality, and a proviso inserted, following, to the effect that horses, stock, etc., of owners residing without the municipality may be impounded if trespassing or doing damage, etc; but that the country owner shall pay only the cost of sustenance while within the pound. Such a provision will come well within the meaning of the law and would be fair and just to both parties.

Mrs. Dexter of Deville was in Tofield last Monday, renewing old acquaintances and making new ones. She was accompanied by her son Walter.

$100,000 Deal In Tofield Lots

It is announced by A. J. H. McCauley, local representative of the International Securities Co., Ltd., of Winnipeg, sales agent for the Grand-Trunk Pacific townsites, that a deal has recently been closed by which some 76 lots in the original Grand Trunk Pacific townsite of Tofield have been sold to an English syndicate. This syndicate is headed by Mr. E. H. Turnbull of London, General Manager of the Canadian Townsites, Ltd. Mr. Turnbull visited Edmonton Canada last summer, and stopped at the leading towns on the Main Line of the Grand Trunk Pacific between Winnipeg and Edmonton. He was so well impressed with Tofield that on his return to Winnipeg he secured an option on about 75 lots in this town. The option expired Nov. 1st, but before that date Mr. Turnbull took over all the lots upon option. The lots are located in blocks 3, 4, 7, 8, 11, 12, 15, 16, 19, 20, 21, and 22. The deal involves a large sum, stated to be considerably in excess of $100,000. It is announced that Mr. Turnbull has since taking up the option, secured an option on an entire block in the Grand Trunk Pacific addition recently platted.

Jasper Park Will Be Banff's Chief Rival When Tapped by G. T. P., Says Engineer

That Jasper Park, the immense government reserve on the east slope of the Rocky Mountains, where the Grand Trunk Pacific runs south of the pioneer mining town with the strange name of Yellowhead, possesses all the requisites of a world famous summer resort, was the opinion expressed last evening by R. B. Sterling of the provincial survey branch at Ottawa who returned to Edmonton last night after having spent the summer in Jasper Park with two assistant engineers, running an survey and in the preparation of the real estate in the park immediately adjacent to the line of the G.T.P.

"The best option in Jasper Park are quite as good as those at Banff," said Mr. Sterling, "and there is no reason why with the advantage of the G.T.P. through the park they should not become as popular a tourist and as well patronized as any others on the continent." This was evidently the last night's work of the G.T.P. line where it passes along the Athabasca River near Moose Lake and the Jasper Lake.

The option on townsites for bathing purposes although at some points the reservation is but 440 ft. in width from the mean streams registered as high as 1500 feet.

It was in the same which are central at the Jasper Park railway that Mr. Sterling reached the easiest pass yet to be took the summer. Those raised on the line of the G.T.P., which northwest from Jasper Lake. Consultation with the chief engineer is being made the summit this manner with a view of getting into a position to furnish coal to the railway as soon as the steel reaches that point and the coal. A grade of about twenty-one feet per mile at the summit of the summit, and G.T.P. Decline is of opinion that there is sufficient coal to be mined at this point to supply the G.T.P. coal of Edmonton as far as Winnipeg. Mr. Sterling left Edmonton at 11 o'clock this morning for Ottawa to report on the season's work.

Speaking of the Yellowhead Pass he scouts the one-tree name, which, he says, is a misnomer, as there are not less confined in the railway grade and that there are many trees to be seen on the mountain district in the west of Edmonton.

Mr. Sterling attributed to the swarms of brown flies that were encountered where the survey party camped. A though the flies were more annoying than they have been for years, and Mr. Sterling was of the opinion that they were to a great extent instrumental in carrying fever through the different camps.

The best of water for drinking purposes can generally be obtained everywhere, and had fever could scarcely have originated from the source.

LIVE AND LET LIVE

CORRESPONDENCE

R. N. Whillans, Esq.,
Editor Tofield Standard.

Dear Sir:—

I wish to draw the attention of the ratepayers and others of Tofield to what I consider a great injustice to the farmers, and something, that if allowed to continue in its present working, will in the end prove a drawback and a loss to the Town. I refer to the present existing Pound By-law, a pound law rightly established as a benefit to a town, viz., to restrain, where animals at large or owning a town are involved in a nuisance or annoyance to ratepayers. But what do we find here in Tofield? A policeman and a pound keeper combining together to make dollars out of the pound fees, and a town council consenting to something, which, I dont believe, was ever their intention when they first framed the pound law. I ask them as their minutes see, did they intend that the policeman should indiscriminately drive into pound, horses and cattle that are not proving a nuisance, and that the town is complaining about, and get fifty cents per head in addition to the salary which is the opinion of a great many ratepayers, far in excess of services rendered. Now add to that the fact that the pound keepers fees of from 25 to 35 cents per head per day, it makes it a serious matter for the farmer, especially those living close into town, in fact a real menace. I have paid in police and pound fees since last spring, items of $4.00, $12.75, and $6.60, and at the same time have been as careful and watchful as possible, to keep my stock away from town. The last time it was my horses (8 head) that were impounded. I have been careful to keep them in my pasture field all summer where they were safe, except that at odd times when the pound keeper or policeman indulged in unseeing way of driving them in. Now I ask you, Mr. Editor, is this a fair and just treatment for farmers who are trying to make a living and a home for themselves, and who are doing their share towards developing a new country, may be of use to lay the bounds, times of an enduring empire.

While the settlement now foreign in furtherance required by Canada is such as to be a credit to the Empire, and the right kind of material to form the basis of a sound and loyal population, it is also a matter of common knowledge that the Canadian Government has an advantage in the matter of securing the right kind of settlers in the fact that it is under no necessity to send abroad for its immigrants. The Canadian Government is not compelled to seek out settlers in the British Isles or elsewhere, but has the opportunity of selecting from among those who are anxious to go to Canada. Canada has an advantage in this respect over all other parts of the British Empire which has to advertise for settlers. The material and antecedents of those who are anxious to go to Canada are known to the Canadian Government, and although the agents in the call of the British Empire are not to be found in the British Isles, they

The Alberta Legislature opened last Thursday with the usual ceremony, the new members being introduced to the speaker and escorted to their seats. Premier Sifton's first act was to lay the report of the Royal Commission appointed to investigate the Alberta and Great Waterways Railways Transaction, upon the table and it is now a matter of general knowledge. The three judges are unanimous in their finding that Dr. Rutherford and Mr. Cross had no personal interest in the transaction, but while Judges Scott and Judge Harvey find that J. K. Cornwall's connection with the deal is to be criticised, Judge Beck's conclusions are that Mr. Cornwall's conduct was above suspicion. On the other hand Judge Scott and Harvey express the opinion that W. H. Cushing had no part in the informal negotiations and that he did nothing to be censured in their formal acceptances by the government, but Judge Beck expresses the belief that Mr. Cushing did figure in these negotiations and that he was present at that meeting in Calgary of which he so forcibly disclaimed knowledge. Judge Beck considers that Mr. Cushing's conduct should have been investigated quite as thoroughly as that of Dr. Rutherford or of Mr. Cross.

All three judges are agreed that the Rutherford administration was not guilty of any corrupt practices in connection with the transaction. The government's methods were hardly business-like but they were not dishonest. Their unbusinesslike character was responsible for suspicions which the commission found to be baseless. If any persons are in doubt as to the correctness of the conclusions drawn by the commissioners, they may read over the evidence collected by the judges and form conclusions of their own. The consensus of opinion is that the commission made a exhaustive study of this evidence and that their findings are the result of painstaking and conscientious effort to arrive at the truth. That they should not all reach the same conclusions is not a startling thing even in cases not so full of the matter of fact legal issues as the present one. The judges of the Supreme Court of Canada do not always agree. The week's Standard, H. H. Beaver Lake East

Jack Livingstone and Jim Whitford lately shot two black tailed deer on the former's ranch. Deer don't come into this settlement very often. Probably these were after water.

The recent snow-storms would seem to insinuate that winter is upon us. The lake from over early in November, but ducks were flying about for some time afterwards. There have been some very high winds, but so far the cold has not touched zero.

Some of the school lands in this vicinity were disposed of at the recent sale at Vegreville. D. A. McCallum bought the S.W. 1 of 11-49-17 at $10.00 per acre, and J. D. McAllister, Minnlaire's merchant prince, got the N.W. quarter. The east half was withdrawn. The broken half section of 29, on the lake, was purchased by Edwin Auld of Edmonton, at $17.00 per. Joe McCallum has bought the N. W. quarter of 15, adjoining his farm from D. A. McLaren of Manville.

The threshing in this district was done by Clark & Young, and Mc. Phillips. A Galician outfit engineered by J. A. Stewart did the most of the work for our Ruthenian neighbors. The yields have been disappointing in many cases, and some barley and oats are poor truck. Much wheat is smutty, being grain in consequence. A poor year all round. Those pessimists who predicted a bad season may now chuckle with joy and say "I told you so." Go ahead if it pleases you! The glorious West still lives and bumper crops will yet reward our labors.

The district has been considerably stirred up recently by the fact that a couple of fat cows were surreptitiously and felonious made away with by some person or persons unknown. The head of one animal and the head and hide of another were found in a shell on section 26-52-17. The police took the matter in hand but nothing came of it, though some people seem to think they know the color of hair and eyes of the guilty party. Suspicions are as good, however, unless backed up by evidence. This was not forthcoming, so the mystery remains locked.

Nov. 19 '10

There is little danger from a cold or from an attack of the grippe except when followed by pneumonia and this never happens when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. This remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds and grip and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. For sale by dealers everywhere.

Bardo

The directors of the Alberta Lutheran College Association met at Earling last Saturday and definitely decided to open the school next fall. Building operations will be started in the spring. In the meantime an active campaign is on foot on section 26-52-17. The petitioners to finance the work, Prof Tandberg, a teacher of long standing, is taking a keen interest in the work and is directing the subscription campaign.

Rev. Mr Shantz preached last night at Bardo school to the local Mennonite congregation.

The band has now had two practices and is getting into shape.

Fall wheat in Bardo section is looking well. There is a larger area in fall wheat this year than last.

Preparations are being made for the annual Xmas concerts.

"Prohibition is already the law of our country; liquor license the exception. We assume that no man has the right to sell intoxicating liquors, and then—for a consideration—give that right to a certain few. The curse God is pronounced on him who giveth his neighbor drink. The curse includes the man who treats, the liquor dealer, and the elector who consents to a license law. History shows that that curse is always enforced." Pastor S. Nicholson, Methodist church, Tofield, Alta. Sunday, Nov. 13th, 1910.

The Vanishing Smuggler

By STEPHEN CHALMERS

(Copyright, 1908, by Edward J. Clode).

Quest Brings

[illegible] "Three cheers for the revenue cruiser—hurrah!"

The smugglers took it up, and the cheering was echoed ashore and from the rigging of the schooner.

Larkin stood up, swaying as he did so, and acknowledged the cheers of the generous tester with a salute. But in that instant he noticed that the barrel was no longer in the smuggler's boat. Where was it? He sat down again, and yelled a command to his men. The cheering ceased at once.

"Get!" shouted Larkin. "Get!" A good stroke and ship ahead!"

The men steered. With his large oar round and his head gripping the tiller, Larkin drove the boat right into the glare of the sun. Here, undoubtedly, he would find the barrel and the smugglers' accomplices. They, and the barrel, would be trapped, for the dancer edge was now on the left of Jarvis's channel and carried out to sea.

Ben Larkin was first to scramble aboard. He looked for the barrel. It was not there. A light broke [illegible] and Larkin's face was [illegible] perfect.

[illegible] "Barrel, barrel, who's got the barrel?"

A search of the Thistle from [illegible] nothing came to light but the usual mess of Captain Grant, who was now [illegible] and another to the [illegible] Lieutenant Ben Larkin [illegible]

The Toronto Ladies Quartette

The management of the Masonic Lodge is certainly to be congratulated in the securing of this latest and best attraction which has been Tofields good fortune to attend. The concert last Monday night at which the Toronto Ladies Quartette appeared was in every sense the best that has been given in Tofield.

In fact rarely is it given to western people, to hear such artists as the members of the Quartette. As a violinist, Miss Bonchien is a master, her work being a revelation of what can be done with the violin. Miss Corbett, a dramatic soprano, with a charming personality, delighted the audience with her sweet singing. She possesses a voice which entitles her to a place with the great singers of the country. Miss Elsie Dixon Craig, humorous entertainer, is in a sphere by herself with her wonderful powers of voice. At one moment she sings in a deep sea voice, and the next she impersonates a wee babe. She kept the audience in mirth with her sparkling good humor. Miss Florence McKay, pianiste, was listened to with the greatest of musical satisfaction. As a pianiste she is simply a wonder. She showed perfect skill in the handling of the piano, adapting it accompaniment to the varying moods of the singers with that readiness, sympathy, and technique which marks a wonderful talent. She certainly has a great future before her.

Gas Proposition Shelved

The Gas Propositive as a municipal matter was completely shelved last night by a vote of 20 to 6, after a discussion lasting an hour. Coun. Pugh outlined the scheme to spend $9000 on a gas well and the necessary appurtenances and gave a gist of the benefits to the town of having a municipal gas plant. He moved that the council be authorized to give the bylaw its second reading and placed before the ratepayers for their vote.

Coun. Story seconded in an able speech in which he vividly portrayed the prosperity which had attended the finding of natural gas in other towns. Ex-Coun. Lamoureux expressed himself against the proposition for the reason that the council had not produced any results on the municipal Water department. Mr. McCauley said that he thought that the town should go after the water first and get it, and then tackle the gas matter. Mr. Swift was in favor of giving a franchise to an independent corporation, apart from the town. Morris Mahaffey in his usual droll way, intimated that if the gas was there, it would keep, and we should solve the water problem first. This line of argument seemed to be in favor with the electors present and the vote stood 20 against 6 for the motion.

The meeting was in the act of breaking up when Coun. Pugh jumped up with another motion to the effect that the council could go ahead and offer a franchise to an outside company. He said that other towns around would go ahead with similar propositions, and if we didn't, we would be left behind in the race. A lusty vote on this motion carried it. Several voted against it.

We will discuss this proposition next week.

M. Mecklenburg, eye specialist, will again be in Tofield on Saturday, December 3rd, at Jamieson's Drug Store.

That Reminds Me

[illegible]

SHE—"Father, he hammers on the piano now at midnight."

He (hopefully)—"Does he agree with him?"

Now "silk, yes, indeed. In the man for pronounce it a sensation without the following matter if it give up good to the outside, and in the matter he promises to send me to the seaside the following summer if I give up the unlucky card. So, you see I am always happy."

THIS following testimonial was given by a servant girl:

"This is to certify that the lancet has been in my service one year and seven months during this time I have found her to be diligent in the discharge of her duties at her work, prompt at all times, amiable towards young gentlemen, faithful to her sweethearts, and honest when everything was safe under lock and key."

A COUNTRYMAN who visited the National Gallery stopped in front of a portrait which showed a man sitting on a high-backed chair. There was a small mark and on the picture, which read, "Portrait of Edward [illegible] by himself."

The farmer read the card, and then chuckled to himself: "Regular fools, these city fellers are. Why, I've seen hosts of that poster all know about the paintin' with him."

I was shortly after midnight, and the [illegible] had caught Easton red-handed.

"Well, Easton, you old rascal you," said he, "I've caught you at last. What have you got to say for yourself?"

Easton looked out of the old man. "I know heard such a cackle in the corn crib as I did," he replied, "and I'm be hen done gone lay an egg, an' I—I wanted to see all of the you [illegible] while it was fresh, sah."

THERE is a man in our town, and he is wondrous wise, and he doeth all his own thinking, and he doeth it for himself. He is a man of such wisdom that he questioneth not his own judgment, and he is a man of such sagacity that he reasoneth all his t's. Upon any side issue he writeth, and never rubs the leaves, or from time to time pencil was a stub he oft receives. And when a question he doth ask (he's [illegible] wise guy), a penny stamp he never fails to enclose for the reply.

SEE here, waiter," said Mr. Grouch, scowling deeply over his plate, "I've been coming to this restaurant for ten years and never found a mortar of turtle flavor in this."

"Of course not, sir," returned the waiter. "What do you expect? Shakespeare didn't write with a quill pen, did he? Have you ordered college pudding would you expect a bulldog to sell it? Have a pudding would you look for a chop suey or a Cafiine Exchange? Say, sir, do!"

DR. FENNER was the most famous man in our town. Next to him was a man named Miles, who had been with him for years. Mr. Miles was the youngest of twelve. Small Dr. Fenner one day:

"Miles, what a pity you never saw your eldest brother!"

"I did, sir, often," said Miles.

"But you couldn't," replied the doctor.

"Why not, sir?"

"Because," said the doctor, "there were always two Miles between you."

THIS old lady seemed to have some thing on her mind, and she let go her load her daughter's young man talked.

"Mr. Simpson, she began, impressively, "a friend of mine informs me that you are employed by the day or per, butchers."

"Yes, that is correct," [illegible] the young man.

"And," went on the old lady, trembling with indignation, "you and Mary Ann are to have me upon a common basis?"

"Well," replied the detected swain "I can't be a head of you. You've got the tights on the mongoose."

A LADY of title, an ardent motorist, is very unfortunate in the matter of accidents. She has had up by no means for the first time, and appears in the motor cause to the utmost disquiets to the motor. The little girl, who is the daughter of a [illegible] has been heard to say:

"Mother, did we ever replied the to chase? Why, no, not particularly, dearest. Her ladyship was quite a child."

"Yes, of course she is," said the girl. Well, was the reminder, with an expression of the word "but" on [illegible]

With the Horses

THERE is nothing which helps to set an animal of any kind on fleet as feet.

The fastest trotter, pacer, or runner will never bring what it is worth—and either of private sale or at public auction, if it is not in good condition.

It is no amusing fact, but it is a fact nevertheless, that the good condition of the horse's [illegible]

This fact means that in order to secure the best prices for your animals, and bring them into good condition, when a buyer appears on the scene.

This is especially true with colts. Young animals generally have to sell [illegible] and ability to show gait helps, but [illegible] is the most important factor of all.

A very good article on fitting colts and horses for the market appears in one of our exchanges and is worthy a place in this article

It is as follows:

Fit Them for Market

Serious losses of feeding stock will soon be in order and these breeders just entering in the business, with their animals to sell, whether young or old, would do well to look after their interests and put them in attractive condition. There is nothing more attractive to the eye of most purchasers than fat, and, except in the case of animals intended for farm that can be fattened more easily than the cost of the latter may be [illegible] the cost of any. They should be fed regularly so as to keep them in a thrifty condition. THE POUND BY-LAW MATTER

In last week's issue there appeared a letter from a local resident former the heading—"Live and Let Live"—in which the writer complained strongly against the manner in which the pound by-law is enforced. The writer charged that the town police and poundkeeper "conniving together to make dollars out of the pound fees, etc." In dealing with the subject in another column of the same issue the Standard calls the attention of its readers, the writer of the above mentioned letter included, that the by-law was legal and that the town officials were perfectly within their rights in enforcing the provisions of the by-law. The Standard has given them specific instructions to do so. Those officers therefore are not to be called to blame. They are not "conniving to make dollars out of the pound fees," as the writer of the letter puts it, and he has failed to prove his unwarranted charge.

The reader of the aforesaid letter in last week's issue will have readily judged that the writer was sore. Naturally, he would be. The farmer, by the law of the land, is called upon to fence his land from the cattle and stock running at large. He is living under a law different and directly opposite that in force within the town limits. His interest in so far as stock running at large is concerned and the interests of the townspeople are directly the opposite of each other. Hence the suggestion given in our last issue that the by-law in question might be modified in such a way that these diverse interests should not clash to the extent of doing an injustice to both sides. To repeal the by-law altogether would in effect work an imposition on property holders in town and the town in general, by thus allowing a nuisance which existed throughout the town before the by-law was enacted. It seems to us that we could pull together better if we went about it in a more amicable manner.

HYOMEI
The Breathable Remedy For Catarrh

The rational way to combat Catarrh is the Hyomei way, via by breathing. Scientists for years has been agreed on this point but failed to get an air tight strong enough to kill Catarrh germs and destroy the tissues of the membrane at the same time, until the discovery of Hyomei (pronounced High—me.)

Hyomei is the most powerful yet healing antiseptic known. Breathe it through the inhaler over the inflamed surfaces of the membrane four or five times a day, and in a few days the germs will disappear.

A complete Hyomei outfit, including the inhaler, costs $1.00 and extra bottles, if afterwards needed, cost but 50 cents. Obtainable from your druggists or postpaid from the R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont. Hyomei is guaranteed to cure, asthma, croup, colds or grip or refund your money back. Sold and guaranteed by C. E. Jamieson.

The New Bakery

We strongly recommend our many readers to visit the new bakery in Tofield. Messrs. J. H. Howe & Co., who have re-opened the old stand have come to stay. They have thoroughly renovated the place and it looks just as good as new. The whole interior has been gone over and presents a most attractive appearance. Mr. Howe has shown his strong faith in Tofield by investing in several lots. With his son in-law and an expert baker, who is on to all the little secrets of good baking, they are getting out a class of goods which Tofield has long been in need of and which we are glad to welcome. The new firm is bound to do a good business and it is to our readers interests to give them a call.

Councillor Ferguson Corrects Statement

At the best, we are all human and liable at any time to commit an error. Coun. Ferguson has called our attention to an error which appeared in the report of the council meeting. The report stated that he said that in the event of the farmers in the vicinity of the town withdrawing their trade on account of the proposed working of the pound by-law, there were other farmers at a distance who would still continue to trade here. Mr. Ferguson states that he made no such statement. What he did say was that, if the by-law was not repealed, farmers from a distance who trade in town, would have their rigs and cutters injured by the stray animals which would be running at large.

Grand to the Rescue

Thus Grand was left to his reflections. He was sure he overheard the last remark of Inspector Lemoyne, and he was certain that he was not to be arrested for the present. He was free to go, and, with a shrug of his shoulders, he stood up and began to walk about the room. He was in a state of high excitement, and he could not sit still. He was in a state of wonder as to what would be the next move in the game. He was in a state of fear that the present day. It included, a vivid consciousness that in the course of time the flight overland, which he had undertaken, would be followed and overtaken by the police. The thought of capture and not choose the lodging at least especially in a cold season was not a comfortable one. Grand was a man of nerve, and could master the situation, but he was not a man of iron. He was not the sort that the former territorial enemy was afraid of. He was not possible to be afraid of himself. He was afraid of himself, and he was afraid of himself. He was afraid of himself, and he was afraid of himself. He was afraid of himself, and he was

Deville

The B. & E. men are building a new station at Deville. They will soon be through. The painters started yesterday with the first coat of paint.

Mr. Owen is building a nice new house on his farm north of the track. It is called "Brantarian."

Mrs. Verge purchased a piano recently. It is a beautiful and fine toned instrument.

Mrs. Shea has returned from Edmonton. She has rented a room in the city for the winter.

We have a Post Office at Deville now, Mr. Waterson is our genial Postmaster.

The G. T. P. Carpenters gave a box at Mrs. Sam's house last week and everyone enjoyed the party.

Mrs. Fowler has been up to Edmonton for a few days, the first time since she came to her home about three years ago.

Mr. Martin has left the station at Deville for his homestead, near Fort Saskatchewan.

Mr. Hugh Adams has returned to his homestead after working all summer.

Mr. Alex Morrow spent Sunday at the Lake with his brothers Felix and Jesse.

We have a new section boss, Mr. Smith. At present he is boarding at Mrs. Dawes's, but expects to move into the new station when Mrs. Smith arrives from Vancouver, B.C.

"I am pleased to recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as the best thing I know of and safest remedy for cough, colds and bronchial trouble," writes Mrs. L. B. Arnold of Darrow, Colo. "We have used it repeatedly and it has never failed to give relief." For sale by dealers everywhere.

Woodlawn

Our population is somewhat of a floating one. One family comes, another goes.

Ray Lott is again a resident, Mr. Maxwell bringing his household effects last Friday, and F. H. Ray's family moved to town the same day.

J. K. Tolly removed to Tofield several weeks ago and according to an item in the Standard, is going to take up literary work. Woodlawnites are wondering if he is preparing a treatise on the trials of a "rural school trustee."

John Day, who has spent the summer and autumn in Saskatchewan, is now at home with his parents in this district.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Everette are living on their homestead west of Woodlawn.

Mrs. Arthur Hosier and children are with her father M. Shupe of North Tofield. Mrs. Shupe has been with her daughter Mrs. Steinbach, who has been quite ill but is now convalescent.

DIZZINESS

Mrs. J. B. Renaud of Goldrich St., Sturgeon Falls, Ont., says: "I have suffered for months with a very weak stomach. I had dizzy spells, and at times could not retain any food at all. I tried any number of remedies and prescriptions but none seemed to relieve me until I tried Mi-o-na Tablets. I used only one box and they have completely cured me of my troubles. I am pleased to recommend Mi-o-na as I know it to be a remedy of merit."

Mi-o-na is sold by druggists every where at 50 cents a box, and is guaranteed to cure dyspepsia, indigestion, sick headache, nausea, dizziness, sour stomach, belching of gas, dizziness, heavy stomach and our sickness, vomiting of pregnancy and the after effects of excessing or drinking—or money back. You Breathe It

By the simple act of breathing, we inhale life and death. You breathe air crowded with disease germs. These lodge in the membranes and at once commence their deadly work. In a slight you develop a cold and before long you are in the grip of Canada's dreadliest enemy—Catarrh.

You also breathe Hyomei (pronounced High-o-my) and by so doing breathe in life—Hyomei is medicated air and reported air. In its journey through the breathing organs it arrests and kills catarrh and cold germs, soothes the inflamed membrane and commences the work of healing. Ask C.E. Jamieson what he knows about Hyomei. You will find that he not only sells it but guarantees it. A complete outfit will cost you $1.00 from your druggist or postpaid from the R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont. You will find it invaluable for coughs, colds, catarrh and all kindred diseases. Money refunded if it fails.

TURNING THE CLOCK

ABOUT a year ago all America and England were talking about the new clock scheme for having the clock an hour ahead in summer and back in winter. Everybody was to get up by the big round clock when it was nine and work when it was light. Then, we would use by what one could, but the clock would call it 8, and retire at 9, but the clock would say 10. Therefore, without changing our daily habits, we could get the benefit of the daylight and save in illumination.

The idea was introduced into the British Parliament, but failed to become a law. Two years, however, adopted it—Germany, England, and Continents, Ohio—both tried it and to enforce it on the people, but public opinion was against it, and it was finally quietly abandoned. It is a pity, indeed, for it was a good idea, and in time the public might have been brought to see its utility.

However, here it tests in "innocuous desuetude until some progressive whisper brings it up again.

TROUBLE IN DOUBT

MY feet burn so! What shall I do?" said the girl with the new shoes pressed up most pathetically at her friend.

"Put powder in your shoes and stockings," answered the practical friend. "It will keep your feet from burning and also make the shoes easy to break in. I always dust a little tal cum or fragrant powder into my stockings before I put them on, and it seems to me that I can feel better so long as either people's."

"Oh, your feet are always cool, you exercise those fat old hands closely. It will make them easy to put on, and if your hands perspire, it will keep them dry and save the gloves. When you take your gloves off, shoe with them sensible a lot of powder in each finger, and let them flat on their hands for a while to find your gloves, or excuse a run your shoe and stocking holes have gone."

FOR RUBBER OVERSHOES

CHILDREN, especially, love rest shoes while playing. Forgotten, however, are to be no means exempt. After a fast exchange of [illegible] you put for two and have [illegible] possible, in the wash [illegible] the rubbers [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Mayor Letourneau Re-elected By Acclamation

Coun. Emery Re-elected. R. O. Bird and M. W. Urquhart Elected To Council By Acclamation

Contrary to the expectations of the old council, nomination day passed off without the excitement which was supposed was going to take place. Practically no one appeared at the office of the secretary-treasurer and had it not been for the lively interest of a very few indeed, sufficient candidates would not have been put in to fill the vacancies.

In the council, Emery, Maxwell and Abbott retired, and from the retired board Messrs. Story and Swift dropped out. Mayor Letourneau's term of office expires with the current year and another was necessary to fill his place. There was no other nomination for mayor than the name of the present holder. Mr. Letourneau is therefore elected to succeed himself.

R. E. Emery's name was the first to be placed in nomination for the council. Shortly before the closing time, R. O. Bird's name was entered and just as the clock was about pointing to twelve M. W. Urquhart's name was put in, thus filling the bill and making the election complete.

W. C. Swift was re-elected as a member of the school board, councillor, himself, and C. H. Cross was elected to fill the place vacated by A. A. Story.

The personnel of the new council is therefore as follows:—

MAYOR

J. O. Letourneau. 1911

First Seed Fair a Success

The First Annual Seed Fair under the auspices of the Tofield Agricultural Society was held in Tofield last Friday. Considering that this was the first of its kind to be held in the Tofield district, it was a substantial success. Probably the bad snow storm on Thursday night and the resulting poor roads associated with the cold snap had the effect of keeping many at home who would have otherwise been out. As it was, there were farmers from close to Round Hill and Kingman present with exhibits as well as many from nearer home. The judges, W. C. McKillican, Alberta Representative, Dominion Seed Branch Calgary, and Thos. Woolford, a successful farmer of Cardston, Alta. were well pleased with the quality of the grains exhibited. In the afternoon a farmers meeting was held at which Messrs. McKillican and Woolford gave excellent addresses on subjects closely associated with farming. Mr. Woolford dwelt chiefly upon the importance of good and clean seed weeds and methods of their destroyal. Mr. McKillican spoke chiefly about smut, giving a clear synopsis of its nature and how it affects the grain plant. Both lectures were listened to with great attention, questions from many interjected at intervals which were answered and discussed by the speakers and the meeting. The prize list at the Fair is as follows:—

Class 1, Spring Wheat

1. D. Francis
2. A. O. Trotvold

Class 2, Fall Wheat

1. C. Carrie
2. N. J. Jerving

Class 3, Oats, Long

Oddfellows' Oyster Supper

Tofield Lodge No. 42 I.O.O.F. held a very enjoyable social evening last Friday night after the lodge meeting, when they adjourned to the Bourne Cafe and partook of an excellent oyster supper. A large number of visiting Oddfellows were entertained. Amongst these were representatives of lodges in Edmonton, Michigan, Granby, Que., and other places. Brop Mahaffey, Adams and Letourneau, who were the committee looking after the social event were accorded a hearty vote of appreciation for the substantial and enjoyable way in which they carried out their instructions.

Tofield U.F.A. Sends Delegate To Ottawa

At a meeting of the Tofield U.F.A. held a week ago last Saturday, it was decided to send Angus Campbell as a delegate representing Tofield district, on the big Western Farmers Delegation to Ottawa. Mr. Campbell will leave in a few days.

The quicker a cold is gotten rid of the less the danger from pneumonia and other serious diseases. Mr. W. R. L. Hall of Waverley, Va., says. "I firmly believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be absolutely the best on the market for colds. I have recommended it to my friends and they all agree with me. For sale by C. E. Jamieson.

Class 4, Oats, Short

1. E. Shirrett
2. A. O. Trotvold
3. L. Foshang

Class 5, Barley, Two Rowed

1. I. H. Olson

Class 13, Potatoes, Red

1. J. McGinnis

Being dissatisfied with the manner in which the affairs in connection with the town well were carried on with reasons to himself, Mr. Faraclis threw up his job of testing the well and mulled his entire away. Councillor Story who is no doubt one of the most public spirited members of the council then took hold of the matter himself and engaging the assistance of the town constable, is an illustration. At present Mr. Ferguson is busy on a specially fine and valuable set for R. C. Kings of East Beaver Lodge, which he is getting out for early delivery.

As a striking proof of what judicious advertising backed up by that faculty of the advertiser to make good his claims and produce the goods, can do, the fact that 'Mark,' the genial proprietor of the Tofield Harness Shop and who is no doubt one of the most Saddlery, is busy almost every night and day filling orders for his high grade work because, which is making a name for himself, is an illustration. At present Mr. Ferguson is busy on a specially fine and valuable set for R. C. Kings of East Beaver Lodge, which he is getting out for early delivery.

The Vanishing Smuggler

By STEPHEN CHALMERS

(Copyright, 1926, by Edward J. Clode.)

WHAT was the quarrel about, Miss Grant?" asked the doctman.

"Nothing—nothing at all. I wonder if there was a big bullet bigger than 'em in the smuggler—I mean, I don't think that will be now and then a bullet that's a bit bigger than the rest to put in the—"

"Now, now, my child," said the doctor, "I think that will be now and then a bullet that's a bit bigger than the rest to put in the—"

"Oh, I'm sure I don't know," said the girl impatiently. "I'm sure we've had enough about bullets. Let's talk about something else."

"Here's a bad lot it is!" pulled the Red Mole.

"It's true! It's true!" shouted the smuggler and a score of smugglers echoed the cry.

"Silence!" roared Jackson.

"Silence, you crazy fools!" cried Grisel, trembling with rage. "It is for you to save my life! You men must do as I say! You have sworn to obey me, and I will see that you do it!"

"Silence!" shouted Jackson, and the men ceased their yelling and stood there with their eyes starting and his mouth showing his fangs. Then, out of all the din, such as Dr. Simon rushed a man with every red hair on his head standing on end and his face the tenderloin's inkhe and splashed for many

CHAPTER XX.

Landing!

The news that was broken to Larkin, not by his self-appointed guardian, but by the men who had been his companions in the days of his boyhood, was of a character to stun him. He was not a man to be easily shaken. Life in Hell-Mouth had hardened to the uncovered. "Come, lass!" he said to Grisel, "we must away! Bring your things! Show me to your father and I'll see that he is not harmed!"

"Thank you, Mr. Larkin," said Grisel. "I'll send word to your comrade" but it was not to be. Before she could get her father's message to him, the door opened and Jack Tewksbury entered. He was in a state of excitement that was not to be wondered at, and his eyes were starting out of his head. "Grisel!" he cried, "I've been looking for you everywhere! Your father's in a terrible state! He's—"

"I know, Jack," said the girl, "I know all about it. Where is he?"

"He's in the cabin, and he's—"

"Take me to him at once!" said Grisel, and she turned to Larkin. "Will you please wait here, Mr. Larkin? I'll be back in a few minutes."

"I'll wait here, lass," said Larkin, "but I'll be back in a few minutes."

"Grisel!" cried Jack

Beaver Lake East

Little Bertha McCallum, daughter of Jos. McCallum, who has been dangerously ill with pneumonia and meningitis, is now, we are glad to say, recovering under the skillful care of Dr. Archer of Lamont.

A party of hunters, all McCallums but one, (C. Carter of Edmonton) went north of Mundare recently after deer and moose. Strange to say, the two best shots in the bunch, Joe McCallum and Carter got nothing. The rest got one deer each, young Jack McCallum (a 14 year old boy) getting one of the largest.

A meeting of the ratepayers of this district was held on the 5th. Some of those sending children to the school had asked for the meeting as they were not satisfied with the way things were being conducted in the school. All having grievances were given a chance to air them and the teacher replied. No motion was passed, some necessary improvements to the heating apparatus were made and all skidooed.

A. R. Moody says he is in the field as a candidate for councillor in opposition to Dan McCallum, who has filled that position for three years past.

A letter addressed to a resident here was mailed in Edmonton on or about Nov. 23. The stamp had not been properly affixed and the letter was sent to the dead letter office, Winnipeg. There was an express order in the letter, and its delivery has been delayed over two weeks. We have advocated a reform along this line several times, but the old out-of-date rule is still adhered to. The right way would be to send the letter to its destination and collect double rates on it. Many would prefer to pay more sooner than have such a delay.

Pres. Anderson explained to the meeting how it was that the Society acquired the 3.5 acres of Exhibition Grounds just east of the business section of the town of Tofield. The cost of those grounds was $1380. The directors had borrowed $400 for the first payment from the Merchants Bank. The town was expected to donate $200 on account of this first payment. The government grant when paid would cover the balance of the debt.

Regarding the value of the grounds to the society, after a discussion it was agreed that the net equity to the Society over price of purchase would be about $400 per acre. This makes the value of the property total about $1380.

Whitford - Beared

A very pleasing event took place at the home of Mr. John Beared, Rose Creek, on Monday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, on which occasion his daughter Elizabeth, was united in marriage to James Whitford of Beaver Lake. Only the immediate friends were present. The young couple expect to make their home for the meantime on the east side of the lake, and then later locate in or near Kelowna, B.C.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. F. Gold, of Tofield.

Hon. Duncan Marshall is sponsor for a bill which is being put through the legislature appropriating $125,000 for five Demonstration Farms throughout the Province. Already delegations are appearing before the government asking for a Demonstration Farm to be located in their respective districts. These farms will be a good thing for the farmers.

J. M. Douglas, M.P. Ill At Ottawa

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 12. James M. Douglas, M.P. for Strathcona, who has been very ill at the Alexander Hotel during last part of ten days, is reported to be much worse today. It is believed his [illegible] and his physicians express fears for his recovery.

Possibly there is nothing that catches the eye of the prospective customer on the street than the well dressed window of the enterprising merchant. Tofield is to be congratulated in that she has a number of merchants, who are like the modern man, careful of his outward appearance. But the merchant who has GOOD GOODS to sell and who knows his business taken advantage of the advertising importance of his show windows. Even the casual observers will be struck with the unusual displays which are appearing in the show windows of Tofield merchants at the present time.

For genuine hand painted china, a beautiful display of which, we refer our readers to C. E. Jamieson's window. Rare bargains to be had out of this line of goods such as Tofield has not seen before. He has also fine assorted lines of jewellry, silver, bronze and leather goods. For novelties in ladies and gents goods, see Urquhart's north window. Appropriate gifts at reasonable prices can be secured there. In Hammond Bros. window can be seen a display of Xmas jewellry and fancy glassware, which at once convinces the observer that here is a man who takes pride in his window display. The interior of this store presents a realistic holiday appearance.

Twitchell Bros. window (Harper de Luxe universal stand) immediately impresses upon the observer that here is a store filled with good things fresh from the factory, orchard and the mill. In the dry goods section display, is seen a most attractive display of novelties for the ladies, in lace goods, fancy collars, handkerchiefs and hosts of other nice things. The gents too are not forgotten and a large number of novelties suitable for Xmas gifts for gentlemen are displayed. The grocery section also presents an inviting appearance.

Bardo

Mr. P. B. Anderson has been appointed Financial Agent in connection with the Alberta Lutheran College movement. This will take up considerable amount of Mr. Anderson's time during the next two years.

The pupils of Miss Howlett's class gave her a pleasant surprise party at Mr. Roth's last Saturday evening.

Ivor Fineth has returned from Ryley and has taken over the Post Office.

Both the Public School and the Sunday School are to have Xmas entertainments during the coming holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartness will shortly go on a visit to La Crosse, Wis., and other points.

Rev. Mr. Carlson, who has been granted a furlough, will shortly go to the states on an extended visit. He will go via Tofield and the G.T.P.

Rev. Mr. Nicholson, of Tofield conducted a very successful service in the school house last Sunday. Mr. Bower presided at the organ. During the service Miss Bartness sang a solo.

Old Man Anderson, as he is commonly and yet respectfully called, celebrated his 80th birthday last Saturday. A large number of his neighbors took advantage of the occasion to call upon him and congratulate him on his health and length of days.

Rev. Mr. Running is away on a visit to friends in Bergen settlement, 30 miles west of Olds.

Local and General

Christmas Candy, Confectionery and Nuts at the G.T.P. Cafe.

Mrs D Francis left this week for a month's visit to friends and relatives near Mitchell, Ont.

Harry Sutton and his father-in-[illegible] left on Tuesday for a few months holiday to Barrie and other points.

The Governor General is going to entertain the Western farmers' delegation at Eldon Hall this week.

Hon. Sidney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, will take the farmer's delegation out to see the Dominion Experimental farm.

"Thelma" - "The New Perfume" in bulk and novelty package, Jamieson's Drug Store.

Dr. J. W. McQueen, dentist, will be in Tofield on Monday, Dec. 19th, for the practise of his profession.

R. Barkwell has a large gang rushing construction on the town hall. He finished the woodwork on the G.T.P. depot this week.

Quite a large number of young people took in a sleigh drive last Monday evening and went down to Stewart Hall's where they were entertained to a very pleasant evening.

Word has been received from Hon. Frank Oliver that Mr. Douglas, M.P., is not so seriously ill as at first reported. He is, however, a very ill man, but it is hoped that he will soon recover.

C. E. Jamieson has just opened a consignment of genuine cut glass which has lately arrived from Montreal. The consignment which contains several excellent samples of Berry Bowls, Nappies, Water Set, Vase, Cream and Sugar Set, Olive Dish, Celery Tray, and a number of other useful and ornamental articles, will be rapidly snapped up by those who know the genuine cut glass when they see it. Jamieson is putting these articles on at unheard of prices for Tofield in their cheapness.

Graham & Abbott barbers have moved from the Pool Room into the building on Main St. formerly occupied by C. E. Jamieson, drugist.

The life of an editor was saved the other day by a silver dollar in his pocket. A crank shot at him and the ball struck the dollar. Now should we happen to get shot at before you pay [illegible] and there is no dollar to stop the ball we shall always presume that you might have saved our life.

A MODERN MIRACLE

FACTS SHOWS HOW ZAM-BUK CURES ARE PERMANENT

1. He had Eczema 20 Years.
2. His hands were so bad he had to wear gloves day and night.
3. Doctors told he could never be cured.
4. For 20 years he tried for cure to vain.
5. Then he tried ZAM-BUK.
6. ZAM-BUK cured him.
7. TO-DAY, three years after his cure, he says: "I AM STILL CURED—there has been no return."

Mr. T. H. Marsh of 101 Debenham Ave., Montreal, has had this wonderful experience of Zam-Buk. Mr. Marsh has lived in Montreal for many years and is well known in the city. He is well known and respected, and is willing to testify over his own signature to what Zam-Buk has done for him. The sufferer of 20 years from eczema in the hands and had to wear gloves day and night, the doctors told him he could never be cured, but Zam-Buk came to the rescue, and Mr. Marsh tells us that to-day he is entirely free from eczema. Isn't that enough for you to know?

Mr. T. H. Marsh

"I was troubled with eczema on my hands for 20 years. I was compelled to wear gloves day and night, the doctors told me I could never be cured. I tried many remedies, but all failed to do me any good. Then I was induced to try Zam-Buk. I was cured by Zam-Buk after using a few boxes of the balm, and I am glad to say that three years have passed since my cure, and I am still cured. I am glad to recommend Zam-Buk to all sufferers from eczema, as I know it is the best remedy in the world for this disease."

A BARGAIN AND ITS RESULTS

By Edgar Wallace

THE wealthy leather firm of Hallis was in a state of excitement. Mr. Hallis, the senior partner, who was now in his seventy-fifth year, had died suddenly, and the will which was read to the assembled relatives revealed a number of surprises. The first was that Mr. Hallis had left the whole of his fortune, which was considerable, to his daughter Ellen. Everything inside was an event of surprise. Mr. Hallis, who had apparently a wife and many children, had left the whole of his estate to his daughter, and the manager of the business, Mr. Samuel Hallis, a distant relative, was left a small legacy of £1,000 and a small part of the interest in the business. Mr. Hallis had left his wife and children practically nothing, and he could only suppose that he had done so because he disapproved of their extravagant habits.

Mr. Samuel Hallis, who had been with the firm for forty years, was the most surprised man in the office when he heard the contents of the will. He had always been a favorite with his employer, and had looked forward to receiving a substantial legacy. He was not a little disappointed when he found that he had been left only £1,000, but he was a man who had a very philosophical outlook on life, and he was not the man to grumble at his luck.

Ellen Hallis was a pretty girl of twenty-two, and Samuel Hallis had known her since she was a child. He had always had a great affection for her, and when he found that she was left sole heir to her father's fortune he was not surprised. He had always known that she would be left well provided for, but he had not expected that she would be left quite so much money.

Ellen Hallis was a girl of strong character, and she had a will of her own. She was not at all disposed to accept the decision of her father's will without question, and she was determined to find out why he had left her practically nothing. She had always been on the best of terms with her father, and she could not understand why he should have left her so little money. She was not long in finding out the reason.

Samuel Hallis was sitting at his desk in the office one morning when Ellen entered. She had come to see him on business connected with the will, and she was not a little surprised to find that he was not in the office. She was told that he had not been well for some days, and that he had gone to his home in Hampstead.

Ellen Hallis was a girl of strong character, and she was not the kind of girl to allow any grass to grow under her feet. She had come to the office in a taxicab, and she told the driver to take her to Hampstead. She was not long in finding the house, and she was shown into the drawing-room by a maid-servant. Samuel Hallis was sitting in a chair by the fire, and he looked very ill indeed. He was surprised to see Ellen, and he was not a little embarrassed when she asked him why he had left her so little money.

"Why, my dear child," he said, "I thought you would be pleased to know that you had been left the whole of the business. I thought you would be glad to get rid of it. I am sure that I am very glad to get rid of it myself. I have been working too hard, and I am not as young as I was. I am sure you have no reason to complain."

"But I do complain," said Ellen. "I complain very much indeed. I think that you have treated me very badly. I think that you have treated me very badly indeed. I am very much disappointed in you, Uncle Samuel. I thought that you were fond of me, and I thought that you would leave me enough money to live on. I am very much disappointed in you, and I am very much surprised at you."

"But, my dear child," said Samuel Hallis, "I thought you would be pleased to get rid of the business. I thought you would be glad to get rid of the responsibility. I thought you would be glad to get rid of the worry and the anxiety. I thought you would be glad to get rid of the business altogether. I am sure that I am very glad to get rid of it myself. I am sure that I have no reason to complain. I am sure that I am very glad indeed to get rid of the business altogether."

"But I am not glad," said Ellen. "I am very much annoyed with you. I am very much annoyed indeed. I think that you have treated me very badly. I think that you have treated me very badly indeed. I am very much disappointed in you, Uncle Samuel. I am very much surprised at you. I am very much annoyed with you. I am very much annoyed indeed. I am very much disappointed in you

TOFIELD, DEC. 14, 1910.

A remarkable feature in connection with the nominations held in many Alberta municipalities last Monday week, was the fact that in a great number of cases the election of new members of the councils went by acclamation. This was the case in Tofield. All new members went in without a dissenting voice.

To the council (1911) this means that they have the confidence of the ratepayers whom they represent. They will therefore enter upon their duties with the assurance that they are being relied upon to conduct the business affairs of the municipality during the coming year with that care and attention which they would apply to their own various businesses.

Looking backward over the past year we can, in reviewing all that has been done, see the results of good and indifferent judgment. On the whole the first council has not done too badly. At the behest of the ratepayers the town has been furnished with substantial sidewalks. Tofield has two miles of good accomodation for pedestrians. Street grading and draining has been done where necessary. For use of a curling rink and ice hall in our ...r construction and when completed will be an attractive feature as well as a very useful building.

Possibly the greatest bugbear with which the old council has had to contend up to the present has been the water question. It will be remembered that the ratepayers last spring voted $1000 debentures in the hope that the council would by carrying out an intelligent policy, secure an adequate supply of water primarily for fire protection purposes. This has not been done. Out of the $1000 a balance of $2-990 remains with which to solve the problem. $1000 has been spent on the Hamilton, Paradis and 3rd Ave. wells and on repairs to the old pump and purchase of new pumps and repairs to same. Let us hope that with the coming of the new year that the older members of the 1911 council with the assistance of the newer members will look up and give us what the electorate was calling for when the first council was elected.

Kickers and croakers have no place in a city with the push and progressiveness of our town. The man who opposes needful public improvements and stands in the way of progress is not a good citizen.

Distribution of Seed Grain and Potatoes

By instruction of the Hon. Minister of Agriculture, a distribution is being made this season of samples of superior sorts of grain and potatoes to Canadian farmers for the improvement of seed. The stock for distribution has been secured mainly from the experimental farms at Indian Head, Sask., Brandon, Man., and Ottawa, Ont. The samples consist of oats, spring wheat, barley, field peas, Indian Corn (for ensilage only), and potatoes. The quantity of oats sent is 4 lbs., and of wheat or barley 3 lbs., sufficient in each case to sow one twentieth of an acre. The samples of Indian corn peas and potatoes weigh 3 lbs. each. A quantity of each of the following varieties has been secured for this distribution:

OATS.—Banner, Abundance, Danish Island, Wide Awake, Thousand Dollar, Improved Ligowo — all white varieties.

WHEAT.—Red Varieties:—Marquis and Early Red Fife (early bearded sorts of high baking strength). Red Fife (bearded). Preston and Huron (early, bearded) White Varieties:—White Fife (bearded). Bobs (early, bearded).

BARLEY.—Six-rowed: Mensury and Mandscurian (a selection from Mensury). Two-rowed: Standwell and Invincible.

FIELD PEAS.—Arthur and Golden Vine.

INDIAN CORN (for ensilage). Early sorts:—Angel of Midnight, Compton's Early and Longfellow. Later varieties: Selected Leaming Early Canadian and White or Yellow Dent.

POTATOES.—Early varities: Rochester Rose, and Irish Cobbler. Medium to late varieties: Gold Coin, Carman No. 1, and Money Maker. The later varieties are, as a rule, more productive than the earlier kinds.

Only one sample can be sent to each applicant, hence if an individual receives a sample of oats, he cannot also receive one of wheat barley, peas, Indian corn, or potatoes. Applications on printed cards or sheets, or list of names from one individual, or applications for more than one sample for one household, cannot be entertained. The samples will be sent free of charge through the mail.

Applications should be addressed to the Dominion Cerealist, Experimental Farm, Ottawa, and may be sent in at any time from the 1st of December to the 15th of February, after which the lists will be closed, so that the samples a kind for may be sent out in good time. Applicants should mention the variety they prefer, with a second as an alternative. Applications will be filled in the order in which they are received, so long as the supply of seed lasts. Farmers are advised to apply early to avoid possible disappointment. Those applying for Indian corn, or potatoes should bear in mind that the corn is not usually distributed until April, and that potatoes cannot be mailed until danger from frost in transit is over. No postage is required on mail matter addressed to the Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

WM. SAUNDERS,
Director of Experimental Farms.

The annual Xmas entertainment of St. Andrew's Presbyterian S. S. will be held on the 23rd of December.

MONSIGNOR LANGEVIN SAYS WE DID NOT WRITE LETTER

Denies Story that a Ban Had Been Placed on Eastern Canada Newspapers

MONTREAL, Dec. 6. His Grace, Monsignor Langevin, the archbishop of St. Boniface, is at the Hotel Dieu, confined by an attack of la grippe.

He was in a position to give a personal interview wherein a representative called to inquire about the truth of the story from St. Boniface to the effect that a ban had been placed on Eastern Canada papers with the exception of Le Devoir and Action Sociale.

Through his secretary, Father Lavoie, the archbishop replied that the statement was without foundation, that he had not written the letter referred to and had not given any instructions to have any one write it on his behalf.

The weather man seems to be trying to make amends for the kind of weather handed out during the past spring and summer. We hope there is lots more bottled up of the kind we are getting now.

Another cow killed on the line last week, and its strong along the line for a mile or so, too.

That makes three or four cattle and two valuable horses knocked out by this road, during this year, in this immediate neighborhood.

Oh! yes, the G.T.P. given excellent service, if you refer to its hash making power. And the guards are fine too, yes, so fine that you can't see them with a microscope at about every second crossing, because, they're conspicuous by their absence.

Mrs. Roy Carter of Bawlf, who has been paying an extended visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Moline, Sr., returned to her home this week, accompanied by her sister, Miss Emma Moline.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Patterson are being congratulated on the entry of a baby daughter into their family circle.

An Xmas entertainment given by the pupils of the Amisk Creek School District will be held in the school house of said District, on the evening of Dec. 22, or 23, if weather should prove inclement on first mentioned date.

ALL ARE WELCOME

Deville

The weather last week has been very cold.

Mrs. J. Brown and F. Jackson were hunting deer here last week.

Mr. Alex Morrow came home Saturday morning. He has been working with a survey gang all summer.

When Mr. Owen went after the mail the other evening, he lost his way coming home across Wanism Lake. He did not locate himself until about midnight.

A gentleman shot a deer near here other day and sold it to Edmonton for sixty dollars.

Mr. Thomlinson of Hortonville, was with Mr. T. Wilson, deer hunting for two days. They were lucky in getting one.

Mr. H. Smith of Deville Section, purchased a new stand range from H. O. Bird Tofield, when there lately. It is an ornament to any kitchen.

Mr. Robt. Adams was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Verge, Sunday evening.

Mrs. Waterson spent a few days in Edmonton with her daughter, Mrs. John Shera.

The Innocent Murderers

A MYSTERY STORY

By WILLIAM JOHNSTON and PAUL WEST

Copyright, 1910, by Dodd, Mead & Company

CHAPTER I.

The Disappearance of the Professor.

IN the computation of enormities the greatest of events have often been brought a plum where the fishing was [illegible] as a rule, never so much [illegible] So an enquiry is now way begun [illegible] the most remarkable mystery of the present century.

Joseph Hopkins, professor of chemistry at Gryphon college, lacks his wife and his disappearance fell on the morning of May 16th, 1906, and despite the efforts of the police and the energies of his colleagues no trace of him has been found.

Let it not be inferred that the professor's absence has been a matter of small moment. Professor Hopkins is unquestionably one of the first chemists of the day. He has a laboratory, where he has won for himself his present super-eminence, and where he is now leaving the task of arranging his apparatus, chemicals and books next during the day he has so abruptly, a group seems saved. Professor Hopkins, a member of the college, to whose door he has come for this extraordinary and most welcome addition.

So every detail so far this day was a duplicate of almost every previous day in the family. Hopkins, after he had first come to breakfast as instructor in chemistry, like the family servants, crossed them and there, marking the [illegible] of May as a day long to be remembered in the history of the little town.

No hint of this was guessable on the [illegible] Dean was a man who had the first chemistry class for the day report at the laboratory at nine o'clock. The door was locked. This was unusual, unheard of. Rowats Prof. should have been there some time before this hour, to prepare the laboratory for the day. On the street door a note was pinned. It was in a scrawly hand, not at all like the neat chirography of the professor, and merely stated that Professor Hopkins had been called away unexpectedly.

The astonishment created by this simple announcement can scarcely be realized by those unacquainted with Professor Hopkins. Never before, in his professional career, had he left a college class. That he had not expected to miss this one was clear from the preparations over with which he had arranged for the day's silent work on the previous afternoon. What, then, could have called him away so unexpectedly? It must have been something that he had utterly failed to anticipate, or he would have mentioned it to somebody. But had he done not? Perhaps to Ernesta Frost. One of the things to be recalled that, on taking to the laboratory at dusk, the young professor had left Professor Hopkins and Ernesta still there, standing further corner of the room, intent, apparently, on some experiment in progress. Two hours elapsed before the student's entrance nor departure. If Professor Hopkins knew at that hour of eleven minutes on emulating his going away, doubtless he told Ernesta all about it. Yes, she would be able to elucidate matters.

The round of waiting students about the laboratory grew great indeed. The Dean, observing this, came himself to see what was the matter. Ernesta Frost they above him the closed door and the [illegible] of the Dean was at last [illegible] to enter the laboratory. The Dean, on entering, found himself in the presence of Ernesta Frost alone. Professor Hopkins was not there. Ernesta knew nothing of his whereabouts. Professor Hopkins had not been seen since the previous afternoon.

"Well," said the Dean, "I don't understand it at all. Then, with a sudden thought, "You might ask Professor Snyder."

"Snyder?" the stranger repeated the name. "Illinois is he?"

To the Dean the stranger to Professor Snyder's room, the Dean stepped out of the silence by the laboratory door and seated down the long hall of the colleges finished him. The stranger thanked him. A spot that he had not given too much trouble, and went towards Professor Snyder's. The Dean turned again to the laboratory, and the student he found there, [illegible] down the note. His eyes was to compare it with some [illegible] Professor Snyder's laboratory in his possession.

[illegible] word reversed, stepped, and his fingers spread out straight, and [illegible] of bewilderment. The [illegible] was not there!

The Dean stared at the door. Footsteps approached rapidly. He turned to [illegible] though the Dean was completely taken [illegible] to see when he is expected back—"

"No," said the Dean, trying to conceal his astonishment, "no, I don't think I could—exactly."

"Perhaps there is somebody who could?"

"Well," said the Dean, "I don't know. Then, with a sudden thought, "You might ask Professor Snyder."

"Snyder?" the stranger repeated the name. "Illinois is he?"

To direct the stranger to Professor Snyder's room, the Dean stepped out of the silence by the laboratory door and seated down the long hall of the colleges finished him. The stranger thanked him. A spot that he had not given too much trouble, and went towards Professor Snyder's. The Dean turned again to the laboratory, and the student he found there, [illegible] down the note. Grand Forks

A very pleasant concert took place last Friday evening in the Grand Forks school house the programme of recitations, music and singing being given by the pupils. At the close of the programme a great surprise was given Miss Canning, the teacher, in a presentation and address. The present was of useful character and was very much appreciated. Mr. Bailey acted very acceptably as chairman during the evening.

The G.T.P. has put in a switch for the Lee Coal Co., at their mines two miles south of Tofield.

Our Curling and Hockey enthusiasts are impatiently waiting a change in the weather that the ice may be good for the opening of a lively series of games this season.

Building Still Brisk In Tofield

Carpenters and Laborers Having a Busy Season

Despite the lateness of the season, building activity continues unabated in Tofield. Work is being completed on the G.T.P. Depot and Freight Sheds. The Logan and M. C. Hammond business blocks on Main St. are up and work is being rushed on the interior. The Town and Fire Hall on Main St. is being rushed also. The walls are up and the tower erected and work on the finishing and interior now being done. Morris Mahaffey is building a barber shop on Main St. immediately south of M. W. Urquhart's General Store. Rumor has it that a 3-story brick building is to go up on Main street south of the Logan block and the latest is something to the effect that a 3-story brick building is being planned to be erected on Main St. at the corner of 4th Ave. Just across 4th from the Standard office. We have heard also that another three story store and office building will go up in the spring on Main St., opposite the town hall.

Twitchell Bros., W. McConnell and Omer Mahaffey went to Edmonton last Friday evening and took in the Masquerade Ball. They report having a good time.

The Innocent Murderers

A MYSTERY STORY

(By WILLIAM JOHNSTON and PAUL WEST)

(Copyright, 1920, by Dodd & Company)

Enter Detective Sullivan

"AH! Professor Hopkins!"—upon the sudden entrance of the latter, Sullivan's scattered but eager hot shot was fired. Not that she had any definite idea of the point in the space to and about her but that it was her method of life. That she did not overthink was no long matter of wonder to those who had suffered or employed her. Sullivan's very house by herself made the best of her employer's habits, and gave no encouragement of her manner.

It is the body of the note, what could be done with it? Sullivan was not the person to be interrupting to sleep. Also, if others came to the conclusion that the note was addressed from among her husband and shooting acquaintances, none of that she had discovered his guilty secret. Besides, she was indeed fatigued. This morning, again hesitantly it would seem to get away—if unnoticed. She had not noticed any opportunity in the hall of escape.

If only the scrappy wife attended by her household duties, and the professor's supper was ready on time. But he was late, and a dreadful fear beating rause stir her. He was not coming home at all. That was the night selected for his departure with Ernesta. At last that poor girl could stand the suspense no longer. She put the note in her pocket, and with a sudden determination that they were safe, she slipped a shawl over her head and hurried toward the college. The bold thing was in darkness. The light she had left herself to fail in the laboratory window was not there. She tried the front door of the building. It was locked. She stood there for a moment debating what she ought to do next. Should she arouse the village and tell everyone that her husband had deserted her? The distracted woman had no clear idea any doubt that she was to her, that Professor Hopkins had fled. Her mind was filled with visions of the disgrace brought on her children. How poor, fatherless, deserted little shi dren! She turned and fled blindly home, trembling in every limb.

Sleeping with the sense of desolation, she entered the little house, now so changed in a few hours, and threw herself on the sofa in the parlor.

HOW TO CURE STOMACH TROUBLE

A Great Sufferer From Indigestion Tells How She Was Cured

Stomach trouble is a general name for all forms of indigestion, whether great pain or mild gas, belching of sour food, heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, or the sharp pains that attend a sick headache. All are caused by the same thing—a lack of the proper digestive juices in the stomach. In the mild cases of indigestion the food decays instead of digesting, causing a fermenting mass to form, a bloating, run-down state. The sufferer finds a dull, heavy feeling after a meal or is taken that restores the natural appetite. Without a doubt stomach weakness, with its many stomach weakness, is the cause of more misery and suffering than enough to digest food without a doubt. Mrs. Mary Graham, of Toronto, is a lady who has suffered from indigestion and stomach trouble for years. As the process of digestion is the same in all cases, her letter describing her trouble and how she was cured will be of interest to every one who is troubled with indigestion. She says:

"I was left in a run-down state by the grippe and was troubled with indigestion. I had a heavy feeling after eating, and would have a sick headache. I was also troubled with gas on the stomach, and would have a bloated feeling. I had no appetite, and what I did eat would not digest properly. I was very nervous, and could not sleep at night. I was induced to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They actually gave me new life. I felt better after taking them for a few days, and after using them for a few weeks I was entirely cured. I have not been troubled with indigestion since, and have gained in flesh and strength. I have also recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to many friends, and they have all been benefited by them. I am glad to say that I am now in good health, and I owe it entirely to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I did not know they were a medicine for indigestion, but having assured that they were, decided to try them. I soon found the Pills were helping me, but my condition was so far run down before I began using them that I continued taking the Pills for about two months before I felt that I was entirely cured. Then I could eat almost any kind of food, and although many times too many have passed since my cure I have not been troubled with indigestion. I have also been free from the nervousness suffering from this terrible trouble."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PLANK FELL ON HIM?

Hamilton Man Badly Injured

Reuben Atherton, of 367 Progress Ave., Hamilton, an employee of the Van Norman Co., sustained serious injury while at work. A plank fell from a height on to his right leg, crushing it badly. He was taken home, where a doctor was summoned and found he was suffering from concussion of the brain, and, as I remarked for the papers, I had nothing to do with it. I was not responsible for the accident. I was not responsible for the accident. I was not responsible for the accident

Peace On Earth

Two thousand years ago the shepherds rejoiced to hear the angel choir singing "Peace on Earth Good Will to Men," and every year by year since that time has the glad message been heralded throughout the universe. The birth of Christ has today a greater significance to a larger portion of humanity than at any time in history. The Christmas season brings with it festivities associated with the anniversary of earth's most joyous event. That Christmas this year is celebrated on the anniversary of the day on which Christ was ushered on high, gives it a double significance. Steadily as time advances the two thousand year-old story is being told all over again and men and women are making sacrifices that the day soon may come when "Thy will be done on Earth as it is in Heaven" shall be nearer a reality. The greatest need in the world today is that the teachings of Christ be more closely followed. Though his chart for mankind was laid down so many years ago it has stood the test of time and still points mankind toward the right with the same truth as of old. Though oppression still holds sway to a greater or less extent, the world as a whole is growing better. Mankind is beginning to see and to understand more clearly the infinite wisdom of the words spoken by the Man of Sorrow. In this hour world where man is too deeply concerned in material things it is well that Christmas comes every year to recall the Divine command to love our neighbors as ourselves. Nothing more can be done to make this old earth approach the Heavenly ideal than to spread abroad the truths promulgated centuries ago by the Christ whose birth we are shortly to celebrate

Our teacher informs us that one of the pupils of the school, who had taken Aesops Fables home brought the book back stating that his father didn't want them to read stories "that weren't true". Next!

The objection taken by certain people from the U.S. to the singing of British patriotic songs in our schools is certainly the limit. This is a British country and the sooner these parties get that fact into their craniums the better. The U.S. is the last country in existence that would modify its school curriculum to suit other nationalities.

The way Jim Whitford's marriage was put in the last Standard made some of us old-timers wonder where we are at. "John Beared"? given as the proper cognomen of our old friend Roger Berard. The old original Roger (known to the English speaking people as "Rosie") hunter, trapper etc scout of Rebellion days; Beaver Lake pioneer from 'way back, primeval, prehistoric times, to be called John Beared! Jim, too claimed Beaver Lake as the happy hunting grounds of his youth and manhood. Son of John Whitford (Manhook). Jim has been a feature of our landscape all his life, and all who know him extend to him and his bride unlimited wishes and congratulations. The wedding festivities were held at the residence of Chas. E. Clark.

FIRST DINER: "Here, waiter, I'll trouble you for a match out of round station, wall down, and not too fat."

Second Diner: "And bring me a this out, waiter, and fast."

Waiter: "Yes, sir. (To seconds in the other, in a speaking tube). One plates of roast mutton."

THE YOUNG POLITICIAN: "I can see no reason why there is nothing more painful than having to make—to make—to make a speech, I think."

Young Politician: "Oh, yes, there is, dear."

The Young Politician (displeased): "Then what is it, pray?"

The Young Politician's Wife (sweetly): "Having to listen to it, my dear."

FIRST LOVELIE Little Pet: "I paid for my doll's new dress with money that nasty uncle who served me the other day."

Second Lovelie Little Pet: "Really, love? How?"

First Lovelie Little Pet: "Why, I sold him a lock of my hair, which I'd just had cut off, and he was quite delighted but he showed how new hat."

MANY a man who permits himself to be led to wealth by musical entertainments he does not care for still possesses a clear conscience.

"What made you start clapping your hands?" asked the man who stepped on the toes of the tree-critic.

"I was dancing," answered Mr. Ivory-Tickler, "and I thought that if you were having a musical at home, and one of them was signaling that it was time to applaud."

"MA'AM," said a quack to a new customer, "you call lady, your case is a veterinary out-patient, and rapidly becoming chronic."

"Pray, doctor, what is that?"

"It is the decrepit of the nervous system—the nerves having fallen in the habit of the short breath and the bones, and the head goes tumultuous. Ah, madam!"

"Ah, indeed," exclaimed the sufferer, "you have described my feelings exactly."

OLD-FASHIONED Lady: "But, my dear, you should never, in my old-fashioned opinion, go to a man to whom you have not been introduced."

Newly-Married Lady: "If I followed out that idea I should very soon be out of a home."

"Father, are you lucky (very grossly)." Yes, I suppose so. What is your—or "Nothing in particular. Why?" "Oh, you know, I'm a telephone girl, and have to talk to those fellows hundred strange men every day or so. Eh?"

"YOU," said the judge, "are accused of stealing watches. What have you to say in your behalf?"

"I was only trying to take time by the forelock, your Honor," replied the culprit, who was something of a joker.

"Clearly very good," said the judge. "Case let me see, since you seem to be so clever, can you tell me how to remove a contribution myself."

The prisoner seemed very much pleased, but his countenance changed when the judge added:

"I'll give you three years' hard labor."

Farmers at Ottawa

Tells 800 Delegates West is More Advanced That East (Cheers), Radically So.

NAIVELY SAYS MAYBE HE NEEDS EDUCATION

Replying To Farmers Premier Makes Plain That His Poll Use Will Not Change

OTTAWA, Dec. 17.—Right hard did Laurier cheer as Sir Wilfrid Laurier rose to reply to the farmers. memorials this afternoon. Bowing to the premier the resolutions adopted at the convention yesterday of the representatives from every province in the Dominion except Prince Edward Island, was not finished until 5:30 o'clock. Sir Wilfrid said:

"Permit me, at the very outset, on behalf of the government and on behalf of parliament or both and of the house, to thank the delegates who have come for this purpose I can speak—Hon. L. Borden "Hear, hear"—to express to you the gratification it affords us to see before us such a representative delegation as we have here, and acknowledge also the profit with which we have listened to expression of your views even if we do not obtain those views in their entirety.

"Even I came here this morning I thought we were coming to receive a delegation from the West, but I understand from your remarks that the delegation we have before us represents the agricultural interests of the whole of Canada, of the East as well as of the West.

"You will perhaps permit me to observe that it seems to me that, though the delegation represents the agricultural interests of the whole of Canada, it is the western spirit which pervades it. I am not surprised at that, nor do I complain on it, because we in the east are prepared for the domination of the west at a very early day. We have always understood that in the west the ideas are far more radical than they are in the east.

"At least, I have believed so, judging as I have judged of late and for some time past form expression of opinion which have come to me from all parts of Canada. I think that in this I speak correctly, if you will not deny the indictment, if such it be, that the west and your ideas are far more radical than are those of the east. As I say, I do not complain of this, but simply state the state of fact.

"The resolutions you have put before us are certainly impregnated with western spirit.

Same Policy Plainly

"Nor do I believe the farmers of the east now present will think me so far in error in saying that the resolutions are in keeping as I understand, of government ownership, and operation of all government utilities—of railways, of elevators and of telephones. The same principle is taking in my at present. The idea may perhaps be a good one.

"I understand that you have started a campaign of education and perhaps I may be first to be educated in that respect, because up to this time I have not been an absolutely ardent supporter of government ownership and operation of all public utilities.

"The government ownership may be persuaded to government operation. I may be persuaded also, but with great difficulty. In this, I am a man of the east.

"If I am to judge of the importance which you attach to the different resolutions you have placed before me by a number of speakers, I have addressed to the terminal elevators and to tariff that you attach the greatest importance.

"It is these ideas which received the greatest support from this delegation. I have listened with care to statements which have been made by farmers here represented, and grievances which they have to present, and I am proud to believe that, after all, even though in Canada at present things are not as perfect as they ought to be, still, after all, they are not too bad.

"I listened with great interest—as everybody did, I am sure—to a very admirable paper presented to Mr. Green. If I understand him right, he stated that the delegation here present represented agricultural interests to the amount of $2,000,000,000. Well, if we reflect that the western farmers who are present from the western position and those whom they represent have been in the west in their present homes not more than twenty years on average, we cannot but think that to have accumulated wealth to the amount of $2,000,000,000 does not argue a very bad condition of things after all. And if we reflect that Mr. Green also stated that the actual acreage valued wealth of all the farmers of the eastern prairies is $1,500,000,000, I will repeat that, although things are not as and as they might be, they are not very bad, and where shall we find things as well as they ought to be? Therefore, I am glad to be able to say that even in Canada, which is in my opinion a self-governing country, there is room for improvement.

Tariff Changes Not Easy.

"Now, what is to be the nature of improvement with regard to the tariff? I understand that what is proposed is

THE most considerate wife I ever met" remarked the philosopher was a woman who asked to dine with a friend instead of with her husband so as to spoil them.

NOW, read the article, "Relief in Five Minutes," and then don't buy another worthless remedy, and the mail order man will go out of business.

MR. DRUMMOND: "Here a sin does not mean a sin, but merely something which I had intended to do."

Mrs. Drum (coldly interrupting him): "Well, think between, Henry."

A LADY entered a well known bookstore and asked to be shown a copy of the "pup" stories.

"I don't know any stories about the canine," he said politely.

"Oh, shall I ever cease that side?" replied the lady.

AN Irishman was leaning against a post when a heavy gust came.

"Who's dead?" someone sat him.

"I don't know," answered the Irish man, "but I guess it's the gentleman in the front carriage."

THE captain was receiving the new lady.

"Well, boy," he said, "the old story, I suppose—the call of the family must to see?"

"No, sir," piped the boy, "that's all altered since your day."

YOU don't make very good music with that instrument," said the innocent bystander to the man who was trying to get the hand out of the piano.

"No," admitted the drum pounder, "but it's swell for a band."

BROOKS: "Well Miss, "that's the second time I've heard you use the phrase, 'I would not be a cad.' I wish you would tell me how a cad can behave."

"Well," said Brooks, reflecting a moment, "not in front of a lunch counter, don't you sometimes have the headaches?"

I HAVE a great pan on my wife," said William. (I ask she must be pacified a bit and replied. She was not for two minutes this morning calling me names because I wanted to know what was in the stew.) What do you think of that?"

"Why, I think," said Mr. Hoary, "it's either a pan, a saw suit of clothes or a passage-at."

AN old lady, who was a passenger on board of the steamer Iceberg named very much more afraid of the ice berge than of the engines, and asked the captain what would happen in case of a collision.

"Madam," the captain replied, how long have you been married?" "Thirty years," was the reply. "Have you ever thought of that?"

"Why, no," said the old lady, "I never thought either of it, nor of clothes or my husband."

"Then," said the captain, "you will have nothing to lose."

I HAVE a great mind to go to the club to-night," said Mr. Jinks to his wife.

"Have you?" she retied with surprise.

"What!" she retied with surprise.

"Why, I mean, I would to go to the club to-night, dear."

"Whom?" she asked.

"Whom what?"

"Whom great mind?"

"Why, my own, of course, madam."

"Oh!" and the rising inflection she gave the ejaculation was very provoking in a man of his feeling.

AN old woman who had made a great deal of money by selling whisky was visited when on her death bed by her minister, to whom she spoke, as is the usual custom on such occasions, about her temporal as well as her spiritual affairs. As to her temporal-ties, they seemed to be in a very flourishing condition, for she was dying quite worth a very large sum of money.

"And so, Molly," said the minister, "you have left me ten pounds in your will, haven't you?"

"Indeed, minister," replied Molly, "I have not."

"And you tell me, too," continued the minister, "that you made all that money by filling the whisky bottles?"

"Oh, no, minister," said the dying woman, "I didna tell you that. I made the maist of it by not quite filling the whisky bottles."

FARMER Oats at a concert, during the performance of a duet, remarked to his friend: "D'ye ken, Tam Tyes, now it's got to ten o'clock, they're singing two at a time, so as to get done sooner!"

A VISITOR: "Is your clock right?" Third Hostess (in out of her parlour and pulchroom): "Oh, no! That's the one we call The Visitor."

Visitor: "What a quaint name!"

Hostess: "Because it doesn't get!"

AN ex confessor of acute hydrophobia, it is difficult to surpass the story of the Boston man who, while crossing a lake, was asked if he wasn't afraid of the water with a whisky, and replied: "No, there was a hoop down at the bottom of the boat, so I can't drown."

The hero of the lock was twenty miles distant.

AN old lady, who had been leaning over the rail to watch the passengers go ashore, suddenly approached the captain. "Please tell me, sir," she asked timidly, "what time the boat starts?"

"Eh starts, madam," said the captain, "why, at two o'clock."

"Then I'm the haughty reply.

Always Serviceable.—Most pills lose their properties with age. Not so with Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. The pill mass is compounded that they retain their full strength indefinitely and the pills can be carried anywhere without fear of losing their potency. This is a quality that few pills possess. Some pills lose their power, but not so with Parmelee's. They will maintain their freshness and potency for a long time.

The Horseman

IN the west, writing, also like the rest of us is which Dewey Michael Mc-Donald, of the stable from which Britannia and races, owned by Captain David Shaw of Cleveland, Ohio, is installed by the oldest "circuitier," a year ago at the time it was Thomas Keogh who succeeded to have a first mortgage on about everything in sight worthy of capture, and his ubiquity at the top of the grandstand was the envy of all secretaries for the special wonder of the turf. Keogh was a great man in his day, but nobody especially for wonder at any of his performances.

However, Murphy had a very large stable to draw his winners from, based which he was given second choice, and as horses who-se owners hastened to take advantage of the unparalleled string of luck which seemed to be attending Murphy. He was a very well horses at his disposal, all of the best of the property of his employer, and what he has done he has had to accomplish with, so far as ability is concerned, decidedly limited resources. Before coming him to race out the season as the most conspicuous man in the saddle.

Up in the Columbus, Ohio, meeting, which is now in progress, there is a boy who is attracting a great deal of attention. His name is Jockey Ward, and he is a son of the late Jockey Ward, who made him the envy of all the other boys in his profession.

The principal thing that he has achieved, of course, has been his riding of Britannia's winnings of the Brooklyn Handicap, the Suburban and the Travershas respectively, the most famous of all the big events on the all-special circuits or each season for the past few years.

The Joe Patchy was trotting in 1898, the Joe Terrell was a pacer in 1899, and the leggity record that his name now stands for was made in 1900. In the latter year he was a driver acknowledged to be the best of the stiff grand circuit, and all the betting knights of the turf were willing to back his judgment.

Had Suffered for Weeks—Found Four Bottles Dr. Chase's Remedies With Quick Effect

A well known man residing on one of the best tributary streets on the north side, has been using some of the great bandages in the form of Dr. Chase's remedies, and his story is a direct, rather simply one. Here it is:

"I had a bad cold in the head and throat, and quickening, the cough every night, and I feared the signs that should put the ball into play and hurt them ever against each in this fierce clash of battle.

The struggle began rolling the code:

"Thirty not; thirty five! twenty two! seventeen! and so on.

At that instant the left tackle, who was working in a way more suggestive by an intelligent a tailor, shoved mind and asked:

"Side or hip pocket?"

MRS. De Pashion: "My dear, late social dissipation have ruin'd your complexion."

Mr. De Pashion: "Bully of an ass sensay! It knocked me silly."

"You, too."

"And you are losing your beauty."

"It's all gone, too."

"It would be a sad sight in your place."

"It's nothing but skin and bones."

"There's no denying it, my dear, you are a perfect picture of misery."

"What are you going to do about it?"

"Get married."

IT was a nasty, cold, wet day, and William stood coughing before a chemist's window. At last, red and purple, he entered the shop.

"Will you please give me something for a cold?" he asked.

"Certainly, sir," said the chemist, and William stood coughing before a chemist's window. At last, red and purpose

TOFIELD, DEC. 28, 1910.

New Year 1911

With the end of this week we see the passing of the old year. The occasion is one that, as we grow older, forces itself upon us as one of no small importance to us in our daily life. At this season we are prone to look more closely at ourselves and criticise our past doings, and who amongst us does not at least make one or more good resolutions. The entering into a new year appeals to almost every heart and conscience with that still small but persistent voice speaking in no uncertain strain and takes us to task for the mistakes of the past. It were proper that the New Year comes immediately after the Christmas Festive Season when heart seems to speak to heart, each wishing the other the gladsome old wish "A Merry Christmas," when petty wrongs, differences, ills, troubles and trials are forgotten and all the world sings "Peace on Earth and Good Will towards Men." Scarce has the Christmas season past than New Year with all its meaning is upon us. It were most, therefore, that having pondered the serious and yet gladsome lesson which every Christmas has for us, we should put away the error into which we may have fallen, those things that mar and dwarf and tell the story of our weakness, the misunderstandings which we have allowed to grow up around us, to forgive aught which we have against our fellow men and to start the New Year afresh and with a clean sheet. After all the most pleasure and profit to us in this life is to live as closely as possible to the great principle set for us by the Man amongst men, To Fear God, Honor the King and to love our neighbors as ourselves. The world would be indeed much better if this golden rule were more observed. Shall we then not do our part during the coming year of 1911.

The Retrospect and the Prospect

Man, like a pilgrim on a journey, has just reached the height of land and now pauses. He looks back over the road that he has so recently travelled and forward over the road over which he is soon to pass. He meditates: "Son of my soul hast thou been true to thyself and true to thy God?" There has gone forth from that very life that which has had far reaching effects. Nothing in the universe is self-contained. Not a single atom of matter, ray of light, stands alone. The fall of a bullet changes the dynamical condition of the universe. Bacon says: "All things that have affinity with the Heavens move upon the centre of another whom they benefit."

The very sum total of that life is made up of beliefs, purposes, habits, manifested in all that he does and does not, and is as one ingredient in the tendency and photographic film of his other spirits. If he glows with love it will radiate warmth, if he is frozen with selfishness the cold will chill the atmosphere if corrupt and vile will pass on it. Nor is it possible for any of us to be neutral. Chalmers puts it "There are no moral blanks . . . Every man is a missionary for good or evil now and forever. He may be a blot radiating his dark influence to the circumference of society; or he may be a blessing spreading benediction over the length and breadth of the world.

We own each other and God owns us all. A man never stands alone, unrelated to anything.

He like the willow, put your roots deep down in the soil, ground yourself in eternal truth; live for God. Then many in the days that are to come shall rise and call you Blessed.—Rev. W. F. Gold.

What Shall Our Next Page Tell

1910 is almost gone, and we are one year nearer to—what? Twelve months further on the road to—where? By a twelve months' stronger feeling of habit, more confirmed in what kind of a life? One year less remaining to accomplish our life purpose—what is it? The child is one year larger in stature, the old man one year feebler in frame. Our characters are one year stronger if they are growing. The end of the page is the last and the pleasantest, if that page is well written. But if the page of the year is poorly written, and blotted, the end is not satisfactory. But here is another page to begin —unspotted, unsullied. In 1911 we will be men; we will be women. We will not do those things we detest. We will keep the page clean. We will be true to our God and to our country, in our town, in our homes, to ourselves.—Rev. S. Nicholson.

The 1910 Council held their clean up session of the year on Thursday evening of last week, all the members being there with the exception of Mr. Maxwell who is away on a visit to the States. A bylaw was passed through its three readings, authorizing the payment to the members of council from the municipal treasury of the amounts allowed them by the Municipal Act. The water proposition was thoughtfully turned over to the new council to deal with, and the remaining bills were presented for payment and allowed. A vote of thanks was unanimously passed, tendering the mayor an expression of appreciation for his untiring efforts to assist the council in their deliberations. A motion to adjourn was made and passed, and the council of 1910 passed out into the night, and their doings into history.

The new council, upon whom the mantle of handling the municipal affairs has fallen, inherits the task that was imposed upon the old body at the time it was elected—that of providing the town with a water supply, primarily for fire protection purposes. Let us hope that with the infusion of new blood and business acumen, the problems lying before them will be approached tactfully and dealt with successfully.

None of those who read the pen-pictures of the Coming of Christ understood what his mission was to be. Those who were learned did not know; but the wise knew him. The shrewd men waited to see what he would do. The wise men recognized him, as a babe, and sought early with gifts. Love knew him, selfishness denied him.—Pastor S. Nicholson, Sunday Dec. 25.

Ottawa Deputation

Comments of the British Press on the Farmers' Demands

LONDON, Dec. 28.—Referring to the farmers' deputation to Ottawa on an effective means to obtain reciprocity, The Leader says that when the colonies "reap the wealth of the borders which obstruct and non-social imperialism, we endeavoring in their name to fraternize with the British race, the will, in the long run, inevitably, spit each policy to the winds."

The Morning Post, discussing the same subject, judges that neutral corn "is to be admitted free, argues that "the state of income the Canadian grain owners may prefer a free trade price to a English markets rather than a slightly lower price as a result of a net duty accompanied by preference over the free grain. It is a pity that night it search their white to have any expectation on preference of this favored concern for the poor.

"The English consumer, who has a substantial if his own, is quite capable of protecting his real interests in what seems to the face of his examples to this. He has already practically and hardly yet abandoned the slavish superstition that the prosperity of India's loan for protection is inspired by that society, but the poor Indian peasant child have in any sure for his magic of corn. From Cobden onwards the free trade road has been a wide and direct and transparent self-interest passing to imperial altruism. The Morning post draws the conclusion from the report of Prince that national protection proposed by Chamberlain's tariff commission is the strongest lever for effectively removing tariff barriers within the empire.

The Standard says that "only by sustaining her present system is Great Britain and Canada ever going to become a trade road has been raised with great national success and prosperity with the United States, the greatest commercial power of the leading factor in world-wide development."

The Times says the immediate difficulty of the farmers on the policy of the Canadian government will not be great, but it is undesirable to minimize the importance of the deputation. It remarks that hitherto the wise plans of unit in politics which has been smaller than by due, and it is certain to throw in leaders of the new class, and to be an epoch-making event politically. It is bad for two months' search, Mr. Borden's Natsonalists between the two Parties, if no extreme new changes about to open in Canadian politics.

OLD PROSPECTOR TELLS HIS STORY

HIS REAL TROUBLES STARTED WHEN KIDNEY AILMENTS GOT HIM

Plasters, Ointments and Sulphur Were All He Tried—Doan's Kidney Pills Made a New Man of Him.

Petersdale, B.C., (Special)—Many old-time Canada people are telling of the great work Doan's Kidney Pills are doing, and every week adds to the list. Here is another case:

"Statistics prove that there are, in the United States alone, over 2,000,000 families having an income of from $1,000 to $2,000 a year, and 225,000 families having an income from $2,000 to $3,000 a year, and 90,000 families having an income from $3,000 to $5,000 a year, and 40,000 families having an income from $5,000 to $10,000 a year, and 10,000 families having an income from $10,000 to $15,000 a year, and 5,000 families having an income from $15,000 to $25,000 a year, and 2,500 families having an income from $25,000 to $50,000 a year, and 1,000 families having an income from $50,000 to $100,000 a year, and 500 families having an income of more than $100,000 a year."

In making my statements, I do not apply them to the small percentage of well-to-do people, but to the average, every-day people who own motor cars, but who are compelled to practice economy when, in my opinion, extravagance would be the wiser course. Statistics prove that there are, in the United States alone, over 2,000,000 families having an income of from $1,000 to $2,000 a year, and 225,000 families having an income from $2,000 to $3,000 a year, and 90,000 families having an income from $3,000 to $5,000 a year, and 40,000 families having an income from $5,000 to $10,000 a year, and 10,000 families having an income from $10,000 to $15,000 a year, and 5,000 families having an income from $15,000 to $25,000 a year, and 2,500 families having an income from $25,000 to $50,000 a year, and 1,000 families having an income from $50,000 to $100,000 a year, and 500 families having an income of more than $100,000 a year.

Fire at the Mine

Fire caught in the interior of the boarding house at the Tofield Coal Co. mines last Thursday at 11.30 a.m. A call was sent into town for the assistance of the fire brigade. A quick response was made, the first engine getting a stream on in 15 minutes from the time the alarm came in. Owing to the fact that a large number of men were at hand at the boarding house when the fire was first noticed and their prompt efforts to extinguish the blaze, the latter was kept fairly under control until the arrival of the firemen who quickly had a strong pressure on.

Manager Henderson in recognition of the prompt and effective response of the brigade, sent a letter of acknowledgement to the mayor and enclosed with it a cheek for $25 for the firemen.

Local

Dan Grummett of Cooking was in town a few days ago.

Miss E. Noland is recovering from a severe attack of the Grippe.

Mrs. Clutterham and daughter are the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Tofield.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Bartness, Bardo, left recently on a three months visit to Wisconsin.

O. A. Trent has purchased the Gladeo Livery and Feed Stables on 3rd Ave. west.

Mrs. A. J. H. McCauley is away on a month's visit to relatives and friends in Yorkton, Sask.

F. W. Russell will shortly leave the Red Deer where he and his brother are going into the law.

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Ingram is suffering from a severe attack of La Grippe.

The Government Telephone Department is putting in a number of additional phones in Tofield. The gang has been busy for the past week.

Tofield Public Schools reopened for the new term on Tuesday, Jan. 3rd. Parents are requested to send new beginners at the opening of the new term only.

The farmers on the road from Tofield to Farmington are anxious to have a rural telephone line built down that way next spring. It is likely that this will be done.

Mrs. D. Grummett of Cooking Lake had the misfortune a couple of weeks ago to slip and break an ankle. She is making gradual progress towards recovery.

Mrs. L. Daily of Amisk Creek section is away on a visit to friends in North Dakota and Iowa, where she is visiting her sister, Mrs. Osborn in Dakota and her brother Wallace Dake in Peterson, Iowa.

Be careful about your sash hooks. Six fires were started in Edmonton the other night. Even such a small place as Tofield furnished enough excitement in the still hours of the morning to do us some little time.

M. Mecklemberg, A.M., the eminent eye specialist will again be at Jamieson's Drug Store, Tofield, Thursday, Jan. 26th. Spectacles and eye glasses fitted properly. Satisfaction guaranteed, prices reasonable. Do not delay but consult him now. Open evenings.

Miss Venah Rickner gave a pleasant party to a large number of guests last Friday evening in celebration of her successful winning of the Upton Piano at the Reliance Store and in honor of her sister Fanny, who celebrated the anniversary of her natal day last Friday.

D. W. McAmmond's fine big team of blacks brought down a bumper load of pressed hay down the lake from the north end seven days ago. The load, 5 tons and 100 pounds. His team handled this magnificent load apparently without the slightest difficulty. Mr. McAmmond purchased this team from R. A. Hall.

"Managing Mildred"

A distinct novelty in the field of musical comedy or comedy with music, is "Managing Mildred," a sparkling creation of Walter S. Lockwood, which comes to the Masonic Hall January 16th under the direction of C. P. Walker.

The play tells the story of two girl chums whose success in college dramatics fills them with longing to see their names on electric signs as real Broadway stars. Their lives become disconcerted to this ambition and their waking hours are employed studying, rehearsing and discussing stage technique, much to the discomfort of the brother of one of the girls, the brother also having a deeper interest in the other girl.

In his attempt to cure the ladies of their hallucination, the brother wins for his best friend to come impersonating a theatrical manager and either frighten or disgust the prospective candidates for stellar honors, into being satisfied with less exciting careers. This deception leads to many amusing complications through the three acts and only at the fall of the final curtain does the fun cease.

During the action play some twenty song hits are introduced, feature being made of the last two scenes of Verdi's masterpiece "Il Trovatore" which is sung in ensemble.

A special orchestra is carried by the company and the famous English opera singers will be heard in the principal roles. A handsome scenic production complete in every detail, is promised.

Hockey

Ryley and Tofield hockey teams play their first league game here next Friday evening. The visitors are fully primed to administer a whipping to the Cup Defenders. They will arrive on the 6.30 express. Game commences at 8 p.m. sharp.

Brigade Called Out

At 5.20 Tuesday morning Tofield got a scare when the rapid peals of the fire bell told of impending danger, and scores of light sleepers leaped from their beds, hastily donned a few clothes and got out upon the streets to render any assistance necessary. Who can say how many individual sighs of relief were breathed when it was found that it was not a building that was in flames, but showers of sparks from live ashes in an ash barrel in the rear of one of the Main St. buildings. Had the alarm not been given it would have been quite possible that a blaze would have originated and serious loss occured.

The high wind of early Tuesday morning was the cause. It lifted the lid from the barrel, exposing the contents to the breeze. Excitement was created in various portions of the town by flying cinders from ash piles. Danger was averted by many getting up and banking the ash heaps with snow. Some of these incidents occured behind a prominent business block in the business section.

With the town the size that it has grown to be, with the valuable interests that are tied up in properties on Main St., and with the means of fighting fire being as they are, it is a matter well worthy of considerators of the council if it were proposed to put on a night watchman. It is high time something was done to protect the citizens' interests.

Council

The new Council held its first meeting in the office of the secretary-treasurer last evening. The first step to be taken was the swearing in of the members. The mayor presented his draft of the committees for the year which was accepted and passed on motion. This is as follows:—

The committee which had charge of removing the old fire hall building was instructed to see after the banking of the building on its new site.

The executive of the Citizens Band will be requested to turn in all the band instruments to the town secretary, and if necessary the town policeman will be instructed to collect them.

The FIRE, WATER & LIGHT committee was authorised to purchase 6 lengths of hose for the chemical engines. Coun. Story gave notice of a motion which he would move at the next meeting, that a bylaw be brought in to repeal the section in the License Bylaw, respecting licenses for draymen. The pump in the last drilled well will be taken up and placed in the well on 3rd Ave., and a working head purchased for it. The pump in the latter well will be placed in the Noland well.

Do you know that fully nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism are simply rheumatism of the muscles due to cold or damp, or chronic rheumatism, and require no internal treatment whatever? Apply Chamberlain's Liniment freely and see how quickly it gives relief. Sold by dealers everywhere.

Hymen

James Harmon Caldwell of Killam, and Ethel Alberta Morris of Fergus P.O., Alta., were united in Marriage at the King Edward Hotel, Viking, Alta., on Thursday, December 22nd, 1910, at 4.30 p.m. Mr. J. D. Caldwell, the brother of the groom acted as best man and Miss Grace Burrough acted as bridesmaid. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. F. Gold of Tofield. The young couple left on the evening train for Edmonton. They will make their home near Killam.

Medicines that aid nature are always most effectual. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It allays the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Thousands have testified to its superior excellence. Sold by dealers everywhere.

Tofield Defeats Wainwright at Bowling and Whitewashes Them at Hockey

LATTER SCORE 1-0

Curling Season Opens

HOCKEY

The Tofield team journeyed down to Wainwright at the first of this week to play an exhibition game Monday with the puck chasers of Buffalo town. They did not fail to make good and returned without a score against them, but leaving the Buffalons in a chilly atmosphere of just one below.

It was a good game and sternly contested. Other than its being very hard the ice was in splendid condition. The game opened with a little rag play but after the boys got the feel of the ice play began in real earnest. Just two minutes before half-time Hains secured a clear from behind the Tofield goal and scored the first and only point made. The home team had, perhaps, the best combination, but apparently the ice was too fast for them and anyway our boys skated rings around them. Towards the end play became rather rough, Herb Lee and McMillan mixing it up a couple of times. Just after the referee's whistle blew for full time McMillan came up behind Hains and made a vicious swipe with a hockey stick striking him on the arm. Adams interfered and no further violence occurred.

After Viking having defeated Ryley and Wainwright beaten Viking with Tofield to come along and trim Wainwright to a whitewash finish naturally the Buffalo boys would be disappointed, but there is no reason to resort to rough play.

The line-up was as follows:—

TOFIELD (1)		WAIN'RIGHT (0)
H. Adams	Goal	Haley
G. Hains	Point	McMillan
S. George	Cover Point	Washburn
H. Lee	Rover	Morrison
A. Whapley	Centre	Tressouth
Diamond	Right Wing	W. Istead

BOWLING

In the morning an impromptu bowling match was arranged and pulled of between Wainwright and Tofield trios. Halderman, Reynolds and Kessler for Wainwright and Adams, Schultz and O. Letourneau for Tofield. Tofield showed the home bowlers that they could bowl just as well as play hockey, defeating the Wainwright trio by 46 pins.

CURLING

The rosin' game has gotten away to a good start at Tofield. Work has been rushed on the rink during the past two weeks and already several matches between skips have taken place. Monday being a holiday, three games were pulled off, the results being as follows:

11 a.m.—McQueen vs Legge, 11-6

2 p.m.—Bird vs [illegible]

8 p.m.—McCauley vs McQueen, 1-15.

Tuesday evening the following game was pulled off:

What has struck Camrose? Can anybody tell? How have the mighty fallen. In times past we have been wont to admire the sturdy energy and push of the enterprising citizens of our sister town. Who has not admired the plucky spirit which once flourished in the full prime of lusty youth; and which has been so successful in bringing the town into prominence in not like previous years? What has happened to bring this spirit of lusty enterprise to a sudden halt? Who will unravel the mystery? What is the matter with Camrose, the City that was born Lucky," the railroad centre of the Province, the "Hub of the Railway Systems of the West"? How comes it that it has become so dormant in enthusiastic boosting for the town as to quietly succumb to the will of the Corporations, the bonds of whose operations it claimed so lustily was to make "Camrose" the "Greatest City of the West." It is now over a year to be correct, something like 18 months since the G.T.P. Branch Line had its steel into Camrose. No a train load of merchandise, much less a passenger has been moved an inch on this line to this day. The steel was laid in the fall of 1909 from Tofield into Camrose. There was no traffic that winter. During the summer of 1910, the line was ballasted for the most part on this stretch. Last Friday, the last train (Construction) pulled from off the branch into Tofield and the men paid off. Possibly next a wheel will turn on the Tofield-Calgary branch this winter Closed again for the winter.

Is Camrose awake? Hundreds of passengers have come over the G.T.P. from the east into Tofield this summer and the first query after they got off the train is "When does the next train go south"? The reader can imagine the chagrin of the enquirer when he is informed as to the true condition of affairs? True then, does Camrose realize what she is missing by quietly sitting down and becoming the mere creature of circumstance? The opening of traffic upon the main line of the G.T.P. has been attended with a volume of both freight and passenger business which has been a genuine surprise to all concerned. Will that upon the Tofield Calgary branch line be any less of a successful opening? Why then this tamely sitting down to await the convenience of them upon whose will the inauguration of traffic operations depends?

Perhaps a little enthusiasm might be instilled into the veins of our worthy brothers down the line, if by the co-operation of the Tofield Board of Trade, joint action were taken to remedy the present conditions which are a strong deterrent to improvement in general trade relations all along the line. Perhaps a strong pressure could be brought to bear upon Mr. Bureau, upon whom the onus of the responsibility falls as Premier of the province and whose position in regard to legislation governing the guaranteeing of the bonds of railway branch lines within the province is of executive importance.

Bardo

Interesting Chapters Of Christmas Doings

(Too late for last issue.)

The Christmas echo of concert on last Thursday night eclipsed, all previous attempts at entertainments of that nature and has no precedent in the annals of Bardo history. If put on par with those held in other places, it would suffer none by the comparison. It was a delightfully pleasant, splendidly arranged, ably executed and duly appreciated. All credit to the teachers under whose direction it was carried out.

The program was rich and pleasingly varied, consisting as it did of a beautiful collection of school choruses, duets, quartettes, solos & trios, interspersed by declamations and musical events. Splendid features were three drills a Christmas dialogue, and solos by Miss Bartmon. Refreshments were served from the tree and presents distributed.

Though attendance was not large, due perhaps to the counteracting influence of other concerts on that same night, yet, over and above expenses was realized a neat surplus.

Public and high schools disbanded on Friday to reassemble on the third day of January. The teachers, Miss H. Howlett and Mr. J. Bower, spend holidays, the former at Brightview, Alta., the latter at Magnolia where he has a homestead.

The week has been an eventful one to citizens here. In fact the time has been so well utilized that more has been crowded into one week than into a whole year previously, and in spite of the best arrangements, it could not be averred that some of the occasions overlapped each other.

A quiet home wedding was solemnized at Mr. J. Jenson's on Tuesday. Rev. Knutson of Edmonton, officiated and joined in holy wedlock, Miss H. Imersland and Mr. Johnson. He has business interests in that city and the young couple will probably remove to that city. Our hearty congratulations go with them.

Today, Wednesday has another wedding in store us. The contracting parties are Mr. A. Moen, esteemed neighbour of ours, and Miss G. Freeland. Mr. Moen's home that has been long gloomy and has felt the absence of a woman's kind caress and loving sympathy will again be bright and and cheerful place as of yore.

The Christmas Festival held in the Church on Tuesday night under the auspices of the Sunday School, proved to be its old original self and was hailed with glad anticipation by the children. For is it not almost exclusively for the children? This festival has displarities apart from all others and has grown to be an annual occasion among us. Let the time honored custom go on and encourage the children to love it, and through it, may find the pure and unsullied Christmas joy in their hearts.

Rev. T. Carlson of Camrose and his wife and two youngest children passed through en route for Tofield. He stopped briefly and remained his journey on Wednesday. They boarded the train at Tofield and departed for the States. Rev. Carlson will visit his relative and several old parishes, and find a brief respite from clerical life.

The Prize-Winning Letters

Letter to Santa Claus Contest

GIRLS

FIRST PRIZE

Beaver Hills, Alta., Dec. 28, '10

Dear Santa Claus:

Well, dear old fellow, won't you spare another of your very greatest girls a few minutes of your precious time?

I suppose you are about the busiest man in the world these days.

Do you suppose there is anything on your collection of gifts to please a girl of fourteen years?

I do hope you can find me and my brothers and sisters where we are living now. You will have to make your rounds in an awful hurry this year as it is not very good sleighing or autoing in this part of the country.

I can just imagine how the older folks envy the boys and girls when they hear us talking of you. But they had their share and now you're ours. Aren't you?

Now Jesse Santy, I trust that this letter is not too long. I will say Good Night with oceans of love and best wishes for a Merry Christmas, I remain

VERA KENDALL.

SECOND PRIZE

Tofield, Alta., Dec. 20th 1910

Dear Santa Claus:

I am very sad. Mamma locked out of our bed room window and she saw my poor little pigeon outside alone. She went down to the stable and she found in the cornerall of my little white pigeon feathers. The old buck cat came back and I think he killed, because when the little white pigeon was alive, the Blacky used to sit on our bed and growl at them. So please Santa Claus will you bring me another little pigeon to take the place of the little one that was killed?

I want a pair of skates Mr Gordied to take me out to learn to skate with.

I want a Shetland pony and a sleigh to draw me around.

And I want a Jersey cow with milk for me to drink.

I want clothes for my dolly that has none. And Santa Claus, I want want a little dollies bed for mine is broken.

I want a dollies' carriage for me to take my dollies out in. Don't forget a large one. And please bring a trunk for my dollies clothes so I can keep them in their places.

Yours lovingly,
JEAN WHILLANS

THIRD PRIZE

Tofield, Alta., Dec. 14, 1910

Dear Santa Claus:

I thought that I would write to you to thank you for the presents I got last year and to tell you what I would like this Christmas. I would like a handsh-lph to go coasting on and to take my baby brother for ride on. I would like one like Mr. Bird has in his hand wars store. I would also like a work basket so as to have scissors and other things of my own to make dolls' clothes and fancy work. I will be very much pleased if you give me those things. On your way back to the North Pole could you call and spend New Year's Day with us. I would like very much to see you. What do you go around in? I try to stay awake at night so as to be able to see you but I never have. I guess I ought to be contented with the presents you leave me. It must be quite a job getting your goods packed and ready to start off with. I am 11 years old. I will close now, hoping that you will call at our house. I remain

Your true friend,
ROSE PHANCIS

BOYS

FIRST PRIZE

Tofield, Alta., Dec. 2. 1910

Dear Santa Claus:

"A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to you dear Santa."

If you please, Santa, bring me a sleigh and harness for my little dog. I would like them very much for I want to train him to pull water and other things.

Thanking you in advance and also for your past favors, I remain

Yours sincerely,
JOHN LETOURNEAU

SECOND PRIZE

Tofield, Alta., Dec. 9th. 1910

Dear Santa Claus:

I want to try for one of those prizes in Mr. Bird's store. I would like to get the tool chest I saw in the store, as I would like to do carpenter work, so when I get big I can earn money doing carpenter work. And I can make little sleds, waggons, cigars boxes, play houses, doll beds, chairs and tables. I would like to have a pair of skates but I think the tool chest would do me more good than the skates. I could learn to play hockey with the skates. I am nine years old. My birthday is on the first of February. I will be 10 years old next first of February. There are seven of us in the whole family. There are five of us children and with mamma and papa there would be seven. I got a paper from Edmonton that said you were in Edmonton in one of the stores. I think I will close my letter now. Good-bye Santa. I remain

Your little friend,
FRANK WOOD

THIRD PRIZE

Tofield, Alta., Dec. 22, 1910

Dear Santa Claus:

I will write you a few lines to tell you what I would like for Xmas.

Please bring me a box of tools and a little air gun and also a Xmas stocking.

Well, dear Santa, I shall tell you what I want these things for. I want the box of tools because I intend to be a carpenter when I grow up, and the air gun to learn how to aim straight. And a Xmas stocking to play with things that are in it. Now, dear Santa, if you don't think this too much, I will be very thankful if you bring me what I want. Wishing you a very Merry Xmas and a bright New Year. So good-bye, I remain,

Yours truly,
PAT GLADUE

The exterior length of the car is 85 feet, and the length of the dining room 48 feet 6 inches, the balance of the interior of the car being taken up by the modern kitchen, refrigerator and pantry. They are mounted on standard six wheel trucks. The platforms are of steel and the vestibule of the latest design. They are equipped with all the improvements and safety appliances that are known to modern skill, and are the handsomest dining cars that have been turned out from Canadian shops.
They will leave for the West in a day or two, and will be objects of interest as well as supplying comfort to Western travellers, and will be an addition to the splendid equipment now in use on the speedy line from Grand Trunk Pacific to Western Canada.
A member of a party who journeyed into the Peace River District last July and August, and travelled over the Grand Trunk Pacific Ry., between Winnipeg and Edmonton writes to the company as follows:
"I desire to congratulate the Grand Trunk Pacific on its excellent service, and I want to go on record as saying that no matter which way one views it, your line has certainly followed the good. Some of our party thought it nothing short of marvellous that in two years' time a railroad could be running as early as G. T. P. runs.
"The service was as enjoyable as the smooth-running roadbed."

"Dutsy" Davison, as referee of the Tofield-Wainwright hockey game proved himself a capable official, his judgements being strictly impartial. His work was highly complimented by the Tofield boys.

HELEN KELLER
The World's Most Remarkable College Graduate

The story of Helen Keller's life is the biography of two wonderful women—Helen herself and her teacher, Miss Sullivan. Every years has rung a triumph of mind over matter, of love over calamity, of hope over despair, of success over terrible obstacles. The tale of starvation seemed well-nigh hopeless, for the one sense through which the child's mind was to be awakened to consciousness was lost sense of touch. But in June, 1904, sixteen years later, Miss Keller graduated from Radcliffe with distinction and received her degree of B. A.

This fairy tale of education, this romance of the conquest of obstacles, is a superb triumph of common sense. At her entrance examination in June, 1900, as if Nature had not sufficiently handicapped her sooner, she had to submit to two additional trials. The questions were given her in the American Braille system of writing for the blind, with which Miss Keller was only slightly familiar, having learned the English Braille. The two systems are as different as two distinct systems of the kind. Then, owing to the pending of the translation of the questions was delayed, and in the fact that her little Swiss watch with raised figures had been left at home, so she had to depend upon the watch of her teacher. Under these circumstances she passed with honor in many of the subjects, while in others she failed. Of course, in many of the subjects, which were taught to her through the fingers instead of the eyes, she excelled. She translated the somewhat intricate mysteries of [illegible] Latin, French, Greek, German, [illegible] and [illegible] chemistry and all the other [illegible]

Friend: "Then you don't mind if I . . .

SO I was now introduced to Talbot Roosevelt the morning, eh? Let's see, where have the last three days been at Roosevelt?"

"No, sir; that hand's home."

THE Millionaire: "Doctor, is all my property to be left to charitable institutions?"

Specialist: "Unfortunately, yes; but it is safer to leave it to charitable institutions than to relatives."

DON'T you like blonde hair or brown hair?"

"Ask your friend Kenny. He knows more about women, then he'll tell you he likes it cool blush. She ought to be a success."

UNCLE GUS: "So this is the baby eh? I used to look just like him at that age. What's he crying about now?"

Nurse Davis: "Oh, Uncle Gus, he heard what you said."

HAVE you taken any steps in defence of the rights that were settled for us here centuries ago?"

"Yes, indeed," replied Mrs. Vetting ton, "we have already raised a number of eligibles to the Supreme Court."

RICH MAN (to beggar): "But a week! Remember that you will have your reward in heaven."

Beggar: "Well, I'll take five dollars here and I'll wait my chance to draw the other."

WHAT makes you think she is an educated?"

"Why, think's Ibsen's plays are stupid."

"Oh, but a lot of people think so."

"Yes; but she says so."

SO you think a man should take his wife into his confidence regarding his business affairs?" asked the man who had just been married.

"Why, I'm making my money," replied the experienced one, cautiously.

HE was always thought," said Uncle Ethan, reflectively, "to be one of the charitablest men in the whole town, and I guess he was. He always was generous. There is no use trying to say he wasn't when he refuses to lend it to anybody."

WHY do you always put a picture of a vase and a glass on the table before an orator?"

"That," answered the chairman of many reception committees, "is to give him something to do so he won't be forever fussing with his collar and his tie and his hair."

SAY, Mayme, did you ever have any one but me?" asked the enthusiastic youth of the girl beside him.

"Why, Harold," she answered, "no," added she, with the convenient dugnity of one who has never had any other experience, "I've been where it's 'yes.'"

MR. NEIGHBORS: "They tell me your son is in the college foot-ball team."

Mrs. Malaprop: "Yes, indeed."

Mr. Neighbors: "Ain't sure, but I think he's one of the drawbacks."

IN a primary school examination, over which I presided, one of the questions was: "Describe the position of the heart in the human body." Among the answers received was the following: "The heart is situated in the middle of the body, between the two lungs, which are very large and red. It is protected by a bony framework called the chest. The heart is a very important organ, and if it stops beating, you will die."

IT was a hot August day and Smith's face was all wrapped up in bandages, so that even could only see his eyes and mouth.

Just then Blake met him. "Hallo, old man, what in the world is the matter? Had an accident?"

"Oh, no!" replied Smith; "just a touch of sun-burn and peeling from a shave."

A BALTIMORE man tells of an old dram maie to some school girls in the city by a member of the Board of Trustees.

"My young friends," said the speaker, "let me urge upon you the seven cardinal virtues. Be honest, be truthful, be true to your calling, be pure, be just, be generous. Keep them at all times and in all places. Let your motto be frequently to walk all night in every respect, and then get up before daylight to read them."

A WESTERN lawyer is inordinately proud of the fact that one of his ancestors signed his name to the Declaration of Independence. At the recent banquet of the local bar he was signing a number of checks and affixed his signature with many a curve and flourish. The solemn-a pinnacle becoming exhausted in waiting for the lawyer to resume, he finally ob served:

"You have a fine signature, Mr. Sheehy."

"Yes," admitted the lawyer "and I should have. One of my forefathers signed the Declaration of Independence."

"Oh!" said the caller, with rising inflection. And then he added:

"Well, you sho'll get settings on me for all my ancestors signed the Ten Commandments."

I WAS waiting over the elevator in the factory building for my friend to come down, when I noticed a man in an overall of the hod building a large brick pen brick. He eyed the contractor, thought for a long time, then he evidently filled off the top slice of bread, took out a piece of pickle, ate it, and replaced all as before. In a few moments he again removed the top piece, extracted a piece of pickle and a piece of meat and replaced the top. Again and again the performance was repeated until all the pork and almost all of the meat were gone, the sandwich, how ever, appearing intact as in the begin ning.

"Why don't you eat up your sandwich and not pick at it in that way?" I asked the boy with some curiosity.

"Why," he answered, looking up with great importance, "it ain't my sandwich."

THE BAGPIPE OF THE MUTTON BIRD

OFF the north coast of Tasmania lie a number of islands which have the appearance at a distance of being little else than bare rocks since we see above the sea, but in reality they contain very fertile soil and are thickly covered with trees and other vegetation. The most remarkable of these islands is that known as the Mutton Bird Island, which is inhabited by a native race, the Tasmanians growth of which resembles a mixture of Negro and Australian. They are fine-limbed and have very erect carriage, but their features are coarse and repulsive, being over the negroid groundwork in the Australian. Their hair is frizzly, but the negro admixture appears to be chiefly shown in the color of the skin and the broad nose with forget the curving lines of the Australian. They are reserved and timid, and rarely adopt the wannabe manners of civilization.

Their chief industry centers around the capturing of mutton birds, a species of petrel which abounds in that locality. On an average one and a half millions of these birds are taken yearly, and the curious, since the local consumption, alone far more than twenty five thousand dollars. During the collecting season the whole island is astir, and people eat nearly enough to endanger the health. They eat far too much rich food, and to say anything aside for the fat, and therefore get ill and even head to death.

Many other varieties of sea birds are to be found on the island, albatrosses, gannets, gulls, oyster catchers, pelicans and other similar species. Their eggs are gathered in large numbers, and most of them are shipped to Australian ports, where they sell at such eggs which they closely resemble

But the most of us like to stay on earth just as long as we can regardless of man's desire to get up higher. We consider this a pretty good old world. And when we stop to think it is just about as we make it. To reap the full enjoyment we must keep pace with the times. The pioneer days of the great Northwest country are rapidly passing into history. The log cabin and the sod shack are being replaced by modern frame house. The old, worn-out, cheap hand-made furniture, some made of boxes and boards is giving way to up to date and more convenient house furniture. We westerners in our present state of prosperity feel that we can have just as good houses, if not so large, and have them furnished just as nice as our friends in the East or South.

A. & G. W. Timber Seized by Gov't.

To Be Sold at Auction. Default in Dues.

Notice at Dominion Land Office States That Sale Will Be Held February 7th

Report is to-day a story in the delegraphs in connection with the alleged default Alberta and Great Waterways company. The Dominion government is now taking steps to collect the timber dues, Score posts, telegraph poles and timber that were cut last winter along the right of way of the road. A notice was posted this morning in the Dominion land office at Edmonton to the effect that this material would be offered for sale on February 7, at an upset price of $15.00.

Valued at $40,000

Exclusive of the telegraph poles, of which a large number were cut on contract by a man named Walker of Edmonton, the material cut along the line of the way is valued at approximately $40,000.

The Empire Supply company of Edmonton at the head of which is Alderman Mclaurin, fulfilled the contract for cutting 83,000 forth of fence posts, $1,200 worth of bridge material, $900 worth of timber and $10,000 worth of ties. The company never rewrie d payment for fulfilling the contract and will be among those in present claims against the provincial government if the policy of Premier Sifton is allowed to progress that far.

Timber For Sale.

The timber now lying along the Great Waterways right of way will be offered for sale in small amounts at different part of the line, and a large part of the government does this and against the material. These dues accrue to $1,200.

Speaking to The Journal this morning Alderman McInnes stated that he had heard nothing about the action of the Dominion government in taking steps to confiscate the Alberta and Great Waterways construction material.

All the Branches of Farm Work Will Be Carefully Explained From Scientific Stand

The Hon. Duncan Marshall, minister of agriculture, announced the morning that the department of agriculture had completed arrangements for the holding of three short course schools in the province during the months of February and March. The first of these will be held later in the same hold last winter, and will be held at Macleod, Innisfail and Vermilion, and will be two weeks' duration each.

Besides these schools, a school for one week will be held at Strathmore in connection with Prof. Elliott, who is in charge of the C. P. R. experimental farms. Prof. Elliott has executed the department at institute work, and will during the present winter give the department assistance at the work, and returns for time the agricultural depart ment is conducting the entire outfit of schools, and the instructors as well as the lecturers in charge of the work for one week to Strathcona.

Cars of Stock

Two carloads of pure bred stock will be carried to these different schools and instruction will be given in breed types, feeding, breeding and care and management of live stock. The first week of each of the schools will be the live stock week, and the second week the following subjects will be taken up.

(1) Grain, Soil and Weeds.—"The Growing, Judging and Grading of Grain," "Soil Cultivation," "Noxious Weeds, Diseases and Foulers Pests." Samples of grains and weeds will be used for demonstrations.

(2) Poultry.—"The Housing, Feeding, Hatch ng and Rearing." Incubators and brooders will be in operation. Birds will be fattened, killed, dressed and packed for market.

(3) Dairying. Instruction in dairying will cover the subject from the production of milk to the marketing of the finished product, with farm dairy machinery in operation.

At each course there will be judging competitions held and prizes offered for proficiency.

Dates of the Schools

The schools will be held as follows: Beginning at Strathcona, February 6th to 11th; Macleod, February 13th to 18th; Innisfail, February 20th to 25th; Vermilion, February 27th to March 4th; Stettler, March 6th to 11th; Strathcona, March 13th to 18th. Prizes will be awarded at each of the schools in the judging competition, and there is a grand challenge trophy will be offered by the agricultural department at the Innisfail school for competition to teams from the four schools, these teams to consist of four men attending the highest in the local competitions.

The teams from Strathmore, Macleod and Vermil a will have their expenses paid to Innisfail by the boards of trade in the town. Three short courses schools are entirely free and open to anyone who cares to attend. The boards of trade and agricultural societies in the towns where the schools are to be held are making arrangements so that the board of students attending the schools may be obtained at a reasonable rate

Some at the Staff

The department has secured the services of some excellent men in connection with these schools. Among these is Prof. W. L. Carlyle, dean of agriculture in the Idaho State University, Moscow, Idaho, who will take the judging classes in heavy horses and beef cattle. Arrangements are not yet completed for all the instructors at the schools, but the services of some other excellent men, as well as men in connection with the agricultural department, will be given to the different schools. Besides this, the Dominion department of agriculture is also assisting, by giving the services of Messrs. Harcus of the experimental farm, Lacombe, Fairfield of the experimental farm, Lethbridge, and W. C. McKillican of the seed department in Calgary.

These schools will be in charge of H. A. Craig, superintendent of fairs and institutes.

RYLEY HAS A FIRE

WEST SIDE MAIN STREET ALMOST WIPED OUT

Ryley, a village 14 miles east of the town of Tofield on the C.N.T.P. received an awful baptism of fire today. Starting at an early hour in Wicks Meat Market at the north end of the one business block of the town and with a strong north wind which quickly fanned the flames, it spread rapidly and in a couple of hours had destroyed the majority of the mercantile businesses of the place. As the village had no firefighting appliances the blaze was quickly beyond control and the entire block with the exception of Thirsk's General Store, in which was the Post Office, was swept out of existance. The fortunate circumstance of there being some vacant lots between the immediate fire area and Thirsk's store enabled the frenzied fire fighters to concentrate their efforts on saving this block. A slight veering in the wind materially assisted them and they were successful. Most of the losses were partially covered by insurance. The following are the sufferers:— Wicks, Meat Market; Burgar & Bolton, Hardware; J. L. Hay, General Store; Jamieson, Hardware and Farm Implements; Nelson & Rossness, General Store. Several smaller buildings were consumed. At one time the Alberta Hotel was threatened, but the wind being favorable, this was also saved. The temperature was 40 below zero and this condition added greatly to the privation caused by the occupants of private dwellings who resided over the stores. The losses totalled about $20,000

Tofield Beats Ryley In League Game. Ryley Protests Whopley

Ryley again went down to defeat before the local seven last Friday night in an exciting game the score standing 7-4. But the game was delayed by Manager McKinnon of Ryley, who is a stickler on etiquette, insisting that the local boys produce their cards before allowing his own team to associate with them. He also informed the captain of the home team that the game would be played under protest, claiming the ineligibility of Whopley to play in the Holden Cup Series.

In the first half the game was characterized by hard checking. Norton of Ryley being laid out after a few minutes play. This made it necessary for Tofield to drop a man, Letourneau going off without getting a chance to warm up. Lee, our clever left wing, scored No. 1 on a pass from Diamond. Thirsk, after 3 minutes play, notched Ryley's first, but Lee again scored breaking the tie. Play was very even at this stage some nice individual plays being pulled off. Ryley on a fine piece of combination brought the rubber into Tofield territory, Archer securing and scoring on a hot shot, again evening score. No further scoring done till a few minutes before half-time, Diamond our speedy rover team tallied No. 3 for Tofield. Half-time 3-2.

The second spasm was started by a fine rush on the part of Ryley, Thirsk doing the needful. Score again tied, 3-3. Tofield came right back with a splendid rush and Diamond on a pretty pass from of 10-1. Lee batted a hot one past Lane. Ryley tied score again after about 5 minutes play, Archer netting the last counter for the visitors. Almost immediately after Maica made a spectacular end to end rush scoring No. 5 for the locals. Ryley to a game back very strong and only the good work done by George and Halos on the defence and the hard checking by Whopley at centre prevented the visitors from finding the lace work, through Adams was there with bells on. George got away twice from seven in the last five minutes and loaded the rubber between the posts both times. Score at full time 7-4.

Roy Field of Viking, as referee, proved satisfactory, though Phillips the judge of play, handed out some rather unpopular decisions.

Don't sit around and damn your town.

The town is just as good as the man who damns it.

Every town is just what its citizens want it to be.

A desire on the part of a people for a better town is a prayer that is always answered.

The advantages of one town over another are the results of the people rather than natural conditions.

The railway commission has given judgment on the result of their inquiry into the rates of the Canadian express companies. It has been found that the rates are excessive and the companies have been ordered to file new tariffs within three months.

Medicines that aid nature are always most effectual. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It allays the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Thousands have testified to its superior excellence. Sold by dealers everywhere.

"Managing Mildred"

A distinct novelty in the field of musical comedy or comedy with music is "Managing Mildred," a sparkling creation of Walter S. Lockwood, which comes to the Masonic Hall January 16th under the direction of U. P. Walker.

The play tells the story of two girl chums whose success in college dramatics fills them with longing to see their names on electric signs as real Broadway stars. Their lives become consecrated to this ambition and their waking hours are employed studying, rehearsing and discussing stage technique, much to the discomfort of the brother of one of the girls, the brother also having a deeper interest in the other girl.

In his attempt to cure the ladies of their hallucination, the brother wires for his best friend to come impersonating a theatrical manager and either frighten or disgust the prospective candidates for stellar honors, into being satisfied with less exciting careers. This deception leads to many amusing complications through the three acts and only at the fall of the final curtain does the fun cease.

During the action play some twenty song hits are introduced, feature being made of the last two scenes of Verdi's masterpiece "Il Trovatore" which is sung in costume.

The Innocent Murderers

A MYSTERY STORY

(By WILLIAM JOHNSTON and PAUL WEST)

Hands on on the table.

"Good-morning, Hopkins, so you've come to a step toward him.

"Don't you know me, sir? I'm Hopkins, sir, the detective, sir, who helped you to find the murderer of Mr. Hopkins."

He certainly spoke loud enough, and Sepcher shuddering at the recollection of those awful days.

"And yet," said Ross, "if she had loved the world would scarcely have gone away without making further inquiry into his affairs. I believe that the reason she took no step in the matter was that she was afraid of the publicity that would be involved."

"Not" came in answer from Fischer, Gordon, and Hopkins. Ross could only smile at the rapidity with which the conspirators had changed from silent to voluble.

"Well," added Fischer impatiently, "it's perhaps keeping Hopkins's good reputation of our purpose might not fully have in sight that we were there to offer him evidence. In such a case he would be most unfair to arrange an explanation of his death. If, however, there was no mistake in the matter, we have an opportunity to deny all knowledge of the affair; unless, of course, as gentlemen wish to have the actual facts brought to light."

"No!" came in unison from Fischer, Gordon, and Hopkins. Ross could only smile at the rapidity with which the conspirators had changed from silent to voluble.

"Well," added Fischer impatiently

Farmers Needed

Many hundreds of cattle, sheep and hogs have been shipped out from the Tofield district during the past three months. Most of these have been shipped to the Edmonton market altho' Jas. A. Charlsworth has taken the initiative and shipped several consignments to Winnipeg where he has met with great success. Present conditions in the cattle and hog business in the district indicates a dearth of supply and everything points to very high prices for stock of all kind in the spring. Good prices have ruled all fall and farmers have let their animals go. Owing to certain general settlement conditions throughout the province and which conditions apply forcibly to this district as to any other, the conditions of the beef and pork market in the spring will be such as to cause the public, particularly of our towns and cities, to do some hard thinking.

There is nothing wrong from the point of view of our towns and cities in the present [illegible] but there is something wrong somewhere when [illegible] are little [illegible] the question of the cost of living in spite of our heavy certain of settlers into the country. Again the days of free grain cattle raising and sheep raising on the land in [illegible] are gone. [illegible] conditions where stock [illegible] pasture in every direction Prices, too, were against the small stock raiser, he is apt to greater expense in raising the stock than his big entitlement of older days. The new settlers all require a few years before they have their large complement to show the drawing from them of animals for the markets. The certain settlement conditions then, that we have referred to above, which are general throughout the province and which we have both briefly outlined, coupled with the conditions of the stock market, will lead all those who have the future at heart to realize that a remedy must be sought and found.

It requires no superior intellect to see that what is needed at the present time is, more encouragement for people who adopt farm life, thereby becoming producers of necessary food products for the increasing population, not only of the province, or of Canada, but of the world. What has been said of the most problem applies to all the other branches of food producing work. Farmers are wanted and wanted badly, to come in and take up land, im prove it, raise stock and hogs, follow up the mixed farming methods which result so successfully in this province and for whose natural s produce there is abundance of demand. They are coming, fast, but as they coming fast enough:

There is another feature of the situation which must be well worth the consideration of the public of our towns and cities. In connection with what we have said about encouragement to the farmer The present day farmers of the province are alive to them, active together with the object of obtaining better [illegible] conditions for their product. There is no getting away from the fact that these conditions have not been as they ought to be. Are we going to leave them to fight their battles alone? What betters the condition of the farmer betters the condition of every business man in every city or hamlet in the West. With the improvement in the farmers market and his shipping facilities and protection by his produce, the farmer also wants neighbors, other farmers like himself to share the comforts of happy prosperous homes on our prairies. We of the towns and cities should wake up and do all we can to assist the farmers in legitimate and worthy improvement of conditions affecting them and in building up around them. pe spersus and well to do communities.

FANNIE M. LOTHROP
The Author of Our "Famous People" Series

We take pleasure in announcing to our readers that with this issue we begin a series of remarkable, illustrated, biographic sketches of famous people—men and women who are making the history of the Union. This series is by Fannie M. Lothrop, the well known author and the above writer in this line in America to-day. For several years she has been a writer of prose on the leading publications of New York and Philadelphia.

For this work Mrs. Lothrop has a double fitness; from the literary side the knowledge of the great people of the day and her original way of putting it, and from the artistic side, her close acquaintance with the world's famous people fits her pre-eminently to select the best pen-pictures of her subjects. To her belongs the distinctive honor of possessing the largest collection of photographs of famous men numbering over 40,000—a treasury of inestimable importance to the editor of any museum or library in existence. The time, patience, perseverance and expense which have been required to collect in detail expended in arranging such a collection is unthinkable.

"Mrs. Lothrop" says a famous critic, "has unusual ability in presenting the vital elements of a man's character so cleverly as delay and subsequent the dates and details that from her pen we get in a few lines living soul touches that show the real man, his qualities and his life more effectively [illegible] to make grave by other writers. How to Aim a Shotgun

WILDFOWLSHOOTING is of compara tively modern origin, says Jim Jackson, in Outing Magazine. A few hundred years ago very few birds were taken on the wing, and those that were being harvested did thanks to that usually fatal double quantity of shot which is what we should consider a non-paying thing now. Wing-shooting really dates from the invention of percussion caps in a practicable form, about the middle of the last century. Before that, and for a good many years after, the muzzle-loading flintlock gun was the standard weapon of Britain, and, naturally, that there is not an abundance of wing-shots to be found among the men who still cling to the old-fashioned weapon. For a good many years, also, the percussion gun, being a heavy and unwieldy affair, was not to be thought of for wing-shooting, and it was not until the lighter guns of to-day, with their long barrels and their modern powders, came into use that wing-shooting became at all general. Even then many men were not to be found who could handle the new weapon with any degree of success, and it was not until the introduction of breech-loading guns, which took place before 1870, that wing-shooting as we know it to-day began to be practised by any considerable number of people.

The old manner of shooting a shotgun was to close one eye and squint low on the barrels, theoretically over the pellets lying scattered in the front bead. Most sportsmen shot that way, and many still do. A few veteran wing-shots still sprawl both eyes open and "shoot from the hip," but neither method is very successful. In the same, both methods are fundamentally wrong, because they are based on the false principle that the gun is pointed, aimed, and fired, like a rifle. Rifle-shooting is the first lesson given by the father, the seasoned veteran, and the friend of any acquaintance who wants to learn, the principle of pointing instantly and accurately at the object to be hit is universally accepted, and the man who does not so shoot is not considered a marksman. Then those days are numerous who have not discovered that to shoot well with a rifle, and to shoot well with a shotgun, are two entirely different things. Yet, for all this, the vast majority of shotgun wing-shots have had enough courage to openly advocate such a method of shooting.

Doubtless the coming of auto-pointer has done much to put the shotgun on a par with the rifle, and the records of pointer-aided shooting, although not to be considered, should be given in further detail, as they are certainly of value to the student of modern wing-shooting. Those who have had the privilege of watching a good pointer work know what class he should have had before the days of the modern style of shotgun shooting that was not "scientific."

The old-time method of sighting a shotgun was altogether wrong, and the modern sportsman, who has long had a reasonable knowledge of the principles of gunnery, neither has the time nor the energy neither is there good reason why he should, for it is not necessary to the Universities in 1907 to be a wrangler in 1850 in order to appreciate the science Todd, and the 1870 graduate of should develope into trophy-winner at the present former years.

It is not, therefore, necessary to be a mechanical engineer to understand that a point sight with three beads in front of the shooter's eye is not going to hit but he would use the rifle sights, and that a point of aim is necessarily just how far ahead that point should be from the bird in order that it should reach its object when the charge of shot has had time to travel the distance between the gun and the bird. It is almost needless to say that he will not waste much time in such a fruitless occupation.

The writer has followed the sport for about 40 years, and has seen many things to be remembered, and, perhaps, to be forgotten, but nothing more astonishing than the use, or misuse, of the shotgun sight by the majority of those who shoot at moving objects.

Many who read this article will be inclined to think it unnecessarily elementary, but a single experience of a man who found difficulty in consistently killing with a shotgun, and who had a patent sight with three beads in front of the shooter's eye, will be going to the left he would use the right sight, and that if the target was going to the right he would use the left sight, and that if the target was coming straight on he would use the middle sight, and the result would be that he would miss every bird that came his way.

The style of aiming with both eyes open has been adopted by a few men, but one cannot help thinking that it is not the nature of the sight is either to be used with both eyes open or with round range, true eye-aiming implies the shooting by the man who shoots there shall be a groove in the rib, a sight, as it is called, for the eye to look through, and the eye must necessarily form the vanishing point of the groove, and the sight must be both open for the sight and the object. If the target is moving from right to left, as it is called, he has to look through the groove and sight, and

Prospects Bright for Development and Expansion

TOFIELD will surely go ahead this year. The International Securities Co. has already disposed of practically all the lots in the new subdivision. Now word comes from an indispensably authentic source, that they have closed a deal whereby they come into sole possession of the quarter section of land lying immediately east of the original townsite, S.W. quarter of 6-51-18, commonly known as the Lefont quarter, Lefont [illegible] land question an [illegible] for rail lines to [illegible] to-[illegible] Lake and affording an uninterrupted view to the north across the length of Beaver Lake, some 20 miles, and beyond across the prairies north of the lake to the [illegible] miles away where the smoke of the C.N.R. locomotives can be seen as the trains on that line make their way east and west. To the west and north can be seen the Beaver Hills in all their splendid vari-colors and the young town lying in the basin between. Eastward across the broad lake can be seen the horizon 20 miles away and the foreground the many docs that indicate where farmers in the East Beaver Lake section reside on prosperous and well kept farms.

The subdivision itself is an ideal spot for residence purposes. While being high and dry and possessing splendid draining facilities, it is close in. Tofield's large public school is situate only a hundred yards from its north west corner and it is only a few minutes walk from any part to the part to the centre of the town.

The G.T.P. agent at Tofield has at last got into the new depot, finished a couple of weeks ago, and certainly he enjoys his new quarters after the long experience in the old box car. The new station is a most attractive building, well finished, well lighted and well heated besides being most attractive in design, both externally and and in the interior. Contractor Harkwell, a TOFIELD man, has been complimented on all sides, both from the company and the public, on the excellent workmanship put upon this job. So well has his work for the company been appreciated, that, we understand, he has been awarded the contract for constructing some fifty stations for the company during the coming year.

When buying a cough medicine for children bear in mind that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is most effectual for colds, croup and whooping cough and it contains no harmful drug. Sold by dealers everywhere.

F. W. Russell who has efficiently filled the capacity of secretary-treasurer and solicitor for the municipality for the past several months, removes in a few days to Red Deer where he and his brother have taken up the law practise of Judge Crawford who was lately elevated to the bench.

Notice

Notice is hereby given that the trustees of Lake Shore S.D. No. 937 will receive sealed bids for removing the school house to the center of the east side of the N.E. ¼ of Sec 26-51-19, said bids to be in by the 25th day of January, 1911. Mover is to assume all risk to house being damaged except plastering and to take down and rebuild the chimney and to put same house on good stone foundation. To be done by the 15th day of March, 1911.

UNION STOCK YARDS AT EDMONTON

That which ... the benefit of the farmer and stock ... raiser throughout the province ... operates to the advantage of every ... business in every town and ... hamlet throughout the province. ... Every business man will no doubt ... realize this as a self-evident fact. ... Throughout the past several ... months we have had occasion to ... see and canvass with a large number of farmers and shippers. ... They have, with one accord, voiced the sentiment that conditions in Edmonton, with respect to marketing of live stock, were not the best. The Alberta Central has of recent years become a large live stock market and hundreds of car loads of stock arrive there every month from all over Alberta and from many points in Saskatchewan to be disposed of. There are no public or semi-private yards where the shippers can feed and water their stock, no public yards where the cattle, hogs or sheep may be held and sold to the highest bidder.

Farmers and shippers are completely at the mercy of the private individual or corporation to whose premises the animals have to be taken to be sold. We have interviewed some of the stock buyers in business in the Capital and they too expressed themselves as anxious to see better provision made for the marketing of stock. In a public place, independent of private ownership and where buyers come in competition with one another the farmer and shipper reap the benefit and this indirectly operates to the benefit of the business man, no matter where in the province he may be doing business, as the supplies for the stock markets are drawn from every point throughout the province. An organized movement should be made towards this goal which means much to all concerned.

Exchanges ... received this week contain the information that the city council has taken action in connection with the securing at an early date of a union stock yards. In this move the council is having the hearty support of the Edmonton Board of Trade and the Edmonton Exhibition Association.

The Ryley Times ... the report of last week, a disastrous fire in that village says that the fire started from a defective stove pipe which was used instead of a brick chimney, the fire breaking out on the roof of the building. The policy of the Tofield town council in installing upon the street lamp posts of the regulation ... The desire ... shape of brick, stone or concrete will be seen as based upon sound judgement. There is no reason why this regulation should not be observed in ... Tofield. The ... ordinance provides for its enforcement.

EARL GREY

Canada's Governor-General

Earl Grey, the brother of Lady Minto, is not come to Canada as a stranger, for he has been a frequent visitor at Ottawa during Lord Minto's regime. He was born in 1851 of an old Northumberland family living at Howick since the sixteenth century. His grandfather, the second Earl Grey, was the Whig Prime Minister who carried through the Reform Bill in 1832.

Alfred Henry George Grey, the new Governor-General, does not need to fall back upon a family tree for a record, as he has made his own name secure. He was educated at Harrow, Trinity College and Cambridge, taking high degrees in history and law, and at an early age entered politics, being for six years a member of Parliament. In 1894, while he was making an exploration tour of South Africa, word came to him of the death of his uncle, to succeed whom he has now succeeded.

Earl Grey was a friend and colleague of Cecil Rhodes, and was the one man who knew how to manage him, and on more than one occasion when the Colonies of South Africa threatened to cut loose from the mother country, or Cecil Rhodesia as independent republic, the genius for men and influence of Earl Grey made the threat fade into thin air. He is one of the executors of Rhodes' will, and has an influential voice in the Rhodes scholarships.

After the Jameson raid in 1896, he succeeded to the administration of Rhodesia, and here his strength of mind and purpose, his knowledge of men and methods, his tact, diplomacy and personal magnetism enabled him to [illegible] many obstacles. He has the courage to take the initiative [illegible] and has new lines of effort, and is a strong [illegible] of human [illegible]. On his large estates he has successfully carried out his [illegible] of co-operative partnership, he is the organizer of the Public Horse [illegible] Company, which takes over and manages the schools of England in [illegible] interests. At a labor meeting in Scotland a few years ago he stated [illegible] that the interests of the United States would be furthered only [illegible] by increasing the interest in five per cent. and prohibiting [illegible] over four per cent. on bonds.

A Norwegian National Dinner, as served in the school house on Saturday last, was truly as an original thing as it was novel. The whole settlement was there and all declared that nothing had been eaten with as much relish since they had left the old country. The dinner as prepared with the typical foods of Norwegian peasants and fisher-folk, with articles of diet that the Norwegian would [illegible] alone knows [illegible] constitution a [illegible] indulgent [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible].

The [illegible] is the spring [illegible] and [illegible] fair to become a reality.

A bunch of four oxen were in the saw mill last Monday.

Th Holl boys left for Edson last Thursday, where they will spend the winter freighting.

The saw mill boys passed Mr. Lew's place Monday morning with their outfit. They will be ready to start sawing right away.

Whew! but it has been cold. Lots of frozen noses.

Mr. Lee helped Carl Anderson clean his well last Tuesday.

Mr. M. Jamilin of Pretty Hill, spent a few days at the mill last week.

Everybody enjoyed the dance at Carter's place last Thursday.

A road has been cleared from Carter's across the hills to the second Mayerion Lake—a quick road to Pretty Hill.

Reub Phillips will return shortly from a three months visit to the States.

Beaver Lake East

The weather lately has been simply fierce in its intensity. A. R. Moody's thermometer registered 55 below on the 12th and over 60 below on the 13th. The high wind of the second and third of January broke 8 windows in the Munders Hotel and did other damage also.

Miss Mabel McCallum has gone to teach in the Imperial S.D. and Miss Jessie Steele is down at Killam again. Miss Lizzie Watson has gone back to the city. Miss Kitty McCallum expects to be at work soon also. Thos. our young [illegible]-ards, who were home for the days, will shortly all be away [illegible].

There seve been some stirring [illegible] here over school and road [illegible] elections. In Ukraine [illegible] the English speaking ratepayers won out by electing one of their own kind as trustee. In division No. 6 of 28-M-4, the contest was keen, and aroused [illegible] interest outside the [illegible] candidates were Dan McCallum and J. B Steele. Dan has a crowd of relatives and [illegible] in the division and Jim knew he was up against a stiff proposition when he consented to run. Dan won by the skin of his teeth, being elected by the casting vote of his son Albert, who (under the antiquated L.I. Ordinance) had two votes as returning officer. Eleven of Dan's votes were cast by his aforesaid relatives and connections, while not one who voted for his opponent was connected with him in any way. Jim is proud of his friends and feels that victory will yet be theirs. Family compacts "out for the stuff" are an abomination to every loyal citizen.

MISS JESSIE MACLACHLAN

The Popular Scotch Prima-Donna

In the picturesque Highland town of Oban, Scotland, with its beautiful scenery and its inspiring historic associations, Miss Jessie MacLachlan, the famous Scotch prima-donna, was born. She was very young when she first revealed her musical endowment for Nature gave her a voice of rare sweetness and power. The Innocent Murderers

A MYSTERY STORY

By WILLIAM JOHNSTON and PAUL WEST

Copyright, 1910, by Duffield & Company.

The detective arrived in front of the building, he heard footsteps on the opposite side of the street and by a well [illegible] so placed behind a tree that he could see without being seen, he saw a man approach the door. Hastily extinguishing the lamp he stepped behind a tree and waited. Presently the man came out, and from behind the tree Gordon saw that it was a sort of dairy kept by Pio Franco Hopkins, and in his surprise on seeing the man he let all the light of the note on the laboratory door.

"Hello, what's this?" he said.

He wrote that note, he read, and then he crumpled it up and put it in his pocket to do it for him. Now, what?

He was about to close the notebook when his eye suddenly caught the last entry made in it.

Monday, May 10.—At last!

Why, that's today!" exclaimed the detective aloud. Then, eagerly, he turned back over the preceding pages for some clue to the last month. He found it entered on the Friday previous:

"Think I am ready to go," was the sentence. Sullivan continued his search, and on a page still further back he found:

"Everything is working out minute by minute. I imagine that my basic regulating function were grounded. He knows nothing. I am sure."

Sullivan was puzzled. "I guess Mrs. Hopkins was right," he said to himself. He was certainly pleasing to run away with the girl, and was afraid Professor Gordon smelled a rat. Copy old mouse. "I'm all right!" But he'll have to be rogue then that to keep me from land ing him."

the professor had gone; but he found absolutely nothing, and decided, finally, but he might as well go back to the laboratory and get a night's rest, after which he could look for the criminal.

Sullivan was about to close the door behind him when a sudden thought struck him

TOFIELD, JAN. 26, 1911

A large deputation representing the Canadian Manufacturers waited on the Canadian government several days ago and presented a memorial emphasizing that body's protest against Canada's entering into any reciprocal arrangements with the United States that would necessitate the lowering of the Canadian customs tariff on manufacturing products. Sir Wilfrid in reply reminded the manufacturers that Canada was a democratic country and that it had at the head of its affairs a democratic government. That meant that it was the wish and desire and aim of the present government to administer the affairs of the country so as to as far as possible meet the views of public opinion and of the different classes which compose the public. No treaty would be undertaken which would in any way be calculated to bring influence on the prosperous conditions which now obtain throughout the country. He assured the deputation that Messrs. Fielding and Paterson who are now in Washington discussing the matter with the U. S. authorities could be relied upon to bring about an agreement without unduly disturbing existing conditions.

Farm Help & Domestic Servants for Canada

"Commissioner Coombs and Colonel Lamb, of the Salvation Army, have been touring the West and making arrangements for the placing of immigrants who will come to Canada under the auspices of the Salvation Army this spring. These will consist of farm laborers and domestic servants. A number of Canadian officers of the army are now in the old country for the purpose of selecting immigrants. The people who come to this country through the Army are of a very desirable class, being especially selected by experienced agents who are familiar with the class of workers Canadian farming conditions call for.

Farmers who desire to secure Farm Hands, married or single experienced or inexperienced, for this season's work, should at once get in touch with the Army Write for application forms to the Salvation Army Immigration Department, 221 Rupert St., Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Estray Law

The Alberta law prescribes that the party who takes up an estray animal must immediately notify the brand reader most in his place to come out and examine the animal and take a copy of the brands, if any, on the animal. Then an advertisement must be inserted in the nearest local paper and also in the Alberta Gazette, and until the law is complied with the holder of the estray cannot collect any fee for his trouble or feed. Prompt action must be taken, the law being very strict in this matter. The brand readers are entitled to a fee of $2.00 for each animal they examine and mileage to the amount of 10c per mile for the first ten miles. The cost for reading the brands and the advertising is a charge against the estray animal and must be paid when the animal is claimed. The party holding the animal is responsible for all charges until it is sold or redeemed by the owner. No charges for feed are allowed between the 15th day of April and the 15th day of November. From November 15th to April 15th a fee of 15c per day per head is allowed for horses and cattle, dating from the day on which notice is mailed to the owner of the estray animal or to the Alberta Gazette, but not exceeding the sum of $2.00. South of the 20th township only 5c per day is allowed for feed and the total cost is limited to $3.00

Colder Weather Coming
In his last forecast Foster predicted that the recent cold spell would be followed by a sudden rise in temperature, such as has occured. This high temperature wave is to be followed by another severe cold wave that will develop storms in many parts of the continent. This disturbance of the elements was due here Saturday or Sunday. The weather man advises that it will be the severest storm period of the month, and that people had better be prepared for it. He hands out the warning that during the passage of the storm, "home will be the most comfortable place, and outdoors a terror to man and beast."

To Ratepayers of Woodlawn School District
We have outstanding bills and notes now due and no money in the treasury. We earnestly and implicitly ask all who are delinquent with their taxes to pay at once. The old year is almost out, all taxes not paid by the last of Dec. 1910 will draw interest for the full year at the rate of 10% per annum.

We are still patient and have confidence in the people of Woodlawn, as a people whom we believe will be loyal to their obligations, but sometimes patience ceases to be a virtue and force is demandable to bring about the desired results, but these taxes must be paid or your lands will soon be listed with the Department of Public Works as lands upon which the tax claims have not been receipted. JACOB GOULD SCHURMAN
The President of Cornell University
When Jacob Gould Schurman was a boy on his father's homestead farm on Prince Edward Island, he was he was born in 1854, educational advantages were very limited in the district in which he lived. There were few, the nearest secondary school of any importance being the county town and a provincial weekly, and the district school was taught by one teacher in the simple things of education, with no fancy ideas of the modern class. When Jacob was thirteen he had to become self-supporting and secured a clerkship of the general utility type in a country store at thirty dollars a year and his board and washing. In his second year he received sixty dollars, and with this coming of wealth came a longing for a better education.
In two years he had saved eighty dollars and with this as a bulwark against starvation he attended the village high school, studying seventeen hours day and night and entered a competitive examination for a scholarship at Prince of Wales College at Charlottetown, on the island. He won the scholarship of sixty dollars and went to the college. Then after a year of teaching he went to Acadia College, where his appetite for prizewinning became insatiable. He won a scholarship of $400 a year for three years offered by the University of London, followed by his winning the Harvard Travelling Scholarship of 1878 Robert Boxter, and other prizes, scholarships and similar rewards, with good reason to consider himself a remarkable scholar.
Schurman studied in London, Edinburgh, Berlin, Göttingen, and had a down other cities and when on no more nations had given him all they could greedily bet on nearly all he could absorb, he returned to Canada as professor in one of the colleges.
In 1878 Andrew D. White recruited added him to Cornell and the year following at the age of thirty-two, he became head of the Department of Philosophy at 30 Yrs. He made Dean of the Law School of Philosophy and in 1892 he became the Dean of the College of Law from Edinburgh University and became Professor of Cornell being the only man ever considered for a moment for the position.

TOFIELD, FEB 2 1911

The ratepayers of Edmonton last week carried by large majorities the issue of several school debentures to be expended in purchasing new sites. One of these by-laws provides for the expenditure of $91,000 in the purchase of grounds for industrial purposes. A campaign of short but effective duration for the passing of these by-laws by the ratepayers, was carried on by public spirited citizens assisted by the Board of Trade and committees of the City Council. One of the propositions placed before the public was the necessity of the establishment at an early date of a Union Stock Yards, it being realized that Edmonton is a growing market for the sale of stock. It is said has taken the matter in hand and is negotiating for the securing of a block of land to the northwest of the Swift Packing Plant. The necessity of a Unified Stock Yards at Edmonton was discussed several weeks ago in the Standard and we, as well as the public, will welcome the announcement that these are to become a realization at no distant date in the future.

Now that the town hall has been removed to the fire hall and installed in the bell tower, it is up to the council to see that ready access can be had to the premises so that anybody can ring out an alarm in case there is occasion to do so.

The building will not be completed for some time yet and the citizen's interests should not in the meantime be neglected.

MRS. HUMPHRY WARD

England's Great Woman Novelist

Literary prophecies, like boomerangs, should be handled with extreme caution—they are so prone to recoil. When Matthew Arnold affirmed that no Arnold could ever write a novel, he did not look sufficiently far into the future to see Mrs. Humphry Ward, the daughter of his brother Thomas, recognized as the greatest woman novelist of her generation.

She was born in Tasmania in 1851, and when six years old was brought by her parents to England. Her father, a college professor, changed his religion as frequently as his relligion, his intense conscientious yearning for absolute truth shifting him from one faith to another like a cork caught in the eddy of a stream, and making him the fit prototype of "Robert Elsmere" in the first novel of fourteen, when the family returned to Oxford, she breathed the Oxford atmosphere that was to be her heart. She acquired knowledge as naturally as she breathed the thing, and she was known as a marvelous linguist, being as perfect in German, French, Spanish and Italian as if each were her native tongue. At twenty-one she married in Thomas Humphry Ward, one of the university dons whose work as author, editor, critic, has given him a place in English literature. She is also known as a writer of short stories, but her earliest efforts were so weighted with learning that it is said that they were as heavy as dumbbells and it only for scholars to read when they wanted to get away from pleasure. She wrote many articles for the "Dictionary of Christian Biography" which paid little more than a mere literary credit.

Mrs. Ward was thirty-one before she undertook real fiction with "Miss Bretherton," followed four years later by "Robert Elsmere" which captured the reading public of two continents. Before this it is known she had written a child's story, a pale complexioned agnostic piece of work, fifty named "Millie and Otto." Her translation of Amiel's Journal Intime, French into English was an exquisite literary work expressing as perfectly the subtle wistfulness of the Swiss philosopher's emotions as the simple diction of a professor that it seems as if he himself could have written his whole story in English, without the touch of a translator. Her first novel was published under her father's name, and others which she did not publish appeared over Miss Arnold's signature. Her first novel stood among these only Daughter" in her two full years' work. Her literary work, making no sacrifice to fame or gain, was done in her own home, armored and avoiding all society but a little band of devoted friends.

Estray Law

The Alberta law prescribes that the party who takes up an estray animal must immediately notify the brand resident nearest to his place to come out and examine the animal and take a copy of the brands, if any, on the animal. Then an advertisement must be inserted in the nearest local paper and also in the Alberta Gazette, and until the law is complied with the holder of the estray cannot collect any fee for his trouble or feed. Prompt action must be taken, the law being very strict in this matter. The brand readers are entitled to a fee of $2.00 for each animal they examine and mileage to the amount of 10c per mile for the first ten miles. The cost for reading the brands and the advertising is a charge against the estray animal and must be paid when the animal is claimed. The party holding the animal is responsible for all charges until it is sold or redeemed by the owner. No charges for feed are allowed between the 15th day of April and the 15th day of November. From November 15th to April 15th a fee of 15c per day per head is allowed for horses and cattle, dating from the day on which notice is mailed to the owner of the estray animal or to the Alberta Gazette, but not exceeding the sum of $10.00. South of the 52th township only 5c per day is allowed for feed and the total cost is limited to $4.00.

A Good Investment

The late Hon. David Davis once said: "Each year every local paper gives from $100 to $3,000 in free lines for the benefit of the community in which it is located. No other agency can or will do this. The local editor, in proportion to his means, does more for his town than any other ten men, and in fairness, man with man, he ought to be supported, not because you happen to like him or admire his writing, but because a local paper is the best investment a community can make. It may not be brilliant or crowded with great thoughts, but financially it is more of a benefit to a community than a preacher or a teacher. Under stand me now, we do not mean morally or intellectually, but financially, and put on the moral question you will find the majority of local papers are on the right side of the question. To day the subtore of local papers do the most work for the least money of anyone on earth. Subscribe for your local paper, not as a charity, but as an investment.

Alberta Fairs Convention

R. N. Whillans, secretary of the Tofield Agricultural Society, returned last Saturday from Lethbridge where he attended the 6th Annual Convention of the Alberta Fairs Convention as the delegate from this society. From these delegates present who had attended the conventions of previous years the general feeling was expressed that this convention was the best ever had, both in point of numbers and intelligent discussion of problems.

The dates chosen were very satisfactorily arranged and several resolutions were passed. One of the most important of these was that the department of agriculture supply judges in poultry and grain besides live stock judges.

A good deal of time was taken up with addresses and discussion on the organization of agricultural societies and the managing and financing of fairs.

Hon. Duncan Marshall address-ed the convention, taking up the principal amendments to the Agricultural Societies' ordinance of the legislature. He also spoke of the relations of the department and the societies, in the matter of judges for fairs, grants, etc, and stated that the annual grants would be forthcoming in the course of ten days. The minister made a special plea for the co-operation of the societies in securing attendance at the short course schools.

An address on the subject "Work other than the Fair for Agricultural Societies" delivered by delegate Hunley of Lloydminster, Benjamin Naphin of Medgrah spoke on "Managing the Fair," and H. A. Craig addressed the convention on the subject "Managing and Financing of Fairs."

Is A Second Black Death

Sixteen Stacks of Coffins and Seven Huge Pits Filled With 6,000 Chinese Testify to Work of Plague.

HARBIN, Manchuria, Feb. 6.—Already nearly 6,000 bodies of victims of the plague have been buried or burned in the outskirts of Harbin.

Forty-eight hundred of these are from the Chinese towns and a thousand from the Russian quarters. Yesterday sixteen stacks of coffins and seven pits filled with bodies and oiled logs blazed outside of the town. The mortality among the physicians and hospital attendants is high, considering the means taken for their protection, and doctors, orderlies and nurses are succumbing to the disease. The sanitary officers hope soon to test serum of their own manufacture from the Manchurian bacill, as the foreign importations have proved ineffectual.

Second Black Death

The happenings in Europe in the seventeenth century, when the Black Death swept through the country, are being repeated here.

Fears bordering on panic have gripped the Chinese. At first they defied the medical officers and kept their sick and dead hidden for the purpose of carrying out the ancient funeral rites. Now it is brother against brother, father against son. The stricken ones are forced into the streets to shift for themselves, or to fall perishing from the swift and deadly attack the plague makes upon its victims.

Chas. Taylor, manager of the Tofield Coal Co. mines at Tofield, will leave shortly on a trip to the old country.

Harry Adams went west this week to the head of the steel on the G.T.P., leaving Tofield last Saturday night.

Nominations for councillor to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of A. F. Rugl will be held at the office of the secretary, W. C. Swift, next Monday morning from 10 o'clock until noon.

The Tofield Brass Band has taken on anothor term of existence. Several recruits have taken up the work and it is hoped that it will hold together long enough to be able to play on some more big Dominion Day.

The Young People's Guild held a very successful evening last Monday night at St. Andrews Church. Mr. Allen gave an excellent paper on Missionary Work in the slums of London, a work with which he is quite familiar.

Ex-councilor Abbott and J. W. Carter are establishing a water works system of their own wherein they will enjoy all the privileges of up to date methods. The latest up-to-date method in vogue in Tofield is the well in the kitchen yard. Plenty of water is struck at an easy depth in Tofield.

Enterprising farmers should see to it that their sons absent attend the Agricultural Schools at which free courses are given by government experts. In this portion of the province the nearest school is at Vermilion. Notice the advertisement which appears in this issue. Those who can go should not miss the opportunity offered.

A wrong impression has gained ground since the decision of the privy council regarding the C.P.R. taxation case has been rendered. This is that C.P.R. lands are not taxable until all the instalments of the purchase are paid. This is erroneous as the law is that the owner or occupant becomes liable immediately for his share in the assessment of the community.

"Kicked in the veloc by a cayuse" is the latest pointed expression come to editorial ears. This was the excuse given by one of the returning delegates from the Alberta Fairs Convention last Friday when a fellow traveller solicited for his welfare. Inquired how it was he was so hoarse. That weather in the south was enough to make anybody hoarse.

The Silver Seven Win Fifth Straight

For the Third Time this Season Tofield Overthrows Ryley. Score 13-3. Ryley Again Protests Game.

The C.N.R. Merchantile League Team of Edmonton will Play Here Saturday, Feb. 11th and Wainwright Plays Here Feb. 15th

Tofield played their last game with Ryley in the Holden Cup Series for 1911 last Friday afternoon, trimming them to a whirlwind on their own ice. As usual the opposing team put in a protest, this time the player selected being Stanley George of the Tofielders. The game started well, the home team putting up a strenuous fight. They drew first blood in a goal in 3 minutes. After twenty minutes play our boys seemed to be all in. Following this the game was all Tofield, it being a walk away. McLennan of the Deacons, Edmonton, was most acceptable as referee.

So far as the game is concerned there is not much to say. It was the same old story as of old. Our boys had the whole field to themselves and they amused themselves as well as they could.

The score tells the story. The line-up and summary are as follows:—

TOFIELD (13)		RYLEY (3)

J. Charlesworth		Lane

G. Hains		Beadlleton

S. George		Struthers

Fanned to a finished, why shouldn't Ryley protest; a trimming of 13-3 on their home ice, in pure daylight, no artificial light to dazzle their eyes, would make almost anybody protest. Stanley George is the latest victim on the Tofield team picked out by the Irishmen to be slated as an impertinent Scotsman. Hard times on poor George who is a homesteader in the TOFIELD section of the RYLEY DISTRICT.

Tofielders greatly regretted the cancelling of the Tuesday evening game with Camrose on the local rink. The reason why Camrose did not come does not appear. It is to be hoped that a couple of games will be arranged before the season is over.

In a fast hockey game last Tuesday night the Town defeated the Queens Hotel 11 to 3.

Nominations have been called for 1 fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of A. F. Paul who is shortly leaving Tofield. These are to take place at the office of the Secretary-Secretary, W. C. Swift, next Monday morning from ten o'clock until noon.

When filling any undue reflection upon any members of the council, past or present the person so to be elected to place a good public spirited man, if such can be found, upon the municipal executive board. Much of the town's future depends upon the kind of men we select to guide our affairs. Much has yet to be done in carrying out a wise constructive policy. To be a greater discretion could be authorized in every case with the department of finance and public works. It is quite clear that the present system of the past year has not produced to the best result of any person or persons concerned in the control of that department of the town's affairs.

Tofield needs men who are public spirited enough to spend a little of their time for the benefit of the municipality. That this is most apparent is exemplified in the waste of time and money last year in connection with the wells put down on block 11. Had there been a proper supervision of the work of the department and care seen that contracts were being served and provisions had been made by the town to promptly meet its share of the arrangements, much money would have been saved from going to waste. True, in the initiation of the past we find the pitfalls which we must in future avoid. Let us then find a candidate to fill the vacancy who possesses at least some of these fundamentals, care, discretion, interest in the town's affairs and future, and go-ahead-iveness in the exercise of all which will result a progressive policy being carried through to a successful issue.

Reciprocity and the Farmers

The farmers seemed to have balled with no small degree of pleasure the terms of the reciprocity agreement with the United States, as announced a few days ago in both countries. Free wheat was particularly pleasing and the opinion was expressed that it would pays a boon in the form of better grading and probably in a substantial reduction in freight rates by the C.P.R. to prevent traffic going south. All the articles placed on the free list were hailed and while some thought it would have filled the cup of joy to the brim to have had implements placed on the free list also they were not disposed to look for everything at once and thought it a government had done far in excess of what was really exacted. The farmers are now hoping that Mr. Taft will be able to get the measure supported by the Congress and senate. There is little fear about it Ottawa.

Second Annual At Home.

Palestine Lodge A. F. & A. M. will hold their second annual 'At Home' last evening in their handsome and commodious quarters in the Hall Block. A goodly number of guests, both ladies and gentlemen, were present in addition to the members of the Lodge and their ladies. Over seventy sat down to the sumptuous banquet which was served in Masonic Hall. The toast list was lengthy and the responses were greatly appreciated by the crowd. Mrs. H. N. Whillans and Mr. A. E. Campion sang solos and Miss Twitchell and Mr. A. J. H. McCauley rendered instrumental solos during the evening.

Mr. Business Man

YOU are the master salesman of your store—do not forget that.

YOU are the initiative, promoter, the force behind every sale made in your store.

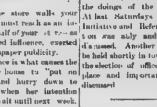
You determine, as completely as salt is permitted to any of us to control and give direction to events, how MANY sales your store makes in a day or week. Within the store-walls your salesmanship is shown in every detail of the store service.

Without the store walls your salesmanship must reach as an influence in behalf of your store—as a never-relaxed influence, exerted through newspaper publicity.

This influence is what causes the woman of the home to "put on her things" and hurry down to your store—when her intention had been to wait until next week. It at how many sales you end in this case is the depends on on how strong and convincing you make your advertising.

Your advertising can be neither strong nor convincing if it is crammed for s, a e—f it is mechanically set—if the type with which your ow[illegible] enthusiasm—and nothing else in the world—can put into it.

"Missing" a store-ad is usually missing a buying chance.



The Gourley Piano appeals particularly to an Appreciative Class of Buyers. The more discriminating the Buyer, the more easily is the Superiority of the Gourley apparent.

Gourley Pianos

are all of One Quality—the Very Best. If we took a commission to make a single Piano for $1,000 it could be of No Better Material or Workmanship than we regularly use in any one of our simpler, more moderately-priced styles. We could spend more money on ornamentation, but nothing to improve quality.

Will you examine a Gourley?

Tofield's 2nd Annual Agricultural Exhibition and Stock Show comes this year on Friday, Sept. 29th. This date was set at the Alberta Fairs Convention which met last week in Lethbridge. The Fair will be held this year on the Society's new Grounds on the G.T.P. Tofield Townsite. The Prize Lists will be out in May and will therefore be in the hands of all the members and intending exhibitors long before the Fair date. In this way the public will be able to prepare their exhibits during the summer, the lists giving the necessary information ample time ahead.

The Tofield-Kingman U.F.A. union held a meeting in Tofield last Saturday. Owing to there being only a small attendance the annual election of officers did not take place. Kingman and Fair mings and Ketchamat districts were represented but Tofield district had no repres ntives on hand. The Tofield local farmers do not seem to take the U.F.A. seriously. This is very regrettable and does not stand to their credit. The U.F.A. is a good going concern and intelligent farmers would do well to keep in touch with what the doings of the organization. At last Saturdays meeting the Initiative and Referendum question was discussed and intelligently discussed. Another meeting will be held shortly in town at which the election of officers will take place and important questions discussed.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male [illegible] years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties: Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader resides upon a farm in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said farm by the father (or mother). Should both father and mother be deceased, the homesteader may satisfy the residence duties by residing with a brother or sister on a farm in the vicinity of the homestead. Joint residence with another homesteader may be permitted if the land to be cultivated by each is adjoining.

(3) If the homesteader has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, he may perform his residence duties by residing upon the said land.

(4) A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may purchase a homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties: Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

ELSIE CARMAN

Canadian Poet, Critic and Editor

Miss Carman, poet, critic and editor, one of the recent of Canada's contemporary litterateurs, was born in Fredericton, N. B., in 1864, and on his father's side is descended from the Carmans who settled on Long Island, N. Y., in New Brunswick, while his maternal ancestors fought in the American Revolution. He was educated at the college school of his native province and the University of New Brunswick, from which he graduated in 1879, later taking a two years' post-grammar course at the University of Edinburgh, and afterwards spending two years at Harvard.

There seemed to be a restless, Bohemian strain in his nature that chafed under restraint and ostensible, for he tried many lines apart from literature, but it had somehow a compelling hooning instinct that always brought him back to a bottle of ink and a pen. For a few years he read law, then ventured into the field of civil engineering, then taught school—but it all proved unsatisfactory, unsatisfying, he had not found his place

It was not until his post graduate days that his poetic verve became manifest and under the influence of the inspiring syrcention of the editors of the college literary magazine he began to write verses in a timid, fervent sort of a way at first, then he grew bolder and more irrepressible, until the editor's drawer was stocked with enough Carman verses to last for years. When he began to send his poems out to the magazines where the editors paid for contributions, acceptance was not so easy.

He sent out poem after poem, but the almost invariably returned, with no loss of promise, but he had supreme confidence that his down of verse would find resting place in some ark of editorial appreciation. The best ones, which always made the greatest number of trips before accepting, especially interested him, and he gave them pet names to commemorate their travels, such as "The Pirtie Dutchman," "Ulysses" and "The Wandering Jew." One manuscript he sent to Australia by way of San Francisco and it came back via the Suez Canal and London visiting many editors, and this poem he christened "Captain Cook" because it circumnavigated the globe

Success at last dawned upon him, for his verse in the leading magazines of the day, and he received from the editorship of the "Literary World" he has written about a dozen books, and there is wife with the late Richard Hovey. He has a well shaped head, a shock of wavy hair and a general premeditated eccentricity of attire that would make him conspicuous in any company.

The Literary Life of Mrs. Craigie.

The brightest, wittiest, most talented writer in Mrs. Craigie, better known to the world of letters as John Oliver Hobbes. Her specialty is human nature; she delights to study it, to set down its every phase of the realm of emotion under the microscope of her investigation and study it as there would a physical problem. Her novels of her delineations are all known. In the original of a novel, but always clever. She at minutes thought in her readers; she creates a situation, and then she proceeds to unravel the complication. The threads are tied apart—by her daughter, Miss Agnes Morgan Craigie, who has lived in the United States to birth and attended the public schools of Forest Hills, Long Island, where her mother brings the daughter of John Oliver Hobbes, and tried two years with an heiress in Boston in 1897, then she came to New York and entered Barnard College, and a year of fast Parliament here before the Declaration of Independence.

AFTER THE BRITISH ELECTIONS—WHAT?

THE new British Parliament, which assembles on January 31st, the present will have a very different appearance from that which it has been for the last Parliament. Many faces will be missed, and there will be a British observer many other than

I am very sorry, sir," said the inn keeper, addressing the noisy visitor, "but I shall have to ask you to leave at once."

"Me sir! Whatfor!" demanded the noisy visitor.

"You are intoxicated, sir," returned the landlord. "Well, what I say!" replied the visitor, "you gotta prove it, you gotta sign up there on it," and again "throw the drunk on the pressure." Ain't that so?

"Yes, I have," replied the innkeeper, but that's my private opinion sir."

LAWRENCE WENTWORTH, after an absence of thirty years, returned to his native village. He found that there had been a slight alteration in the appearance of the town. Instead of a row of tumble-down cottages, there was a handsome row of villas, called at the parsonage the old one-story house, and Jacob Jackson, an old friend, without changing his comfort. "Well, Jacob," said Mr. Wentworth, "I hardly know the place. Where's the old Red Lion?" "Why, sir," replied Jacob, "you're standing right in front of it." "Impossible," said Mr. Wentworth, "I hardly can believe it. Why, my father, in his day, was a big man in the town."

"Jacob," said Mr. Wentworth, "I hardly can believe it. Why, my father, in his day, was a big man in the town."

"Yes, sir," replied Jacob, "I remember him well. He was a very fine man, sir, and he was the last man that ever was hanged in front of the Red Lion."

Archbishop Passes Away

Distinguished Prelate Passed Away at Philadelphia at 8?3 Age of Seventy-nine.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 12—The Most Reverend Patrick John Ryan, D. D., LL.D., Archbishop of Philadelphia and metropolitan of Pennsylvania and one of the greatest archbishops on the American continent passed peacefully into eternity at 1:05 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Archiepiscopal residence adjoining the cathedral in Logan square. The end came after a prolonged period of illness, which began 18 months and more ago and lasted until February 1, when he suffered a stroke of a most severe character, followed by the attendant distress of his high official position could not avert and the strain and he passed away breathing the benediction, "God bless you!" as those about the bedside shortly before the end came, the attending metropolitan turned himself and murmured the dying words of St. Paul: "I wish to be dissolved and be with Christ."

Those about the bedside, when the end came, besides the priests and Dr. Devereux, were his sister-in-law, Mrs. Gleason of St. Louis; Ashton Devereux and Miss Ryan, nephew and niece of the latter; Miss Agnes Devereux, one of his nieces, and several relatives. Friends.

General Sorrow.

A few minutes after the prelate had breathed away, the deep-toned bell of the cathedral began tolling of 79 strokes, one for each year of the archbishop's life. The news of the archbishop's death was flashed to all parts of the city and to every parish the bells of the Roman Catholic churches were tolled. He death created genuine sorrow among all classes of people without regard to creed or nationality. For years he has been a prominent figure in the life of the city.

The funeral will be held on Thursday and it is expected to be attended by practically all the prominent clergy in the archdiocese and also by the most distinguished prelates of the Roman Catholic church in this country.

The body will lie in state at the cathedral and will be entombed here of the altar of the great church beside those of Bishop Kenrick, Bishop Conwell and Archbishop Wood, who were his predecessors in the diocese.

Following the archbishop's death, official telegrams were sent to His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons, Monsignor Falconi, papal delegate at Washington, and all the archbishops and bishops in the United States.

Until a successor to Archbishop Ryan is appointed, the Right Rev. Edmund F. Prendergast, D.D., V. G., titular Bishop of Selbie, and auxiliary archbishop of Philadelphia, becomes administrator of the archdiocese.

Archbishop Ryan was regarded as one of the ablest of the bishops and archbishops of the Roman Catholic church. He was one of Philadelphia's most distinguished citizens and was a leader in all movements for the betterment of the city. He was a born orator and was accorded a reputation for eloquence that few attained. Many of his predecessors, he has left a deep impress on the religious denominations. He was a friend of the poor and the needy in the city, the church in this country.

The archbishop was born on March 24, 1831, in the county of Tipperary, Ireland, on February 20, 1858. Young Ryan entered the Carlow seminary and later came to this country, coming to St. Louis, where he was appointed a professor in Cathedral college. He was ordained a priest in 1853, by Archbishop Kenrick. In 1870, Father Ryan was consecrated titular Bishop of Sasima and coadjutor of Dubuque and in 1884 he was appointed archbishop of Philadelphia.

During his 27 years residence at Philadelphia, he was an honored figure in the life of the city, participating in every movement in which he took a leading part. The University of Pennsylvania gave him the honorary degree of doctor of laws and he was also honorably received from the University of Missouri.

The great works of the archbishop were what he did for the Indians and his establishment of the Protectory for Colored Boys. The labors of the archbishop in behalf of the Indians was twice praised by President Roosevelt, when he appointed him one of the board of Indian commissioners.

Under the administration of Archbishop Ryan the Catholic church in this diocese has more than kept pace with the growth of the city and country. The archdiocese embraces Philadelphia and nine adjoining counties.

BARONESS BURDETT-COUTTS

The World's Greatest Woman Philanthropist

Angela Georgiana, Baroness Burdett-Coutts, was the lady beautiful of Shepherd, one of the partners in the great banking house of Coutts—second only, in wealth, to the Bank of England—and one of the richest private persons in the kingdom, has had a romantic and remarkable career in her nineteen years. She was a ward of Queen Victoria, and Queen Victoria was a friend to her: "Next to my mother, she is the most wonderful woman in England."

She was the daughter of Sir Francis Burdett and Sophia Coutts; her maternal grandfather. Thomas Coutts, died ignoring his children, and leaving his great fortune to his married wife, who was Miss Mellon, a well-known actress. The widow later married the Duke of St. Albans, whose relatives died her with distrust and contempt for her verbal ignorance, for her doubtful speeches and her inability to master the social code of her set. Not still unknown and her own people was found that every penny of her fortune went to her step-son-in-law, Angela Burdett, then twenty-three, with the stipulation that she take the name of Coutts in addition to her own.

Thus the Miss Burdett-Coutts in 1837, the year in which Queen Victoria began her life of leisure ease and beneficence, limiting herself to one palace of residence, but wherever she could benefit humanity her purse and her purse were open. She built and endowed St. Stephen's Church, Westminster, endowed three colonial bishoprics, secured the appointment of a staff of traveling inspectors of schools, gave funds for the topographic survey of Persia, aided emigration on a large scale, established a home for women, founded out hundreds of boys for the navy, supported the formation of the Shaftesbury Memorial Association, erected model tenements, aided the Thomas Brooke in his work in Bavaria, helped the starving fishermen of Cape Clear Island and the poor of London and Scotland, organized the Turkish Compassionate Fund to help the peasantry during the Russo-Turkish war, and for nearly seventy years has devoted herself to charities.

The Salvation Army's American Leader.

The Salvation Army, one of the most remarkable religious movements in the world, is a great organized body forged out into the highways and byways of humanity. Its motto is to bring the church to the people rather than to compel the people to the church. It has made religion a warm, outpouring reality to thousands who have practically no religion at all. It has carried the divine word to the ignorant, comforted the suffering, and with it has ever entwined the hand of practical help. It has clothed and fed the naked and the hungry. It has ministered to the unsheltered. It has done to the outcasts or are its living monuments.

MISS JESSIE MACLACHLAN

The Popular Scotch Prima-Donna

In the picturesque little seaport town of Oban, Scotland, with its beautiful scenery and its inspiring historic associations, Miss Jessie MacLachlan, the famous Scotch prima-donna, was born. She was very young when she first revealed her unusual musical endowment, for Nature gave her a voice of rare sweetness and power. When she was but twelve she joined the choir in her native town, and with a thrill of surprise the choir-master heard her sing. So pleased was he with the possibilities of her voice that he urged her to guard her golden treasure with care to avoid indiscriminate singing until it should be trained and perfected under the best teachers. He recommended two teachers in her life to song, and told her, with a prophetic glimpse, that she would be numbered among the world's greatest singers.

Under the enthusiastic teaching of Edwin Holland, Mus. Bac., Principal of the Royal Academy of Music, and other musical celebrities, her training was continued until she was ready for her first public appearance. Her intense love of Scotland, a solicitude for the welfare of her whole race, and her desire to realize the possibilities of the old Gaelic ballads, the heart songs of her people, and which Glasgow recognized her genius, her fame quickly spread through Great Britain, and the doors of conservative London opened to welcome her.

At Balmoral she was commanded to sing before Queen Victoria, who expressed her royal appreciation by presenting to her a superb bracelet. For nearly two and a half centuries no Highlander had been summoned to the throne—the latest one being a MacPherson piper who in 1651, had the honor of performing before the King and blessing his rank.

Miss MacLachlan's voice is a rich full soprano, strong with feeling and dramatic power. It is not the mere sterling the mere appreciation of pure liquid notes, that rouses her audiences. It is the deeper throw of her personality, her absorption of the spirit of the song, that reaches the heart. From the hearts of her hearers

AN OPEN LETTER

From a Baptist Clergyman Telling of Cures Wrought by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co.,
Brockville, Ont.

Dear Sirs,—It has been my [illegible] to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in my family, and I am pleased to say with good results. I was a Baptist minister. Was ordained in Toronto, and was pastor of Baptist church, Northumberland St. [illegible] Peterboro, Ont., for six years. I was in poor health when I left Peterboro. I had a bad cough, and was run down in health. I was advised to go to Colorado, but could not afford it. I then went to Muskoka, and was there for a time, but got no better. I was induced to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and got a supply from Mr. Hopkins, druggist, Bracebridge. I had not taken them long before I felt much better. I continued their use for some time, and was completely restored to health. I have recommended them to many others, and they have done them good. I am now pastor of Baptist church, Port Hope, Ont., and am in the best of health. I am sure Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best medicine in the world for a run down condition of the system. Yours truly, (Signed) T. C. Bowyer.

Beaver Lake East

The recent change in the weather is much appreciated by man and beast.

"H.R." stated in the Observer lately that F. A. Morrison's first prize story in the Journal competition was the best story ever written either in Alberta or out of it. Surely that's going some in the taffy line.

The Orillia, Ont., Packet truthfully remarks: "The Montreal Witness declares that 'the employment of public money for political ends is a degradation of government.' Yet the same (false) Witness is a thick and thin supporter of the Laurier government and all its works. The witness always is extremely virtuous in laying down general principles, but when the application of those principles would injure its political friends it is careful not to make it.

The Rimvale correspondent of the Orillia Times writes Jan. 30: last: On Thursday, Jan. 19 there passed peacefully away one of Allen's most respected residents in the person of Mrs. Samuel Allen whose maiden name was Edith Anne Steele. Mrs. Allen was the youngest and only surviving daughter of the late Captain Elmes Steele, R.N., and was born at the old Steele homestead of Purbrook in the township of Medonte, Simcoe County, on May 2, 1852. In 1858 the family removed to Orillia and later to Oro. After teaching in the Allenwood school for several years she was married in 1875 to Samuel Allen, who with six daughters and one son are left to mourn their irreparable loss. Mrs. Allen has four brothers living, Col S. H. Steele, C.B., of V.D., of Winnipeg, Richard and Godfrey of British Columbia and James of Beaver Lake, Alta. Deceased was much beloved by friends and neighbors and her gentle Christian character will long be remembered by all who knew her Divine service has been held at various points throughout the district during the past week. The services were ably conducted by Rev. Mr. Hjortaas.

Miss Emma Moline recently paid a visit to the Capital, remaining in town a week.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Anderson returned from Bardo, where they had been visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. Stein.

"Tame cows" are running at large in the district. Don't laugh anybody.

Did anyone say C.N.R. hockey? Because if they did it might be interesting to know that Amisk Creek has a team (since Feb. 11th) which feels sure it could play at least a tie game with them.

One farmer in this district was overheard to say to another last week: "Do you know what Reciprocity with the U.S.A. means?" "Yes," replied the second, "for us

STOCK DAMAGED BY WATER

Instruments Sold under An Absolute Guarantee

Instruments Sold under An Absolute Guarantee

On January 10th the water pipes broke directly over the small goods department in the main room of our store and for a time it looked as though the damage would be enormous, but after the goods were removed and dried off, it was found that the damage to the small instruments was confined principally to the varnish work. A large amount of sheet music and paper goods was wet and in consequence are unsaleable except at a reduced price.

Many of the pianos in the main room were not damaged at all, while others sustained slight damage to the exterior, caused by the damp atmosphere, but in no case with the exception of a few pianos in our basement sales room did the water reach the action or interior parts. Every instrument that showed the slightest defect has been thoroughly repaired, and regulated by experts in our shop, and they are now as good as ever.

We have decided to include these pianos with our entire stock of small instruments, and sheet music, and close out the whole by inaugurating

WOULD love to have my hair cut, papa," he said as he threw back his head to show off the thick locks of which he was possessed. "It would seem to be devoted to character put on."

"I see," was the reply. "Oh."

HE SAYS why did you assault the landlord?"

"Why, your honor, because I have several children and he refused to cut down the rent."

"Well, that is his privilege."

"Then your honor thinks he has a right to put me out?"

"I don't see how it can be helped."

"Oh, very well, then I'll take it out of the children."

HE is a bartender in the white apron. It's a good story the other day Mollie, the contraband, and the other girl in the kitchen were having an up-to-the-jaws of the boarders in the other city. Dinner on had just been from the oil country, and it was his first visit to this country. Plopping at the hotel where the bartender is operating from forth, Mollie said:

"Now, listen, my boy, I'll give you a taste of liquor that will make you think the scenery is fine. Just subscribe for you, remember, give us a couple of drinks of that 1892 pre-all liquor you have in the private bottle for me."

The bartender placed the "private bottle" on the bar with the two small glasses, which he half filled with the precious fluid.

Mollie filled the glasses quickly to the light, and then tossing it down, she said:

"Now all of you say 'Ah's, Mol!'"

"Ah's!" said the boys.

"Ah's!" said Mollie.

"Ah's!" said Dorman, with a grimace of disgust, "Ah's, phaw. It's small for six ago, ain't it?"

MR. JOYNT, seventy morning to her young property man that she thought there was that she could not get a divorce because "Joynt" was nowadays shortened by applying the first syllable to the name of the other husband. When Harry was four years old his father left home, and the mother was the nurse in the country. In a few minutes the child came in with a bottle of the alcohol still in his hand, but no bag of quinine.

"What's the matter?" asked his mother.

"I'm 'fraid of the sun," he said sadly.

"Why, he won't hurt you, sweetheart, Jesus, you know that he is a kind man, who is a loving father to us all."

"Well, I'm not afraid of him," Harry disappeared, and the mother thought he had returned without the purchase.

"Why, where is the quinine, Harry?" she asked after he had come in and had seated himself on the counter.

"Why, I'm not afraid of him," he answered as before.

"Well, what makes you afraid of him," demanded his mother impatient ly.

"Why," answered the little fellow hesitatingly, "I'm afraid he'll see me and—and—I'll—I'll send you in a minute!"

AUTOMOBILE HORNS

IN toolon, musical terms, the fine arts signal horns used to warn pedestrians to get out of the way of automobiles, are obtained from the "Please look out!" The latest cry of the motorist is "Honk!" The "honking" is for fancy, convincing, and also plaintive, pathetic, heart-rending "honking" out of the way!

The signal horn has made great advance step by step with the building automobile, and the improved, admirable horn, astonishing would not have you recognize in it the crude, first horn of the world over that made its appearance on the scene of it. With such a speed a part of the automobile industry has now attained a measure of safety that could not have been reached without it.

The first auto signal came from France and was a reed horn. The first French machines had more brought to America were equipped with it. The reed horn was a success. Later another device was the little power. It could be heard in city streets before. I won't tell you which are it was because he is to have a return engagement this season. Anyway before the performance was over, one of the hostess came to me and whispered, 'Have you ever heard anything so fine?' I said I had not, and she was sorry.

"I think so," I answered. "You ad mire him then?"

"I envy do be sold—admire him immensely."

"For his technique or his feeling?"

"Whatever that is. For either I consider him for his nerve I charging $2 a seat. Passenger, don't feel! Well, he's all right, at that!"

WELL-KNOWN Kansas lumber told a story the other day about a statuary of Illustrious Town. "I was in the lumber business there, and one of my chief customers was a man who had a big $5,000 house on the edge of the town. He ordered a lot of lumber and I went out to make the necessary bill. He was a most courteous to the point of being fulsome, and insisted on my going into the house and having a glass of refreshment.

"'Now, I'll bet you'll be surprised at my having a piano in the house,' he said, 'but I'm fond of music, and I've got a daughter who is learning to play it. Perhaps you've heard her?'

"I said I had not, and he went on to tell me how much she had learned and how she was going to be a great musician. Then he called her and introduced me. She was a girl of about fifteen, and I could see that she was very much embarrassed at her father's praise of her playing. She played a piece, and I thought it was very much out of tune.

"'Isn't she wonderful?' he said. 'Do you know she was a stranger for an hour before I could get her to play?'

"I said I could well believe it, and then he told me that he was going to have her taught by the best teacher in the city, and that he was going to have a piano in the house when she came home from school. I left the house with the order for the lumber in my pocket, and I thought that I had never met a more generous man.

"Some months later I was in the office of the lumber company when the father of the girl came in. He was in a terrible state of excitement, and he told us that his daughter had run away with a married man, and that she had left a letter behind her telling him that she was going to be a great singer. He was in a terrible state, and he said that he would never forgive her. I felt very sorry for him, and I thought that he was a fool to have wasted his money on a piano for a girl who had no voice."

The Horseman

IN the way of herding and a trading side of the line, and are replaced by cattle, principally heifers, which are sold on and at three years and also weeks old they are ready for the market. Many of the steers that are shipped from here are to the ones that at three years old, two years on the range and one in the feed lot, have reached their permanent finish, and are ready for the market. All of the steers are not ready for the market at three years old, but the majority are, and the others are ready at four years old. This is the class of steers that command the top prices in the market, and are the ones that are the easiest to feed. The progressive cattleman realizes that it pays to feed cattle to the limit of their capacity to put on profitable gains, and the cattle that are fed in this manner are the ones that are the most profitable to handle.

It is estimated that there are 1,000,000 cattle in the Panhandle country, and that 300,000 of these will be shipped to the feed lots this year. The number of cattle that will be fed in the Panhandle this year will be greatly increased over last year, and the number will be increased each year for the next few years. The Panhandle is the natural feeding ground for the cattle that are produced on the ranges of the Panhandle and the Southwest, and the cattle that are fed here will be fed at a profit, as the cattle can be fed here cheaper than in any other section of the country.

FAMOUS PEOPLE

MISS JESSIE MACLACHLAN

The Popular Scotch Prima-Donna

In the picturesque little seaport town of Oban, Scotland, with its historic scenery and its inspiring historic associations, Miss Jessie MacLachlan, the famous Scotch prima-donna, was born. She was very young when she first revealed her unusual musical endowment, for Nature gave her a voice of rare sweetness and power. When she was but twelve she joined the choir in her native town, and with a thrill of surprise the choir-master heard her voice rise above the surrounding throng. Her voice had by nature been so perfectly trained that her elders treasure with care, to avoid indiscriminate singing until she should be older, and it received under the best teachers. Its reputation soon reached her in desire her life to serve and hold her, even in a prophetic glimpse, that she would be numbered among the world's singers.

Under the enthusiastic training of Miss Trail of the Guildhall School of Music, and other masters, her training was completed, and she was ready for her first public appearance. Her intense love of Scotland, a patriotism that seems the heroism of her whole nature, led her to realize the possibilities of the old Gaelic ballads, the heart songs of her people, and when these were recognized her progress here came quickly spread through Great Britain, and the doors of conservative London opened in welcome.

At Balmoral she was commanded to sing before Queen Victoria who gave her a very appreciative but generous if not a superb bracelet. For a city two and a half centuries an Hitchhiker had been summoned to the Queen's—the latest one being in 1901, but the honor is nevertheless before it. She and Lhevinne will spend Church union in division of work in the fields seems to be well taken hold of by the Methodists and Presbyterians of Alberta. We read in an exchange the other day that the two bodies have divided most of the territory south of Calgary so that no overlapping will occur. The proposition is a good one and one which will commend itself not only to the church people, but to the people as a whole, irrespective of color, creed or religion.

The moving picture show in Masonic Hall last Friday evening given by Greenfield Bros., the Enterprising Moving Picture Co., was without doubt the best picture show that has yet shown in Tofield. The pictures throughout were of a high standard. The film "Nero" showing the burning of Rome was quite educative in its nature. The Cavalry picture film was put on in good shape interspersed with the high class pictures were several comic films which greatly amused the young folk. When Greenfield Bros return to Tofield in a few months they will certainly merit a larger house, judging from the standard of entertainment which they put on last Friday night.

U.F.A. Elect Officers

Will Debate on Reciprocity Next Saturday Afternoon in Tofield Town Hall

The Tofield Union of United Farmers of Alberta held a meeting in Masonic Hall last Saturday and elected officers for the current year. The officers elected were:—

President, Daniel Francis; Vice-pres, Sam Stirret; Secretary, Jas Fletcher; Committee, Messrs Thomas, Ingram, Hoffin, Olson, P. R. Anderson and Jas. Jorning.

Mr. Stirrett brought up the point that it would be a good thing if papers could be prepared by certain members to be read at the regular meetings, subjects to be of popular interest to the farmers. President Francis suggested that a debate on reciprocity would be both opportune and beneficial. The proposition was quickly taken up and next Saturday, March 11th the farmers and any others interested will hold the debate in Tofield Town Hall on the, "Resolution," Resolved that the Reciprocity Treaty is for the benefit of the people of Canada as a whole and particularly for the farmers of Western Canada. Jas Fletcher of Kingman will lead the affirmative in a thirty minutes speech and Daniel Francis, the negative in a speech of like length. Any others who wish may take part in the debate but they must limit themselves to ten minutes each.

Fisk Found Guilty

Judge Stewart Sentences Murderer of Tucker Peach to Hang on April 18th at the Calgary Jail

With hands gripping the railing in front of the prisoner's dock; with an armed mounted policeman on each side of him, and with flushed cheeks, pulsing throat and heaving breast, Jack Fisk heard the dreadful death sentence pronounced on him by Judge Stuart at the supreme court in Calgary on Friday morning last. He had been found guilty by a jury of his peers and as the hands of the court house clock pointed to eleven, Fisk stumbled out of the prisoner's dock a condemned man.

It was the evidence of Robert William Jones, a friend and neighbor of Tucker Peach, the murdered man, and the corroboration of an Indian boy that hanged Fisk.

The Board of Trade met in special session in the town hall last Friday afternoon. The work of preparing the outline of a publicity campaign as a follow-up system for handling the results of the returns to the local board from the general publicity work of the Central Alberta Development League, was left to the council of the Board to frame up, they also to see the Town Council with a view to ascertaining what amount of money will be forthcoming this year. Mayor Lesturneau and councillors McCauley, Urquhart, and Story were present at the meeting of the board.

It is to be hoped that this year will see a great improvement in the manner in which the Tofield public will maintain its attitude towards the Board. It is to every Tofield man's interest to take an active interest in the work of the body. Tofield is out for its full share of the big immigration which which going to take place during the coming summer months. The publicity campaign of the Central Alberta Development League will bring in hundreds of inquiries to the central office and advice of these will be sent out to all the communities participating. Tofield then will have to get busy and use all legitimate means available to secure a good and desirable class of farmers.

Dry Farming vs Noxious Weeds

D. W. Warner of Edmonton, who has returned from a lecture tour of the provinces conducting a series of farmers institute meetings says that dry farming simply means proper farming. In the districts around Edmonton it means that the application for dry farming methods for the eradication of noxious weeds and the proper cultivation of the soil.

"There is no real reason why a farmer in the Edmonton district should ever suffer a loss of crop, unless by some unforseen accident, if he farms along proper lines."

Camrose vs. Tofield - Saturday Night 7.30 Sharp

The public of Tofield and district will have another opportunity to witness a good game of hockey next Saturday night when Camrose comes up with a strong aggregation of fans and with the self appointed task of endeavoring to trim THE SILVER SEVEN of Tofield in an exciting game of hockey. The game starts at 7.30 sharp so every body should be there from the time the bell sounds. The Tofield boys have got into fair shape again after several of them having been on the sick list. Supporters of the Green and White will be there a-plenty to root for their home team. The season is becoming well advanced and it cannot be expected that their will be many more games. It is therefore up to all to turn out and witness good hockey while it lasts. With the present weather keeping up, the ice will be in the pink of condition and a swift exhibition may be seen.

WHY COME TO ALBERTA?

About a year ago some intermedi pers on across the line tried to stop the tide of immigration with about as much success as the humble Canute who tried to sweep back the ocean with a broom. They asked the question, "Why go to Canada" and attempted not to answer it in a variety of ways.

Why come to Alberta? There are so many reasons that it is almost impossible to mention them all, or to mention a few of them.

Come to Alberta to do well There is no country in the world with the openings that Alberta offers. There are ten millionaires in Calgary, and but one of the ten made any part of his money before settling in Calgary. Most of them have made the million in the last two years. Some of them in the last five years.

Come to Alberta and invest. There is a great opening for manufacturing establishments. The population is here now. There is cheap power and raw material for many businesses right at hand. Alberta is the most promising part of the world for the man who has money to invest in the development of it

Come to Alberta and help in the development of a rising young nation. Every person starts on the level here and every person is recognized for his own merits. He gets an even start. There is a great opportunity for promotion to the ambitious young man who desires to come here and make a name for himself. The newcomer needs no pedigree or family tree or influential friends. He gets an even start.

Come to Alberta and be useful. There is no room for idlers. There are no idlers here. There is room for the strong, but there are prizes for everyone who can earn them. There is room for many. There is a good work for all. The west yields to the efforts of the man with ability and it is some satisfaction to make an imprint upon the province in its development stage

Come to Alberta and farm. The price of land is very cheap. It can be had for the very asking. It yields a good return from the very start. It is the most productive country upon the face of the whole earth.

Come to Alberta and be strong, healthy, self-reliant and happy. It has the best climate in the world. Its summers are not too warm, its springs are too short. Its autumns are perfect and the winters are the best of all. It is a healthy climate.

Come to Alberta and be Albertan. There is a thrill in the atmosphere. There is a spirit of optimism in the air. There is a delight in living, doing your part in the development of a country, which you see progress from day to day and hour to hour. You rise in the morning knowing that you are living in a bigger city than you were on the previous morning, and that it will be greater still before another sunrise.

These are some of the answers to this question. There are many more. The city went out to hundreds every day by the people who have come to the province, are delighted with it and are sending back east, south and west for their friends to join them in this beautiful province the land of hope, of accomplishment and of satisfaction.

The government's proposal to establish reciprocal trade relations with the United States and which proposal is embodied in a bill before the House of Commons is creating a discussion throughout the country which shows a wide diversity of opinion. Hon. Messrs. Fielding and Paterson as reprsentatives of Canada went to the Capitol at Washington and in a fortnight or so drew up the proposed agreement in conjunctive with two leading representatives of the U.S. The governments of the two countries are submitting this agreement to the houses of Legislation for ratification. The Congress has passed it and an extra session of the senate has been called by Pres. Taft to take it up, the late session having expired without arriving at a decision on the bill.

In the Canadian House of Commons it is expected that a decision will be arrived at during the course of this week. The government is behind the bill and although Lib eral ranks are split and a section will vote with the opposition against the measure, it is likely that it will be passed.

There appears to be a strong feeling that much more is included in the effects of this proposition, than the mere lowering of the tariff on the face of it. The argument is made that too much haste is being shown in its passage and that due consideration of its effects is being passed over. It may well be that a premature conclusion is being arrived at, that a sufficient amount of reason, common sense and good judgment is not being brought to bear in studying the prospective results of this piece of legislation.

When legislation is proposed which involves any radical change in the fiscal policy of the country it is usually customary to make very thorough and complete inquiries of the most expert and detailed character. Otherwise it is impossible that those who are acting should really know what they are doing. The fullest information regarding the effects of this proposed legislation in both countries rests particularly throughout Canada should be available before the bill is made into law. Through out the rank and file of the country, as made bold to presume, this is in part, if not wholly, a matter of surmise. Very true, to some sections of the country and to some limited classes the effect of the passing into law of this reciprocal trade arrangement may be of especial benefits while to others the benefits may be very doubtful.

It would seem to be a good and wise policy that a full and clear statement of the facts should be given so as make the discussion of the problem intelligent and convincing. As it is at present the average man who is possessed of a unbiased mind is not wholly certain to which side of the matter he should give his influence and support.

GRAND TRUNK NEW PASSENGER SERVICE

On Monday, Feb 13th the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway inaugurated a daily except Sunday passenger train service between Edmonton and Edson. Eastbound train leaves Edmonton at 6:30 p.m. arrives Edmonton 10:05 p.m.

This service has been instituted to handle the large number of settlers and homesteaders going into the country adjacent to the line between Edmonton and Edson, also the one commuting to take advantage of the new wagon road North from Edson to the Peace River Country where the Dominion Government, this spring is throwing open over 10,000 free homesteads.

The man that tries to do business without advertising is like the fellow that threw a kiss to his girl in the dark; he knew what he was doing but nobody else did.

Will Improve Exhibition Grounds

Directors meet last Saturday and Plan Improvements for Current Year

A full meeting of the directors of the Tofield Agricultural Society was held at the Standard Office last Saturday afternoon when plans for the coming year were discussed. It was decided that it would be in the interests of the society to completely fence the exhibition grounds early in the season. Estimates will be prepared by the secretary for submission to the directors at the next meeting. It was also decided that if a plan whereby the Society and the town can work together in the construction of the race track such plan will be considered by the Society in a co-operative spirit. Under it no discussion of this subject the following resolution was passed Directors C. Currie, B. F. Wildman —That Town of Tofield and the Agricultural Society co-operate in the construction of the race track on the Exhibition Grounds, farmers to bring on their implements, plow, scrapers and waggons etc. and the Town to furnish men in addition to form a grant by this undertaking to take place in day after seeding. Unanimously Carried. President Hittrer assumed always Morton, Thomas and Wildman as a committe to meet a similar committe from the town to arrange the date and plan of work.

It was decided to ascertain whether the Tofield Skating Rink could be available for Exhibition Purposes for this year.

Before the meeting adjourned the society took up the proposition of Agricultural Society and the Board of Trade of the City of Lethbridge to have the International Dry Farming Congress of 1913 held in that city and passed a strong resolution heartily endorsing the proposition.

The next meeting of the directors will be held in the town hall on Saturday April 1st.

Ross-Blanchard

At the Manse Tofield on Tuesday March 8th 1911 a very interesting ceremony was performed when John William Ross and Miss Mabel Blanchard were united in the bonds of Matrimony. The contracting parties were both of Ryley Alberta, and were accompanied by only the near relatives.

The marriage took place at 1 p.m. and performed by Rev. W. F. Gehl.

The Board of Trade met in special session on Tuesday night in the Town Hall. The Executive Committee of the Executive Council meet the 13th inst. when plans for the coming year was presented. Among the items were $125 for membership in the Central Alberta Development Leg ue; $300 for Pamphlets and literature; $100 for photos and cuts; $50 for incidental expenses; $100 for stamps, stationery etc. In all, about $875 will be required without that necessary for clerical and secretarial work. It was decided to have this amount granted from the local fund and a committee was appointed to interview the council at its next meeting Tuesday evening.

A lively debate took place on the introduction of a resolution by Mr McCauley in favour of reciprocity trade relations with the U.S. The debate resulted in a strong popular decision being voted in favor of the treaty.

Good roads and Telephone Extension committee were appointed by the meeting who will look after those branches of public improvements.

The Unionists Were Shocked

Floating in House of Common to Interfere With Canadian Affairs. Canadians Made Some Straight Remarks.

New York, Feb. 8.—The Herald's London cable says: "A score of Canadian financiers and professional men in London recently attended a private meeting in the house of commons, called by the Imperialists, to consider ways and means to prevent the ratification of the reciprocity agreement between the United States and Canada, and, if this effort is unsuccessful, to devise a plan to nullify the effect of the ratification.

The meeting was not entirely harmonious, as some of the Canadians told the promoters of the gathering that there was no chance to kill the agreement, and as England had its chance under both Conservative and Liberal governments, and had refused or overlooked overtures, the Canadian government hereafter would look out only for Canadian interests. The sentiment shocked the Imperialists, who had invited only those supposed to be pro-Britain.

Mr. Business Man

YOU are the master salesman of your store — to not forget that.

YOU are the initiatory promoter, the force behind every sale made in your store.

You determine, too, as receptively as it is permitted to any of us to control and give direction to events, how MANY sales your store makes in a day or week. Within the store-walls your salesmanship is shown in every detail of the store-business.

Without the store walls your salesmanship must reach as an influence in behalf of your store—as a power—and influence, exerted through newspaper publicity.

This influence is what causes the woman of the house to "put on her things" and hurry down to your store when her intention had been to wait until next week. Just how many people respond to this same impulse depends upon how strong and persuading you make your advertising.

Your advertising can be neither strong nor convincing if it is cramped for space—if it is nonexecutive—if it lacks the fire which your own enthusiasm—and nothing else in the world—can put into it.

"Missing" a store-ad is usually missing a buying chance.

If you have trouble in getting rid of your cold you may know that you are not treating it properly. There is no reason why a cold should hang on for weeks and it will not if you take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For sale by dealers everywhere.

The late Hon. David Davis once said: "Each year every loyal paper gives from $100 to $3,000 in free lines for the benefit of the community in which it is located. No other agency can or will do this. The local editor, in proportion to his means, does more for his town than any other ten men, and in fairness, man with man, he ought to be supported, not because you happen to like him or admire his writing, but because a loyal paper is the best investment the community can make. It may not be brilliant or crowded with great thoughts, but basically it is more of a benefit to a community than a preacher or a teacher. Understand us now, we do not mean morally or intellectually, but financially, and yet on the moral question you will find the majority of local papers on the right side of the question. To-day the editors of local papers do the most work for the least money of any men on earth. Subscribe for your local paper, not as charity, but as an investment.

Angus Cranford of Kingman was in town with his family for several days this week on his way to Ontario, to which province they will remove. The reason, he says, stems that there was not enough room. Everybody he has talked with in Tofield is well pleased with Alberta. They wanted to know principally about the weather. The reports of seven years were satisfactory. Manitoba and Saskatchewan took the same good luck a move was considered first class among the settlers. The impression is given that Alberta is booming. People have not got on to the fact that Alberta is much further west than Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Many farmers will live on rented farms will be coming west this spring. Mr. Cranford will after seeding. Mr. Cranford's family, and if that is were entirely glad to get back again to Alberta.

Scientific farming is to be taught in the rural, public and high schools of Ontario. Night classes are also to be established for farming and dairying. This scheme will be watched with interest by the other provinces. The farmers of the West are beginning to realise that they should devote themselves to intensive farming, using scientific methods and conserving the land. The land is not an inexhaustible source of wealth and needs nursing. It must be farmed scientifically or it will lose its virtues. In many of the older countries it has been found that brainy farming is absolutely necessary if the best results are to be obtained by the agriculturists. Here in Alberta we are finding this to be the fact. The establishment of several demonstration farms by the department of Agriculture is a step in the right direction.

Publicity — advertising—is today the greatest factor in business success. It is generally considered if you do not advertise you have nothing to offer. While these ideas are considered to such an extent in the management of merchantile, financial and other business enterprises, it is not remarkable that some municipalities do not keep even at least with some of their readiest business people in the matter of publicity.

J. K. Cornwall, M.L.A. for Peace River, will print the Governor-General, Earl Grey, on his visit to the north from Edmonton next summer.

REVOLTING CRIME IS UNEARTHED AT BRUCE

Inspector Brooks, of Department Neglected Children, Issues Eleven Warrants and makes Four Arrests, Implicating Settlers East of Town.

Details of what is described as the most revolting case of its kind in the annals of crime in the province, in which will be implicated nearly a dozen settlers in the vicinity of Bruce, east of Holden, on very serious charges, are just being brought to light by Inspector Brooks, of the department of neglected children of the province.

Revelations resulting investigations made by Inspector Brooks in the case, have brought about the issuing of eleven warrants, for the arrest of settlers at Bruce, and the arrest of four of them, may mean severe sentences. It is stated that the charge of incest will be laid among others.

The arrests have been brought about as the result of investigations following the suicide of Magnus Mangleman of Bruce, and the removal by the department of neglected children, of her three children from the home. It is stated that these children have been living in utter depravity of the worst kind, in a home where eleven man lived together, and that the story told by the children, and that has been brought out by the investigation of the life they lived with Mangleman and these eleven men is unceasingly revolting.

Mr and Mrs Mangleman were settlers in the Bruce district some four years ago, when Mangleman one morning died suddenly while eating a breakfast His food was analyzed and found to contain strychnine. Mrs Mangleman and a man who lived in the house at the time, were charged with the murder of Mangleman and tried at Fort Saskatchewan, but were finally dismissed, the evidence being of a very circumstantial character.

During the next three years Mrs. Mangleman lived with her children at Bruse, and it is said that it is the conduct of Mrs. Mangleman and the eleven men who were living in the house that has led to the investigation which will result in the serious charges being made against the men.

The mounted police constable at Bruce, Constable Baily investigated the condition of the three children in the home some time ago, and notified Superintendent Chadwick in Edmonton of their condition. They were then removed to the Edmonton Shelter. were they were found to be in a most revolting condition.

Mrs Mangleman shortly afterwards committed suicide.

Warrants were issued the other day for the arrest of the eleven men who were said to be living in the house. The children are one 11 years, another 13 years, and the third 16 years of age.

Inspector Brooks, who was formerly with the Edmonton detective bureau, has just been appointed to his present position with the department of neglected children, and in handling the Mangleman case. It is expected that the men will be brought trial shortly.

While for the past month we have been enjoying ideal weather in Sunny Alberta, the thermometer being about 10 to 20 above, they have been having 20 and more below in Grand Forks, N.D.

Speaking of advertising—There is no business that cannot be increased by advertising. No class of advertising pays as well as a well written newspaper ad. There is no work that you could do that would bring you as great returns as to one thirty minutes of each day in the study of advertising, if you are in business. The great troubles with most advertisers in a county town is that they write an ad invoicing their stock in trade and expect by letting it stand week after week in the in the country newspaper to get direct returns from it.

U.F.A. Discuss Reciprocity

Lively debate in Town Hall last Saturday Result was Carried

The Tofield local U.F.A. held a public debate on the much discussed question of Reciprocity last Saturday afternoon in the Town Hall, a large number of farmers from all over the district being present as well as a substantial quota of business men of the town. Jas Fletcher of Kingman was leader of the affirmative and Daniel Francis of the negative each speaking thirty minutes. After the leaders had made their arguments others throughout the audience who were interested in the discussion and had something to contribute to the debate were allowed ten minutes each to speak. Some half a dozen took advantage of this opportunity. It appeared from the nature of the remarks made that the spirit of the meeting was strongly in favor of the legislation proposed by the government. On both sides the speeches were bright, pithy and argumentative A vote taken at the close of the debate showed the popular decision to be strongly in favor of the project.

Ben Barkwell with wife and family returned on Monday morning from a short visit to the coast, where they visited Vancouver B. C., Prosser, Ore, and other points. At Prosser Ben invested in some property which stands to bring him in good profits. While the most remember at many points is very nice, Mr. and Mrs. Barkwell state that Tofield looks better to them. As Ben said "Tofield is good enough for me and I would much rather live here"

The Rainbow Tea given by the Ladies Aid of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Wednesday evening of last week in Masonic Hall was an unqualified success in every sense of the word. For nearly three hours the tables were kept constantly busy with the crowds that thronged in perhaps as much from curiosity as to what a Rainbow Tea was as to patronize the affair which was gotten up in aid aid of the church. There were seven tables appropriately decorated in color each representing one color of the rainbow Decorations were of that color and the edibles as nearly as possible of a similar hue. The attendants also were insignia of the color of the tables which they attended Five minutes only were allowed to partake of the course at each table. The affair was on a most pleasant one and passed off with great eclat.

Silver Seven Defeat Camrose in a Fast, Clean Game on Local Ice Saturday Evening Last

By a score of 6 goals to 4 Tofield's unbeatable Silver Seven defeated Camrose at the local rink before a large crowd on Saturday evening last. The Camrose team which was composed of players from Wetaskiwin, Bittern Lake and possibly some from Strettler, arrived early in the afternoon and were on the ice sharp on time as were the local boys so the large crowd present were not forced to wait half an hour or so for play to commence as is often the case. Sharp at 7.30 Referee Hunkton, one of the most efficient officials in these parts, rang his bell and they were off Lee on a pretty shot from left drew first blood for the home team by scoring in 4 minutes. Spiesman followed in 8 minutes with one for Camrose. Play was up and down the ice for some time until Diamond found the nets for Tofield in 24 minutes and 3 minutes later again banged one in making the score at half-time 2-1 for Tofield. After the usual rest at half-times the teams started out at a much faster pace than in the first half, Camrose getting in 2 in the first 15 minutes this giving them a lead of one, their rooters the most of whom were from Ryley) kept yelling them to play defense, but just to show what little good that style of play would avail them, Capt. Hains took the rubber from in front of his own nets going through the whole Camrose team unaided and scored, thus evening the tally again. 7 minutes later Lee slipped one past Grant and Letourneau followed with another in 2 minutes, the more startling when the bell rang Tofield 6, Camrose 4.

Charlesworth, he of the eagle eye, let very few of them past him.

Hains' rushes down the centre were a feature of the game.

Spiesman of Camrose or Wetaskiwin or Bittern Lake has got the goods in large packages.

The Ryley rooters made quite a noise during the few minutes that Camrose held the lead

The fair sex were well represented and cheered lustily for the home team.

One Ryley sport went home somewhat light in pocket "Berry Man." That a sure thing should be a "bum steer."

Jim Hannan says he has visions of the Stanley Cup taking a trip to this neck of the woods at no very distant date if the boys stick together.

Nine wins in ten games is a pretty good record, eh!

My! how those down-the-line towns love the Silver Seven.

Those Camrose boys are all right and with a little more practice would prove a pretty tough proposition for any team in this part.

Advance Guard 1911 Immigration Here

Word Comes of Strong Inflow of Right Kinds of Farmers This Year.

The advance guard of the 1911 tide of new settlers in the Tofield District has arrived. Last Saturday a large number of homeseekers, farmers with their carloads of effects, horses, mules and machinery arrived at Tofield and as once a movement was effected for the farms which they have selected in the rich and fertile Bardo section. These people are from Nebraska and are enterprising and successful farmers. They are only the advance guard of a large number who will follow in the course of a few weeks. Last week a number of them with carloads of effects came into the Bardo section getting off at Shirley and moving across Mr. Lefler, who a few weeks ago came in from St. Catharines, Ont., expects his family to arrive shortly with all their effects, horses, etc.

Falling Hair

Mrs. Jas. Harris of Wagville, Sask., says:

"I have found Parisian Sage to be the best scalp and hair tonic and dressing I have ever used. My hair had been coming out in combs full and was always itching and full of dandruff. I have used two bottles of Parisian Sage, it has stopped my hair from falling, the itching and dandruff have disappeared and my hair is soft, fluffy and glossy. I would say that without doubt the best tonic for many blessed purposes."

For women, men, or children Parisian Sage is without any doubt the finest preparation for the hair. Daintily perfumed, it is free from grease or stickiness and ought to be where every member of the family could use it daily. Large bottle 50 cents at all druggists or from the proprietors, The Parisian Sage Co., Buffalo, N. Y., U. S. A. Parisian Sage is on every package. Sold and guaranteed by C. B. Jamieson.

On Monday evening the weather took a very sudden change for the bad and the wind blew at a frightful rate. It did quite a bit of damage in town and played havoc with the cotton from over the plate glass in R. O. Bird's store. In some manner a very beautiful picture was hung fast in the window and we request all ladies to look at it as it may be yours. This picture will be given to the rightful owner on Tuesday next. For further information see R. O. Bird.

Mr. Brown was greatly taken up with the prospects of Tofield as a field for investments and was particularly well pleased with the development in our coal areas.

R. O. Bird, one of Tofield's leading business men, has during the past week been making a substantial improvements to his already large hardware and furniture store. Silver Seven Meet Their Waterloo

Tofield's Silver Seven, the heroes of many successfull battles this season on local and foreign ice went down to ignoble defeat in the Tofield Rink, Saturday afternoon last, when being 12-0. While it has been no disgrace for our team to be defeated by the Deacons, it may correctly be said that Tofield's men were not in the same class with the Champions. The only claim put up before the game was that we would make the Deacons go some. This was fully carried out to the letter.

Dr. McQueen, Dentist of Wainwright will be in Tofield next Monday and Tuesday, for the practice of his profession.

Coronation Gift From the Whole Empire

A coronation gift to her Majesty, Queen Mary, from the thousands of Marys throughout the British Empire is the unique tribute which will be paid to the Queen in London at the time of her coronation. The idea of the gift which originated in England has been molded into a practicable plan by an English committee and has been disseminated throughout the mother country and all the colonies

The plan is briefly this: All those who bear the name Mary or one of its variants, as May, Marie, Marian, Marion, Marie, are asked to contribute to a fund to be known as Queen MARY'S CORONATION GIFT. The donations may range from five cents to five dollars; and in order to simplify, for Canadian Marys, the sending of contributions, Lady Grey, who has the matter in hand for Canada, has asked the assistance of the wives of the Lieutenant-Governors.

In Alberta, Mrs. Bulyea, acting at Lady Grey's request, has appointed 6 women from the Alberta chapters of the patriotic society, the Daughters of the Empire, who will receive contributions from any Mary, May, Maria, Marian, Marion or Marie. The committee is as follows: Mrs. J. D. McCutcheon, 941 4th Ave. West, Calgary; Mrs. Barnes, 606 15th St., Edmonton; Mrs. J. D. Hyndman, 626 7th St., Edmonton; Mrs. Hislop, 514 6th St., Edmonton; Mrs Edwards, 1st Ave. North, Strathcona; Mrs. Dale 136 Bellamy St., Edmonton. Contributions may be sent to any of committees or to Mrs. Bulyea direct at Government House, Edmonton, not later than April 14.

Although, for the sake of avoiding confusion, the committee is limited to representatives of the Daughters of the Empire, other organized societies of women, such as the Women's Canadian Club, Local Councils of Women, the W.C.T.U., Women's Press Club, and other similar groups are asked to interest themselves in collecting contributions and to forward them promptly either to Mrs. Bulyea or some member of the committee in order that the entire gift from Alberta may be sent to Lady Grey by Mrs. Bulyea not later than April 14.

This contribution will be sent as a single sum together with a list of the contributors but the amount given by each individual will not be stated. This tactful plan will enable every Mary in the Empire to contribute without embarrassment.

The choice of the gift will be left to her Majesty, but the entire amount of the contributions together with a complete list of the contributors will be presented to the Queen at the time of the coronation.

The Alberta list of contributions is headed by Mrs. Sifton, the wife of the Premier; and others bearing the Royal name have already subscribed. In more than one instance mothers are sending contributions for their little daughters who are named for the Queen.

Copies of this notice will be sent not only to all the newspapers of the province and translated into the various languages which will bring it to the notice of our newly made citizens, but it will be sent to each of the thousand schools of Alberta, so that the children may have their share in this loyal tribute, this gift so unique that it has no parallel in the history of English queens, and so charming in its conception that it cannot fail to appeal to all those fortunate ones who are namesakes of her Majesty.

Will teachers please take charge of contributions from their schools?

BORN—To Mr. and Mrs. J. McBeth at Woodlawn on the 25th of February, a daughter.

BORN—At Woodlawn on Feb. 28, 1911, to Mr. and Mrs. Hy. Lee, a son.

Central Alberta Development League

Exchanges from all parts of Central Alberta bring us the news that in every section of the district the movement to co-operate in a general publicity campaign by the towns, villages and cities is being heartily endorsed and taken up. Centres both large and small are taking hold of idea and are preparing for an effective follow-up campaign. Camrose has organized a general executive committee covering the entire electoral district. Vegreville on the other side of Tofield from Camrose has gone heartily for the proposition and has organized a strong Board and are going to spend $1200 in follow up work. In both these towns the funds for the Board of Trade is got from the town council, the burden' slight as it is, being shouldered by all the property holders through the general assessment of the municipality.

It is gratifying to mark the general spirit of enterprise and energy manifested by the business men of the western provinces. Here we have around us in every rural section a large proportion of the lands unoccupied and unimproved. Who can picture the volume of trade and commerce that would accrue when these unoccupied lands will have been settled upon and become productive source of all the commodities of trade. How will our commercial centres have grown and developed. This is the great impulse actuating the Central Alberta Development League. By a co-operative publicity campaign involving an expense running into the thousands of dollars expended through these publications which best reach the very men whom we wish to attracts to these fertile prairie farms, men who live on what are now very high priced lands but which are not so productive as the rich soil of Alberta, a flood of inquiries will pour into the central office of the league. Advice of all these inquiries will be sent out to every community participating and while general literature, illustrative and descriptive, will have been sent on in advance, by the central office, each community will have the opportunity to send out specific literature and personal letters relative to the particular advantages offered to new settlers in their respective sections.

These communities are rising to the occasion and their opportunity and 1911 will see a most wonderful and effective campaign carried which will work amazing results in the peopling of our district and the bringing under cultivation of an immense increase of area of our rich and fertile lands.

Socialism Approved

A crowded hall attended the big debate last Friday night at Kingsman of which the subject "Socialism" was thoroughly threshed out. Messrs. Fletcher, Stirrett and Kingsbury, Jr., for affirmative and Messrs. Dr. Emmett, Kingsbery, Sr.; and P. B. Anderson, negative. The speeches were bright, pithy and full of arguments. Dr. Emmett and Fletcher being well up on their subjects. The decision was by popular vote and it went in favor of Socialism by a strong majority. Those attending were well pleased with the debate. Several recitations and dialogues were given during the evening.

The Grand Trunk's London Offices

Cockspur Street facing Trafalgar Square, London, Eng., has of late years become the home of several great railway and steamship companies. One of the most conspicuous painted buildings in this locality has been erected by the Grand Trunk Railway System for their accommodation.

The Grand Trunk, when its present extensions are completed will be the most important transcontinental in the world, and it is fitting that they should have quarters in the metropolis of the world but will be in harmony with their wonderful growth.

Sir Acton Webb, R.A. is the architect of the building. The frontage of the new offices presents a very dignified elevation, in character very much like the palatial structures erected by the various Italian Republics in the palmiest days of their commercial prosperity. The three stories of the various provinces traversed by the Grand Trunk System in Canada are introduced beneath the suitable cornice of the 4th floor, and harmony seems to dominate his noble frontage. The great central doorway is pierced by two lights and adorned by spieces of sculpture, chiselled by Mr. Albert Leary, A.R.A., the well known sculptor, and which is emblematical of travel by land and sea.

The new quarters are surely an ideal building, but a meeting place for Canadians and Americans and their European, Australian and South African friends, a "Canadian commercial embassy" or industrial information bureau, to supply the public with accurate and complete information concerning the Dominion of Canada, and every one is invited to make use of the facilities thus offered.

The site suffice on the ground floor is a very handsome room panelled in teak, with inlays of holly and ebony, and a frieze runs all around, painted by R. Frank Hennessy, R.A. representing the genesis of Canadian life, from the wild life of the Indian to the building of the railway, and the influence of the white man on the country

Reception rooms are also provided for the use of visitors to transact business. On the second floor is another large room on ground floor, is another large room on ground floor, which can be used for meetings. This room is supplied with Canadian newspapers and journals and periodicals, and the Canadian Atlantic passengers visiting London, Eng., are cordially invited to visit these handsome new offices, their exact location being 17-19 Cockspur St., London, S.W. They are very easily found as the building is in the midst of the busiest centre of London; in fact it is at the very hub of the world's Metropolis, and within five minutes walk of the leading hotels, and near the intake to the tube at Trafalgar Square station

St., Andrews Hall

The young people's society of St. Andrews Pres. Church their regular meeting on Monday evening The programme was arranged by the devotional committe and a most inspiring address was given by Dr. McQueen, the subject being the "Seven Dispensations". The meeting was well attended and a number of those present rendered their sentiments of appreciation by a few appropriate remarks on the subject to which the Dr. so ably referred.

Next Monday the committee have arranged a most interesting programme, one of the chief items will be a debate, the subject reads thus: "That reading is of greater educational value than travelling". Everyone is well aware of the fact that both sides of the question are productive of great education, therefore we make bold to say that this will be one of the best debates ever held in Tofield. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Refreshments will be served by the ladies at close of the programme. Don't put it off come and have a good time.

And still another tail goes on. Both Saskatchewan and Alberta have now had their annexation stories. Next in order is Yukon.

Hon. Rodmond Roblin, Premier of the Province of Manitoba, has been elected by acclamation to the provincial legislature. Rod is a hustler.

Mr. Frank Oliver, speaking before the Canadian Club of Montreal last Monday on the subject, "The Future of the Northwest in Canada," said, "It is by preserving to the full rights and interests of all sections of the community that we can expect to achieve the ultimate destiny of what we hope to be one of the greatest countries in the world, a leader in civilization, and everything that makes for civilization in the British empire." Mr. Oliver argued that what tended towards the success of the Northwest tended towards the success of all Canada.

Five carloads of cattle were shipped back to Winnipeg this week from Toronto and in addition to this, 142 head of fat cattle were brought in from St. Paul to supply the Winnipeg trade. Readers, what do you know about that? It looks as though the supply in the beef market in the West were truly growing slim.

Is Canada in Danger?

If So From Whom?

Organizers of lower taxes and larger trade for Canada held a mass meeting in Massey Hall, Toronto, on Thursday evening, March 9th, to condemn the proposed trade arrangement between Canada and the United States. It was presided over by an ex-lieutenant-governor of Ontario, and addressed by a number of prominent citizens of Toronto.

A resolution was passed expressing the view that the reasons given by the meeting had been arranged for the purpose of passing the resolution it must be presumed that it has been carefully pre-ared, and that it expressed in the most forceful terms possible the matured opinion of the business men organized for the meeting. The resolution therefore has the merit of putting in as concentrated form as possible the reasons that can be given against the agreement, and we can assume a reply to be made. Following is the text of the resolution, and the obvious answer is placed after each assertion:

THE RESOLUTION:

Moved by Z. A. Lash, seconded by W. T. White, That this meeting protests against the adoption of the reciprocity agreement with the United States of America because

(1) It would substantially reverse the policy which has brought Canada to her present prosperous and unparalleled position and cause widespread disturbance in her industrial injury to many interests; jeopardize the commercial and political status of the Dominion.

THE REPLY:

(1) There are only two features of the agreement. One is the reduction of taxation, the other expansion of trade. These have been the leading features of the policy of the Liberal party ever since it came into power in 1896. We witness the tariff reduction of 1897 and 1898, the British preference, the French treaty, and the standing offer of the intercolonial tariff. Canada's present material prosperity and strength of national sentiment have been attained and increase of that policy, and how a commercial and political future of much its continuance of that policy, as provided in the proposed arrangement.

(2) By reducing the burdens on the Canadian taxpayer and opening wider and more profitable markets for three of the four creative industries of Canada: farming, lumbering and fishing. It would aid in the development of Canada's resources by her own people and in their greater profit.

(3) Canada's foreign trade is greater than ever before.

Her interprovincial trade is greater than ever before.

When her foreign trade was least her interprovincial trade was least.

Prosperity resulting from increase of foreign trade inevitably increases interprovincial trade.

(4) By giving Canadian producers all the advantages of the United States market without political association of any kind, even to the limited extent of a trade treaty, it would take away any possible reason for a treasonable wish political union with the United States.

(5) The agreement was made in secret as all trade arrangements between countries have always been made and must always be made. Great Britain has made treaties with every important country in the world; all negotiated in secret, without consultation with the commercial interests involved and without any reference from the people. A secret treaty—a necessary one under the British system of responsible government, every government has a standing mandate to protect and advance the best interests of the people whenever opportunity offers.

(6) To recommend an immediate dissolution on the terms of the arrangement.

The agreement can be terminated within a year at any time the Canadian people desire.

The only way in which the people can indicate their opposition to it is by giving it final and decisive form and effect by legislative action in 1911, so that if the Canada wants what they now voice it can say they will be voting on a concrete proposition and not on an abstract theory. The Hon. Lady no doubt will appreciate the opportunity of repeating the same and of voting for their views the men who made it, in accordance with the well established British system of responsible government.

Is Canada in danger from the government that would reduce taxation and increase trade or from the so-called "Commercial interests" that actually "combine interests" as represented at the Toronto meeting, which would increase taxation and restrict trade?

The agreement is as close to the centre as it can be and not control the Government, therefore they fight the agreement and the Government that made it.

The question is, shall Canada be governed by the ex-clerks under the pet name of "Commercial interests" or shall it be governed for the workers, whether of the farm, the forest the mine or the factory.

Canada nationality and Imperial loyalty will be strengthened by this Government's progressive policy of the past 15 years. They will be still further strengthened by the extension of that policy as expressed in the proposed trade arrangement.

FASHIONS AND FANCIES

Gradually the trend of fashion for spring and summer is conveying a definite direction. Already there are a little under, so that we are allowed more freedom of new scent, and the length and hooded in, for the more graceful and less cumbersome and relatively rotundous. The line is still to be preserved in all its starky—that is, for it is consistent with a complexity of cut and a great meaning of trimmings—and the normal waist line is to be resumed. There is also a tendency to swing gowns they are often accomplished in the material that is to be used for the skirt. These produces are odd and refreshing from anything we have had—sort of combining it all, as yet peculiarly charming. Of course, the tailor suit will be the gait of an Oriental, for it is hardly less difficult to walk in the sunlight to blench. If it be not very dirty, bread crumbs will clean it as well as anything else, and the applies to white and colored silk embroidered pieces as well.

As to these embroidered doilies and centrepieces, they are not so difficult a problem as are the linen. They should be washed in warm, soapy water, with a little bluing in keep them from turning yellow, and should be ironed on a pad on the wrong side, without starching.

Linen should really not be ironed, but should be pinned tightly on a board and left to dry. However, many people like the linen stiff, so it is well to understand how to do it. Use a little thin boiled starch, and after ironing—still on the wrong side—rub each such dorner with an orange and lay it away in a box.

As for stains, they are sacrilege on fine lace embroidery; still, they do occur and must be removed. Magenta (French chalk), other or plain chalk will remove grease stains. The yolk of an egg removes fruit stains. Javelle water takes out stains, never with salt and rub with half a lemon. Rub something to the grain of the material. Cologne will also remove grease; and you should use lemon, milk, or the juice of ripe tomatoes for stains that will be fatal to lace.

Centrepieces, doilies, etc., should always be rolled on a tube of cardboard or stiff paper, or a flat piece of cardboard may be rolled with the embroidery so that it is covered on both sides. Never use a piece of linen paper covered on one side of the linen with tiny pins is a good precaution before rolling. When you wish to remove them, cover the pins first with silver paper; it will keep it from turning yellow, as the pins are apt to do in time.

But, after all, the important thing in save—and more years! cherish your lines and embroideries as you would your children, and they will repay you in beauty, and see that they are well tucked in when they go to bed.

GERMANY'S IRELAND

LIKA ELSENBURG is not loth to have Home Rule—if a land it done not want. Forty years ago his territory was wrested from France and annexed to Prussia-before Like Ireland, the inhabitants have been striving for Home Rule—and unsuccessfully. They have still remained in the tenth as a foreign conquest. The Prussian Chancellor, Herr Bethmann Hollweg, recently announced that by after his appointment that their Alsace-Lorraine was granted, but in the restriction he now proposes the Reichsland should be given a few more rights than it had before. Under the proposed law the Emperor will still be represented in the Chamber by a President, who "shall possess no veto on the judgment of the Chamber, and after treating—still on the wrong side—each such decree with an orange and a box of the Chamber."

Alsace-Lorraine is not exactly a happy land. Ever since the conquered territory. For all logic and reason it should be. Of its own blood and stains, never with salt and rub with half a lemon. Rub something to the grain of the material. Cologne will also remove grease; and you should use lemon, milk, or the juice of ripe tomatoes for stains that will be fatal to lace.

Centrepieces, doilies, etc., should always be rolled on a tube of cardboard or stiff paper, or a flat piece of cardboard may be rolled with the embroidery so that it is covered on both sides. Never use a piece of linen paper covered on one side of the linen with tiny pins is a good precaution before rolling. When you wish to remove them, cover the pins first with silver paper; it will keep it from turning yellow, as the pins are apt to do in time.

But, after all, the important thing is save—and more years! cherish your lines and embroideries as you would your children, and they will repay you in beauty, and see that they are well tucked in when they go to bed.

HOW TAXIDERMY ARE MADE

HOW can you answer the question: "Who makes the Taxidermists?" A remarkable book, by a famous artist, illustrated, is about to be published in Paris that deals with the subject at enormous length.

Fashions are "created," for the most part, by Parisian artists. The process of those makers of fashion and artists is that it is but the thing of a day, and would perish entirely were it not for the existence of fashion plates and photographs.

A great fashion designer is a professor of the art of novelty. It is his task to combine his skill and practical experience in such a way that he produces a thing of beauty

A MODERN MIRACLE!

Storyettes

A FARMER standing one Sunday at the corner of Bay and Yonge streets, Toronto, a friend said: "Ah, what's the matter with you? Can't you get out more than one word at a time?"

"Yes," the ex-chatterbox replied, "but formerly I could pick and choose."

A BIG fellow, being advised to try the Bath treatment, answered his physician to recommend him to a feather bed—he would prefer a soft one. Now, that's strictly in order. Not fatigue or worry but nervous exhaustion is the big wonderful seat of unbreakdown and it's Bath Brick that's the great nerve builder. Bath Brick is the best soap for the day over here the same as in the Old Country. Get it at the store. Take the doctor's counsel and not your own.

"Sir, I am a scientific author, and I have formerly I could pick and choose what I was about; I have another to get to work."

A PATRON'S actor would never take a part in which he received more than a few lines to study. He was always willing to assist, on occasion, in the production of a piece when there was only a part in which the boss's wife was interested. One of the pieces in question was staging the play of "Hamlet," and the boss's wife was cast for the part of Ophelia. The actor had always been sure to "fall down" on his lines, and the boss, noticing this, said: "Now, Jim, I want you to be sure to get your lines right in this piece, and I'll make it worth your while. Ophelia has a line of seven." He could not throw it away, so he had to do his best. And he did. So much his personality that the boss drank the remainder but he never forgot Ophelia's exhortation.

A PRETTY STATE OF AFFAIRS

Councillor Emery at last Tuesday night's council meeting brought up the matter of the out of repair condition of the pump in the town well on 3rd ave. Council made no move whatever to order any repairs to be made. The stand has evidently been taken by the council that the pumps can now take care of themselves. In fact it has been intimated that if any pump on any of the town wells goes out of repair, it is up to the private citizens to do the repairs themselves. Now, there may be some amongst the citizens who can do this, but it is out of the question to think that this attitude should be tolerated. It is up to the council to see that these pumps are keep in proper condition. Last year council carried a bylaw for $400 which money was to be expended for supplying a water supply system. They chose to expend a considerable amount of this in putting down the well on 3rd ave, and in retaining in pumps in other wells in town. They are making levy upon the citizens of the town of Tofield to raise the money to the debt created by the $4,000 bylaw who therefore, is paying for this public utility? Why the citizens, of course.

IS THIS 'DOG IN THE MANGER' STYLE?

Then the citizens have the right to have their interest protected. Is the council protecting the interests of the citizens? Why should they spend this attitude? The citizens' money has been and being used to liquidate this water works debt. If the council has spent any of this money in erecting a public utility it is up to them to see that what public utility which they have established is kept up as a going concern. By adopting this enerish method they are laying themselves open to public censure and deservedly so. It is not the citizens' fault that a better means of water supply has not been provided. If it is not the citizens' fault that money was thrown away on the Hamilton and Paradis stabbles, council can be made through legal procedure under the bylaw passed by the majority of the ratepayers last year voting them the money to procure water and a part of which money they have already spent on these wells, to keep in repair and maintain as a going concern that public utility which they have established with the citizens' money.

This, too, is a matter in which the public of the town not only is interested. The public of the country surrounding the town have a strong interest in the matter. Council, as our representatives, have a duty to perform of consideration for the public upon whom trade and patronage the trade and commerce of this town depends. We think there has been enough said.

The proposed agreement between the town and W. C. Glister for the drilling of a 1000 foot water well in town this spring came up for consideration at the council meeting Tuesday night. The agreement sets forth that the well be drilled to a depth of 1000 feet at a cost of $8 per ft., every thing being supplied by the contractor Should an ample supply of water or otherwise be struck at 800 feet or less the contractor is to receive the sum of $5000. If this should not occur and a supply sufficient for all needs for some time to come be struck at a point from 800 to 750 feet down the contractor is to receive $6,750. Or if this point is passed before the supply is struck the rate shall be $8 per foot. The agreement does not imply that the town shall pay the contractor any money on the job until the supply is struck and the well completed or until the well will have been drilled to a depth of 1000 feet.

It is reported that the banks of the town of Tofield for the past year are in a hopeless muddle. At last Tuesday night's meeting it was decided to have a chartered accountant employed to go through them and bring order out of chaos.

Municipal affairs in Edmonton seem to be in a furious tangle. Mayor Armstrong and a majority of the council are seemingly bent on firing the utilities Commissioner, Baillon, because of alleged insubordination on the part of the popularly efficient official. The citizens of the Capital amongst whom are many of the best leading public men are taking up the cudgels for a fair inquiry into civic matters and a square deal for the Commissioner, but the majority of the council and the mayor seem to be anxious to back the inquiry at every stage of the game.

GRAND TRUNK NEW FARMERLIER SERVICE

The Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will hold a "Rainbow Tea" in Masonic Hall on Wednesday evening of next week. The Ladies have something very mysterious about the "Rainbow Tea" the secrets of which they are unwilling to divulge. They are charging 25c. for adults and 25c. for children. When they are after the money they know how to keep their movements secret. But "Murder will out," so the saying is and many curious ones will learn the mysteries even if they have to pay for them. Next Wednesday evening, 8 p. m. Don't forget.

Who would'nt be a Scooter with Tofield and district being what it is? Last week a Prince Albert Islander blew into town. He said he had received a post card photo of the Tofield Coal Mines, a couple of weeks ago, which looked pretty good to him. But as these pictures, particularly word pictures, are so often overstretched, he thought he would come and see for himself. "Thats why I am here," he said. He took a trip to the mines and looked over the works. On his return to town he was fairly exploding with enthusiasm. "Tofield looks good to me." "I want a block of land in this town. This is going to be a city. Why you've millions of tons of coal here and so close to the railroad. Almost in town. Me for a purchase." And he straight way steered his way to the townsite agent's.

Friends of Mr. J. C. Philips will be glad to learn that he is recovering from his accident which he suffered a couple of weeks ago. He was unloading telephone poles at the yards when one of them swerved striking him, and knocking him down and falling upon him. Several ribs were broken in the mix-up.

AFTER THE GAME

Good game.

Everybody agreed.

Tofield had them going until George had his nose broken.

He sure heads as protectors in Tofield over result of last Saturday's game. Varsity boys too, unanimously voted Tofield a good bunch of sports.

Letourneau played best game of season at right wing. He surprised the best of them.

Blayney for Varsity played a whirlwind game. Some player that.

Bissett, centre, showed up in good form. Unfortunately he lost some time on account—on the "goon Young got—but he'll improve.

"Some player that" was many times said by the Varsity boys about Charlesworth our A1 goal keeper. He knows how to stop 'em.

Boyd Wann's that exciting finish in the last five minutes. With two of Tofield's players practically knocked out it was all Varsity could do to get the puck past the valiant five.

Varsity earned the odd goal. They're welcome to the decision. Another time may'll have a tough proposition. Let us hope the weather will hold out so that another game can be arranged. Then root again for the green and white.

Varsity got it put all over them last Tuesday afternoon they being defeated to the tune of 12 to 6 at Beaumont.

Varsity won on Monday in Edmonton from the Collegiate team 12 to 11.

Dancoce defeated St. Mary's last Tuesday night in Edmonton by a score of 5-4. St. Mary's still had a goal to spare and as this was the final game they hold the championship of the province for 1911.

The Jessie MacLachlan Concert of last Monday evening in Masonic Hall was without doubt the best ever' that has happened in Tofield. The noted singer thoroughly captivated her large audience which thronged the concert hall to the very doors. Mr. Buchanan as a pianist showed himself to be a past master of the pianoforte. In Mr. Emery an entertainer was found who at once headled the undivided attention of his hearers and won unstinted rounds of applause. The Tofield public will welcome any opportunity of hearing this celebrated concert party on a future occasion. Many come some twenty miles to hear Miss MacLachlan. Worthy sons and daughters of scotland were there in plenty.

H Strozenza, another very interesting character and a gentleman of much travel and who now lives with his son and family near Olds was a visitor to many of the Bardo people during the past few days. Mr. Strozenza now has a most interesting experience in his native land, Norway. The story is best told from his own lips as he was the principal figure in the tragic occurrence He and a fellow chum were travelling on foot over a mountainous range on route to see a young lady whom he (Strozenza) hoped one day to claim as his own. On the way across the mountain Strozenza lost his footing and fell into a crevice some 100 feet in depth. His companion found him at length at the bottom of the cleft and after much perse-

Important Church Co-Operation Arrangements

A meeting of much importance and interest was held in Grace Methodist Church at Wainwright, on Thursday and Friday, Feb 23rd and 24th. It was the first meeting of the Methodist and Presbyterians of the Wainwright district in connection with the work of promoting over-lapping in mission work by these two churches.

The members of the committee were Rev. S. C. Buchanan, Methodist Superintendent of Missions; Rev. W. D. Reid, Presbyterian Superintendent of Missions; Rev. W. F. Gold of Tofield, Rev. R. T. Hardon of Provost, Rev A. Rosser and Rev. T. Philps of Wainwright, and the following laymen:—Basil Hibbard of Viking, H. E. Armstrong of Irma, J. Hayes of Provost, Al Cookson of Tofield. Other ministers and laymen were present to confer with the committee.

After careful consideration of the various fields of the whole district the following arrangements were made:—

The Presbyterians are to have charge of the territory from range one to range seven along G.T.P. and including Grindrode and Parallen Valley north of Battle river.

The Methodists to have charge of territory from range seven to range fourteen on G.T.P. extending west of Wainwright to Provost inclusive. The Wainwright mission not included in this arrangement.

The following resolution was passed re Ryley and Holden—That it is strongly recommended that the people seek to carry out amalgamations of the Methodists and Presbyterians at both Ryley and Holden in favor of the Methodists withdrawing from Ryley and the the Presbyterians from Holden and that a committee be set up consisted consisting of the superintendents of missions from each denomination to further this amalgamation.

That the Methodist church withdraw from Cadogan on the C.P.R. and the Presbyterian church withdraw from Amisk or in other words the territory west of a line running along and through Cadogan and Calroe to Hardisty to be in charge of the Methodist church and the territory east west of said line to Provost, but not including any part of Provost mission to be in charge of the Presbyterian church.

That Presbyterians withdraw from Harter on the C.P.R.

That the Methodist church withdraw from Sedgewick and leave Hardisty in charge of Methodist church.

That Provincial appointment on Sedgewick mission be given over to Presbyterians and Hardings remain in charge of Methodists.

Mr. Business Man

YOU are the master salesman of your store—do not forget that.

YOU are the initiator, promoter, the force behind every sale made in your store.

You determine, too, as completely as it is permitted to any of us to control and give direction to events, how MANY sales your store makes in a day or week. Within the store-walls your salesmanship is the MAIN one in every detail of the store service.

Without the store walls your salesmanship must reach as an influence in behalf of your store—as a never-relaxed influence, exerted through newspaper publicity.

This influence is what causes the woman of the house to "put on her things" and hurry down to your store—when her intention had been to wait until next week. Just how many people read and to this same impulse depends upon how strong and persuading you make your advertising.

Your advertising can be neither strong nor convincing if it is cramped for space—if it is non-consecutive—if it looks the fire which your own enthusiasm—and nothing else in the world—can put into it.

"Missing" a store-ad is usually missing a buying chance.

Whenever you have any clothing for steam cleaning, dry-cleaning or dyeing, send it to Carl Hennigsen's Dye Works, Edmonton.

The late Hon. David Davis once said: "Each year every local paper gives from $100 to $5,000 in free lines for the benefit of the community in which it is located. No other agency can or will do this. The local editor, in proportion to his means, does more for the town than any other ten men, and is fairest, man with man, he ought to be supported, not because you happen to like him or admire his writing, but because a local paper is the best investment a community can make. It may not be brilliant or crowded with great thoughts, but financially it is more of a benefit to a community than a preacher or a teacher. Understand us now, we do not mean morally or intellectually, but financially, and put on the moral question you will find the majority of local papers are on the right side of the question. To-day the editor of local papers do the most work for the least money of any man on earth. Subscribe for your local paper, not as charity, but as an investment.

Sensible Flag Proposition in House

When a Foreign Flag Floats in Canada Another Union Jack of Equal Size Must Float Above.

OTTAWA, Feb. 28.—Major Beattie of London, moved a resolution declaring that where foreign ensign or flag is displayed anywhere in the Dominion by any person except accredited representatives of a foreign government, a Union Jack of equal size shall also be hoisted in the most prominent position at the same place.

He was supported by Gerald White, North Renfrew, who pointed out that there was no need for intolerance in Canada regarding flying of foreign flags.

Mr. Pugsley said it was a shame that we should keep the British flag flying as often as possible. He believed the Union Jack was dear to the end of time, and that it stood also that in Canada there was by far all time. He proposed that he had given orders that national flag must be displayed every day of the year on buildings of border towns and seaports. This had met with approval.

After speeches by Dr. Pugsley and Mr. Nantel in support of the proposal and by Dr. Chisholm (Antigonish against, Major Beattie closed the debate, and the house adjourn was adopted by a vote of 89 to 40.

Thinks Reciprocity the Right Thing

The meeting particularly was a good one and we are convinced. The Lightbourne Express (Pugsley), the historic figure of Huguenots and the burning of Rome be Nero were realistic enough to create a vivid impression. Tilly's Marvelous Band in their daring feats delighted not only the children but all who appreciate horsemanship. "The Lure of a Woman" and "The Last Glass" were funny to the audience in continous laughter

Lewis Glen was in town Monday and called at the office and for a pleasant chat. Mr Glen stated that in his opinion there is no farm implement should be taken off completely. Even with the duty on entirely U. S. implements could be sold in Canada at less than what the Canadian manufacturers are sold now. As it is now a settler must needs have some thousands of dollars of capital in order to properly outfit himself to farm a half-section. The country will never prosper well until conditions are made more favorable to the producer of all wealth. There is no moral reason why the farmer should not share with others the benefits of honest industry. He produces it and ought to have his his share of it.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Liniment and bound on to the affected parts is superior to any plaster. When troubled with lame back or pain in the side or chest give it a trial and you are certain to be more than pleased with the prompt relief which it affords. Sold by dealers everywhere

Demonstration Farm

Yesterday's "Bulletin" of Edmonton gets off with a lot of BOT about a delegation from Tofield waiting upon the Hon. Minister of Agriculture last Monday and presenting upon him the claim of Tofield to have a Demonstration Farm located here. Let us politely inform the Bulletin that the delegation that waited upon the Hon. Minister DID NOT PRESENT NO SUCH CLAIM WHATEVER. What the delegation did do before the Minister was the request that in considering the question of Demonstration farms throughout the province, that that portion of the province lying along the G.T.P. between the Beaver Hills and the Battle River should not be overlooked but that it should have equal consideration with other portions or points throughout the province.

Tofield has more sense than to go up to Edmonton pleading for the location of a Demonstration Farm in its immediate vicinity. We are perfectly willing to let our chances stand or fall with the rest. All we want is to have our position of the province stand an equal chance with the rest. That is what the delegation asked for and that is all we expect. Like some other news mongers and so far as we who get things badly mixed, the Bulletin should get its news in a competently authentic before it gives it out to the public.

Jamieson for the north section of town for three years; R. R. Barkwell for that section of town lying east of Main St. for two years; and C. H. Cress for that portion of town lying west of Main St. for one year

Considerable discussion arose over Councillor Urquhart's motion to amend the License By law as it concerns the license to milk vendors. His motion was to amend this clause so that a license fee of $5.00 per year be imposed instead of $10.00. Coun. Story moved an amendment to the motion that the license fee for milk vendors be done away with entirely. Coun. Ferguson argued that the townspeople should not give up their control of this business from a health and sanitary standpoint and took the stand that the bylaw was good enough the way it always has been. In this he was supported by Coun. Emery. The amendment was put and lost. The motion was then put and also lost and the milk vendors license will remain as it was.

J. Forbes Ellis had an application before the council for the position of secretary-treasurer of the council and secretary of the board of trade a salary of $75.00 per month, It was decided to accept this application upon satisfactory references being shown as to the ability, etc., of the applicant.

Public works on ditches which was held up last fall owing to winter coming on was ordered to be proceeded with as soon as possible.

The auditor's report which is complete of all the business of 1910 and up to January 31st last, the date on which the late secretary-treasurer left Tofield shows the financial affairs of the town to be in a satisfactory condition. That the council had conducted the business of the municipality and kept expenditures well within the income is shown from the fact that at the end of the term there was a balance of $2,310.66 to the credit of the town. Upon last year's assessment basis we still have a borrowing power of $22,500.00. This shows that our credit has not been unduly encroached upon. Real property has been acquired for town purposes. The preamble of the report which will be put out in pamphlet form in a few days is as follows: -

FOUR PHYSICIANS FAILED

Mr. George Pulse, a Well-known Tobacco Merchant in Brockville, Tells of His Fight in the Month of Saturday.

"In the fall of 1902," writes Mr. Pulse, under date of June 7th, 1904, "I contracted a very severe cold which developed into Catarrh. At that time I was living in New York state and had four different physicians, who also afforded me no relief. In coming to Brockville, I was advised to try Catarrhozone. I bought the outfit, used it, and was gratified to find it helped me. I was completely cured by it, and have since used it on about a cold with satisfying results. It is the greatest medicine in the world, and I have my testimony will to show for it. Catarrhozone is the only one to effect a cure."

TOFIELD, MAR. 30, 1911

Voting on the by-law to raise $8,000 by sale of debentures of the Town of Tofield for the purpose of [illegible] a well for water will [illegible] on Saturday next. The ratepayers of Tofield have long [illegible] the council to give the people greater supply primarily for fire protection purposes.

A provisional contract has been [illegible] between the council and W. [illegible] under an expert well driller who has drilled wells at Medicine Hat and other places in the west, United States and Mexico. By the terms of the contract Mr. Hunter is to drill a well 1,000 feet in depth if necessary. He is to strike with a 10 inch hole and to have a 6 inch hole in diameter at least at the bottom. If he strikes a well with supply of water at a lesser depth satisfactory to the municipality he is to cease drilling and will be paid only when he has a completed the well by casing it, and leaving it in proper shape. He is to furnish all casing and do all the work. Should he drill only 500 feet or less he is to receive $5,000; $6,000 should he drill from 500 to 750 feet; to have he gets an absolutely supply of water he will get $7,500 and if he goes to 1,000 feet he will get $8,000. He is ready to start immediately upon the appraisal of the bargain by the ratepayers.

It is one to us that this is a good bargain as can be struck by the town. Here we have an expert driller and he undertakes to put down the well without any expenditure by the town to him until he gets the job done. At any one of the above figures, if we get a good supply of water, we get off cheaply. Water in many places is cheap at almost any price. Here we are not on bad oil as that, but we are in great need of a plentiful supply of good water. A blaze breaking out at any time in town might easily sweep all many times that amount in property in a few hours. If we can get a good supply of water by this means it is up to the ratepayers of the town to second by the council and drive the best bargain that we can. We have learned lessons in the past which will be of use to us in the future. If this by-law carries next Saturday, in a few days we will see the machinery down here, heated and hard at work, night and day until the job is completed. Let us get out then on Saturday and exercise our franchise for the best interests of the town.

Some sound town have said that there are other means for supplying water for the town. So there are. But there is no reason to assume for a moment that the supply of water will be good nor such, and that it can be laid down in town at anything like the figure that the above mentioned by law specifies. Another source of supply has been mentioned but we have no data to show nor anything to indicate that the supply will be permanent. What has been proposed by the council has been the fruit of mine and serious deliberations of the men selected by us to transact the municipal affairs. Do not let us defeat this matter of supplying the town with water a moment longer than absolutely necessary. VOTE ON SATURDAY.

THE PROBATION SYSTEM

The Successful Method of Dealing with First Offenders without the Use of Jails or Reformatories

The probation system in Alberta has been in force for over three years and the results have fully warranted the expenditure of time and money necessary to secure such results.

Alberta makes no claim to being the first to use Probation. The [illegible] as used in Alberta is copied largely from that used in Ohio and under the direction of Judge Adams and Mr. Lewis the Chief Probation Officer.

The common question: "What is probation" can be answered by stating that: Probation is a system of according to help improve the character of the offender, giving him his liberty under friendly and coercive oversight as a substitute for punishment. This is done by the judge before whom the case is called. When he would deem it proper he would not pronounce sentence, after a person had been found guilty or would suspend the execution of it and release him under a conditional agreement of good behavior, in the case of a juvenile, appointing a probation officer who shall instruct the probationer as to the mode of life to [illegible] agree to adopt, and who shall personally visit the probationer at sustained [illegible] and report to the court upon his conduct. By introducing the probationer to helpful friends, and by a friendly oversight of the boy's recreation and amusements, the officer exerts a helpful influence on the [illegible] and to aid [illegible] Reports are required weekly and then the probation officer sees fit and send to the Superintendent.

It is of course difficult to secure the right stamp of individual to act in the capacity of Probation officer, requires both time and energy, and no amount of either will accomplish the end of probation unless the Probation Officer is interested enough in the small details to be able to win his entire confidence and sympathy.

The danger of probation is that its administrative, ineffectual or [illegible] application should [illegible] in the minds of the future citizens of the state, a contempt for justice, and in the future law breaker an unconcern as to the consequences of his acts. This danger can be averted by the careful selection and oversight of probation officer and thus a respect for law and order may be developed in the minds of the boys of this generation who will be the leaders in the next [illegible] in large measure the citizenship of the country.

The immense advantages of probation when properly handled are self evident. The correction of children without deprivation of their liberty or placing upon them the stigma of imprisonment or [illegible] and to them the act of first offenders from falling into habitual law breaking the saving to society and to worthless the boys and girls who might otherwise be warped and twisted by the abnormal conditions of prison and institutional life, there are a few of the advantages of probation properly administered and carried out.

GOES TO SEE OWN STOMACH

Philadelphia, Pa., May 20.—R. J. Sykes, of Carlsbon, Alberta, Canada, paid a friendly call on his stomach today at the American stomach hospital here.

"Yes," said Sykes, "I hadn't seen it for a year. True, it gave me lots of trouble while I had it, and I have got along well enough without him, you know, I once had a personal interest in my stomach, and I wanted to see it in a glass bottle. If I had keep it I would have been dead long ago."

If your stomach doesn't agree with you, have it out out." That what Sykes commercials. The doctors a year ago gave him one month to live, and told him he had one chance in a hundred of surviving the operation. He took the chance.

Musical Festival

The Fourth Alberta Musical Competition Festival will be held in Edmonton during the first week in May, and promises to beat even greater success than in previous years.

The committee would specially call the attention of the smaller towns to a new competition, added this year for quartette of mixed voices, the members of which need not belong to the same or any church choir and also to the new competitions for vocal duets, soprano and contralto, or tenor and bass.

A copy of the Syllabus can be obtained from the Secretary, Mr. F. [illegible] Edmonton. If any one mention, she also has a full supply of all the competitions in music.

As in previous years the railways will give a special rate of single fare for the return journey.

HYOMEI

The Breathable Remedy for Catarrh

The national way to combat Catarrh is the Hyomei way and by breathing. Scientists for years have been agreed on this point but failed to get a good septic strong enough to kill catarrh germs and not destroy the tissues of the membrane at the same time, until the discovery of Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me).

Hyomei is the most powerful yet healing antiseptic known. Breath it through the inhaler over the throat and germs which membrane lose or die. Then you get a few drops of the germ killing liquid in a complete Hyomei outfit, including the inhaler, extra $1.00 and extra bottles, if extra needed, only but 50 cents. Do you know that of all the cough mixtures sold in the world that one used to fear but the serious diseases that it often leads to. Most of these are known as germ diseases. Pneumonia and consumption are among them. Why not take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and cure your cold while you can? For sale by dealers everywhere.

Is your subscription paid up?
If not, why not.

Mr. Business Man

YOU are the master salesman of your store do not forget that.

YOU are the initiator, promoter, the force behind every sale made in your store.

You determine, too, as completely as it is permitted to any of us to determine anything, whether your son, daughter, brother or sister of the resident householder shall succeed you.

Without the store walls your salesmanship must reach as an influence in behalf of your store as a never relaxed influence, exerted through new paper publicity.

This influence is what causes the woman of the home to "put on her things" and hurry down to your store when her intention had been to wait until next week. And how many people respond to this same impulse depends upon how strong and persuading you make your advertising.

Your advertising can be neither strong nor convincing if it is cramped for space if it is non-consecutive if it lacks the live which your own enthusiasm and nothing else in the world can put into it.

Wishing a store-ful is usually missing a long-ful chance.

If you have trouble in getting rid of your cold you may know that you are not treating it properly. There is no reason why a cold should hang on for weeks and it will not if you take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For sale by dealers everywhere.

When you have rheumatism in your foot or instep apply Chamberlain's Liniment and you will get quick relief. It costs but a quarter. Why suffer? For sale by dealers everywhere.

The Grand Trunk's London Offices

Cockspur Street, facing Trafalgar Square, London, has, for a number of years become the home of several great railway and steamship companies. One of the most conspicuous public buildings in this locality has been erected by the Grand Trunk Railway System for their accommodation.

The Grand Trunk, when its proposed extensions are completed, will be the most important transcontinental system in the world, and it is fitting that they should have quarters in the metropolis of the world that will be in harmony with their wonderful growth.

Sir Aston Webb, R.A. is the architect of the building. The frontage of the new offices presents a very dignified elevation, in character very much like the palatial structures erected by the various Italian Republics in the palmiest days of their commercial prosperity. The five coats of arms of the Provinces of Canada traversed by the Grand Trunk System in Canada, are introduced beneath the subsidiary cornice of the 8th Bay, and harmony seems to dominate this noble frontage. The great central doorway is pierced by two lights and adorned by spirer of sculpture, chiselled by Mr. Albert Toney, A.R.A., the well known sculptor, and which is emblematical of travel by land and sea.

The new quarters are merely an office building, but a meeting place for Canadians and Americans and their European, Australian and South African friends, a "Canadian commercial embassy" or information bureau, to supply the public with accurate and complete information concerning the resources of Canada. Every one is invited to make use of the facilities thus offered.

The main office on the ground floor is a very handsome room panelled in teak, with inlays of holly and ebony, and a frieze running all around, painted by R. Frank Brangwyn, R.A. representing the genesis of Canadian life, from the wild life of the Indian to the building of the railway and the influence of the white man on the country.

Reception rooms are also provided for the use of visitors on transact business. On the second floor is another large reception room for visitors and friends to meet in. This room is supplied with Canadian newspapers and journals and a reference library, and Transatlantic passengers visiting London, Eng., are cordially invited to visit these handsome new offices, which cover location being 17-19 Cockspur St., London, S.W. They are very easily found as the building is in the midst of the business centre of London, in fact it is at the very hub of the world's Metropolis, and within five minutes walk of the leading hotels and near the intake to the tube at Trafalgar Square station.

RANCHER MURDERED

William Lennox of the Buffalo Lake District Shot While Talking to Neighbor in Shack

William Lennox, a wealthy and respected rancher of the Buffalo Lake district, located near Stettler, was shot and instantly killed by a bullet from a rifle in the hands of a neighbor, Peter Jacobson, at his home on Monday afternoon. Jacobson has been arrested by the police in connection with the deed.

No motive can be assigned for the murder, but that of malice. Lennox was a well-to-do bachelor, was lived alone in a small shack and kept little money with him. In his immediate neighborhood where the shacks of a number of other bachelors, who made a small community among themselves. He had no relatives in the Stettler district, his father who lived with him for a time having died two years ago. He owned two sections of land, and a big bunch of cattle and horses worth in all probably $20,000.

A further report says that a second man has been arrested in connection with the murder.

A BODY GUARD FOR FIELDING

Startling Story to the Effect That He was Held up and Searched for Reciprocity Papers

OTTAWA, March 28. Considerable excitement has been caused in the capital by the following paragraph which appeared in the Ottawa Free Press.

"A startling rumor was going the round of lobbies of the house of commons last night to the effect that one night not long ago Mr. Fielding was held up by a man on Metcalfe Street and his pockets gone through with the object of discovering certain papers relating to the reciprocity negotiations.

The report could not be confirmed, but it received a certain amount of corroboration in the fact that there sat in the public gallery a plain clothes man of the detective police, whose duty it has been and is, to see that Mr. Fielding gets home safely.

Mr. Fielding is still in Montreal, but members of his family, and officials say the report is not true. It is stated, however, that Mr. Fielding has received threatening letters from parties who lost money in the Farmers' Bank and that he is being guarded by secret service men in plain clothes.

158 PERISH IN NEW YORK FIRE

Greatest Disaster New York has known for Years Takes Terrible Toll of Human Life

NEW YORK, March 28.—One hundred and fifty-eight persons, nine tenths of them girls from the east side, were crushed to death on the pavements, smothered in smoke and shrivelled to a crisp in a factory fire on Saturday afternoon last, in the worst disaster New York has known since the steamship General Slocum was burned to the waters edge, off North Brother Island in 1904.

One hundred and forty-one bodies had been removed from the ruins at midnight and seventeen of the 30 injured had died in hospitals. This list is believed, completes the list of dead. Most of those are unidentified. Grief crazed relatives besieged the morgue as the bodies were laid out.

Nearly all, if not all of the victims, were employed by the Triangle Waist Company on the eighth, ninth and tenth floors of a factory loft building, at 23 Washington place, on the western fringe of the down town wholesale clothing district.

The partners of the firm, Isaac Harris and Max Blanck, escaped unscathed from the office on the tenth floor, carrying with them over an adjoining roof Blanck's two young daughters and a governess. There was not an outside fire escape on the building.

How the fire started will perhaps never be known. A cotton on the eighth floor ass its point of origin and the three upper floors only were swept.

On the ninth floor 50 bodies were found, 60 or more persons were crushed to death by jumping and the aisles thirty clogged the elevator shaft.

Principal Younie of the Tofield Public Schools called upon the Standard the other day and reports a great increase in the attendance in the school. He wishes it to be known that any pupils will be admitted to the classes at the opening of the new term which commences next [illegible] after Easter. None under six years of age are desired. Principal Younie says that the rooms are filled almost to their full capacity

The prisoner spoke to a friend about the matter, and the friend raised $50 a day for the governor. When the friend went to the governor, he refused to take the money.

J. W. CARTER, Auctioneer, Tofield.

G. A. TRENT, Owner.

TOFIELD,
21th March, 1911.

To the Mayor and Council,
Town of Tofield.

Gentlemen,

I beg to report that I have audited the accounts of your town, as instructed, up to the 31st January, 1911, this audit having been brought up to that date for the reason that your late Secretary-Treasurer retired at that time and all of the transactions in January, 1911, were concerned in the revenue and expenditures of 1910.

The following statements are submitted herewith: -

Receipts and Expenditure
Revenue Account
Assets and Liabilities
Statement of Town Property

The Statement of Receipts and Expenditure calls for no remarks. I have endeavoured to itemize it as far as possible, but owing to lack of personal knowledge, and the absence of the book-keeper who made the entries, I found it impossible to give specific details for the debenture expenditure with assured accuracy. I have however verified all receipts and disbursement vouchers from 1st August, 1910, accepting the statements of Mr A J H McCauley for all transactions prior to that date as these had been approved by you and verified by a provincial audit by Mr. J. A. Shaw. I have however revised and arranged the distribution of of the disbursements for the full term of 13 months.

The Revenue Account is intended to show in a clear and concise manner the application of the taxes levied upon the ratepayers supplemented by revenue from other sources. In this form it ought to check up and agree with the estimates submitted at the time of striking the tax rate for the year. The result for the past year is a satisfactory one, in so far as it shows that you lived within your income to the extent of $2,340.00, but it would have been better business and more satisfactory to your ratepayers if the tax rate had been reduced by this sum. When estimating the tax rate this year allowance should be made for this and the levy reduced accordingly.

Assets and Liabilities are arranged in two sections "Current" and "Capital" to make a clear cut distinction between the ordinary current year to year business and the capitalized expenditures of the town with their concurrent assets of town bonells or permanent improvements balanced by the figure of rates and debentures todate, which should be reduced on set out up of as these accumulate year by year. The financial standing of your town is in a very good position Upon the figures of last year's assessment you have a margin of borrowing power of some $22,000.00 and this will no doubt be largely increased when the assessment for 1911 is made and confirmed

I have also made a statement of Town Property that there might be a record prepared of the Real Property acquired to date and its value for your information may be given that the Cemetery, Fire Hall and Town Hall Property was purchased and paid for by Current Revenue representing a value of $725.00 which may have been added to the Capital Assets, in that case the town surplus would also be increased by that sum. However, I had closed the statement before I thought of doing so.

I hope these statements will be found comprehensive and satisfactory to you

Respectfully submitted,
GEO. J. RIVERS,
Auditor

Harrowing and discing started last week.

O. E. Swenson, a well-to-do farmer, has lately arrived from Minnesota with several carloads of horses, stock and settlers effects and has purchased lands in the Bardo section.

The Bardo School is preparing to give a musical festival of more than ordinary importance. It will take place on Wednesday night of next week, the 12th inst. The feature of the evening will be the rendering of a Cantata "Under the Palms," which in itself will occupy two hours. Miss Bartneson and Miss Lobeschine are assisting the pupils on this occasion. The concert will take place in the Bardo Church.

G. Swenson has rented J. Poschang's farm for the summer.

Rev. Mr. Benning is expected back in a week or so. He has been travelling around in search of the prodigal western Statesman but not yet has the Chinta Mystoit.

The dedication of the Mennonite church, south east of Bardo, will be held next Sunday Services will be held in English.

W. J. Parker's little girl who has been ill of late is now well on the road to recovery.

Rumors of wedding bells are in the air It is expected that the chime will be ringing early in the spring.

A number of farmers in this section put up a large quantity of hay last season in the Beaver Hills. Owing to the plentiful local supply there has been no dearth of fodder here this winter. Cattle have come through this winter in splendid condition.

Board of Trade

Met Tuesday Night--Discuss Live Matters Affecting Civic Affairs

The Board of Trade held a successful session last Tuesday evening in the Council Chamber, Town Hall, at which important questions affecting the welfare of Town and district were discussed. President Lange occupied the chair

The committee on Telephones, Good Roads and Agricultural matters reported as per another article on this subject elsewhere in this issue The telephone and roads' committees' reports were accepted and the good work ordered to go on. The board is anxious to see many of the problems affecting the interests of the farm re of the district worked out to the satisfaction of the latter. The telephone committee will look into the question of costs of supplies for putting in a private company line for the farmers.

The literature committee reported that they were getting out a folder which was now on the press. They recommended the adoption of a series of folders issued at various periods throughout the year on the ground that this would be a better follow-up system than issuing a pamphlet. Their recommendation was approved.

The matter of a general clean-up day was brought up for discussion and the secretary was instructed to write the council asking that a day be appointed.

Local Improvements and generally beautifying the town both in streets and private properties came up for a lengthy discussion and a committee was appointed to look into the matter and report.

The purchase of the rink from H. R. Barkwell was another matter discussed. A committee was appointed to take this up and see what could be done.

References regarding the character and ability of Mr. Ellis who is applying for the position of secretary of the board and secretary-treasurer of the town were read and referred to the town council.

A proposition came before the board with reference to the establishment of a nail factory in Tofield. The board was strongly in favor of the town assisting in any satisfactory way towards the establishment of such industry here. A committee was appointed to report on this matter to the next meeting of the town council.

St. Andrew's Guild

(Held over from last week)

The Young Peoples Guild of the St. Andrew's Church held their annual evening on Monday night the leading feature being a debate the subject being "Resolved that reading is of greater educational value than travelling The speakers for the affirmative were Miss Bissett, Miss Campion, and M. Mahaffy, and for the negative Mrs. Wallace Mr Gidd and Mr. Allen. The breathless interest with which each speakers was listened to showed how well they handled their subjects, and is mentioned most of the audience that neither speaker gained much over the other, but, after due deliberation, the judges decided in favor of the affirmative. The meeting was brought to a close with a splendid recitation given by Mrs. Cress, and after partaking of refreshments so bountifully supplied by the ladies, the company broke up feeling well satisfied with an evening well spent.

The public will be interested in the fact that E. O. Bird has within the past few days received no less than four carloads of hardware, machinery, furniture, etc. which he has added to his stock. this no doubt is the reason why he has recently so greatly enlarged his store capacity. Mr. Bird has won a name for himself throughout the country wide as carrying almost anything that may be called for in the way of hardware. That he is of necessity forced to enlarge his already large store speaks well for his success as a merchant who caters to the wants of the public.

Every section of the Tofield district was represented at the Trent auction sale last Saturday. Oldeman, Hoss Creek, Logan, Beaver lake, Ratgate, Ryley, Bonnet Hill, Bardo, Kingmen, Farmington, Woodlawn, Mellated, Kelchanesis, Amisk Creek, Cooking Lake and Hastings Lake sections were all represented.

Everybody quiet and busy in Woodlawn. We all appreciate the beautiful weather we have had for the past two weeks and hope that it will continue.

Dime Rumor says we are to have a postoffice on S.W. 15 Stander Bat Postmaster

Say! What is the matter with the correspondent from Arnold Creek that he has such a grouch at the Americans? It must be that a Yankee trailed horses with him some time and got the best of the bargain. Of course, we all have a right to think as we please on the respicuity question as well as other subjects, but we believe that it was the same correspondent that not long since said, his motto was "Canada for Canada and me." What you want to be, friend, is to improve that upon the Canadian Government, for it seems useless to get all the Americans that it possibly can. Perhaps he hasn't known that you object to Americans, you should mention the fact to the proper parties. When I read such articles I think of a little verse I learned years ago. Tis sad some poor the politic gain us To see our selves and others see us. It would fix many a blunder free us And foolish notion!

The Innocent Murderers

A MYSTERY STORY

(By WILLIAM JOHNSTON and PAUL WEST)

Copyright, 1916, by Dodd & Company

Two Secrets Told

"Why, where's the use of a murderer, or, for that matter, a professional gamin on his hand? Nothing composed at all."

Gordon nodded.

"I knew what it was when I saw it was his great discovery."

"Discovery?" said Mr. Gordon weakly. He seemed to be trying to send his mind back to something that had happened in the manner that someone may try to remember a dream. "Oh, yes—why, he can make anything synthetic."

"Synthetic, indeed," said Gordon, grimly. "Synthetic international actions means to be made out of whole cloth, and find the body there and the murderer in charge of it through the night-stick. It would have been hard to explain. Why, Professor Hopkins was dead, there was no doubt, there was no reason for anyone to know of our—of Professor Hopkins's absence. At the same time, we could not think, to the police, of a story that would be given a satisfactory account of his disappearance—except to keep the body just temporarily, until we could get over and decide on what next. Why, we would give out about his—"

"I was thinkin' who suggested that," said Mr. Gordon, with a sudden flash of his old spirit.

"I will suggest to you, Gordon, that you will not be so ready to make your own self look like a murderer," said Mrs. Gordon, with a sudden flash of her old spirit.

"Now, now," said Mr. Gordon admiringly. "All my eye, we put the body in the corner and left it there, and—and the doors. Then we remembered that we had to talk it over. While we were talking we heard an—a terrific shock in the laboratory. Everybody thought it was the explosion of the bomb. I thought it was the explosion of the bomb. I thought it was the explosion of the bomb. I

TOFIELD, APRIL 13 1911

The Tofield Board of Trade is setting out on an important year's work in every business like manner. Thoroughly organized into departments over each of which a committee has charge the work will doubtless be accomplished in a successful manner. Already signs point to encouraging results from efforts dedicated and lessons could be conserved. Upon specific aims limited to certain lines in the hope of reaching a nothing to the energies which the public interests are to, but as outlined would scarcely be expected in the first year. Yet some merit is being done which is aimed at, no steps should be overlooked and it would tend to the betterment of conditions in a rapid manner if the whole public interests are to be safeguarded and looked upon. One of the things that the board could well take up would be to force the postal department enough the matter of having the railway mail clerk on the west bound express on Sunday evenings throw off the Tofield mail sacks at Tofield instead of carrying them through to Edmonton and bring ing them back on Monday morning as at present. We do not need to have the post office opened on Sunday ever so much as we do the week days but we do need to have the mail brought up on that night The station agent could bring the up on Monday morning early and Tofield merchants and business men could have the opportunity to consider their important letters in time to reply by the Monday's morning eastbound mails As it is now, we have to lose an entire day.

Cancel His License

All taxation, say the earlier authorities, must be on production or consumption, or both, and the idea lasted until an American upset things with a demand for taxation on opportunity or space The political principle of the maximum of revenue with the min mum of grumbling brings schemes for scrubbily taxing on luxuries so that the people will not know what is pressing down on them Moral sentiment gives the politician a free hand in taxing habits and activities that are discreditable or injurious, and there is no reason for alcohol from products is to consumption from the malt on the floor to the record of the cash register behind the bar it is taxed and non there are signs of a departure in the direction of a taxable opportunity. This may take the form of a license system for drinkers instead of for sellers. The taxation of sellers has been so long associated with moral crusades and elevating efforts that the suggestion of a change gives a momentary impression of evil and degeneracy, but there is really no stronger moral principle involved in the taxation of the seller than in the taxation of the buyer. The one is a tax on production and the consumption. Mr. Mockleburgh A M., other on consuming too. It would require some distortion to class the and 20 years experienced expert, drinker's license fee paid by an ab- Bootlegger, cross, soul, and every stemious man as a tax on opportunity, but the fee paid by a bar- dober of the eyesight scientifically tender would certainly be a tax on consumption.

While there will be but little support for the substitution of a State system of licensed drinkers for the present system of licensed sellers, a Sunday, April 30th. 33-5c

New Child Labor Act is Declared

Order-in-Council Issued Declaring In Force Law Which Will Prevent Employment of Children

The new provincial law which holds no employer liable who employs children under the age of 14 after six o'clock at night, and which makes it compulsory on every city of 10,000 people or over to appoint an officer for the enforcement of the act, has been declared in force by an order-in-council issued from the provincial executive.

The new law comes as an amendment to the Children's Act, and was passed at the recent session of the legislature. The amendments were framed by R. B. Chadwick, superintendent of neglected children, and given hearty endorsement by the legislature.

The new law is the first move that has been made to control and widely.

Chadwick, child labor in the province. Through the efforts of Mr Chadwick, and others interested, there is now sufficient law on the statute books of the province to practically prevent all child labor. In addition to the new law mentioned above there is also a law been more like the recently passed which practically cattle and those found on such parts prohibits the employment of child- ren of school age during school hours.

So well has Mr. Chadwick undertaken the work of criminating efforts of feel how not yet been fully tested, but there are experiments enough to indicate that there is a cause of the labor and supply of our as shown by the 45 cent. hours.

YOU are the master salesman of your store do not forget that. YOU are the initiator, promoter, the force behind every sale made in your store.

Your advertising can be neither strong nor continuous if it is tempered for space if it is annoying even if it belies the fine which your own enthusiasm and nothing else in the world can put into it.

"Missing" a store-ad is usually missing a lasting chance.

When a medicine must be given to young children it should be pleasant to take. We don't care very much for the reciprocity pact. Had Sir Wilfrid given us free trade with Great Britain and told the U.S.A. to go to Timbuctoo, it would have been satisfied better. All the same, if abolished Mr Chadwick has been a most active and effective worker in the cause of child labor in the province that it would absolutely criminal for them to do so with the result that there are

Rose Colds Cured Quickly

Dear Sirs,—After suffering for years with a severe cold in the head and bronchial trouble, which at times was very distressing, I was recommended to try Catarrhozone and find that by using the first touch of it seemed to relieve me. I was able to stay at work through it, and now after using two outfits I regard Catarrhozone as the best remedy for colds, catarrh, catarrhozone, or bronchitis I have ever used.

Yours truly,

NAPOLEON S HANDWRITING

An interesting and instructive study in the handwriting of Napoleon is shown in a photograph which has been published in the Paris papers. Although little more than a boy at the time, Napoleon's writing was already individual and characteristic. The letters are large and bold, and the writing was evidently done with a quill pen. The signature is especially bold, and the letters are separated from each other by considerable spaces. The writing is clear and easy to read, although it is not free from flourishes. The letters are not connected, but each stands by itself. The writing is upright, and the lines are straight and well spaced. The whole specimen is one of considerable interest, and shows that even in his youth Napoleon was a man of strong character and decided opinions.

"That Reminds Me—"

A LITTLE child was once walking hand in hand with the sub-editor at a reception. The child being accustomed to set terms with the banker, insisted on the conductor that it was probably related to the bewhiskered female, re plied the child, "it is the bearded lady our mother's." "No," answered the child, "she is my father."

A MAN left his umbrella in the stand in a hotel recently with a card bearing the following description attached to it: "This umbrella belongs to a man who can deal a blow of fifty pounds' weight. I shall be back in ten minutes." The returning owner of the property he found in its place a card bearing the words: "Mine was left there yesterday by a man who can twist a mine so how I shall not be back!"

MRS. ELIZABETH B. GRANNIS, a one of the dozen women following the convention congress in St. Paul, said of marriage: "It is true that many girls marrying owe to inform there are no bachelors in this town, feel. The sooner a re once send to a beautiful, sad-eyed bachelor. You can feed of wasting Mrs. Black!" Mrs. Black on hel. Hi- and eyes twinkling a moment. Then she sighed and answered: 'Well I suppose I ought to be. I married one."

SOME few weeks after Mai Wilks's recent marriage, Mrs. Wilks, formerly Le Belle Titcomb, the late book rider, was in the kitchen arranging the breakfast preserves when Nat," she called to her husband in the next room.

"What?" she repeated.

Again no answer. Five times, five times she called. Entering the dining room, Mrs. Wilks saw her husband at table, deeply absorbed reading a copy of the New York Journal.

"Nat, Nathan!" she sighed. "To think that I married a bookworm!"

AFTER weeks of waiting and longing for the sport, rods, reels, golf, etc., and—everything was in readiness for a trout fishing. The young man, starting joyously, hurried into the room, crashing towards her husband some sticky, sacchari papers.

"For goodness sake!" he exclaimed, "what on earth are you doing with those fly-catchers in here?"

Without even the dining room, Mrs. Wilks saw her husband at table, deeply absorbed reading a copy of the New York Journal.

"Fly-catchers!" she sighed. "To think that I married a bookworm!"

A WIFE of a wealthy business man in Toronto was the daughter of a policeman. As they grew rich both she and her brother resolved that as much as possible, for the sake of their social prestige. At a dinner several months ago one of high society's lions talking about Scotch ancestry.

"What was your father's business, Mrs. H?" was finally asked of the brown man's wife. Mrs. H. was not to be caught.

"My father was a member of the force," she said with self-possession.

WILLIAM LOEB, Jr. at a dinner in New York, referred with humorous sympathy to the troubles of the customs officers in dealing with smugglers. "And the ingenuity of the smugglers," said Mr. Loeb "Reminds me of the story about Gen. Sam Houston, the hero of San Jacinto. Houston was a big man, and he was fond of good living. One day he was entertaining a party of friends at dinner, when a servant came in and whispered to the host that a man was at the door who wished to see him.

"Who is he?" asked Houston.

"He says he is a smuggler, sir," was the answer.

"Well," said the latter, "what do you want?"

"Nothing, sir," said the man, "only I thought you might like to buy some cheap cigars."

"Not I," said Houston, "I don't smoke."

"Or some whisky, sir?" continued the smuggler.

"No," said Houston, "I don't drink."

"Or some tea, sir?" said the man.

"No," said Houston, "I don't touch tea."

"Or some coffee, sir?" said the smuggler, turning away.

"No," said Houston, "I don't touch coffee."

"Then," said the smuggler, as he left the door, "you don't deserve to have a big appetite for dinner."

DR. HARVEY W. WILEY, the government of the U.S. food expert, was discussing the subject of coffee.

"Coffee," he said, "is as far the fall as tea is. Tea, you know, is a favorite vice with Dr. Wiley. "They say," he continued, "that a man's habits change for the worse after he has been a 'big night to-night,'" a young man named Jones to make one of Hunter's rat and drink palaces, and he was up on his usual, dropped a heavy weight on the floor.

"Why, Jones," one of his friends to him next day, "what was that noise?"

"That's no wonder weight," Jones replied. "That's the weight belonging to our cuckoo clock. You know, I carry it with me when I go out, so that I can tell what time I get home by referring to it. Then I don't have to tell what time I got home by referring to my wife's watch next morning. Clever I'm I, what?"

THEY were sat together in the early morning hours and the good links to themselves. A curious pa—— with his overcoat sent to the game as an overcoat also of his own skill in golf, whose every shot was a topper, a screamer, a corker, and he—like a typical golfer—was always ready for a chance to make a record. Only once before had he had such a chance, and he had broken down. Now, however, after the second hole, he felt that he was going to do it, and he had without saying it, the gun a blast of confidence.

"Nice day, if I do soon two was run out," he said to his caddie. "What think they were really made of wood!"

SENATOR DEPEW went into a hotel in Chicago recently and registered. "Where shall I autograph?" he inquired of the clerk.

"Yes, a an my name, you know" replied the senator.

Senator Depew a good his name in the hotel register, and then he went some Georgia crackers. One of them looked over his shoulder.

"Pardon me, cun'nel," he said, "yours features are familiar, but, strangely enough, I can not recall the circumstances under which we met. Yet I certainly remember your having met somewhere."

"Remember!" cried the young boy, and the rose from among her friends with angry and aggressive air. "Remember, you old sockeye! Well, you ought to remember. It's not a year since you gave me eight months in the pen, and for two cents I'd pitch you over the railing into the water!"

ON his visit to America, Father Vaughan of London was asked: "Would you give votes to women?"

"I would make no difference what voting votes to women," he answered. "But, you understand," he added with a twinkling eye, "once you give votes to women the suffragettes will be wanting them also."

A MIGHTY beaver from London recently put up at a quaint little hotel in the Midlands, and being used that he was to be rolled at eight o'clock in the morning. Sharp at that time the next morning came a thunder ing knock at the door.

"All right," he drew in a man sleepily, "I rolled a mulled vore from under the quilt.

"You get up now and sign this re ceipt!" commanded the voice.

"Receipt! What receipt!" demanded the very widawake voice, and the bed-curtains loosely as to the occupant leaped to the floor.

"Well," growled the landlord, "don't intend to have you disturbing me at night a clock declaring that you don't have called."

A NATIVE of Cornwall went to London and was gazing into a shop window when a man standing near the foot path. A native standard against him and asked what was from the nose to the end he like.

"My man, have you seen a wagon load of monkeys pass down the street?"

"No—o," Cosmo Jaub replied slowly, "I haven't, but I've seen one on a bicycle."

HE was a pale, intellectual looking boy, wearing eyeglasses and he sat in the front row of the physical instructor not long ago and asked question until the diplomat instructor finally became weary.

"If I take boxing lessons how long before I can lick anyone my size?" he asked.

"Six," answered the instructor, "two thing but a little arnica—that will come in handy."

A STUDENT at the Western Reserve University suffers from the sing ness of always breaking appointments. Even professors do not have a fat man. After a particularly aggravated case action in English III., the professor said to him:

"Mr. Mr. Blank! You are better than last time."

"That's right, professor," sighed the student, looked at his watch. "I'm back on schedule, while I feel."

"I don't fancy anyone to plant Pacific salmon in the East. "Yes, it has been a week of palmers," said Fish Commissioner Bowers, in an interview at Washington, "and I should make me think of the ticker agent in the railway station. A man said to the ticker agent angrily:

"Look here, sir. I've been stand ing before this window twenty-five minutes."

"The agent, a grave, withered little man, answered gravely:

"Ah, madam, I've been standing before it twenty years."

WILLIAM BEAN HOWELLS is the of story writer to whom a pupil sent a number of pictures to illustrate a composition. Among the Fish Commissioner Bowers, in an interpictures was a picture of Hell. Professor Howells was much interested in the picture and wrote a letter to the pupil, telling him that it was the richest effort he had seen in many years. He added that he would like to have the picture for his collection, and in that way take the railway station. A man said to the ticker agent angrily:

"Look here, sir. I've been stand ing before this window twenty-five minutes."

"Ah, madam, I've been standing before it twenty years."

The Horseman

There is no denying the fact that one of the drawbacks to horses being driven on the streets of cities is the necessity of having before the eyes are actually on a level with the pedestrians. Some people have no existence so long as horses are driven. Their eyes have been rendered, and that means for society a century, so they never meet or see a horse in the city, two during all those years. The owner of a horse is generally a man of the same manner, who was connected with racing stock, which is the commonest thing in the starting judge this year, and accustomed to the terrible strain which is placed on the face from the wire, but, of course, the horse has to be driven in the streets instead. He states that on all such occasions he has to be careful to walk quietly and not to attract the attention of drivers, and to that way false starts are avoided.

The idea is a good one, but it is not new. It was in vogue in the city of Toronto, two years ago, with successful results. It is to be recommended to the attention of the Montreal authorities, as it is the latter instance the starter would be compelled to be on every car wire and had an assistant who handled the horses. Under the circumstances, however, the assistant, who is the property of the car company, would be a starter's assistant. Charles Platt, who was the starter in Toronto, and who is now in the employ of the Montreal Street Railway Company, is one of the best starters in America. He has had a number of years' experience on the Toronto tracks where running horses are concerned, and has also had from a reasonable distance from the starting point where the time would be given to him. Under the circumstances of starting would be an improvement on the local proposition of having the paid little attention to it.

The starter is to be no conservative as that of Demarest, inasmuch as it is understood that he is to be such that they could not get by the horses. He is to be a quick starter who is willing, and then a very competent one will have a chance.

Pessels do not go to race meeting on the horses are not wearing, but to the horses are not wearing, and, consequently, the horses are not wearing offers rules to the horses are not wearing. Under the circumstances, however, the horses are not wearing the wishes of those who are not wearing, and so the horses are not wearing, and so the horses are not wearing. There are rumored, however, that the horses are not wearing, and so the horses are not wearing. The horses are not wearing, and so the horses are not wearing. The horses are not wearing, and so the horses are not wearing. The horses are not wearing, and so the horses are not wearing.

Annoncement By Finance Minister

Depicts Prosperity Of The Dominion

...ment of the Dominion of Canada for the year ending March 31st, 1911, has been presented to the House of Commons by the Minister of Finance, Hon. W. S. Fielding. The statement is a surprise in the amount of the revenue and expenditure. The total revenue for the year ending March 31st, 1911, is $131,000,000, and the total expenditure $130,000,000. The surplus is $1,000,000. The statement is a surprise in the amount of the revenue and expenditure. The total revenue for the year ending March 31st, 1911, is $131,000,000, and the total expenditure $130,000,000. The surplus is $1,000,000.

Mr. Fielding's delivery to the house was the shortest budget speech on record. It was usually be one unusual feature. He has never had been on his feet ten minutes, when the house resumed the commons and summoned the house to the senate chamber to hear the deputy governor give assent to supply and to certain bills.

Mr. Fielding resumed at 3.30 and concluded at 4.20. Hon. Geo. E. Foster gave a two-hour reply, in which he re-iterated the old story of confirmation of the expected figures.

Mr. Fielding gave the national debt as $336,000,000 and remarked that it would be wiped out with three years total revenues. Canada's total trade for eleven months of the fiscal year amounted to $687,500,000 as compared with $626,000,000 for the corresponding period of the previous year, an increase of $17,000,000.

The finance minister did not undertake to make an definite prediction as to the revenue and expenditure and the trade for the fiscal year more than to say that he believed it would show advances equal in proportion to the advances he had been able to show over the previous years.

At the outset the finance minister gave a review of the revenue and expenditure for 1909-10, the public accounts for which had been before parliament. The estimated revenue for the year ending March 31st, 1910, had been $97,000,000, the actual income for the year ending March 31st, 1910, had been $97,040,000.00; the actual revenue $101,567,715.82. This excess was $16,000,000.00 in excess of the previous year, and $5,000,000.00 over the record year of 1907-08.

"We estimate," he said, "that when the accounts are closed the revenue for the year 1910-11 will reach $117,500,000.00, and the expenditure chargeable to consolidated fund be 31st March is $75,500,195.74."

DISTRESSING HEADACHES

Headaches are largely the result of disordered kidneys.

Mrs. Hall, St. Peter St., St. Thomas, Ont., says: "I suffered for years with headaches of a most distressing nature. They would come on me suddenly, and would last for days at a time. These were usually accompanied by spells of dizziness that would leave me unable to attend to my household duties. My back was weak, and caused me much suffering through the night. I had doctored for years, but all to no avail. Nothing benefited me and my condition magnified. Finally I was induced to try Doan's Kidney Pills. One box gave me a surprise and lasting cure. I have not had a headache or dizzy spell since and I feel like a new person."

Doan's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists, 50c. box, under guarantee to relieve your money if they fail to relieve any disease having its origin in the kidneys or bladder. Procure them from The R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont. Sold and guaranteed by C. E. Jamieson

Taylor, former superintendent of Edmonton street railway, now general manager of the Crafts, Lee and Gallinger mines at Tofield, returned from a trip to the old country last night.

Mr. Taylor has been absent a couple of months. He purchased from old country firms a considerable amount of modern mining machinery.

The mines at Tofield are mined by the stripping process, the coaling only 12 feet below the surface, and the earth being stripped from the seams with steam shovels.

Mr. Taylor states that his company will handle 500 tons per day, after the new machinery is installed in June—Edmonton Capital.

TOFIELD DISTRICT

The Ideal For Mixed Farming

What One Man Does Another Can Do If He But Will

REV. H. RONNING'S FARM

This farm is in the Bardo Section, 6 miles south of Tofield. Note the thrifty appearance of things, the stock and horses in the cow'ee the big hay and straw stacks in the rear of the huge barn. A Typical Farm in Tofield District the home of Mixed Farming.

It is not so long ago since the western farmer concentrated all his efforts upon the sale work of raising wh at the tremendous fert of the soil ("Where Nature yields a harvest if she's tickled with a hoe") appealed so strongly to him that all else was forgotten in the grea barry up movement to get rich.

But time has shown that it was not the wisest plan to go after grain raising alone. The famous wheatfields of the Dakotas and Manitoba have been taxed to their utmost continuously for years and have shown that the strain cannot be sustained. Experience has proven that nature is not designed to be treated in that fashion and Mixed Farming has taken the place of grain raising pure and simple. Farmers have found that it pays better.

While Mixed Farming has been found to pay better, it is not every section of this Great West that offers the same advantages for "Mixed Farming" as others. Soil, climate, rainfall, affect the growth and variety of cereals and grasses and pursuance of dairying industry, while presence of shipping facilities and proximity of all round markets are big factors in the quick turnover of the products of the labors of the farmer into money.

The advantages held out by the Tofield district in these respects are unexcelled. Soil, climate and rainfall are such and all of such a nature as to render to the farmer every assistance in the raising of all kinds of grains grasses, roots and vegetables and the rearing up on of a flourishing dairy industry, while the ready shipping facilities afforded by the G.T.P. and C.N.R. give him ready access to splendid markets at Edmonton and other points.

PASSENGER SERVICE ON TOFIELD-CALGARY BRANCH

Will be Put On in Early Summer.

Geo. P. Smith M.L.A. for Camrose constituency, who has just returned from a holiday trip to Bermuda, is authority for the statement that the long looked for passenger and freight service on the Tofield-Calgary branch will be inaugurated about June. The Camrose paper in its report of its interview with Mr Smith after his arrival from Winnipeg, says:—

W. P. Hinton, general passenger agent of the G.T.P. authorized the statement that the efforts of the company are being directed toward arranging the passenger schedule between Camrose and Edmonton and points south of Camrose as far as the Tofield-Calgary line. The details of the schedule have not been absolutely guaranteed but were submitted as follows.

Daily service from Edmonton south to Buffalo Lake, leaving Camrose for Edmonton at 10 a.m. and returning to Camrose at 7.30 p.m. The morning north bound train will connect at Tofield with the through train to Winnipeg.

In addition to the regular daily train there will be a mixed train service three days per week, leaving Tofield for the south in the morning after the arrival of the through train from Edmonton to Winnipeg. This mixed train will return to Tofield in the evening to connect with the Winnipeg express for Edmonton.

The G.T.P. civil engineers lately completed the survey of the G.T.P. Tofield second subdivision. This has all been sold during the past winter with the exception of a very few lots.

Contractor Barkwell has the contract of putting in a large cellar and basement under the Twitchell block and the erection of a twenty foot addition in the rear of the Store.

Walter Bellamy is going to build a 21 by 36 foot block on Main St. just south of the Upshaw Block at an early date. The building will have a full basement and will be fitted up as a double store building.

Tofield has been fairly inundated with new comers during the past week. The hotel and annexes has been full to overflowing and rooming houses filled to their utmost capacity. All houses available for rent in town are taken and more are in great demand.

Mrs. Davis and family from Rainy River, Ont., were arrivals last week, Mr. Davis, who is a marble worker will arrive later. They have a car load of settlers effects. It is their intention to build a house on their property in town at an early date.

It is designed to provide a permanent water supply from this source which will sufficient, not only for fire protection purposes, but also for domestic use.

The Innocent Murderers

A MYSTERY STORY

By WILLIAM ANSWORTH and PAUL WEST

[illegible]

[illegible] CHAPTER XII.

Confession

[illegible]

"Hopkins!" again cried Hoy, as the shadow of the man appeared on the wall.

"Hopkins!" again called Hoy, as the man entered the room.

"Look! look! Mr. Detective—Inspector! He is full pay! Speak to them Hopkins! Speak to your wife, Hopkins! Don't you see her there?"

"Justin!" cried Mrs. Hopkins, stretching out her hands.

There came a word from the bag of the man—a word that was unintelligible. It was in a hoarse, gravyard voice, that rose and fell in mid, and the usual tired, disinterested way.

"Justin!"

"Then the Dean, like one walking in a dream led Mrs. Hopkins up into her husband's lukewarm arms. The first time she had ever set foot in it—and they were strangers in the world among whom her tears fell warmest than they had ever fallen before.

Sullivan was the last to follow into the room. He could not understand. He stood in the doorway, looking in, wondering. Could this be some trick—some clever device of her cursed? Were they all in league? Was this man—this Hopkins—but acting a part? Was he, Sullivan, the victim of some deep plot? Was he standing, all unknowing, in a trap?

"Mrs. Hopkins," he said, "I don't know—"

"What do you mean?" asked Sullivan in a hoarse voice.

"I don't know what it means myself, but he got me to come here. Somebody sent me a message—I don't know who—telling me to come here to-night. I was to be in the college at eleven o'clock to-night. I was to go to the room—I think it was the room—that was the darkest room in the college. I was to go there and wait. I was told that I would be met there by somebody. I was told that I would be met there by somebody. I was told that I would be met there by somebody

Reciprocity

Edmonton Papers last week were full of reports of the Oliver meeting in Thistle rink. While there appeared to be a fairly organized attempt at the meeting to throw it at Hon Mr Oliver by ringing in the subject of the Alberta and Great Waterways Railway deal not a whisper was heard of opposition to the pending reciprocity legislation between Canada and the United States.

The U.S. Congress voted last week on the reciprocity bill. It was carried by a majority vote of nearly 200. It is figured that with a strong Democratic vote in its favor and the insurgent Republicans vote in the Senate that it will go through the Upper house with ease. In the Canadian House of Commons and Senate indications now point to an early end to the debate and a passage of the bill.

Highly colored reports were sent out by the partisan papers of the Capital last week of the row at the Oliver meeting in the Thistle Rink. Edmonton people have been badly discredited ever since the A. A. G.W. By proposition has been turned down by the Alberta Government. Rumor has even attached to Hon. Mr. Oliver, Minister of Interior, in connection with this Mr. Oliver has also been a plain speaker in private or public life. At no time in his career has he been charged with double-dealing until the present. To the charge he gave a frank, blunt and forceful answer. He has never been a western representative, and like roughly western representative at that, has been much as has nopinion confidence in the people of the west. His emphatic denial of the charge of double crossing his own constituents should be given all the credence possible. The people of Edmonton are positively showing a very childish spirit in connection with this matter. However, they are going about it frankly and openly as should be done, and not endeavoring to knife anybody in the dark. The whole affair is proving great sport for the opposition papers.

Agricultural operations are in full blast in every portion of the TOFIELD district. Within the past two weeks much ground has been made ready for the seed. The weather continues dry as it usually does in Alberta at this time of the year. Farmers should take a lesson from their experience of last year and see that their fields are harrowed down immediately after being plowed. In many cases it is desirable to use the harrow at the latter part of each day, smoothing down what has been plowed earlier in the day. In this way the moisture which nature has stored up in the soil will be conserved and a ready and strong growth will result. More concentrated effort and pains endured to thoroughly prepare the best of seed beds will amply repay the husbandman in more rapid growth and better yields at harvest time.

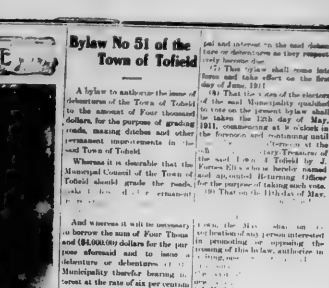
FAMOUS PEOPLE
BY LOUISE MACTHOPE



ROBERT GILLESPIE REID
The Uncrowned Czar of Newfoundland.

The Newest London Peer—Sir Robert G. Reid, the Czar of Newfoundland, who gained one-sixth of the island which is now large as England, and is the name of the colony with its two hundred thousand people, is the newest London lord. A most remarkable and romantic story is told of the Scotch boy who made his fortune in Newfoundland and in return for a peerage has practically mortgaged their island for the benefit of the British Empire. Sir Robert is a magnate of no mean order, as the colony of Newfoundland is now paying the interest on a debt of $20,000,000.

Born in Cupar, Fifeshire, Scotland, sixty-three years ago, he went as a young man to Newfoundland in the employ of Baine, Johnston & Co., and while still a clerk established an extensive contracting business, which led to his becoming the agent for the Reid Newfoundland Company, and soon afterward, in partnership with Mr. Robert Reid, he built and managed railways and steamships, and was prosperous, in partnership with Mr. Reid, of course, but he was the guiding spirit. Then the Reid Newfoundland Company became involved, and Mr. Reid, who had splendid hedges over the Dungeon, ever engaging in public affairs, and was a colonial politician for a long string of years, was appointed Minister of Railways and Colonization, and soon afterward, in partnership with Mr. Reid, built and managed railways and steamships, and was prosperous, in partnership with Mr. Reid, of course, but he was the guiding spirit. Then the Reid Newfoundland Company became involved, and Mr. Reid, who had splendid hedges over the Dungeon, ever ready to go to the rescue of his friend

"I am going to manage the next one in the same way. Will there be an usher? Oh, why didn't you know? Well, you I am—to Howard Miller! Oh it hasn't been decided yet? Have you told Miss Lindsay?"

The girl in blue bounced upon the widow admiringly.

"You doubt your philosophy of cats?" she said. "But I never could live up to it. By the way, I suppose you had a fine time at the party last night?"

"Oh," said the widow, "it didn't amount to much. I was tired and left early. I came home from the office all last week, and Mrs. Brandon Frazier, the new fellow, he wasn't able to get out of town."

The girl in blue stared hard, then blinked rapidly.

"Merciful goodness!" she gasped at last. "Say—I'll—I'll—what shall I do? I don't suppose I ought—you, I know here, my head—" She added with determination, "I've got to tell something. I have to see it, and I don't care how dare he lie to me so! I'll show him! Just wait till I catch him, if I don't—"

MARKET VALUE OF FLAX STRAW AND WIRE GRASS

The following is a report on a possible extension of the output of Western Canada flax straw, which is now practically prove to be of considerable merit for the manufacture of paper, according to the Winnipeg Industrial Bureau by Mr. Thomas Allen, Elm Park Market of enquiry various factories in the United States and Canada concerning the matter.

"Your committee left Winnipeg on the morning of the 15th inst. and visited the following manufacturing plants, to show that the treatment be adopted before any definite action is taken.

In some of the previous publications, which have been issued, and several paragraphs have written, has he ever affirmed that the flax straw and wire grass mixture would produce the straw that is proposed by the manufacturers of tactic mixtures. FALLING HAIR
Mrs. Jas. Harris of Wappella, Sask., says:—
I have found Parisian Sage to be the best scalp and hair tonic and hair-dressing I have ever used. I had been troubled with dandruff and hair that was very dry and brittle and my hair was always coming out and full of dead stuff. I have used two bottles of Parisian Sage and it has stopped all that from falling off, killed the dandruff and left my scalp and hair in fine condition and with a good growth. I would not be without this great Hair Tonic for many times the price.
For sale by druggists, or sent prepaid by the Giroux Manufacturing Co., Ltd., Windsor, Ont., at 50c. per bottle. Three bottles for $1.00. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package. Sold and guaranteed by C. E. Jamieson. pl

Local Items

Rev. Mr. Gold returned last Friday from Calgary where he had been attending the meeting of the Presbyterian Synod.

Secretary treasurer Ellis of the municipality is in receipt of good offers for the purchase of the municipal $8,500.00 debentures authorized recently for the purpose of the establishment of a municipal waterworks system. The bids are among us mostly for these debentures.

Hall and Barkwell have lately purchased from Importer Hunter of Olds, a fine Percheron Stallion of good breeding and have brought him to the Tofield district. This horse is particularly fine example of the Percheron class and will undoubtedly be very interesting to the farmers of the Beaver Lake district.

Hall & Hall started with their logs to be sawing until last Friday for Blackfalds where they have secured large contracts on the C.N.R. Branch line. It was quite an interesting incident to see the large outfits composed of some fifty teams, wagons, machinery, etc., passing down Main Street on their way to the south.

E. S. McQuaid, barrister and solicitor of Edmonton, was in Tofield last Tuesday. He was greatly surprised and pleased with the appearance of the material prosperity throughout the town shown by the substantial and substantial nature of the large amount of building indications and the general appearance of the district. Mr. McQuaid intends to open a branch office of his firm in Tofield in the near future.

St. Andrew's Guild met last Monday evening in the church. The feature of the evening was a very interesting talk by Rev. Mr. Gold on the work of the Presbyterian Synod throughout Alberta. The Guild will hold a literary evening next Monday evening when it is expected that a very interesting and profitable evening will be spent.

Fr. Harris and W. C. Billman of Ross Creek, have invested in a pure bred Clydesdale Stallion, Whitney (No. 9454) which they have purchased from Vanstone & Rogers of Wawanesa, Manitoba, importers of pure bred horses. This announcement should be of particular interest to the public of Ross Creek and elsewhere who are interested in breeding to the Clydesdale class.

Mr. John Stafford who last week advertised a farm for sale in the Standard called at the office of this paper the other day to say "You need not run the adv't. any longer, I have sold the farm." Asked if the advert. paid for itself, he said "You bet, advertising pays."

Moral: If you have anything to sell, if you have any faith in the goods you have to sell, speak up and let your prospective customer know that you have the article that he wants. What is more, advertise the fact in your local newspaper wherever you may be.

FLYING MACHINE A SUCCESS

The flying machine which was in Edmonton last week proved to be a great success and was admired by everyone who saw it. Flying machines are comparatively new, especially in this country, although they have been tried in other places and are meeting with success and are no doubt the coming mode of travel. So is this wonderful Beaver Board which is noted in R. O. Bird's ad. on the first page of this paper destined to be the coming building material. Don't fail to see it before you build.

J. M. Howell, a popular druggist of Greenaberg, Ky., says, "We use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in our own household and know it is excellent." For Sale by dealers everywhere.

Two years before the events we record the latter trumped promptly over the counter and before it could be stopped, a new name was placed outside with the name of "Hill" crossed out neatly underneath it. Inside, the shop had undergone a complete change. Joyce was one of J. Hill's first customers. "Put them on my account, Mr. Brush. J. "Seems to know you," she said in conversation.

"Animals all like me," answered Mr. Hill. "Some one has to look after the dears."

The cages gave Dick a headache and he was glad to get out into the street. Joyce J. Hill before—as it would not have been proper for him. I Hill pulled its ears with that peculiar, per manner which was all his own. "The joke had affected. The second time she went in the shop she was with Dick, and the low weird whistle that made the kitten "What can it be?"

Her husband had picked up an even ing paper and was searching through it feverishly. "Here," he said, "Here's the very thing. Just what you've been looking for. Hill's Bird Emporium. Rare birds and animals from all parts of J. Hill. Yeaton. Yet the cat—

"What's the matter?" said Joyce, sudden ly pausing in her interest about what she was doing. She had few hundred dollars in the bank of her very own, and fashion was already realise on them.

She played them in a curiously curved cage, and Joyce noticed that they were all of embroidered cloth and had the whole scarcely with either card. Jake's object was to make the cloth with the kitten while he was doing it. Then he tucked it in his package and went out into the street, and a few of Irish accents. Joyce gave him the roll of bills with out a tremor He groaned them anger

"Yes," he said, "I'll be there." Joyce ordered a taxi to be at the door in a few minutes. Then she went to her room and began to dress with great care. She wanted to look her best when she met Inspector Wallace, for he was a man of great influence, and might be very useful to her.

Joyce began the opening ceremony. It was unfortunate that it was Christmas and their wedding anniversary were coming on, but there was no public entrance for keeping the door open all night. It would be the happiest day of her life, she told herself, as she put on her jewel case.

"Maybe it will be," she thought, as she looked at herself in the mirror, "but I'm afraid it won't be the last of my troubles." She was thinking of Dick Jake and the shop, and the kitten, and the whole business of the Hills. Then she looked at herself in the mirror

FIRST CLASS: "Can't you keep her in the present style?"

SECOND: "Yes, but not of shirts, get me water."

MRS. KNOCKER: The laborer who lives next door had a hundred dollars left him by a distant uncle.

MRS. BOOSTER: Did she only ate it to keep it from going to waste.

THESE stocks of yours are worth watching," said the banker.

"I don't care," said the woman. "The broker is very attentive to me. He has exchanged them four times."

MISS WINKLEY (reverentially): "Ah, Mr. Malaprop, it is not so long ago that a man almost committed a crime for me."

Mr. Snapper: "What! Did he try to do you good?"

EDITH: "I got shoes! I use the new style in choosing a husband that she does not wear any."

Ethel: "And after the marriage she will dress from the same."

EXPERIENCED LEARNER: "What are you dragging that lamp of Lore all around for?"

Learner: "I think that after a while the bulb will get dim, and I don't only love the talk of home for a while."

AN old resident was asked a story of late the other day. "How long ago did it happen?" he was asked.

"You were," was the reply.

Mr. Asker: "I've learned the art of dance from Jack, after reading a few lessons." Miss Snapper: "Indeed! Then you must be one of the crazy readers of that book."

Mr. Asker: "Why, what's the matter with it?"

Miss Snapper: "Why, it's full of mistakes."

Mr. Asker: "Indeed! Where?"

Miss Snapper: "Why, on every page."

"WHEN you want to call a person a liar," remarked the parrot, "why don't you say so right out instead of looking out for another man to do it for you? I'm ashamed to be a feather of your family, it's mercy."

"WHEN you want to call a person a liar," replied the dog, "why don't you say so right out instead of looking out for another man to do it for you? I'm ashamed to be a feather of your family, it's mercy."

"Judge," Carlton had pleaded, "if the man is going to shoot dogs in that side, it ain't nobody's business. Little Jack was a good friend of mine for the next thirteen years, he peters out like and turns around like a flash, and I go outside, it must for others to know if I keep a dog or not. I'm entitled to it."

The recommender could, and did, and the court of record in the matter of the dog and the summary of the other he has been waiting on for some time. Then he went to the two clerks were concerned.

Working Man: "Well, we're no less on football, and the season just in on all my time's took up a watche's the matches."

I HAVE looked over that house which you recommended so highly," said a house hunter to an estate agent, "and I find that, while the rooms are of the right sort of order, the cellar full of water."

"Certainly," said the agent, "but the house is in a rather high situation, and you will find that a decided advantage. It is not a person with a weak constitution at all."

"I'll send my photograph in your card."

"Don't you want my letter also?"

"Certainly, "I shall kill myself!"

Without the store, only your salesmanship must come to your assistance in behalf of your store as a power to attract and be asserted through newspaper publicity.

This talks as a friend to the woman of the house to get over things and lures her to your store when her attention has been worked, and when she has been many people invited to this same unpaid, delicate spot, how strong and persuasive must make your advertising.

Your advertising ought to be the strong new salesman that it is capable of being, if it is unconvincing, if it lacks the punch which your own enthusiasm and nothing else in the world can put into it.

FOUR PHYSICIANS FAILED

Mr. George Paine, a Well Known Resident Tells of His Fight to the Death in Chatterbox.

In the front of the morning Mr. George Paine, Sr., of Brookville, Ont., tells of his fight to the death in Chatterbox.

It is not half so many years ago that I was living in New York City. I was then a young man, full of life and vigor, who afforded me the relief, the running and jumping and other exercises that I now find so difficult to perform. I was then in the best of health and was glad to be up in the morning and to be about my work. I had a good appetite and have used it ever to its greatest extent, including meals. But I was not always so. I was a victim of dyspepsia in its worst form. I suffered untold misery from it, so I know from experience what it is to suffer from indigestion.

Before I submitted to the operation I had been under the care of four physicians, who had done all they could for me, but without avail. I was getting worse all the time. I had a terrible pain in my stomach, and could not keep anything on it. I was reduced to a mere skeleton, and was so weak that I could not walk across the room without assistance. I was in this condition when I was induced to undergo the operation. I was told that it was the only thing that could save my life, and I was willing to do anything that would relieve me of my suffering. The operation was performed, and I was told that I would be all right in a few days. But I was not. I was worse than before the operation. I suffered the most excruciating pain, and was in a terrible condition. I was then told that I would have to undergo another operation, or I would die. I refused to do so, and left the hospital. I was then induced to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I had no faith in them, but I was willing to do anything to get relief. I had used them but a few days when I felt that they were helping me. I continued their use, and in a few weeks I was entirely cured. I have had no trouble since, and I am now a well man. I have gained in weight, and am now as well as I ever was in my life. I am glad to recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to all sufferers from kidney disease, for I know from my own experience that they are a positive cure for this terrible disease.

The steamer had been bumping around from one side of the harbor to the other, and as the passengers stepped one man remarked to another: "Thank heaven I'm found my bunch. Guess I'll stay."

Two Scotchmen staying at a third rate hotel in London discovered that the mosquitoes in their bedroom were in full force. After ringing the bell several times, Sandy's friend appeared in his night attire. "Ye've rung the bell, Sandy," exclaimed he, "but what's the use? Ye ken we're no' allowed to have onything in our rooms after ringing the bell so we'll just have to grin and bear it." "Grin and bear it, mon!" exclaimed Sandy, muttering under his breath something about Jonah and a whale, "I'll grin and bear it when I'm dead, but no' before. Ye'll just have to get me something to kill the beasts, or I'll no' be responsible for my actions." "Hoots, mon, ye're daft," replied his friend, "but I'll see what I can do." He returned in a few minutes with a bottle of whisky, and the two Scots sat down to drink it. Before they got very far with the bottle Sandy's friend was fast asleep. Sandy looked at the bottle, then at his friend, and then at the bottle again. Finally he got up, and, taking the bottle, he poured the contents over his friend's head, saying: "Well, I'll be damned if I'll be eaten alive for the sake of a bottle of whisky."

A certain old lady, the wife of a prosperous farmer in the outskirts of Philadelphia, stopped off the train in Broad street station on the other day with a view to a shorter shopping tour than usual, as she had to catch the 5:30 train for home. She was therefore somewhat disconcerted at the meandering air that might be observed in the movements of the conductor in the platform, who gradually worked his way down to the end of the train. "Say, mister," she called out to him, "I'm in a hurry, and I want to get home on that train. Will you tell me how to find it?" "Sure thing, lady," was the reply. "What we need on this here railroad is less hurry and less worry."

Mr. Wilfrid Russell's diary for April, 1852, has the glimpse of a boy's life. The spirits are strong and the boy is not to be numbered with those who "look and feel the worse for liquor." Mr. Russell's diary is full of interesting entries. Here is one: "Thursday, 1st—Went to Mr. Thomson's. The men were employed in the identification of a lost child. It was found in the bush a month previous; nobody knew whose it was. The mosquitoes and the black flies were very bad. The child had been made by tobacco in a clay pipe which put it some resistance about my leg may does in the air scale. As I was coming home I saw Lord Elgin driving in the cars. Martin don't read his paper. He is a Tory. Friday—Went to Mr. Thomson's. At his cedar fall we found a dog and a bonnet. Saturday—Went to Mr. Eby's. Private."

There was an absent-minded bishop who was in the habit of occasionally losing himself in awkward situations. One of the most embarrassing of these situations occurred when he was traveling in the train from London to Brighton. He had found a seat in the corner and was absorbed in his book, when suddenly he was startled by the voice of the guard, who suggested that he telegraph from the next station to his wife, who was expecting him before the date of his return. The bishop looked at the guard in astonishment for a moment, and then, with a sudden flash of memory, he remembered that he had left his wife at the seaside, and had actually forgotten her existence!

Bishop Ilsworth[illegible] confesses that as a young curate, he thought more highly of a sermon if he had preached an elaborate, and I was once told by such a farmer in whom he had unbounded confidence, that I was a good preacher, "he hoped, that at no old age I would not be found at my post." "Why, my friend," replied the bishop, "I'm afraid I shall be found at my post." "Ah," said the farmer, "it is better to be short than tedious." "But," replied Canning, "you were that too."

Mr. Palmer had made his first public speech. His subject was good, "The Principles of Industrial Economy," and he hoped his treatment had been reasonable. He was not sure. He noted for his wife's comfort, but she was unhappy silent. She had listened to it from the gallery of the town hall and he had half expected her to meet him at the door afterward and to say, "That was splendid, dear!" But as soon as they were out of hearing, she said:

"Why, Jack, I never knew you were so dull and prosy before. Don't you ever do that again."

The Horseman

Thomas Hodgson, the stallion horseman, is one who has confidence in the future of the horse, and his faith is made lasting by his recent purchase of that grandly bred stallion Manor King, son of Direct Hal, 2.04½—Lady of the Manor.

Mr. Hodgson is the man who brought Jay Bird from Kansas to Parkhill, Ont., and since he sold that horse for $7,000 there has been no lack of horses in this section. It is not good to take his place if you are looking for a bargain. The mark forms a point in the United States without finding a horse that is thought could be made factory to the owners of high class horses in this section, but at Uncle Isaac's Palatine Hill, farm, he can scrape what he considers to be the right article. Among about one hundred head at present on the farm was the 3-year-old black stallion Manor King, that had trailed his sire's footsteps as a 2-year-old when he paced in 2.17, and Mr. Hodgson and many others will be on hand next fall when he is 4 years old. Manor King is regarded as one of the best young stallions in Canada, and has been worn as one in her bell at a public meeting, blandly writes or receipt correspondingly for the latter, though she "did not actually pen it" Lady Constance saw the article, and fingertips who were fed forcibly in Hal Dillon's name, but as

RECIPROCITY

Our readers have this week placed before them in these columns, a letter from one of the prominent farmers of the TOFIELD district on the great subject of Reciprocity which is commanding national attention and consideration. Mr. Francis, the writer, in his letter takes up the subject of last week's Ottawa letter to the Standard and discusses the matter from what we must admit is an honest attempt on his own part to lead others to think as he does. There are, we believe, honest convictions on both sides of national questions. That there are honest minded men on both sides of great public questions who are deeply convinced that their respective lines of reasoning are to the best advantage must be admitted. And that the Press which is the great medium of public thought should occupy its proper place and give through its columns fair dealing to both sides of public controversy towards the public good cannot reasonably be denied. The Standard believes in a fair square deal to all parties and its columns are open to the public on any and all questions of popular interest and in which the public good is affected. While the views of the writers of the various articles contributed may be at variance with the views of the Standard itself, the Standard is for a fair and full discussion, believing that in the carrying out of such a policy the public mind will be benefited thereby.

TO THE EDITOR
TOFIELD STANDARD
Sir,

In your issue of May 11th you published an article under the heading "Reciprocity." The matter of the article may be classed under three heads.

The opening sentence indicates the first. There is a conspiracy on the part of the corporate interests" and "the Conservative opposition is to be financed for its endurance test in obstruction by handsome subscriptions from the Tory Tar If fifteen League of England, by Canadian manufacturing and corporate interests, and by other financial organizations hostile to reciprocity." Of course, the writer does not say this, "it is reported." One rogue always suggests another. But if the suspicion be founded on fact, the Conservative members will be paid for sitting two sessions in one. No, wonder the Opposition is ready to waive the claim for his country, what his opponent is paid to do. But after starting with the statement "it is reported" the writer grows bolder, he seems to be convincing himself as say rate, and so he writes "they have at their disposal at the present time a campaign fund of considerable proportions." If those wealthy men and corporations are putting up their money, it proves two things -First, that either their finances or their political relations are at stake; second, that a statement, which is often being made by Liberals, viz: that opposition to reciprocity is only a political dodge of the Conservatives is not true. Wealthy men, much less wealthy corporations, do not put up much money to simply help more politicians to office. The Opposition may obstruct the estimates for months" Mr. Borden's offer to assist the Government to get the Estimates through for the time that Sir Wilfred requires to attend the Coronation and discuss Reciprocity, fully answers that. But the object of most of the writer in his insinuation and perversion is fully shown in his quotation from Mr. Fielding "The Government will be found upon the side of the toiling masses." Mr. Fielding should not forget that the more important question, as far as he is concerned is: will the toiling masses be found on his side when reciprocity is voted on? A great bulk of the farmers of Canada are thoroughly British in their political aspirations. The speeches of so many of the American statesmen from the Democrat Speaker, Beauchamp Clark, down through the rank and file that "annexation" is the end to which this and all other or future trade relations with Canada, on their part tend, has begotten for Mr. Fielding their suspicion and ill-will. The horse-raiser, the sheepman and the fruit-man have no use for the Taft-Fielding agreement. Our writer tries to make us believe that the manufacturer believes that the result of the agreement will be that his market will be thrown open to the U.S. manufacturers. If so it will not be the wealthy man that will be the most hurt. The tarn laborers, artizans and mechanics will be the ones who will lose their jobs, and Mr. Fielding should also remember that it was the factory employes that voted the Liberal Party out of power in 1878. The U.S. manufacturer flooded the Canadian market, the Mackenzie Administration, in love with their free trade theories, refused to put up the bars. The town artizan, on half time or job gone, took his revenge. And so again now, with the long, lean, hairy hands of the American Trusts and Combines reaching for the natural resources of Canada, it is up to the "toiling masses" to see that those raw products are kept for our own laborers and not for those of our enemy.

In the second place the writer tries to stir up ill-will in the western part of Canada against the eastern part. This at any time or place is a dirty job. It is a low-lived, illi-shing disreputable being that will worm his way into a family circle and try to set one against another. The task of setting one Province against another, even backed by a fair and truthful reason, is one from which a respectable and patriotic citizen would rather be excused. But upon the one given, "that the West is entitled to greater representation," the job is a most disreputable one. "A half truth is ever the worst of lie. The West is entitled to more members of parliament but so is Halifax, Quebec, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Victoria, these centres of opposition to the Reciprocity Agreement. Alberta in the years of the past, according to representation by population has always, as compared with the cities, been over represented at election times. Toronto with a population of one quarter of a million has but four members, being an average of over sixty thousand to a constituency, while in Alberta each member has represented from sixteen to twenty thousand. The average rural constituency in Ontario has been from twenty-five to thirty thousand. So the supporters of reciprocity must be very hard up for sound reasons to have to resort to such sophistries as this one. The Conservatives have insisted on the fullest consideration and discussion and this requires time.

The third part of the article is filled with a quotation from a speech by President Taft. While quoted for the purpose of showing that the President did not really count on annexing, why did he not disappoint, so as to show there are two sides to Taft, the following, a part of the speech of the President in the city of New York on the 27th of April. "I have said that this was a critical time in the solution of the question of reciprocity. It is critical because the issues is now decided favorably to reciprocity, it is exceedingly probable that no such opportunity will ever again come to the United States. The forces which are at work in England and in Canada to separate her by a Chinese wall from the United States and to make her part of an imperial commercial bond are reaching from England around the world to England again by a system of preferential tariffs will drive us impetus from the rejection of this treaty and if we would have reciprocity, with all the advantages that I have described, and that I earnestly and sincerely believe will follow its adoption, we must take it now or give it for ever." Just how we have the truth laid bare, the object of the Americans is to prevent all close commercial relations between Great Britain and her Colonies that would leave the United States out, to prevent the formation of a consolidated British Empire. Is it any wonder that Sir Wilfrid worked so hard and so long to compel the Opposition to put him up a reason that would keep him away from the Imperial Conference and Coronation? To have to go to London to boom British Preference and to sweep fealty to King George and then to come to Ottawa and push through a measure intended, as the President says, to forestall all preferential tariffs and prevent Canada from becoming part of an imperial commercial bond. Is not this treason and perjury? And this is all that can be said for the Taft-Fielding agreement in a "Special Ottawa Letter." Not a single statement in its favor. No case alone the plaintiff's attorney. And in your paper Mr. Editor, which has not published one argument why the Alberta farmer, merchant, capitalist or laborer should vote for the agreement.

D. FRANCIS.

SPRING SKIN TROUBLES

Pimples, Eruptions and "Rusty Complexions"

At this season, scores of people—girls and young women especially—find their faces disfigured by pimples, blotches, eruptions and "rusty" complexions. Attention needs certainly to be given to the blood at this season, as it is through during the winter

Just as the grass grows through the snow, so do these troubles appear. You have been out in rain and sleet and have been exposed to all sorts of severe weather conditions. Then you have come indoors, and, in the short hours of the day indoors at most, you have roused up your skin cells to great activity, and got quite a temperature away below zero! No wonder that, with all these changes, the skin of the face and neck shows signs of needing attention.

Zam-Buk and Zam-Buk Soap are the remedies! Smear Zam-Buk lightly over the spots, the pustules, the sallow patches at night and wash with Zam-Buk Soap in the AM. Get a 25c per tablet rich lather. You feel the cooling, healing influence of the Zam-Buk directly it is applied. The irritation is allayed, the inflammation is reduced, the pain is relieved. The blood becomes able to do its part in the work of healing the skin, and the delicate tissues of health replace the unlovesome and pallor of disease.

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for skin injuries and diseases. Eczema, ulcers, dog sores, ringworm, bad legs, bad breasts, bad backs, bad arms, bad hands, bad feet, children's rashes, etc., etc. It is wonderful, and for piles, there is it! Rub Zam-Buk Soap well into the back, and then apply Zam-Buk ointment. Get a 50c. box for Zam-Buk and 25c. tab for Zam-Buk Soap, from any druggist or stores. If you have any difficulty in obtaining, send 1c. stamp for Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, and send price.

THE CULTIVATION OF CLOVER

Clover was now cultivated in many of the temperate regions of the world.

A clover tree begins to bear at the age of five months, and continues to produce in the age of twenty-five years. There are two crops a year, one in June and another in December

The trees are evergreen and grow from forty to fifty feet high, with large white flowers in autumn clusters. In the shell of small branches in clusters of from six to twenty. The tree belongs to the same botanical order as the guava, the clove, myrtle, and the rose. It developed buds, are at first white, then light green, and when in the form of globes big bright red

Pieces of white cloth are spread under the trees at harvesting time, and the branches are shaken, when the ripe berries drop into the cloth. They are then dried in the sun, and become shrivelled and hard. They are then sent to Europe, and finally until they attain the rich dark color and pungent fragrance known as cloves.

In this country and England cloves are used almost entirely as a condiment, but in France they are employed largely in the manufacture of perfumes, and to some extent they are used in medicine on account of their tonic properties.

Owing to the reports of cases of scarlet fever within the city limits, the large crowd of contestants in the Old Boys' Race on Saturday last were subjected to the inconvenience of having to undergo the ordeal of vaccination.

Victoria Day Games

FOOTBALL

Holden vs Tofield

On Victoria Day the above teams clashed in a friendly but warmly contested game which was witnessed by a large crowd. Holden had all the advantage in the 1st 20 min. & pressed lustily. It was the good defence put up by Inman at back and Frost in goal that prevented the visitors from getting a walk-a-way. Just at half-time Holden broke away after an exciting struggle and sizzling the defence Hay scored from a pass from Paisly. On resuming play it was only by the most strenuous effort that further disaster was averted. Soon the Tofields began to improve and altho' it looked like Holden's game the unexpected happened. Calder took a pass from Twist and beating the defence in a splendid effort put a shot which the Holden goalie beat out but the ball rebounded from McCall's knee and shot between the posts, whereupon great cheers. No further goals were scored the game standing a tie 1 to the close.

The next game here will be with Wainwright and is scheduled to be played on June 3rd.

BASEBALL

TOFIELD vs BARDO

Bardo base ball team invaded Tofield on Victoria Day and came within an ace of beating the home team. They played cleaner ball than the locals, on the whole, and made a very creditable showing. The end of the game showed the score 11-10 in favor of the town team.

Directors T.A.S. Meet

Agricultural Society Going Ahead Will Fence Exhibition Grounds Soon

The Directors of Tofield Agricultural Society held a meeting in the Town Hall last Saturday afternoon. Pres. Sam Sidrett occupied the chair and 1st Vice-Pres. Wm. Thomson, Directors A. G. Campbell, C. Curtis, J. Fletcher, W. Lennis, Jno. Jevning, B. F. Wildman and P. O. Moline were present, beside A. H. Lefler, an enterprising farmer who has lately come in from St. Catharines, Ont., and who is taking an interested part in the doings of the Society, and R. O. Bird of Tofield, who has every sympathy with the organization. J. P. Kiln, sec. of the Board of Trade, and last but not least, N. J. Jensen, the Hon. President of the Association.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by secretary R. N. Whitaker and adopted.

Tenders for wire were then read for the proposed fence to enclose the Society's Exhibition Grounds in town were received and considered. After a lengthy discussion it was decided that Page wire should be purchased and fencing was put through to this effect. The wire chosen was an 8 bar 48 inches high, stays being 16 inches apart. Hall & Kennedy were the successful tenderers.

It was decided that split cedar posts be purchased and there being but one estimate put in, that of the Globe Lumber Co., the work of putting in the posts was let to them at a figure of 20c. each.

The secretary was instructed to advertise for tenders for the work of erecting the fence, tenders to be in on Saturday, June 3rd next.

The matter of a building in which to hold a Fair and Exhibition then came up for discussion. Contractor Ben Barkwell submitted the proposition of the purchasing of the Skating Rink Building erected by him last winter and which was located at the north-west corner of and immediately adjacent to the Grounds. He offered the building, lots, well and Pitzer Lights with which the building is fitted for $2,700 on terms. A committee was appointed to look into the proposition and wait upon the town council to see what sort of a bargain can be mutually arranged.

Resources of Tofield District Appeal Strongly to All New Comers

That the active publicity campaign put forth by the citizens of Tofield last year and which is being pushed this year with a greater vigor than ever before is being rewarded with excellent results is the Tofield C.N.R. works being taken up.

The visitors were astonished at the vast resources of the Tofield district. There could the say enough—[illegible] promised they were more than realities. Not evident abundance of rainfall, are two reasons with water the best [illegible] ing that abundant in every [illegible] known, the lake close to town with a fine sandy beach awaiting some-body's grasping of the opportunity to develop a great summer resort, the coal mines being developed by the stripping [illegible] tons, to the unlimited [illegible] tons of tons of the best lignite known in the [illegible] These are [illegible] many times as a visitor does a way that resount in investment in lower [illegible] logical result

Before leaving Tofield for Wainwright to see the Hon. Messrs Thornlee and Kline purchased lots 1 and 2 block 7, opposite the Merchants' Bank for $8,000; thus manifesting in no uncertain manner the degree with which they were impressed with what they saw in and about this thriving, bustling and progressive burg.

Tofield In The Forefront

Compares Most Favorably With All Towns in the West, be these other towns Divisional Points or not, says Mr. Emslie of Glasgow.

James S. Emslie of Glasgow, Scotland, representing a group of capitalists in the old country and who is travelling over Western Canada looking over things generally and noting the signs of progress and development throughout the west, paid Tofield a visit last Wednesday. He took a drive around the district, and, in the course of his drive, visited the Tofield Coal Mines. He was greatly impressed with everything he saw and particularly with the mines, as he comes from the big coal, steel and iron centre in Lanarkshire, Scotland.

"Tofield as a town," Mr. Emslie stated, "compares most favorably with all other towns in the West, whether these other towns be divisional points or otherwise, and undoubtedly it has a bright future in store. You have a live Board of Trade in your town. This is the making of a town. With enthusiastic and progressive citizens working together your town is bound to go ahead." He was appreciative of the way appreciated that morning at Edmonton by the B. of T. Agent who suggested his seeing Tofield. "This," Mr Emslie said, "is a splendid idea on the part of your Board of Trade to have an agent representing your town at outside points, directing the attention of the public to its advantages.

"From the appearance of the town and its development" Mr. Emslie said "you must have an excellent farming country around you." Owing to the inclemency of the weather, raining heavily all day, he could not take a very extensive drive. As regards the weather Mr. Emslie was particularly well pleased. "This is just the style of weather I have been accustomed to in my home country, I am glad that it is just the kind of day it is, besides it will do a world of good to your growing crops."

Mr. Emslie hopes to pay Tofield with all other towns in the West, a return visit in the course of a few weeks, when he and others who may accompany him will take advantage of opportunities which are offered here for profitable investment.

Wood Lawn

We dont know whether reciprocity was responsible for it or not, but we got the rain just the same, and isn't nature bountiful after such a benediction? If there is one season that we enjoy more than others it is the glorious spring time. The Alberta version of Camboose was alright. The windy weather is certainly unpleasant. Do you suppose Mr. Editor, that all this "hot air" supplied on the reciprocity question has anything to do with it?

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ray are again residents of Woodlawn

Frank Reed has joined the ex-pansion force in Tofield. In his absence Mrs. Reed is making her home at Mrs. Platt's

Hon. Geo. P. Smith of Camrose, will hold a meeting at Woodlawn school house on Tuesday, May 30th, at 2 p.m., to discuss the road question with the settlers of the township 50-20. To quote Hon. member's own language the meeting will be held rain or shine.

Ray Lott has been on the sick list for the past week but is convalescent

A GREAT SUCCESS

The Baking Bee at H. O. B Store last Saturday was a great success and a day long to be remembered by the young girls who were the principle actors. The busy chatter of the youthful voices made an air of Home Sweet Home around the store all day. To say that the girls enjoyed themselves is not enough. Every cake was a success and found ready sale among the many friends of the girls. They realized several dollars for their trouble. Several months ago, Bird promised the girls some sort of a baking bee and last Saturday was the fulfilment of his promise. The girls took a New Process Cook Stove in all their work and say that it is a perfect success

TOFIELD, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, MAY 25, 1911.

A certain section of the anti-reciprocity interests are arguing with all the ... they can to belong to bear in the controversy that the effect ... Canadian market will be disastrous to the prairie provinces. That Canadian markets will be as open to U. S. producers as the U. S. ... to Canadian producers. The argument is brought forward that the result will be that prices will drop to the lower level and that in the end the last condition of the Canadian producer will be worse than the first.

The supporters of the reciprocity pact are apparently legion. It is evident that the bulk of the western farmers and a large proportion of the farmers of the eastern provinces are heartily and enthusiastically in favor of the agreement. Why then all this vain theorizing? The proof of the pudding is in the eating. The pact is subject to cancellation at any time by legislation. If it be seen that the effect will be to the disadvantage of either country it can be quickly annulled. The most satisfactory method to prove the contentions of either party is to "try it a while." Then we'll see who's who. That is what the farmers want.

The suggestion has been made and is meeting with approval from many of the leading citizens of the town that a most desirable and appropriate manner in which to spend a part of the $4,000.00 voted for permanent local improvements by the ratepayers a couple of weeks ago would be in the putting in of an underground drain down Main Street from close to Tim Hall to the north side of town. That this matter must be considered sooner or later there is no gainsaying. It must be admitted that this work should be done at some time. The principal part of having the drain put underground is that all cellars and basements along Main Street could be made utterly free from water or moisture.

The suggestion is good and should have the hearty endorsation of all public minded citizens. There is a great danger and menace to health in having stagnant water in the cellars of public or private buildings. There is a great menace to the public health in allowing such a condition to exist in the basements of our stores. By this we do not mean to intimate that there are any basements of our stores in town that are flooded or in an unhealthy condition. The idea of the underground drain is that that any such condition should be avoided. The health officer will undoubtedly endorse the proposition. The council will appreciate the good intention of the citizens who are taking this matter up. It has a proposition on its hands now in the basement of the town hall that would not have come up had the proper precautions been taken. One feature in connection with the drainage proposition will be that it may have to be provided by bylaw that all basements along the street must be connected with the drain and per vious now be made as to the manner in which the cost of these services must be paid and by whom.

(Special Ottawa Letter to the Standard)

OTTAWA, May 8.- Sir Wilfrid Laurier left last week to attend the Imperial Conference and the coronation, where he will personally represent the Dominion at a conference which may have considerable significance to Canada. By reason of the efforts made by the Opposition to block legislation with a view to defeating the reciprocity agreement, considerable parliamentary legislation yet remains to be transacted and under an arrangement between the parties the session will probably adjourn before the end of the month, and reassemble on the return of the premier in July. The Government has set itself determinedly to the putting through of the trade agreement which is of so much importance to the western farmer and will take every step possible to secure its adoption when the House resumes in the summer.

ooo

Extraordinary efforts are being made by the interests opposed to reciprocity to defeat the pact. A well financed organization has been created and branches established in various parts of the western Provinces for the purpose of promulgating anti-reciprocity propaganda. A large campaign fund has been raised for the purpose, to which it is alleged that financial and manufacturing interests in Canada, the Tory Tariff Reform League of England, and highly protected combines in the United States are the principal contributors. The Ottawa Free Press editorially gave publicity to the report that Opposition members in the Commons were being paid from this fund to obstruct the legislation and keep the house in session, and called for an explanation of their position. So far, however, a clearer silence has been maintained, and the Conservatives are unwilling to disclose the source of their "barrel." Some Conservative newspapers are distinctly hostile to the position of the party in the Commons, and have not hesitated to openly condemn the position assumed by the party in becoming the paid hirelings of corporate interests in a struggle against the interests of the people generally. The Montreal Herald editorially alluded to the general report that much of the money for financing the anti-reciprocity campaign was coming from the protected combines of the United States, and called for a denial from the party bosses. The denial, however, was not forthcoming.

Despite the monied campaign being carried on against it there is every evidence that the cause of expanding reciprocal trade is making great headway in all parts of the country. Particularly is this the case with the farmers and artisans. The returns of petitions and memorials to Parliament brought down by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Mr. Fielding this week, were almost unanimously in favor of the agreement. From all parts of Canada agricultural organizations are deluging the Government with endorsations on its position, and urging the putting through of the proposals at the earliest possible moment. Accompanying these are scores of approving resolutions from Labor bodies and artisans in the eastern cities. A further illustration of the character of the anti-reciprocity campaign is demonstrated by certain communications from employers in large manufacturing corporations. These employers were in some cases threatened with instant dismissal if they did not sign the petitions of protest circulated through the factories under the auspices of the employers at the hand of the Anti Reciprocity League. Many of them have informed their workers that they are ... heartily in favor of reciprocity, but were coerced into signing the ... pseudo petitions on penalty of losing their employment.

ooo

On the request of Hon. Frank Oliver, a Parliamentary committee has been appointed to investigate the undercutting and overcharging by ... submarginal, of the lands of Saskatchewan in connection with the transfer of them to the Canadian Northern. That very little significance is attached to these charges was evidenced by the addresses of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Allen Aylesworth, both of whom expressed complete confidence in their colleague. The same tone was manifest in the addresses of Mr. Borden, Mr. Foster and the members of the Opposition. As a matter of fact, Mr. Tolmie only backed his alleged charges to various Conservative newspaper editors in Ottawa, Winnipeg and Toronto, but none of them would have anything to do with them. One Conservative editor threw them back in his face with the comment that he wouldn't "touch them with a twenty foot pole lest he should soil the pole." The insinuations are shown to be based upon theft and attempted blackmail, and appear to be as the Minister of Justice described them: "an attempt to stab an opponent in the dark and behind the back, without becoming responsible for the insinuations." Both sides of the House express the utmost confidence that Hon. Mr. Oliver will vindicate himself, and there is a general non-partisan sentiment strongly against recognition or encouragement of those who traffic in stolen documents and practices of blackmail.

G.T.P. SCHEDULE BETTER SERVICE

Sweeping Changes Announced Among Trains In the West.

Sweeping changes are being made in the time of the trains of the G.T.P. which will insure a much improved service during the summer months. Among the additional trains to be put on is one between Winnipeg and Reddit, which will be known as the Winnipeg River Service. This train will leave Winnipeg on Tuesdays and Fridays at 3.30 p.m. and Steinbach at 1.30 p.m. next day. It will leave Reddit on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, arriving Winnipeg at 10.30 a.m.

The times mentioned in the above schedule are not yet definitely settled, and may be changed before the opening of this river service. This new service has been deemed necessary by the company for the large number of Winnipeg people who own property in Reddit vicinity and have already started to build cottages there for a summer resort.

The mixed train service along this line will not be changed. Many alterations are being made in the transcontinental and western service which will be announced to the public in the near future.

Distressing Headaches

Headaches are largely the result of disordered kidneys.

Mrs. Hall, 84 Dixon St., St. Thomas, Ont., says: "I suffered for years with headaches of a most distressing nature. They would come on suddenly and would last for days at a time. These were usually accompanied by spells of dizziness that would last a number of hours and unfit me for duties. By the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills I was soon relieved of all my troubles. I have not had a headache for a long time, and feel sure that Dodd's Kidney Pills are a positive cure for all disorders. I am willing to recommend them to any one who wishes to refund your money if it fails to relieve any disease that originates in the kidneys or bladder." Postpaid from the K. T. BARDO

The fair ones are in splendid bloom since the recent rains.

The Adventist evangelists are holding services in the old school house.

The Norwegian Sunday school is running full blast under the management of our able staff of teachers. The English Bible Class under Mr. Bower's direction is also well attended.

Last Sunday evening the Young People's Society held a very successful meeting. The program was greatly enjoyed by the audience. The best items were no doubt G. Bowker's violin solo and Rev. Higgins' lecture.

On Wednesday May 17th, the wedding of Mr. J. A. Johnson and Miss Maria Eggen, both of Bardo, was solemnized in the church. Afterwards a great number of the friends of the contracting parties repaired to Mr. Eggen's hospitable home, where a sumptuous repast was served. In spite of the copious rain that fell during the afternoon all seemed to enjoy themselves. The presents were numerous and indicate the high esteem in which the two popular young people were held. They will reside in Ryley where Mr. Johnson has a position in the creamery.

Messrs. Lauritz Eide and Bennie Finseth have gone away to get employment at railway construction. They will probably work in the vicinity of Camrose. Our popular friend Mr. Ole Bjertness has also left us. He has gone to Edmonton to seek employment.

Mr. Thos. Chunnick of Tofield was a Bardo visitor on Saturday. He seemed to be pleased to get out into the country for a short breathing spell.

For wedding presents go to Hammond Bros.

Is your subscription paid up? If not, why not.

A stranger, on entering a new town, wants encouragement, a cordial welcome, and a realization of the fact that he is among friends. If he does not receive them, he is dissatisfied and feels that he is not wanted, and perhaps departs with an unfavorable brand of sentiment, towards the citizens and inhabitants of the community.

M. C. HAMMOND

Mr. Boyton, B.A., representing the law firm of R. S. McQuaid, Edmonton, paid his usual weekly visit to Tofield on Tuesday. His reports business as very favorable.

The branch office of the above firm is at the office of Lee & Lee, real estate agents, Tofield.

The uniform success that has attended the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has made it a favorite everywhere. It can always be depended upon. For sale by dealers everywhere.

HOT WEATHER COMING

With the hot days comes the stifling kitchen which can be made very much more comfortable by investing in a first-class gasoline or oil stove. For the ones that have been tested, tried and proven satisfactory see Bird.

Kalal Bros. are going into the Real Estate business in Tofield and are building offices on Main Street, at the corner of 1st Avenue. They will handle farm properties exclusively as well as town property, and are busy securing large listings. The firm name will be the Tofield Realty Co.

On Friday and Saturday evenings of last week Tofield playgoers had the pleasure of seeing two very fine farce comedies presented by a first-class company. Eckhardt's Idonia having occupied the boards in the Masonic Hall. Manager Hammond is to be congratulated on securing such an attraction, and if they ever happen to visit us again they are assured of bumper houses.

It will pay to wait and have your eyes properly, thoroughly and scientifically examined by M. Meckleburg, A.M., who is a University Student, and whose 20 years experience enables him to give far better results than you could possibly get elsewhere. He will again visit Jamieson's Drug Store, Tofield, on Friday, July 7th, and at Ryley on Wednesday, July 12th. Headache, weak eyes, failing sight, cross eyes, and every defect thoroughly and properly examined with the "Shadow System." If others have failed to give you satisfaction you are the very one I am after.

The Calgary Industrial Exhibition Co. have during the past few years issued some very attractive hangers advertising their Exhibition. Many will remember the hangar of 1908 depicting "Another trail Cut Off." The hanger issued this year is considered by many as the best hanger yet published by this Company. It shows a cow boy on the range who has suddenly sighted an aeroplane in the air, and he immediately endeavors to show his ability by throwing his lariat which is shown as just having circled the head of the aviator. It is a two color lithograph, and shows the name of the Exhibition and date, June 30th to July 7th, very prominently. As long as they last copies may be had on application to E. L. Richardson, Victoria Park, Calgary.

TWITCHELL—YOUNG

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in Woodstock, Ont., on Wednesday, June 7th, when Miss Alberta M Young, daughter of Mr. F. J. Young of that city, was united in marriage to Ernest F. Twitchell of this town

Notice to Farmers!

A meeting of farmers interested in the advancement of the district will be held in the Fire Hall, Tofield, on Saturday afternoon, June 17th, at 2:30 o'clock. Addresses will be delivered by well-known men interested in the development of the district.

There is one medicine that every family should be provided with and especially during the summer months; viz. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed. It costs but a quarter. Can you afford to be without it? For sale by dealers everywhere.

The small fruit crop in the TOFIELD district will be a enormous one this year. R. A. McKenzie, J. P., of North Tofield, brought into town this week samples of English Currants which are unusually large and well developed for this time of the year.

The population of Tofield has recently been augmented in no small way in the persons of Mr. Chas. Corduroy, architect, and family, of Morse Manor, Heron Bay, Essex, England, who have come to locate and who have erected a residence in the north section of town. Especially to Tofield's musical public will Mr. Corduroy and family be welcome as they are all musical artists of no mean ability. Already the services of Mr. Corduroy and son are being requisitioned for the band, they being good cornet players.

Mr. Corduroy tour d Canada last summer looking for a desirable location, taking in Prince Rupert in the course of his travels. That they ultimately decided upon Tofield with its romantic scenery and illimitable natural resources is one more proof that Tofield has a future of which we all will be proud.

Rev. Alan M. McColl, who is preaching on a call to the Presbyterian church here, gave three excellent sermons on Sunday last. In the morning the Rev. Mr. Nicholson invited him to take the service in the Methodist church which he readily accepted although suffering with a severe cold, taking for his discourse the subject of "Life and death." Mr. McColl presented his subject in a manner which kept the congregation spellbound during the whole discourse. In the afternoon he conducted service at Mr. Mitchell's farm, four miles south of town. A large number of the farmers of the district assembled together to hear Mr. McColl's address on "The Objections Christ." In the evening the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church had the pleasure of hearing the Rev. A. M. McColl who occupied the pulpit. Mr. McColl preached a very eloquent and impressive sermon on the subject "I am a debtor," which was much enjoyed and felt by his hearers. He will preach at both morning and evening services next Sunday in St. Andrew's.

ROSS CREEK

The crops in Ross Creek district never looked better. Indications point to an excellent harvest this year.

Several of our people are having deep water wells put down. There are three well drilling outfits operating in this section.

Four gasoline power prairie-breaking outfits are hard at work turning over the virgin sod this way. The acreage in this section will be largely increased for next year's seeding.

Many from this section will take in the Chipman Annual Sports on June 22nd.

Everybody is looking forward to the coming July 1st Sports at Tofield. This is looked upon as the Great Annual Field Day of the people, old and young, of the Beaver Lake District.

Adrian Thor and E. R. Hallberg went to Tofield last Monday on a business trip.

E. R. Hallberg has again come back to Rose Creek to live on his old homestead. His presence back at the creek is welcomed.

C. Moen's Breaking Outfit is working south of Tofield.

Miss Gertie Thor who is attending college in Edmonton recently suffered from an attack of measles from which we are glad to say she has fully recovered.

When you cough as not dangerous when the cough is kept loose and expectoration easy by using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has saved us it in many epidemics of croup. It will prevent pneumonia. For sale by dealers everywhere.

Sport

FOOTBALL

The war the "Midnight Strollers" grabbed up the "Coal Heavers," threw them down and then wiped their boots on them last Saturday was a sight for the gods. They won by two lengths in a slow walk, only one fight and no arrests. The game ended 2 -0, with the "Strollers" on the front end of the walkin ringing. In fact the old walkin ring came and done again before the smoke (caused by a small man with a large gun cutting bons and performing the atmosphere) cleared away, in fact, there was nothing to it but the "strollers" all the way, they had them failed to a frazzle from the drop of the flag. Mr. Hyam Deyaad handled the whistle. Judging from the way he handled the game his eyesight is very defective. But,—nuf said—back to the mines.

The Tofield Football Club goes to Ryley on Friday. A strong team has been picked and will no doubt give a good account of itself.

BASEBALL

The Tofield Junior Baseball team are slated to play a game at Bardo this (Thursday) afternoon.

Great Victory For Canadian

Geo. Goulding Defeated Larner In Hard Race by 30 Yards

Toronto, June 11.—George Goulding, the Central Y.M.C.A., walker, defeated Geo. E. Larner, the English crack, in the open international mile walk at the Eaton Athletic games yesterday. Goulding's time was 6.37. E. P. Marshall of Toronto Centrals finished third. Schmidt of Buffalo led off with Goulding following, and Larner was caught on the rail and forced to take back, and lost 15 yards rounding the bend. On the back stretch he came on around and went after the leaders. Goulding caught Schmidt at the 220 mark and was never headed. At the end of the first lap Larner was on Goulding's heels. The Englishman let Goulding set the pace and the half came up almost level. He found the pace too hot and dropped in behind on the start of the third lap. Goulding gingered up on the back stretch and got a three yards lead on his rival. Goulding kept right on walking at red hot pace and at the three-quarter post had a seven yard lead on Larner. At the run for the final lap he sent in a little more ginger and steadily drew away. On the back stretch Larner wilted and Goulding never faltering kept right on going away and won by thirty yards. The crowd went almost crazy with delight. Goulding finished strong. His time for the quarter was 1:25 1-5. The half 3:05, the three-quarter 4:47 and the mile 6.32. The track was easily six seconds slow.

HE knew I was—what one of the Americans called me—a "Britisher" by my speech, and he was very anxious to be friendly. He had been a sailor himself, he told me, and had been in the British Navy. He was an Australian, and had seen El Paso and Mexico, and had served as lookout at Hawkesbay, the seaport where Joseph Conrad lives. He was very proud of having seen Conrad, and he told me that Conrad was a "real gentleman, and a fine writer, too." He had read "Lord Jim" and "Typhoon" and "Youth," and he was very anxious to talk about them. He was a man of about thirty-five, with a fine, open face, and I liked him at once. He was very good company, and I was glad to have met him.

We were sitting in the smoking-room of the Pacific liner, and it was very hot. Outside the sea was like glass, and the sun was blazing down from a cloudless sky. Inside the smoking-room it was cool and pleasant, and we were drinking iced beer. We had been talking about books and authors for some time, and I had told him that I was writing stories myself, and he was very interested. He asked me what I was writing about, and I told him that I was writing a story about a man who was obliged to earn his living by writing stories, and who found it very difficult to do so.

"That's a good idea," he said. "I've got a good idea for a story myself. I've been thinking about it for a long time, and I've made a few notes about it. I'll show them to you if you like."

He went to his cabin, and returned with a few sheets of paper, which he handed to me. I read them carefully, and found that they contained the outline of a story which was very much like the one I had told him I was writing myself. I told him so, and he was very much surprised.

"Well, I'm blowed!" he said. "I never thought that anybody else would have the same idea as I had. I suppose great minds think alike. Anyhow, I'm glad you like the idea, and I hope you'll write a good story about it. I'll look out for it when it comes out."

I promised that I would, and I kept my promise. I wrote the story, and it was published in a London magazine. I sent a copy to my friend, and I have not heard from him since. I suppose he is still in Australia, and I hope he is well and happy. I wish I could meet him again, for I liked him very much.

Nothing does mind the boom. "I'll be an actress yet that the world shall know."

As a measure of the hate Dr. Parkes Cadman has aroused in Brooklyn, he has received a surprise stocking and has wept over it.

"Don't you see anything I want to?" she asked, as she entered a jeweller's store one day recently. "Whom there are so many customers here now that I'll have to wait a while," the salesman replied. "I have fully made up my mind to get out as hurriedly as possible, but I shall leave the rest of my clothing and everything behind. I'll be glad not to be burned to death, but I'm not going to burn my clothing and everything else I possess. Finally I'll be glad not to be drowned, but I shall not leave the rest of my clothing behind. Finally I'll be glad not to be killed

TOFIELD, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, JUNE 15, 1911.

(Special Despatch to the Standard)

Ottawa, June 5th --As reports continue to come in from all parts of Canada evidence multiplies that the Government's reciprocity proposals are increasing in public favor everywhere. This knowledge is not confined to supporters of the Government, and the organized opposition to the expansion of Canadian trade through the channels of the agreement has been confronted with the necessity of creating new ammunition for its selfish fight. A despatch from Montreal early in the week stated that financial and corporate interests there had submitted liberally to an immense campaign fund to "beat the farmer's pact" and vigorous efforts are being made by the wholesale distribution of anti-reciprocity literature to effect an agitation against the arrangement, which the now discarded annexation cries utterly failed to do. In fact the campaign of the interests, as conducted to the present, shows signs of collapse under the growing popularity of the agreement as it becomes better known, and further monied efforts are to be made to keep it alive.

ooo

Mr. Borden's western trip will be awaited with interest. Up to the present no one knows upon what policy, if any, the Conservative leader will appeal to the western electors. He has denied as a "pure invention" a newspaper forecast intimating that he would come out in approval of things the farmers' deputation asked for, other than reciprocity, and re-stated efforts to secure from him any statement as to his position have thus far been unsuccessful. As a matter of fact the disorganized and divided condition of the Conservative party makes its leader's position a difficult and dangerous one, while the corporate interests who are financing the anti-reciprocity campaign are asserting their right to have a say in the dictation of policy. A hurried call for help from Nova Scotia has also upset Mr. Borden's plans. It was intended at the outset to devote the leader's attention exclusively to the west, but the reports of the organizers showing the development of reciprocity sentiment in the Maritime Provinces, were accompanied by an appeal to take part in the Nova Scotia Provincial elections, with a view if possible of securing some prestige thereby. Accordingly, Mr. Borden goes east, and will have to take time to frame his western policy later.

ooo

Considerable comment has been occasioned by the departure of Mr. C. A. Magrath, M.P., for the coronation. When the plans for Mr. Borden's western tour were announced from Conservative headquarters, it was stated that Mr Magrath would assist his leader on the tour. As a matter of fact, Mr. Borden finds himself unable to take a single one of his eastern followers with him except Mr. Andrew Broder, the Dundas farmer.

ooo

The latest attempt of the anti-reciprocity campaign is an endeavor to make it appear, through English tariff reform league papers, that Sir Wilfrid Laurier is discredited in London because of the reciprocity agreement. Discredited with whom? Not with the British Government, which is showering attentions upon him, and which upholds free trade with the whole world, and therefore assuredly does not object to Canada trading more freely with the United States. Not with the masses of the people, who want untaxed food, and therefore do not look with disapproval upon a free food agreement. Those who look upon the reciprocity agreement with disfavor are privileged classes, the same persons who made the outcry against the Lloyd-George budget, and the legislation which makes life a little better for the masses of the people The disapproval of such privileged classes and interests is a credit to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the advocates of reciprocity.

The revived claim of hostile interests that the reciprocity negotiations were entered into secretly is equally absurd. Ample notice was given to the people of the United Kingdom as well as to Canada. The farmers had asked Sir Wilfrid for it in his western tour last year. He had promised to do what he could. The speech from the throne on November 19th, 1910, proclaimed it in these words :—

"While no conclusions have been reached, and no formal proposals made, the free discussion of the subject that has taken place encourages my Government to hope that at an early day, without any sacrifice of Canada's interest, an arrangement may be made which will admit many of the products of the Dominion into the United States on satisfactory terms."

Earl Grey was aware of the negotiations. The British Government was aware of them. The Parliament and people of Canada were notified. There was no concealment of the intention of the government. There was a surprise. But it consisted in the fact that Canada secured better terms than had been expected.

BOY SCOUTS MOVEMENT

We hear so much about the boy scouts movement throughout Alberta these days. We hear much of the good that this movement is doing. How is it that there has been no movement in this town to organize a small troop? It would take like wildfire amongst the boys.

HOLDEN REALLY CAME

J. B. Holden, our worthy representative in the Provincial house, actually took the time to come over to Tofield last Friday after a little plain talk to him over the wire. The information was unanimously given that they had come over from Vegreville to Tofield in two hours. With an auto of course. It is worthy of note to remark that to take this two hour trip Mr. Holden has taken two and one-half years to accomplish. This is his first visit in his representative capacity to Tofield since he was drumming up votes here before his election. Of course what we wanted in the worst way was promised. The Tofield district will not forget that these promises were made and the assurance given that these roads are to be fixed.

ooo

Mr. Holden has done well, there is no denying, in the way of getting good bridges put in in this section of the constituency. The fact is that some of these bridges are in addition of the improvement of the roads at points on which these bridges are placed. The local improvement districts should see to it that the roads on which they have succeeded by petition in having these bridges erected, are opened up and put in trafficable condition. It is fully to build bridges and have them rot in the sun from disuse. It is holding up ourselves to the north-west of town to ridicule. There are many other places and other ways that money may be spent than in the building of bridges which are not made use of when built.

ooo

Speaking about bridges, Mr. Dahl of Camrose, road inspector of that constituency, was in the G. C. Smith meeting in Woodlawn school-house the other week, brought out a most happy and important suggestion. This discussion is had been mentioned that certain bridges had been burned in prairie fires. Mr. Dahl said that when bridges were built on trails or roads they should be properly fireguarded. This is a point which might well be acted upon. It would be the saving from untimely destruction of many of our country bridges and culverts. In the past few years many hundreds of dollars worth of construction has been destroyed by prairie and bush fires.

ooo

In the previous paragraph the meeting held by G. C. Smith, M.L.A. of Camrose, at Woodlawn, was incidentally mentioned. Geo. P. Smith of Camrose constituency, is leading his colleagues in the House in a good lead in "How the duties of a Representative to his constituents should be carried out. Mr. Smith is covering every township of his constituency seeing for himself the needs of the people and meeting as far as possible every resident of each township. Coming into direct touch with all of his people he sees at first hand the needs for government rendered assistance and, in personally discussing these matters with his constituents the latter are not only pleased but satisfied and in every case almost without exception all matters of this kind are settled most amicably. Two members of the Good Roads Committee of the local Board of Trade attended Mr. Smith's meeting at Woodlawn the other week and these features struck them most forcibly. The work for the year was laid out to the satisfaction of all present. Mr. Smith has struck upon the modern method of carrying out the duties of a representative to the people whom he has been elected to serve.

A Matter of Conscience

"No," she replied lightly. "Why should I? Even the fleet I know you're not interested in."

He stared across the roads where the boat waves gnawed on the piazza of Ithaka. "Suppose I were—only I'm not—what would you do?"

She looked at him with the gist. She caught his arm and shook it. "Harry! What do you mean?"

She had not called him Harry before. The glad thrill of it sent the blood pulsing through her as if her heart had opened as though to unfold her. But, after a moment, she said: "I don't believe it," even as he answered "I'm not sure myself."

Harry's face was white, his eyes burned and utter unreality mingled with the pain in him. "I don't believe it myself," he repeated. "I can't believe it. I—"

He stopped, and the sentence hung in the air. Then he said, in a voice that was not his own: "I've got to know. I've got to be sure. But to—to—to—" He stammered and shook his head. "I can't. I can't tell you. I've got to be sure. Will you wait?"

Her eyes met his unflinchingly. "Yes, I will wait," she said. "I don't believe it, Harry. What do you mean?"

"I'm going to New York," he said, with a sudden resolution. "I'm going to New York."

"But let me go, too!" asked Mrs. Daryl instantly.

But Harry shook his head. "I must go alone," he said.

"Then you shall not go!" asked Mrs. Daryl firmly.

For the moment Mrs. Daryl had the upper hand. Harry was overcome by many generations of perfectly proper ancestors. He had learned to write "I must go," she said to Bixby, with the air of one who has spoken his last word, and ran to her room, sobbing.

Those words take away all coffee's color do, who's perspective take the magic from the mountains, but Harry had nothing brought the news that Mrs. Simpson had died in Los Angeles, leaving a bit to her son. Simpson had just been kicked out of the Navy, and, having neither money nor friends, was nothing to prove either his guilt or his innocence. He was a broken man, and worked for Harry frequently and valiantly. A gun with two empty shells afterward found in the bush, was acknowledged by Simpson as his property. But the gun might easily have been stolen as Simpson claimed it was, as the night before the murder Harry, Witherspoon, who was a tenderfoot, had borrowed it to shoot a rabbit. Indeed Parker on the day previous to the murder had afterward found a rabbit in a blanket at the same store for "dinner." Simpson was not acquitted, but was set out of evidence against Parker, who was convicted and executed. Perhaps Simpson, it may easy to argue from cause to effect.

Simpson outcomed to the others to leave him alone with her. "Because I want you to live," he answered. "Because I love you, now, that you can live and be saved."

"Oh, yes," she said, dreamily. "I can forgive, I suppose. Oh, why did you do such a thing? Why? Why?"

"Well," he returned, "it is in a way to explain. I'll tell you. But I don't expect you to understand. I started out in Utah. I'd served him of that. But, as I was waiting in the road where he could see me, as an Indian somked behind a mesquite bush and drew a bead on him over my shoulder. I might have saved him. I could have shot the Indian. But I hesitated. But I hesitated for a minute. And then it was too late. I shot from my hand." I might as well have killed him myself. Why? Why?"

The girl stretched out her two hands to him. "Because you're not a murderer," she sobbed. "That's why! That's why!"

Simpson still lay at the foot of the tree, "and, stiffly, "that I'm not going to be one now, either."

"What do you mean?" she said, in astonishment.

"Walter Mc Petty I stopped it, upon the bathroom. "Heard tell as how Mr. Simpson was back for a jaunt to the Wight mansion at to Harry, jus like he had his fortune at the Indian Trust here, shrugged his shoulders. "Take my advice, partner," he said, for only "I wouldn't use up with Harry Simpson's money, not for the day I'm on the range."

"Well, Mr. remarked Bixby to the infant toddling about his wife's knees, "you're a dandy one to talk. Perhaps you don't remember him. What?"

"What is it, dear?" inquired Mrs. Bixby, sharply.

"Why, Mr. Harry Simpson, you know, Harry's father. But he's a man home from the Klondyke today. Made a pot o' money out there, I heard tell." The girl flushed with great interest. "Not today?" she cried.

"Sure. Why not?" asked Bixby.

"Because I saw him in the morning." He looked rather hurt at the girl. "Better run along and get on your clothes," she said.

"First sight that greeted Harry Simpson, a stranger to his native Topsyh Ann's was a tall girl clad in a charming summer gown, looking a trig child. It did not occur to him, immediately, that it might be Miss Baird but his own little son, but as soon as this reunion farewell to his fortune he spurred his horse and dismounted beside them. He was older and thinner, Miss Baird thought. He seemed rather afraid of little Bixby, regarding him as a very wonderful but big, evidently. As for Miss Baird, the sight of her seemed to fill him with a strange wonder. For what reason she could not tell, was poignantly conscious of his meanings under commonplace remarks, but of feelings that could not or would not be expressed in words.

She listened, next day that he had but recovered from a certain illness. He said her of the two past feverish years, and even thought he loved very light went on to agree that he'd been a fool. But she felt that the truth crowed was growing greater every moment. The dessert The hunting American baroness was carrying away from the table, and the waiter stood near him at least to pass the cheese. Harry's big eyes changed to a jelly but barely time to grab his hat, and he was out in the street. He was not sure of his destination, but he knew that he must get away from the house, from the sight of Miss Baird, from the sound of her voice. He walked rapidly, and the sight of the name of a cafe on which was to see Witherspoon, perhaps! He waved a little at the restaurant, and, but he forced it from his lips.

Into the mess we plunged, ten men and I, first in groups of five each closely. We clambered over fabric of beams and rails and planks, all littered with stone and rubbish, settled everywhere into dogs to the bottom of a tunnel. Some times we trod upon hundreds of holes in the ground, apparently empty, in which a sidewalk moved indistinct a flash to whether this sidewalked for a moment, or the waiters in disposing of a bowl of the waiter's head. Then we were lost in darkness, and we came upon a man with a lantern, he knows, or who seemed toward the water cooler. I am sure they pulled the cork out of curiosity. At present, each society has to make a nuisance of itself by going about inquiring for a room every now and the Woman's Musical Club take refuge in the Royal Alexandra, where, although the surroundings are first-rate, the accommodation is altogether inadequate and members are in danger of bodily injury in the crush. The Western Art Association is obliged to depend on the good nature and courtesy of the kind hearted ladies who own their houses, for although it has a membership of over 200, and the University of Toronto Club has dropped out of the Bible Union is the only one that has a room of its own. There are only a few of the many societies mentioned that have a permanent home, and if Winnipeg owners any men of wealth who is interested in the work women are trying to do for the good of the community, now is the time for him to come forward with some tangible proof of his appreciation on the way of a site or a contribution to a building fund.

The Vancouver building is to be made revenue-bearing by having the ground floor let to stores and the upper floors so arranged that there will be rooms both large and small which can be rented for meetings, lectures, conferences, committee meetings, and so on.

It was the University Women's Club of Vancouver that first moved in the matter of a Women's Building and its sister club of this city might do a great deal worse than take action in the same direction. Winnipeg

1st. In order to obtain desired concessions from our Manufacturers, we agreed to purchase a very large number of pianos during the year 1911, and these pianos must be disposed of

2nd. An arrangement was made whereby we are to spend a large amount of money in advertising, and we prefer to distribute this money among our piano customers, rather than in common, ordinary, channels of publicity, believing that a thoroughly satisfied customer is our greatest and best advertisement.

We have just received a large shipment of Masters Pianos. They are a piano for Master Musicians. They embody a beautiful tone, delightful touch, refined design, and superb finish

With our increased facilities, and with a stock of pianos superior in quality and magnitude to anything in Alberta, and second to none in Canada, we are in a position to serve our customers better than ever before. Hence this is the appointed time to secure your piano. Contest will close at six o'clock P. M., June 20th. All replies must reach our store by that time

Round Hill

A particularly quiet wedding was solemnized at Viking at 11 a.m. Thursday, June 1st, by the Rev T Travers, when Miss Vera Carrie became the bride of Mr. Theo Sheppard. The young couple are both popular residents of this vicinity and their union came as a very pleasant surprise to their numerous friends here. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard left on a honeymoon of several weeks during which they will visit Winnipeg and other eastern cities.

W. J. Ellis paid a flying visit to Holden and Viking last week on business of the first importance.

Mr. E. R. Powell, manager of the Ritchie coal mine, Edmonton, is at Round Hill at present looking over the coal situation several miles south-east of here. He states that there is every likelihood of a spur being built and the field being developed in the near future.

Mr. G. P. McNally, Inspector of Schools, is visiting the schools of this vicinity this week.

Rev. J. E. Collins held service in the school here last Sunday.

Mrs. Tom Law we regret to say is making very slow progress towards recovery.

Mrs. Lawrence Wilk met with a nasty accident last week when she was kicked in the face by a colt. She was rendered unconscious for some time and suffered some severe contusions on her face and body. Dr. Stewart attended her and she is making rapid progress towards recovery.

Miss Hanson of Bawlf, is visiting at Mrs. J. H. Johnson's.

COUNCIL MEETING

Council met in regular session last Tuesday evening, all members being present. A communication from the secretary of the Agricultural Society stating that the society had decided under the circumstances not to undertake the purchase of the rink building and that they would therefore not take advantage of the council's offer of $500 cash grant. Connell passed a motion to have the town purchase the building and property at a cost of $2.00 cash.

The scavenger question came up for its regular annual discussion. Considerable difficulty is being met with in the endeavor to get a municipal scavenger and the matter was passed up. Later on in the evening Councilor McCauley gave notice of a motion which he would bring in at the next meeting moving that the by-law be amended by striking off the word "manure" as it relates to a town scavenger. In this manner it is thought that the citizens will be forced to find a scavenger of their own to remove refuse, etc. from their lots.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. Mr. Simons of Vermilion, interim moderator of session of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, will conduct service in St. Andrew's next Sunday evening. Next Sunday evening at 7:30 he will speak on the doctrine of God the Son. A solo will be sung by Mrs. Cooksey at this service. The public are cordially invited.

101st Edmonton Fusiliers, Sham Battle, Bugle and Brass Bands

Barnes' Wild Animal Circus and the Circus Bands

ENTERTAINMENT FOR THOUSANDS

Tofield and district will enjoy a gala day on Monday, July 3rd, when the 17th annual celebration and Dominion Day and our annual Sports will take place. The event has been advertised to take place on Saturday, July 1st. Owing to particular circumstances in connection with the attractions which have been secured for the day it has been decided by the committee in charge to hold the celebration on MONDAY, JULY 3rd instead. Monday will also suit the town and district better than Saturday. On Monday we will have the 101st Fusiliers Bugle and Brass Bands taking part in the day's proceedings which we would not have on Saturday. The Brass Band becoming down from Edmonton on Sunday to take part in the church parade and divine service.

One of the main attractive features of the day which has been secured for this year's celebration is the 101st Edmonton Fusiliers, the crack Infantry regiment of the Capital, which is going into camp at Tofield on the south-west shore of Beaver Lake. Here they will hold their annual drill and tactical manoeuvres, camp and target practice. On Monday a sham battle is scheduled to take place during which Tofield will be attacked, the regiment being divided into attacking and defending parties, the latter of which will be augmented by fifty cadets recruited for the occasion from in and around Tofield. Rifles, blank ammunition and proper clothing will be brought down from Edmonton by the Fusiliers for the cadets.

At mid-day the regiment headed by the bugle and brass bands will march from camp to the Show grounds (the Tofield Agricultural Society's new Exhibition Grounds) in Tofield where they will go through ceremonial exercises, review, parade, etc. The regiment will then dismiss, once with the exception of the band which will discourse music throughout the remainder of the day.

During the afternoon a full program of races and sports will be pulled off. There will be horse races, foot races, a ball list of athletic events, football and baseball matches and a swell big dining every minute. Don't forget the day, Monday, July 3rd. Come early and be here when the fun begins. Reduced rates are being applied for on the three lines of railways running into the town. Crowds will be here. So will you.

ZAM-BUK CURES PILES

Mr. Thomas Pearson, of Prince Albert, Sask., writes:—"I must thank you for the benefit I received from Zam-Buk. Last summer I suffered greatly from piles. I started to use Zam-Buk and found it gave me relief so I continued it and after using three or four boxes I am pleased to say that it has effected a complete cure."

Mr. G. A. Dufresne, of 183 1/2 St. Joseph Street, St. Roch, Quebec, P.Q. writes:—"I am highly recommending Zam-Buk to everyone who suffers from piles. I have also found it most effective in curing a sore thumb with which my little son was suffering. The thumb had begun to swell and fester and had to be lanced. I commenced to use Zam-Buk on the poultice and in the application of Zam-Buk and the thumb healed right up."

Not only for piles, but for inflamed sores, ulcers, eczema, ringworm, boils, eruptions, chapped arms, rough skin, sore hands, old wounds, etc., Zam-Buk is without equal as a healer, and also for cuts, burns, stiffness and wherever and whenever a handy balm is called for. TOFIELD, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, JUNE 22, 1911.

(Special Dispatch to the Standard)

OTTAWA, June 19.—That the reciprocity agreement will be adopted by the United States Senate is now reasonably certain. It has passed the Senate committee, and while the amendment of Mr. Root has been added by that committee, it is no way affects the Canadian position, even if, which seems doubtful, it is permitted to remain when the agreement is finally passed upon. The chief element of doubt was as to the effect on the Senate of the agitation of the National Grange against reciprocity. The hostility of the Grangers first developed in March, gathered strength in April and in May the Senate was bombarded with petitions and deputations painting in lurid colors the disaster to United States farmers which would result from opening the tariff doors to the products of the Canadian farmers. The American Senate which has all along been regarded as lukewarm, seemed under strong pressure to protect the agricultural interests of their country from an agreement which would, according to the representations made, "fill the markets of the world with Canadian farmers."

But the whole outlook has been changed. Senator Stone of Missouri had been hearing well founded rumors of a secret alliance with the trusts in the campaign being conducted against reciprocity and secured an official investigation under oath. It was then revealed that the Grange campaign had been engineered by two professional lobbyists. These men were placed on the witness stand, and there had to confess that for the noise they had been making profoundly on account of the Grangers they expected to be paid by the paper trust and other highly protected corporate interests!

The exposure utterly destroyed the effect of the campaign. It was recognized that the real opponents of the agreement were the trusts which were financing the agitation, and turned the indifference of the great unorganized masses of the American cities into active support of the agreement. If reciprocity was going to be had for the trusts, it must be good for their victims.

o o o

The exposure of the part the trusts are playing in seeking to secure the defeat of the reciprocity agreement as revealed by the investigation under oath by the American Senate, will be of special interest to Canadian farmers, who, perhaps more than any others, will benefit by the adoption of the agreement. Some weeks ago it was openly charged in certain of the Canadian Press that a secret alliance had been formed between the United States trusts and highly protected Canadian corporate interests to defeat the agreement in Canada. This allegation was never challenged or denied, and the result of the investigation at Washington would go to show that the anti-reciprocity interests in Canada were wise in seeking to avoid the publicity of an investigation here too. The origin of the mammoth campaign fund with which the conservative and anti-reciprocity campaign in the Dominion has been repeatedly charged to contributions from such interests, but no denial or demand for investigation has been forthcoming. In view of the now proven activity of the United States trusts to accomplish the defeat of reciprocity the "announced" and "American interests" arguments advanced by the opposition in the Canadian House of Commons are revealed in their true light.

o o o

Some of the literature of the anti-reciprocity league in Canada has been published, and furnishes interesting and significant reading. This league which is working in line with the Opposition,is lavishly financed and well organized. It has established bureaus in various city centres and in the eastern cities is extensively using the argument that reciprocity will fatten the western farmer at the expense of the eastern consumer. A St. John man who has been in touch with its operation has supplied the Dial Telegraph, of that city, with an assortment of the League's instructions, petitions and pamphlets. The directions for organization include the following:

(1) Call a meeting of prominent people whom you know to be strongly opposed to reciprocity, comprising as many liberals as possible.

"Be careful to explain that the meeting is to be entirely free from party politics."

"(2) This meeting should be held behind closed doors; no press reports to be made, and no one favoring reciprocity to be admitted."

"A chairman, if possible a prominent Liberal, should be chosen beforehand."

After this secret organization is consummated one of the chief ends of the league branches is to obtain a voters' list marked as to how the voters feel as to reciprocity. "This information," another of the league documents declares "will be of great value in the future, and should be carefully collected and conserved."

The Anti-Reciprocity League better come out in the open, and reveal itself for what it is, and acknowledge who subscribed the campaign funds with which it is financed.

o o o

Meanwhile abundant evidence multiplies that the masses of the Canadian people are enthusiastically in accord with an agreement which will open up new avenues of trade and inaugurate a new era of prosperity in the west. In view of the character of the monied campaign which is being waged against the agreement and the revelations made on oath at Washington of the part of the United States trusts are taking to defeat it, an active offensive campaign has been inaugurated by Liberal speakers in all the Provinces. Reports received from them prove that the masses of the people are overwhelmingly with the Government in its purpose to assist the farmer in securing a more adequate return for his produce and thereby insure increased prosperity to the whole country. Many conservative farmers in the other Provinces are coming out frankly in hearty support of the agreement. In a letter to the press Mr. W. H. Cherry, of Garnet, a Bishop Conservative, declares his intention to support the Government on this issue. "All the Grains has intention to support the Government on this issue. "All the well-read practical, deep thinking farmers in the community," he writes, "see at a glance the benefits that must be derived from the passage of the bill." He adds: "It is to be hoped the Conservatives in the House will allow the bill to pass without coming to the people, but should an election occur, methinks Haldimand will send a Liberal to represent her in the Dominion House."

As reported in the daily press, Jack Livingstone had the misfortune to break his arm lately. He was driving a young horse when a couple of dogs got into a scrap so close to the animal's heels that a frantic kicking ensued. To save himself Jack sprang from the rig, falling on his right arm, which was broken. He also got a bad bruise on his face. Dr. Archer set the limb and Jack is getting along nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Crouch and family have taken up their abode in Wm. Wilso's house, which, until further notice will be the Presbyterian manse. Mr. Crouch preaches here every Sunday at 3 p.m., and at Mundare at 7 p.m at Rose Creek fortnightly at 11 a.m.

Wm. Wilson, now a Vegreville citizen, paid us a visit recently. He is keeping in first-class form in spite of the change to a less valubrious climate.

Grubs are doing considerable damage to late sown grain here and in some other places. This is the first time we have known it to suffered damage to field crops from this cause. They are always more or less in evidence in gardens.

Small fruits are going to be pretty good this season and apples promise a much larger yield. One of our standard crabs gives promise of having several hundred apples on it. The winter proved a severe one on some apple trees.

Calgary Fair

The flights made by Strobel's Airship at the Calgary Exhibition in 1908 undoubtedly created a sensation. The first appearance of the airship was on the 1s of July when it headed the procession to the exhibition grounds. In 1908 the airship was a great novelty, but the latest means of transportation to day is by means of an aeroplane or heavier than air machine. At a very great expense the directors of the Calgary Industrial Exhibition have arranged for flights for the forthcoming exhibition at Calgary, June 30th to July 7th. Strobel's aeroplanes have experienced phenomenal success, and have made some of the most thrilling flights yet made with heavier than air machines. Those who witnessed the flights of Strobel's airship will realize that he will also make good with the aeroplane. Mr. Strobel's machine has a sweep of 30 feet and will be under canvas for the inspection of visitors to the exhibition prior to and after each flight.

The aeroplane flights together with the mono-rail demonstration, pictures of the Coronation, grand display of fire works and other special features, will provide entertainment for visitors to the exhibition after they have witnessed the splendid displays of live stock and industrial exhibits.

There will be reduced passenger rates to the exhibition. Prize lists and other information may be obtained from E. L. Richardson, Manager, Victoria Park, Calgary.

Service Becomes Effective June 18

It was announced at the ... office of the Grand Trunk Pacific yesterday that the new summer train service will commence on June 18th. Besides the inauguration of the new trains, the trains now operating between Winnipeg and Edmonton will be considerably quicker in time. At present the trains are running between these points on a thirty-hour schedule, but on and after Sunday, June 18, time will be reduced to 26 hours. It was at first contemplated to make the running times of these trains a little over 25 hours, and the service to be limited to a few stops in order to make the time, but the company received so many petitions from the various towns that the management decided it would be better this summer to receive a good many of the stops that it was at first decided to eliminate. As it is the service will be two hours faster, which it is assumed will make these trains the fastest running between Winnipeg and Edmonton. On the new time ... [illegible]

ONE NIGHT SERVICE

These trains provide a one-night service to Saskatoon and one-day service to Canoroe and Edmonton. A new daily, except Sunday, will leave Winnipeg at 8 a.m. for Watrous, arriving there at 10.50 p.m., returning at 6.00 a.m. and arriving at Winnipeg at 9.40 p.m. Close connections will be made at Melville for Yorkton and Canora, both east and west bound, affording the people of these latter two centres direct service to and from Winnipeg. Another new local service will be inaugurated between Edmonton and Mirror, the new divisional point on the Calgary branch of the G.T.P.

The west train will leave Edmonton on Monday, June 19th, at 5.30 p.m., arriving at Tofield 7.16 p.m., and at Mirror at 10.30 p.m. The west-bound train will leave Mirror at 7.30 a.m., Tofield 10.30 a.m., and Edmonton 12.20 p.m. These trains will make a direct connection at Tofield with the through main line trains to and from Saskatoon and Winnipeg. West of Edmonton the local trains will leave Edmonton at 6.30, arriving at Edson 1 p.m. East-bound they will leave Edson at 3.30, arriving at Edmonton 10.20 p.m. The west-bound train will run daily except Sunday and Tuesday, and eastbound except Tuesday and Saturday. An entirely new train will leave Edmonton at 1 p.m. on Saturday to accommodate the tourists to Lake Wabamun. This train will arrive there at 7.30 p.m. The return of this train east-bound will leave Edson at 8 a.m. on Mondays, arriving at Edmonton at 10.30 a.m.

MOUNTAIN DISTRICT

Effective to-day the Grand Trunk Pacific will inaugurate for the first time a settlers' passenger train service from Prince Rupert to Vanarelel. It is a little over 100 miles between these two places and the east-bound trains will run on Wednesdays and Saturdays, leaving Prince Rupert at 1 p.m., and arriving at Vanarelel at 8:30 p.m. Westbound the trains will leave Vanarelel at 9 a.m. on Thursdays and Sundays, arriving at Prince Rupert at 3:30 p.m.

THE BEST NEW TOWN IN 1911 IS WRITTEN [illegible]

Mirror [illegible]

Grand Trunk Pacific Railway [illegible] the divisional point approximately between these two important cities.

Mirror has a [illegible] situation on the west side of Beaver Lake, in an extremely fertile district well settled by the best class of English and Eastern Canadian farmers, who are in addition describing the territory which Mirror will be the centre as "The Garden of Western Canada." Mirror as a divisional point will have a substantial population of railway employees to start with and as in other [illegible] character on the Grand Trunk Pacific it is not without reason the prediction is made, that the population should easily reach one thousand in the first year, and from fifteen hundred to two thousand in the second year. This will mean the advent of one or more representative houses in every line of business with almost certain assurance of complete success. Although lots in the town will not be offered for sale before July 1st, when it is expected surveys will be completed and maps available, it is certain that there will be at least two chartered banks and a newspaper and printing office ready to move in as soon as lots can be purchased. A hotel and lumber yard will be installed at the same time, and as is always the case the necessary lines of business for a new town.

The Grand Trunk Pacific will inaugurate a daily passenger train service at once between Edmonton and Mirror, making a junction at Tofield with their through trains between Winnipeg, Saskatoon and Edmonton, ensuring splendid transportation facilities to the district.

Mirror has been named for the "Daily Mirror" of London, England, the morning newspaper with the second largest circulation in the world, and the "Mirror" of which express their keen-est interest in this new town, giving much publicity to it, and expect to become substantial investors in town property as the sale besides further say public affairs or works of the town in future.

Under these auspices the town should get a splendid send off, and realize the prediction that it as the best new town in Western Canada in 1911.

VOLUME IV TOFIELD, ALBERTA, THURSDAY JUNE 29, 1911 NO 45

"The Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave"

APPEALS with a greater truth to our own Fair Canada than any other nation under the sun. At no time in the history of the world have so many people immigrated to any country, in so short a time, as have come to Canada within the last five years. When the better class of the countries of Europe and of the United States will leave "Home and Native Land" to cast lots with the Canadian, there must be a good reason, for no country in the world offers to its people as great a stretch or as fertile farm lands, or as many natural advantages, and none can come anywhere near its natural resources, neither does any offer greater political freedom than does the Dominion of Canada. What more do we need to make the greatest nation of our day? Simply people who are loyal to their homes, people who will BOOST for Tofield and Beaver Lake District, for a man who will enthusiastically boost for his home town boosts for the whole of Canada. And the man who is loyal to his home, his town, and his country respects the whole world and makes the very best of a citizen.

Card of Thanks

MR. EDITOR:

We wish to thank the many friends at Tofield who have so kindly contributed toward the work of our home. Up-to-date, we have received nine dollars and thirty cents worth of potatoes, eggs and butter, valued at current city prices when received, forty-three dollars and forty cents in cash and a parcel of clothing.

We are told that more is coming and most heartily thank all who are so kindly interested in a much needed work. There is pressing need to widen the work, and to do so, we must have a helper, and more funds for supplies, with which last Tofield has loyally helped.

We are pleased to report that the children in our care are happy and thriving.

Thanking you for your space,

Mr. Editor,

We are sincerely yours

Coronation Day Celebration

Coronation Day was fittingly observed in Tofield by a joint celebration in which Tofield public schools and sister schools throughout the district took a part. Early in the afternoon the young people assembled at the school and formed a parade, marching about town and back to the school where appropriate exercises were participated in. A program of patriotic songs and choruses by the children and addresses was given during which medals commemorative of the historical occasion were presented to all the pupils. Owing to threatening weather the picnic was not held. One feature worthy of mention perhaps more than other was the girls' drill in which they showed the excellent results of disciplined training.

Calgary Fair

The special features for the forthcoming Calgary Industrial Exhibition to be held at Calgary June 30th to July 7th, are the best that have ever been provided for an exhibition held in the west. At great expense the directors have provided for flights twice daily of Strobel, aeroplane, demonstrations of Brennan's Mono-Rail Car, moving pictures of the Coronation, and other high-class attractions. The Exhibition Co. are paying freight on all exhibits originating in Alberta and are offering $20,000 in prizes and purses.

To make the racing end of the program more interesting to patrons, 6 Pari-Mutuel machines of the latest model have been purchased. These machines were used for the first time in Canada in Toronto at the Ontario Jockey Club's meet in the latter part of May, and proved a decided success in the meet. It is expected that fully 100,000 people will visit the coming exhibition, which will undoubtedly be the best in its history.

New Grand Trunk Pacific Sleeping Cars

What is undoubtedly the highest type of the car constructor's art is exhibited in the ten sleeping cars which are arriving in the city this week for the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, for their Winnipeg-Saskatoon-Edmonton service. These cars comprise every conceivable facility for the comfort of night travelers, and though the elaborate ornamentations deemed necessary in the past in the matter of fancy decorations in the interior have entirely been abolished, it has been superseded by an arrangement of looking more to the solid comfort of the traveler, and at the same time the art of car decoration has been much enhanced by the rich appearance of the highly polished mahogany interior, and the rich tapestry cushions of the seats. No superfluous curtains on the windows to gather dust are found. These cars are all alike and the interior arrangement provides in addition to the usual number of sections and drawing room, a compartment complete in itself, with a connecting door to the drawing room for family or party use, although these rooms may be used separately if desired. The berths are materially longer and higher, and slightly wider than any previously in use. Electric fans in the drawing room, compartment and also the body of the car insures comfort in the hottest weather. Both upper and lower berths are provided with electric reading lamps of a new pattern which throws a powerful light on the reading matter, making a distinct improvement over any other type of lamp at present

He tilted it an his face changed as though he had caught a vision of the better world, but I kept my face like the face of an angry bear. "What do you call this stuff?" I asked the cook, as his face grew dark with a thunder-cloud.

"That's coffee!" he roared.

Who was the pet steamed?" I ask ed, with my face screwed down to the bridge of my nose.

"Say, mate," in a minute sqn, he yelled; and I got up with bulging eyes and my mouth all open about twenty dif ferent questions. "Say, mate," he repit ted wheedlingly. TOFIELD, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, JUNE 29, 1911.

(Special Despatch to the Standard)

OTTAWA, June 19.—The most interesting political event of the past week was the Provincial election in Nova Scotia, in which the Liberal Government, which has now held office in that province for nearly thirty years, was again returned to power by an overwhelming majority. The federal significance of the election lay in the fact that in the country district the Provincial Conservatives insisted on steering clear of the reciprocity issue, while in Halifax the Conservative press sought to make it an issue. Moreover, Mr. Borden, the federal leader, visited Halifax, as announced in the Conservative press, to take part in the election there. The result was an overwhelming endorsation of the Liberal policy in that city, and serves to effectually demonstrate that Nova Scotia is heartily in accord with the reciprocal trade arrangement and the expansion of Canadian markets. It also goes to indicate that unless the Conservative leader who sits for a Halifax constituency, Borden has anti reciprocity views he will have a difficult time in holding his own seat at the next federal election.

The growing indications that the people of Canada intend to assert their right to extend their trade and develop the prosperity of the public generally through the reciprocity pact, has aroused the highly protected corporate and financial interests to further display of the moneyed character of their campaign. The revelations of the United States Senate investigation, where it was shown under oath that the United States trusts were contributing to the campaign to defeat the agreement, has been followed by an announcement from Montreal to the effect that a Conservative local member for one of the counties surrounding Montreal is authority for the statement that a fund of $2,000,000 will be available to defeat reciprocity, and that this immense amount can be available within two weeks. This statement, which has been published generally in the press, indicates the lines which the anti-reciprocity campaign will take.

Signs are multiplying that many rural Conservatives in Ontario will refuse to identify themselves with the corporation-financed campaign against the reciprocity agreement. A despatch from Chatham announces that general dissatisfaction of the rural Conservatives of Kent county with the anti-reciprocity stand of the leaders of the party is believed to be the motive for the resignation of Robert Wilson, a prominent Conservative farmer, from the head of the Conservative organization at Charing Cross. The despatch states: "When the details of the reciprocity agreement were announced many prominent Conservative farmers around here declared their approval of the measure, which is expected to prove immensely beneficial to the agriculturists of this section. The course of the leaders in parliament has occasioned much discontent."

Importance attaches to the address of Hon. M. H. Davis, commercial advisor of the United States Department of State, Washington, who, in the absence of President Taft, visited the National Federation of United States Millers in convention at Niagara Falls, New York, and delivered an address to the National Federation and the Dominion Millers on the occasion of the visit to Toronto by the former on Friday last. Mr. Davis said: "For one hundred years Canada and the United States have lived side by side in unity and friendship, and now another step in world progress, in advanced prosperity to both countries, has been reached by the conviction that even the commercial bars which separate the countries should be materially reduced. . . . Let me say one word more, and make it plain. We do not desire more than closer commercial intercourse. We, like you, are proud of our national unity. We want no annexation on one side or the other, and it is only the enemies of our countries and the laborers of both who advocate or seek to interpret events otherwise. . . . The American price will not be lowered." Mr. Davis told the Millers, "The Canadian price will necessarily be advanced."

So far has the self-interest of the anti-reciprocity campaign carried itself in misrepresenting the facts of the agreement that Bishop Mills, in the charge to the Anglican Synod of Ontario, at Kingston, this week, found it necessary to administer a stinging rebuke, which is fraught with much significance coming from such a source and upon such an occasion. The text of the Bishop's comment was as follows:

"Of course there are some people going up and down the country now, professional politicians for the most part (though there are some others with them who know just as little about the matter), who are singing a song about blue ruin which is coming on to our country through reciprocity with the United States. Whether it would be in the general interests of the country is a question for debate, and about which different opinions may be held. But politicians have not devoted their attention so much to the discussion of this question as in ringing changes on the cry that if reciprocity were adopted, it would be the first step towards annexation; that the United States would be buying us, and we would be selling ourselves. I think that is the greatest nonsense that ever came from the mouths of supposedly sane men; as a Canadian, I resent it. . . . I would think little of my loyalty to the British Crown and the British Empire if it depended on tariff schedules. Those who think the national spirit of Canada is such a poor and uncertain thing that her existence as a nation would be imperilled by an increase of trade with the United States certainly do not know her. There is no part of the British Empire in which there is truer loyalty than in Canada, and she can be neither bought nor sold. It is a strange thing that both parties, from Sir John Macdonald down, have sought for reciprocity with the United States, and looked upon it as desirable, but the United States would not agree to it, and I am not sure they will now; however, when it is apparently within our reach, there is a cry raised against it, as though it meant the retention of the country."

FOOTBALL

Thursday last (June 22nd) the local club clashed against Ryley Footballers and at the close of a poor exhibition of the fine old country game the home team had a lead of one goal, the only score of the match. On the playing shown by the two teams it was hard lines for the Ryley aggregation to have to take the thin edge of the score because they showed by far the better combination but were very unlucky in front of goal, one or two splendid drives striking the goal posts and rebounding into the field of play. On a foul given against Tofield Ryley placed the ball between the posts, but on account of the referee not having blown his whistle the goal was disallowed and the kick ordered to be retaken which proved of no use to the visitors.

It is a pity if lovers of this fine old game cannot attend these matches without having to listen to obscene language such as was exhibited by a spectator who is a very prominent figure at all the home games. It is to be hoped that this will be a warning to him and that it wont be necessary to again mention such an unfortunate occurrence.

BASEBALL

Tofield baseball fans were greatly disappointed last Thursday (Coronation Day) when it was learned that the Edmonton Retailers, who were billed to appear on the local diamond to play a game with the Tofield Seniors, had not arrived. Nothing daunted, Manager Hannan, who for the last few weeks as has been working hard to get a strong local nine together, phoned to Bardo to see if he could get the Bardo team to play the locals. Owing to the short notice given to the Bardo team they arrived with a man or two short, but the game was filled by good local amateurs and a fine game was the outcome. Promptly at 4.30 the umpire gave the signal "play ball," Bardo taking the first swat. The battery for the locals being Twitchell and Bissett and for Bardo Johnson and Mike McCusker. The game was called at the end of the 7th innings on account of rain, the locals having the big end of the score of 10—8.

Beaver Lake East

Mrs. Jas. Munroe is now in charge of the Beaver Lake Post Office.

A thunderstorm with some rain attached paid us a visit on the 17th. Some gardens were injured a good deal but field crops not very much. The first hail-stones to do damage so far down the east side since settlement began here in 1881.

Road work is now on. J. A. Stewart has charge of the government work on the road to Mundare. Malcolm McCallum is overseer in 32-17-w-4. A good deal of money is to be expended by both, and the chance for doing good work is excellent.

Rev. Jr. McLean, S.S. organizer for the Presbyterian church held a meeting here on the 20th. The teachers appointed for the summer are Mesdames Watson, Crumb and Steele, M. McCallum, Jos. McCallum.

Coronation Day—We home-everything passed off gloriously and that ten crown is now firmly fixed on King George's head. We believe he will prove as good a ruler as his lamented father, should he be granted life and health. Of the other Georges little in their favor can be said, except in the case of George III. Either said he was a good man and a wise king. He was certainly above reproach in his personal character, but, he was far from wise as a ruler at times. Some of our citizens kept the day, others did not. We are afraid some of us went quit work for spree or king till the grim monster grabs us by the hind legs. God save the King and his worthy consort Queen Mary.

The census man, Mr. Clote of Vegreville, is on his way around just now. He is a good man for the job, being seemingly well supplied with tact and common sense.

Big Circus Coming

The circus for 1911 will be ushered into Tofield, Monday, July 3rd, with the well known A.G. Barnes Big Three Ring wild Animal Show which returns to Canada after a year of unlimited success. Bigger and Better than ever before and which now commands the first place as the only real wild animal show in the world.

To show which has won such an enviable reputation with the press of the Pacific coast now presents the greatest aggregation of wild and domestic animals that has ever been trained to perform.

To gain some idea of its enormity it takes 25 extra length cars to convey them around the country, has over 300 wild and domestic animals which give a performance lasting two solid hours of which every act is given by trained animals, 200 employees, acres of canvas for numerous departments, three arenas in the main tent the center of which contains a mammoth steel arena where all the wild animal acts take place, two big military bands, 160 horses for the magnificent street parade and the cleanest and best show which has ever been seen in this country.

Among the many favorites who will return are Millie Barnes performing the famous riding lion "Nero" and riding four, Mlle. Mercedes Lamonte and her group of full grown African lions, Major Bob Thompson with his comedy performing Russian and Sable bears, Daisy Martin Florine and her group of beautiful spotted Persian leopards and south American Pumas, Capt. Stonerall and the most remarkable act in the world today, his performing Sea Lions who play ball, juggle flaming torch and ride swiftly running horse while performing. Herr Locis Roth and his famous group of 24 lions all performing in the steel arena at the same time and which is the largest group of wild animals in the world performing in one arena, and the most thrilling act of the entire performance, Edwin Kelly entering the cage of the monster untamable lion Conser Wallace.

And the gorgeous street parade. All the animals known to the kingdom of wild beasts will be displayed in their brilliantly decorated cages drawn by some of the finest specimens of equine perfection.

Courtesy and politeness is the keynote of this show makes success with the one thought for the safety of the ladies and children. Mr. Barnes extends his most hearty greetings to those who have watched this world's greatest animal master attain the success which untiring work to give the public the best in this great amusement field has brought for him.

Our subscribers will confer a favor on the publishers of this paper if they will kindly let us know by a card when they miss receiving their copy regularly. The only way to overcome trouble of this kind is to let us know when it occurs. While we do not claim to be perfect and thus admit that it may be possible for us to err, yet we have no hesitation making the statement that the most of this trouble comes from within the postal service itself. Over this we have no direct control. But if we are informed when trouble exists we are in a position to see that the service is improved. You will therefore confer a favor upon us and incidently one upon yourself if you will let us know when you do not receive your copy regularly.

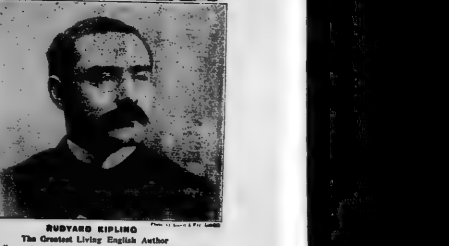
FAMOUS PEOPLE

BY FANNIE M. LOTHROP



RUDYARD KIPLING
The Greatest Living English Author

A small man, tanned and bronzed to a deep light mahogany, sparely built, with broad shoulders, keen blue eyes, heavy straight eyebrows, a thick dark mustache and square, resolute jaw—such is Rudyard Kipling in clothes that shout defiance to fashion plates—this is Rudyard Kipling, alert, aggressive and interesting, quick in movement, a bit cynical and with a firm, strong and one thoroughly self-satisfied—one who is his own court of appeals.

At Bombay, the most cosmopolitan city of Asia, Kipling was born in Christmas week of 1865. His father was an Englishman, a professor of architectural sculpture in a Bombay college, and when Rudyard was six he was shipped back to England to be educated. At thirteen he entered the United Service College at Westward Ho, under the direction of old Indian officers. The atmosphere was military and Indian, and was doubtless a potent factor in coloring the mind of the boy, who acquired more by unconscious absorption than by direct study. It is true that he carried off the prizes in English literature in a matter-of-fact kind of a way, as if it were his assigned share of the plunder; but otherwise revealed no symptoms of genius.

Later, when he went to India to work on the "Civil and Military Gazette" at Lahore, where his father was employed, he was recognized in a half patronizing way by the editor-in-chief. Strange, however, for the "Plain Tales from the Hills," which gave him his first European success, and his "Departmental Ditties," were accepted under protest. In honor the boy, rather than for any merit the editors discovered.

A man of supreme individuality, he has the splendid courage of his convictions. He dared to hate England into a fight when the Boer war threatened to his imperialistic heart—accepted the country he loved for treatment of her soldiers, he laughed them as they by his stirring, inspiring lines and verses. Stanzas, still—Alfred Austin, the Tennyson was writing—lyrics of barrack-room ballads guaranteed to offend no one. Kipling came his greatest. Here was a new classic added to our literature.

Kipling is the apostle of the strenuous; he loves color and motion; it with love, he is thrilled by struggle, by power by deed. His characters are the primal emotions and pass one nature unchanged. In his stories and verses he is the poet of India, of Britain, of Africa, of the sea, and a where he is the Orientalist in his native haunts . . . India . . . remains to the world as no other English writer has . . .

Military Service at Tofield Camp

Conducted by Rev. Allan M. McCall

On Sabbath morning the weather was on its best behavior. In the afternoon at 2:30 the 101st Regiment Fusiliers from Edmonton, formed up for Divine Service on their Tofield camping ground. There was a goodly number of visitors to the camp in spite of the wet condition of the roads to and from camp. The music accompanying the singing was provided by the Regimental Band. The lessons were read by Colonel Rogers, whose venerable military bearing added much to the impressiveness of the service Rev. Allan M. McCall of Tofield Presbyterian church, conducted the service, which immediately after the address began the rain commenced to fall. Taking for his subject of address, the incident in the gospels of St. Matthew and St. Luke, of the meeting of the Centurion and Jesus Christ. "The Roman and his Lord," Mr. McCall said that in this narrative, there were three judgments passed upon this Roman Soldier. First, the judgment passed upon him by the people amongst whom he lived and whom he governed. Second, there was the judgment passed on himself by the man himself. Third, the verdict of the Master on the Centurion.

Under the first head, it was pointed out that the Jews recommended this man to Jesus Christ because he was worthy. He loved the Jewish nation, he built them a synagogue and he was a kind master. He went out of the beaten track of convention. He did not hate and oppress the despised subject race, he counted them as brother men. He showed deference to the Jewish religion by his generous gift of the Jewish synagogue. And again in an age when clemency towards slaves was unbreard of by the haughty Romans, he was affectionately concerned about the health of his poor slave. On all counts this Roman soldier stands out in bold relief as an example to the world in which he lived, and also to many of our modern "lights" he is still a sharp rebuke. To-day, in our glorious West," the preacher said, "We need to learn the lesson enshrined for us in a subject like this. What qualified common sense, some men show for other sense. I heard a man when he had a sore grudge at another white man, or wanted to call him down to the very dust, use the expression "He is a biwash." The line of reason, with which the expression is hurled forth, plainly insinuates contempt for the Indian as a common matter of course. In dealing with the second head Mr. McCall showed that while the common verdict of those who were his fellow judges was that the man was "worthy," he must have completely surprised them all by stepping out and saying on his own behalf "Lord I am not worthy." The difference between the verdict of the people on the centurion, and the verdict of the centurion on himself, is accounted for by the difference in the standards of measurement. The people measured the centurion by the kind of Roman officers they had commonly met. The centurion measured himself by Jesus Christ. "With whom do we measure ourselves? Here the point of view is master of the situation." The preacher compared his experience, when teaching ewelid to boys. "I remember" he said, "to have looked down at the boys struggling over the fifth proposition of the first book. It was to me a reminder of former triumph, of old battles fought and won. I could smile down on the boys. But in the mathematical hall of Balliol College, Oxford, I have looked up to the board when the deft scholar who was professor there, filled the board with figures, and felt overwhelmed, I could not follow him past the first line of formulæ. I smiled down to the boys but I looked up to the professor with obsessed face."

In closing Mr McCall remarked that the final verdict had yet to come, nay other did not really count. Christ said that this man presented the most marvelous exhibition of faith he had ever seen. What Christ commended was not the list of recommendations and the grand certificates of the man's worthiness, but the "faith" which was the guiding principal, the moving force of his life.

What Christ saw and heard was a soldier coming to him and saying "Lord, I also am a man with authority over others and I see, and over me there are superiors officers, whom I am bound to obey, and over the whole army imperial Cæsar sits upon the throne and dictates to all. But Lord, there is "one" lord over Thee. Thou art King of Kings and Lord of Lords, I am not worthy to receive You into my humble home." Coming to Christ with faith like this we may ask whatever we will and it shall be done to us and to us and for us. The service was brought to a close by singing "God Save the King."

Canadians Sail for Home

Liverpool, July 4.—An enthusiastic scene was witnessed here when the Empress of Britain finally left the Mersey, where she had been lying to for a day because of the women's strike. Sir Edward Morris with the lord mayor, went aboard and wished Sir Wilfrid Laurier "bon voyage." The Canadian troops cheered both distinguished guests and their band played God Save the King and Auld Lang Syne. The surrounding river was gay with craft fluttering their lanning Col. Mc Lean sent a message to the lord mayor expressing the grateful thanks of the Canadian contingent for the heartiness of their reception and the lavishness of the hospitality shown them throughout their visit.

King Reviews Boy Scouts

London, July 4.—Thirty thousand boy scouts from all parts of the empire were reviewed by the King in the Great Park at Windsor today. The Canadian contingent, numbering 150 boys and representing all of the provinces of the Dominion, occupied the place of honor on the right of the first division.

Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Whillans left on Monday even ng last for a short visit to Edmonton and Calgary.

Although gotten up on very short notice the dance in the Masonic Hall last Monday night was a decided success, a large crowd tripping the light fantastic to the excellent music furnished by the Corderoy Orchestra.

Annual Celebration of Dominion Day

Hundreds from outside points Visit Tofield—Something Doing All Day Although Weather Wasn't Favorable

Owing to the inclemency of the weather on Monday last, the day on which the residents of Tofield and district had lived for the holding of their 15th Annual Celebration of the Confederation of the Provinces of Canada which took place on the 1st of July, 1867, the remembrance of which fills every Canadian's heart with pride) the sports had to be postponed. However large crowds of people came in by the trains from the south and west. The 101st Regiment Edmonton Fusiliers had a sham fight in the morning which commenced about 11 o'clock. Major Carsakes was in command of the Defending force which had been materially strengthened by about thirty stalwarts from our own town of Tofield, who as the Bulletin reported it, were proud of their town and unwilling that houses which they had labored to establish should be demolished by the invader, had readily responded to a hurried call for volunteers by Major Carstairs and enlisted in the detachment over which Lieutenant Pete Barley was commanding. The attacking force was ably led by Capt. Anderson. The colors to distinguish the two forces were :— blue for the defenders and red for the assailants. The object of the red force was to capture the town of Tofield from the blues who were in possession. The reds proceeded to plan and carry out deceitful moves (all's fair in love and war) which would result in the overthrow of the blues and the possession of THE FINEST TOWN IN WESTERN CANADA — THE TOWN OF TOFIELD. Part of the force under the command of Captain Gillespie advanced on the centre of the defending force and Captain Watts with a slightly larger company than Capt. Gillespie had advanced on the left. This was a clever ruse on the part of the reds, because the blues thinking this was the main force of the enemy concentrated all their efforts in trying to overthrow Capt. Watts and his forces. In the meantime the main body of the reds under Capt. Flint crept through brush, etc., on the right of the town and took possession of the Town Hall (of course this was easy because the Secretary had returned the revolver which did such noble work during the Galician raid here a few weeks ago to its rightful owner). The blues claim however, that Capt. Flint and his men were spotted before entering the town and that their fire annihilated them before they reached town. The umpires Colonel Rogers and Colonel Edwards decided that the reds had successfully captured the town and gave them the contest.

Since the above battle, at which many were killed and hundreds wounded, peace and quietness has reigned supreme and it is likely that all will be well now at least for another year.

TOFIELD, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, JULY 6, 1911.

(Special Despatch to the Standard)

OTTAWA, June 26—The campaign stories being industriously circulated to the effect that the fruit-growers and market-gardeners of the Niagara district of Ontario were actively opposed to the reciprocity arrangement, met with an effectual response at the big Liberal convention of farmers, fruit-growers and market-gardeners in Welland on Friday. This is the constituency represented by Hr. W. M. German, K.C., one of the two Ontario Liberals who joined Hon. Clifford Sifton in his opposition to the proposals. The anti-reciprocity interests have been actively circulating the report that this district, in common with the fruit-growing district of British Columbia, was to be injured by the reciprocity agreement, and that Mr. German bespoke the sentiments of his Liberal constituents in opposing the pact.

Mr. German met his Liberal constituents in convention assembled for the first time last week. For four hours the member wrestled with them on the question in an effort to convince them that his stand was a logical one, but without success. At the conclusion the big convention of farmers, fruit-growers and market-gardeners, by standing vote and amid a remarkable scene of enthusiasm, unanimously passed the following resolution: "that this convention heartily endorses the reciprocity pact now before Parliament, pledges itself to support the Government in carrying it into effect, and desires to emphasize its continued and fullest confidence in the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier."

There was ominous significance in certain of the exchanges between the member and his farming constituents which indicate the serious trend of public sentiment which the character of the anti-reciprocity campaign is arousing. Arguing that tariff changes caused lack of business confidence Mr. German asked: "What creates lassitude of business?"

"Just these corporations and trusts that are fighting reciprocity," shot back a farmer, amid applause.

Another farmer expressed regret that the Liberal member was aligning himself with "the trusts and the Tories," and argued that he stay with the farmers, who were his friends.

"I hold no brief for the manufacturers or corporations," was Mr. German's assurance.

A moment later he referred to the fact that Mr. Flavelle and the pork packers had appealed unsuccessfully to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Fielding against the pact. If reciprocity went through it would put them out of business, he said.

"Then put them out," cried another farmer. "We want no meat trust."

"Toronto Millionaires, Grit or Tory, have no right to dictate to us," exclaimed another.

Finally Mr. Charles Priestman rose. "They're all made their millions, hav'nt they?" he asked. "Tell us what this man Flavelle is worth, and how much of it he made out of protection at our expense."

Mr. German tried further to explain his position, without avail.

"We want the Buffalo market," exclaimed a farmer.

"The Buffalo prices are generally no better than our own," the member replied.

"What about hay?" put in Mr. Thos. Stokes.

"I was going to make an exception in hay" explained Mr. German.

"Well, take strawberries," said Mr. Stokes.

"Or sweet cream," put in Mr. Priestman.

Mr. German sought to explain that these things might be affected at present, but not generally. No one was asking for reciprocity before Mr. Fielding brought it down.

"We all want it, " was the assurance of Mr. Anson Garner, a large fruit-grower and farmer.

"Didn't that big deputation of western farmers and our own farmers ask for it?" added Mr. Bean.

"Wouldn't it have been better to wait for better terms when we were prospering when we waited?" was Mr. German's reply. "How much in this haste going to benefit any of you?"

"I can tell you," rapid-d Mr. Garner promptly. Last week I sold my wool, and I was out $32.00 in duty."

Mr. German aroused a prolonged and unexpected outburst of cheering by announcing that he took no stock in the annexation cry, and "I wouldn't insult the intelligence of you farmers and gardeners of my county by even repeating it." He regretted to find his constituents at issue with his position. The large gathering voted by standing vote unanimously in favor of reciprocity

The proceedings of this important convention in the Niagara district of Ontario is very significant. It means the campaign of the anti-reciprocity interests in Ontario that the agitation for reciprocity "is confined to the radical farmers of the prairies and is opposed by the older settled farmers of the east." It also furnishes an emphatic indication of the sweeping support which the reciprocity agreement will secure from the farmers and gardeners and fruit-growers of Ontario. As time passes evidences multiply that, when the time comes to speak, the people of all the Canadian provinces will be found heartily and overwhelmingly in favor of an agreement which will extend their markets and insure increased prosperity generally.

Westerners Named

Ottawa, July 4.—The announcement by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in London of the intended early retirement of Lord Strathcona, the Canadian high commissioner, comes as no surprise to Ottawa. It has been known for some considerable time that the advanced age of Lord Strathcona would soon render inevitable the step which he has now decided upon.

The information obtainable here today is that the Canadian Government has not finally decided upon the man who is to be Lord Strathcona's successor. The knighthood of Sir William Whyte, vice-president of the C.P.R., and his almost immediate departure for England, have strengthened the belief that the Winnipeg railway magnate is the man for London. According to the statement made by a member of the Canadian government, this belief is a wrong one. Sir Donald McMillan, lieutenant-governor of Manitoba, has been freely mentioned for the position, more especially since Sir Wilfrid's visit to England. If the Canadian premier has picked out a man for the office of Canadian high commissioner, he has done it since he left Canada.

Two Edmonton young men, John Francis and Jack Bradley were arrested Monday night in connection with burglaries which have recently taken place in that city. They admitted having rifled a number of stores in Edmonton and Strathcona. Quite a large quantity of stolen goods were recovered.

The only way to overcome trouble of this kind is to be sure when it occurs. Crops in Tofield District Headed Out

From all parts of the TOFIELD district advices direct from the farmers to the Standard give the information that the crops are in excellent condition and coming along at an amazing pace. Wheat, both fall and spring, is in full bend, while oats have been heading out for the past week. Barley will be in full head very shortly. Much rain has fallen during the past two weeks but not too much as yet for the growing crops. While several portions of the province have suffered from hail, the Tofield district has not been damaged in this way. The hay crop is going to be good. Cattle are in the best of condition, foraging being of the very best owing to a splendid supply of moisture having accrued since the spring months. While it is early yet to state when harvesting will open, indications are that we will have an earlier harvest this year than for some years and that it will take an infinitely greater amount of labor to be employed to safely garner it in.

THE HEROISM OF A GIRL

Saves Six Lives As Vessels Hit

SAULT STE MARIE, Mich., July 10—Three persons lost their lives and 33 others had hairbreadth escapes from death today when the steamer John [illegible] Chicago, sank in Lake Superior. The Mitchell collided with the William H. Mack of Cleveland, in a dense fog off Vermilion Point.

Second Mate Archie Causely, Steward A. L. Clemens, and Watchman George Austin, of the crew of the steamer John Mitchell, were missing when the Mack arrived, and it is believed they were drowned.

Besides her crew of 27, the Mitchell carried the wife and daughter of Steward Clemens, who were listed as kitchen helpers and seven passengers from Cleveland.

All the passengers and most of the crew of the Mitchell climbed to the deck of the Mack by means of a ladder from the stern of the Mitchell, most of them escaping in their night clothes and losing their personal effects. Three men and three women, however, left the Mitchell in a yawl, which soon capsized, and Miss Fay Clemens, daughter of the lost steward, saved herself a berome in the rescue of her fellow passengers in the small boat. Miss Clemens called to the crew of the Mack to throw them a line, and fastened it to the opposite side of the boat in such a way that the Mack crew by pulling on the line, were able to pull the yawl right side up. Among the six, all of whom were included in those saved in the wreck, was Miss Clemens' disabled mother, whose leg had been broken when she was struck by the small boat when it was being lowered to the Mitchell's deck.

The Mitchell was struck amidships on the port side and sank in about seven minutes after the collision, and the Mack had a hole 20 feet square torn in her bow.

What Has Dandruff Got To Do With Baldness?

The one the statement story dandruff is a source of baldness is absurd. But it is.

True, dandruff often precedes the loss of hair, but it is not the cause. It is merely a symptom. If you have been troubled with a scurfy scalp and have noticed that your hair was coming out, you have probably also noticed that the scurfy scalp was accompanied by a shrivelled hair root.

Those hair roots furnish the nourishment to the hair. Starve the hair roots and the hair must fall out.

To save your hair from falling you will also stop dandruff. A few applications of Newbro's Herpicide for 10—$1.00 and $0.00 at druggists' bottles.

TOFIELD, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, JULY 13, 1911.

(Special Despatch to the Standard)

OTTAWA, JULY 4th—While Mr. Borden has been in the West seeking to placate the farmers of that growing country for his opposition to tariff relief for them through reciprocal trade with the United States by declarations in favor of other reforms they had asked for, his lieutenants in the East have been equally busy assuring the easterners, particularly in manufacturing districts, that the party will adhere to the ultra Conservative policy heretofore championed by them, and that there is no danger of any radical projects being readily carried out by Mr. Borden should he attain power.

For instance, at the meeting of the North Ontario Conservative association at Uxbridge this week, Major Samuel Sharpe, was renominated as the federal candidate. In view of the fact that Major J. A. Currie, M.P., informed the convention that, when Mr. Borden secured the reins of office, "high dignitaries and honors" were in store for Mr. Sharpe, the comments of that gentleman have special significance.

And this is what Mr. Sharpe told the assembled delegates. He declared that Mr. Borden would not be "stampeded" by the West into deserting any of the traditions of the Conservative party. He assailed the British Government and the Canadian Government, both of which have recently been seeking through legislation to materially better the lot of the people, and declared: "If we had had a Unionist Government in Great Britain, with Mr. Chamberlain in charge, and a Conservative Government at Ottawa, with Mr. Borden in charge, we would have got rid of this free trade idea long ago and have adopted a system of imperial federation by now."

There was another significant feature of this Conservative convention, which did much to expose the insincerity of the anti-reciprocity contention that the tariff relief offered to the farmers by the Government will not secure the advantages for them which they think. Mr. A. K. Lancaster, Conservative M.P. for Lincoln, one of the bitterest of the anti-reciprocity campaigners, let the pig out of the sack. He frankly intimated that the Government's reciprocal trade policy would be a good thing for the pockets of the people, but was afraid that because he is to receive better prices for his products the farmers' loyalty will be affected. "The policy," he declared, "of placing the interests of the people against their patriotic instincts, as has been done in this case, is a dangerous one." So, after all, it is admitted that reciprocity will prove advantageous to "the interests of the pockets of the people." The suggestion that the patriotism of the West will be affected is regarded as little less than insulting, coming as it does from eastern financial and corporate interests which trade extensively themselves in the United States. The whole thing further discloses the utter insincerity of the selfish interests who are dominating the opposition to reciprocity and seeking to use Mr. Borden.

A further interesting incident of the North Ontario meeting, in view of Mr. Borden's western denials of Conservative obstruction in Parliament, was the assurance of his lieutenant that "we will continue to obstruct the whole thing, and fight till the last ditch" when the House meets again in July.

In spite of the tactics adopted to defeat it public sentiment in favor of the Government policy of tariff relief is growing steadily, in the east as well as in the west. The national patriotism of the east resents the efforts made by the anti reciprocity interests to set one part of Canada against another. The appeals to the east, not to be dominated by the west, met with poor response. Eastern farmers and artisans have not been deceived by it. They recognize that it is the subterfuge of selfish monied interests concerned only in looking after themselves. They realize that the policy first advanced by the great west, and made possible by the successful negotiations of Hon. Messrs. Fielding and Paterson at Washington, is not a sectional policy, but one calculated to contribute greatly to the increased prosperity of the whole country, and particularly of the great masses of the people. They note that the Opposition to the pact comes almost solely from the wealthy corporations, and the disclosures on oath at the American Senate investigation, where it was shown that the United States trusts and combines were financing the anti reciprocity campaign, have done much to remove the mask of these interests. In all the eastern provinces enthusiastic meetings of farmers and artisans have been held, enthusiastically endorsing the Government's proposals. Hon. A. G. MacKay addressing a big mass meeting at Watford this week, was greeted with a pandemonium of applause when, as an answer to the defection of eighteen Liberals of the millionaire class in Toronto, he declared that never in his life had the Liberal flag meant as much to him as it did now, leading the battle for freer trade in natural products.

"Coronation" and Business Opportunities

In thousands of ways the coronation of King George will be celebrated by the loyal citizens of the West and the inhabitants of at least one new town will have special cause to remember the event, which in a roundabout way of saying that the first divisional town east of Custor on the Lacombe Branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway will be named "Coronation." That branch, as is well known, traverses a splendid farming district and as a divisional point, Coronation will offer numerous business opportunities. Already a very large number of inquiries has been received concerning business prospects along this branch and there is every indication of extremely rapid commercial development as soon as the towns on this line are placed on the market, in which connection further details will be published.

Coronation will be located upon Section 13-37-11-W-4, about 20 miles east of Custor, the present terminus of construction.

Private Charities

The development of private charities during the last twenty five years has been greatly retarded by the fact that different governments have adopted a policy of caring for their own public charges.

Previous to 1905 there was a great wave of private charity which had been sweeping over the world and numerous institutions had been provided from private sources, not only for the care of adults but for the care of destitute and orphan children.

During the past ten years many of these institutions have been abandoned as entities of private philanthropy, and the work has been absorbed in the public policy of the state or government.

This condition applies particularly to work among destitute or neglected children; and there is not a state in the Union, and possibly not one province in the Dominion, wherein special provision has not been made for the care of the children who are liable to grow up to be charges on the community through lack of proper training and through the neglect or cruelty of parents.

The number of destitute children who have been dealt with on this American continent during the past year is something appalling. The Dollinotor alone, found homes for over 2,000 homeless or neglected children. The New York Juvenile Asylum placed about 1,500 in foster homes in the Western States. The Chicago Children's Aid Society dealt with about 2,000 cases of neglected children in the last year of its history; and the Province of Alberta, with about 200 cases of absolute neglect, and possibly five times that number of delinquency, during the past year.

No matter how careful the preparation of a case, there is always the danger of an injustice being done either to the child or to its home, carelessness on the part of an investigator may bring in a report detrimental to a home, which, had the home been properly investigated, would never have been presented. On the other hand a report

It will pay to wait and have your eyes properly, thoroughly and scientifically examined by M. Meckleburg, A.M., who is a University Student, and whose 20 years experience enables him to give far better results than foster homes in the Western States. The Chicago Children's Aid Society dealt with about 2,000 cases of neglected children in the last year of its history; and the Province of Alberta, with about 200 cases of absolute neglect, and possibly five times that number of delinquency, during the past year.

Offers Absolutely the Most Attractive Business and Investment Combination of the Year in Western Canada

Coronation is located on Section 13-36-11-W.4, about 20 miles east of Castor, the present terminus of the Lacombe branch

RAILWAY SURVEYS have been made for a branch from this point to Sedgewick, on the Wetaskiwin Branch which will ultimately connect with the Sedgewick-Edmonton Cut-off, thus making Coronation a most important link in the great railway route from St. Paul to Edmonton, via Moose Jaw, Outlook and Kerrobert. Surveys are also in course for a branch from Coronation to the Wetaskiwin Branch near Camrose.

This is a Business Announcement to Business Men

You know the progress made at Kerrobert, the next divisional point east and you are sorry you did not invest then. Now opportunity is again knocking at your door and you can secure at Coronation what you missed at Kerrobert. Coronation is located in the centre of undoubtedly one of the most fertile farming districts in all Alberta. The amount of business which will be transacted at this point will be enormous. Don't take speculative chances investments in gamble advertised small towns where prospects for future growth are doubtful, but BUY LOTS IN CORONATION the future of which is absolutely certain. There is room for everybody. OUR BULLETIN OF INFORMATION TELLS YOU MORE File your name and address and as due time you will receive full particulars of the sale of lots in this coming railway, commercial and agricultural market centre.

Sport

Secretaries of Athletic Organizations in The Field and District are requested to send in this office reports of games or any live sporting notes and the same will be cheerfully published. Address all communications to the Sporting Editor, Tofield Standard.

FOOTBALL

The secretary of the Tofield Football Club has just received a letter from Bruce, Alberta, asking Tofield to send a team there to play against Ryley for a $250.00 purse on Wednesday, August 2nd, which is the Annual Sports day at Bruce.

All players willing to play are requested to hand in their names to the team committee at as early a date as possible, so that the club will be able to select the best team available

News of the World in Brief

The Ottawa Rowing Club were defeated at Henley in the fifth heat for the Grand Challenge Cup.

The Canadian Coronation Contingent arrived home last Saturday

Forty-two deaths were reported in Montreal for the last week, they were mostly caused by the excessively hot weather

R. L. Borden, leader of the opposition has finished his western tour and returned east. He addressed 49 public meetings during the tour.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier received a most enthusiastic reception at Quebec upon his return from the Imperial conference and coronation festivities.

Shortage of Harvesters Serious Problem in West

The Winnipeg Tribune gathers from a number of official and semi-official sources that the situation in regard to the harvesters is even worse than was reported a few days ago. It was then stated on the authority of J. Bruce Walker, commissioner of immigration, that at least 40,000 men would be required in addition to the regular help employed to garner the crop of the three western provinces. It has since been shown that this estimate was very conservative, as a much larger number will be needed to successfully handle the record harvest of the west this year.

The Standard wishes to call the attention of its readers to a paragraph which appeared in the Derville notes in the issue of June 15th last. The item mentioned Mr. R. U. Fowler as having supplied for his patient but owing to his not having a sufficient amount of breaking done he would have to wait for another year before receiving the same. The Standard has learned that such a statement is absolutely without foundation on fact. Mr. Fowler applied last fall for his patent and received the same March 1st last. Our readers will plainly see that the correspondent was misinformed when writing the article referred to. The Standard regrets being the medium whereby the erroneous information was given out. It is not the desire of the Standard to be the medium of giving to the public any information but what is absolutely authentic.

We would earnestly enjoin upon all our correspondents the desirability of being correctly informed upon all subjects before placing any statements regarding the same before the public in published form. Any unless a disregard of this point leads to injustice being done unsuspecting and innocent parties.

Estray

Strayed on to the premises of Joseph Paulus, N.E. quarter of sec. 30, township 53, range 18, W. 4, on June 9th last, one small iron gray or blue mare, 2 years old small white spot on neck, two hind legs white to hocks, left front leg white to knee, right front hoof white, and small white star on fore head. No visible brand.

The Exhibition and Stock Show at Calgary last week was a success from every point of view. Exhibits of all classes of horses, cattle (especially the dairy breeds), sheep, hogs and poultry were many and of high quality. Many farmers throughout the north had exhibits on hand and won prizes. Miss Sheppard of Strathcona, won a lot of Seconds in the Purebred Jersey Cattle class. Mr. Miller of Kitscoty, won a large number of prizes in several classes of live stock. The attractions at the fair were of a high-class variety. The Calgary Fair is growing yearly in its educative standard and increasing its scope of influence. Thousands attended from all parts of the province.

Edmonton Business Men Visit G.T.P. Towns

Over forty of Edmonton's leading business men left the Capital last Monday morning by excursion train on a visit to all the towns situated along the commercial highways which centre in that city. Monday evening they arrived at Tofield from Edmonton on their way east. Owing to the lateness of the hour when they struck Tofield little could be done to show the visitors around. A large number of them, however, visited all sections of the town, noting the rapidly growing business section, the municipal works and residential section from which fact has a magnificent view of Beaver Lake and district. The party returned from Wainwright Tuesday morning and again stopped at Tofield where they were met by a number of our leading business men and shown around. Extending the party went south to Camrose, stopping to see the Tofield Coal Mines which is just adjacent to the town on the south. The manner of development of these mines was a great revelation to the business men of Edmonton. Few of them had ever seen the stripping process in operation before. They went over the whole works and manifested no small degree of interest in the manner of not only getting at the coal but in the getting it out. They were considerably struck with the fact that it is quite evident that at Tofield we will never be subject to famine or even scarcity from possibility of strikes such as other districts are where the coal is mined. Here is simply quarried out in the free open air.

Upon the cordial invitation of the manager of the association several Tofielders accompanied the party to Camrose and return. Among these were Messrs. Logan, Rogers, Hannan, Urquhart and Whitlam.

The excursion party returned to Edmonton in the evening via Tofield making a third visit to the town and staying off for about a couple of hours.

Complaining About Roads

Complaint is made rightly that the roads leading into Tofield from the east, south and south west are in a most deplorable condition. The two latter mentioned roads are bad for two miles out and it is up to Councillor Wilcox of the Local Improvement District to get busy and see that something is done immediately towards the improvement of the highways in his district. Either a representative of the people is worth the confidence placed in him or he is not.

It is to be hoped that the town council will see their way clear to get busy on the east entrance to the town. A little drainage is a small thing

WITH THE Boy Scouts

To Organize Friday Evening

On Friday evening next, at 8 o'clock a meeting will be held in the Fire Hall for the purpose of organizing a troop of boy scouts, any boy between the ages of 9 and 18 years is eligible for membership A large attendance is requested as the scout law will be read and the object of the movement explained. There are two ways by which every Canadian boy ought to prepare himself to help build up a great nation The first is by peaceful means, and by making oneself a good citizen and a loyal Canadian. The other way is to be prepared. Now is the time to start preparing so that when dangers do arise we shall be prepared. As boys we can learn how to grow up into men with strong virile bodies and healthy minds, capable of perceiving a danger as soon as it has arisen and able to cope with the situation however unusual or unprecedented it may be.

The watchword of a boy scout is "Be Prepared."

AT THE CHURCHES

Church of England

The Rev. C. F. Washburn, B.A., will commence next Sunday evening a series of sermons on "Celebrated Hymns." The hymn to be dealt with next Sunday evening will be Mrs. Alexander's famous hymn "There is a green hill far away." The choir under the direction of Mr. Corderoy will render special music every Sunday evening during the series of sermons.

Methodist

Last Sunday was observed as Flower Day at the Methodist Church. On Saturday a number of the ladies and children gathered flowers and decorated the church until it had the appearance of a flower garden. The Sunday School in the afternoon blended the service to suit the occasion and was well attended. A solo was well rendered by Miss Lefler and Mrs. Bird and Mrs. Sanders gave a fine duett. The sermon by Rev. Nicholson in the evening was appreciated by a large and attentive audience. He very ably used the beautiful flowers to illustrate the beautiful Christian character which one may develop.

Is in Favor of Reciprocity

Sam Stirrett, vice-president of the Tofield-Kingman Union U.F.A. being asked what his opinion of the reciprocity question was, said—"It is the best thing that could happen the country. There is one thing sure that it will give us an open market for our produce and as U. S. prices have averaged higher during the past ten or twelve years, we will get better prices. The year round the prices are higher across the line on the average than on this side. We know that there is a steady market in the States and, with tain condition back of the Canadian market, we know that it will give the Canadian market a stability As it has been, many times we did not know what we were going to get for our beef and hogs. In spite of the inclemency of the weather there was a good representative gathering, and the tone of the meeting certainly augured well for the future of the Presbyterian Church at Tofield. The best thanks for the success of the evening are due to the ladies who provided the cup which tickens and not inebriates

Induction of Presbyterian Minister

Into The Pastorate Of St. Andrew's Church, Tofield

On Monday last, July 17th, at 8 o'clock the Presbytery of Vermilion met in the Presbyterian church at Tofield, for the purpose of formally inducting Rev A. M. McColl into the charge at Tofield. The meeting was conducted by the Moderator Rev. Robt. Weir, Edgerton, who led in prayer, and afterwards related at length to the steps that had been taken, resulting in the call. The usual questions having been put and satisfactorily answered, Mr. McColl received the right hand of fellowship and was duly recorded on the roll of the Presbytery

At the public gathering of the congregation the moderator acted as president, while Rev. M. R. Gordon of Ryley, conducted the service and preached the inductive sermon. Rev. Robt. Weir, moderator, delivered the charge to the newly inducted minister, and Rev. Andrew Russell of Walsworth, addressed the people.

Rev. M. R. Gordon took as his text the 45th verse of the 5th chapter of St. Matthew. "Be ye therefore perfect as your Father who is in Heaven is perfect." The sermon was very much enjoyed. The congregation joined in singing the 145th psalm and hymn 448.

Rev. Robt. Weir, in delivering the charge, spoke of the great importance of the office of a minister. The minister must take heed to himself, first as a man, secondly as a christian, and thirdly as an apostle. He pointed out that Christ was the most manly of men and that like him the minister should be courageous and fearless. He should attend to his own spiritual life, to his studies and to the needs of his people. The speaker added that the true minister has an interest in all classes. He also made reference to Spencer's "Pastoral sketches" and Professor Stalker's "The preacher and his models." In his concluding remarks the moderator said that the ideal state between a minister and his people is one where the people fall in love with their minister and the minister with his people.

Rev. Andrew Russell in addressing the people spoke from the 7th and 17th verses of the 13th chapter of Hebrews. He said that a minister in the gift of Christ to his people, and that the aim of the ministry was the building up of christian character. The minister, he continued, merits the respect of his people as a man, and because of his office. That he needed on couragement to oppose the materialistic tendency of the age. What a minister needs is a nucleus of workers whom he might always count upon as devoted and loyal. He also remarked that the minister had to live in the same world as other people and required to have the financial support of his people. In closing he commended the newly inducted minister to their affectionate interest and influence.

After the service the meeting took the form of a social gathering. The ladies of the congregation very kindly provided the repast. This part of the proceedings was characterized by a spirit of kindly hospitality that left nothing to be desired. ... ... spent during the evening. Rev. R. Whitlam and too Rev. C. F. TOFIELD, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, JULY 20, 1911.

(Special Despatch to the Standard)

OTTAWA, July 19.—With the return to the capital this week of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who represented Canada at the Imperial Conference and the Coronation in London, preparations will be made for the resuming of the Parliamentary session on the 19th instant. So far as the Government is concerned, practically everything is in readiness. Every effort is being made to complete the census returns at the earliest possible moment in order that the redistribution may come on without delay, and the great west may not be tricked out of the representation to which it is entitled by further obstructive tactics on the part of the anti-reciprocity interests. It was announced by Hon. Mr. Fielding, when the House adjourned for the recess, that the reciprocity debate would be resumed when the Parliamentarians met in July. It will be interesting to note what position the Opposition will assume on this matter in view of the summer's developments.

Before adjournment, hours of Parliament's time and columns of Hansard, the official chronicle of the House of Commons, had been filled with the discussion of the tariff agreement. Everything had been said and reasid and the debate had settled down into a tedious repetition of what had been said before. The Liberal members, seeing that the whole purpose of the Opposition was to serve the anti-reciprocity interests by this method of obstruction, decided to wind up the debate as far as they were concerned and leave the onus for wasting further time to the obstruction of public business to the Opposition. When the House resumes, accordingly, the debate will be in the hands of Mr. Borden and his lieutenants. In view of the Conservative leader's repeated declarations in the west that his party were not guilty of obstruction tactics, it will be significant to note what procedure will be adopted when the House meets. Mr. Borden has been assuring the west that he is not obstructing. He lieutenants in the east have been as vigorously declaring their intention to continue to obstruct. The country will wait with interest to see who is running the Opposition and anti-reciprocity party and what plan will be adopted by it when the House meets next week.

The Toronto News, which professes to be the leading organ of Mr. Borden and the anti-reciprocity interests, in an editorial of July 6th in which it undertakes to bespeak the policy of Mr. Borden and the Conservative party, says: "He (Mr. Borden) has declared a policy under which the manufacturers and workmen of the east will continue to enjoy an adequate measure of protection." It further proceeds: "He denies in substance, not in words, that the Western free trade group has any moral, political or commercial warrant to dictate the whole fiscal policy of Canada." In this manner it is sought to align the selfish interests of the east against the progress and prosperity of the western people. The anti-reciprocity campaign of seldom is, however, meeting failure even in the east. The farmers of the older Provinces, like their fellow-workers on the prairies, are practically unanimous in favor of tariff relief and increased prosperity through the opening of new markets. Likewise the workingmen and artizans through their Labor Organizations are declaring almost daily for the reciprocity agreement. The opposition even in the east is confined almost exclusively to the corporate and financial interests which seem to fear that it may lead to further inroads on the tariff. The revelations of the official enquiry at Washington, when it was found that the United States trusts were financing the anti-reciprocity campaign, have not been lost upon the masses of Canadian people in all the Provinces.

Another significant commentary on the insincerity of the anti-reciprocity campaign came to light in Toronto this week. It will be remembered that Mr. J. W. Flavelle was one of the Toronto millionaires who led in the opposition to reciprocity on the ground that it would destroy the meat packing industry in which he is engaged as President and General Manager of the William Davies Company, Limited. During the past week this company issued to the investing public through the Dominion Securities Corporation a million and a quarter dollars of bonds. The brokers print a letter signed by J. W. Flavelle, in which referring to the history and business of the company he says: "There is every reason to expect a continued satisfactory margin of profits over and above the interest and sinking fund requirements of this bond issue." This letter is dated June 22nd, 1911. It is satisfactory to contrast its confident tone with the prophecy of ruin for the meat packing industry which was made in the memorial presented to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon Mr. Fielding by Mr. Flavelle and others in the month of February last. In that memorial Mr. Flavelle expressed the fear that "The adoption of the proposed reciprocity agreement would result in a destruction of the meat packing industry in Ontario and Quebec."

Mr. Flavelle's present statement, coupled with the statement issued a short time ago on behalf of the Burns packing concern in the west, should allay any remaining fears that may exist that the meat packing industry will not continue to enjoy reasonable profits under the proposed reciprocity agreement.

Letters to The Editor

Editor Tofield Standard

Sir,

A letter appeared in the Edmonton Journal of July 6th written by D. Fleming from Tofield local U. F. A. to Francis Clare, Sec. Edm. asking [illegible] meeting to express [illegible] used in the memorial presented by Mr. Borden at Edmonton, [illegible] Interest [illegible] prevent fall and help us to obtain better prices for our produce." He says, "Sharing in [illegible] and holding the [illegible] have been made by its supporters, from Sir Wilfrid down, to justify such a statement, and [illegible] that the bulk of the farmers in this Edmonton district do not believe the statements to be true. [illegible] different from his own, and as Press of the local he is supposed to represent their views, at any rate, in his letter to give the public the impression that [illegible] he believes the bulk of the farmers in this Edmonton district do not believe the statements to be true. I suppose he includes Tofield in the Edmonton district. Now no one can object to Mr. Fleming making what ever statements he pleases on that question on his own account, but when he goes so far as to sign himself Pres. Tofield Local, the Local certainly will object to it. He knew the platform of the U. F. A. before he accepted the position as president, therefore I dont think he had any right to accept the position when he could not fall in with their views. The members never had any objections in hearing his views on the question at our local meetings, but when he goes to give them out to the public as a representative of the Tofield farmers he certainly will find objections. Now I think the best thing Mr. Francis can do is to resign his position as President. If not, I am of the opinion the local will ask him to do so.

Thanking you Mr. Editor for your space.

Beaver Lake East

Grand growing weather. The drought haven't struck the Northwest this year anyway.

Straw berries are very plentiful, and many jolly parties take outings after the delicious fruit.

The young lady teachers whose homes are in this salubrious district are here enjoying their vacation, tennis, bathing and berrypicking are a few of their amusements.

The weather was so wet on the 20th ult. that only four persons to our knowledge attended the Borden meeting at Vegreville. These were Messrs Albert McCallum and J. B. Steele, Mrs. Malcolm McCallum and Mrs. J. B. Steele, the latter three went together and enjoyed themselves O.K. despite the rain. The meeting was a great success, the report in the Observer is very accurate and fair.

We are a grumbling lot, the coast of us at least, we pray and pray for rain during very dry weather, then when the rain does come, how we growl, a trifle on the song side we'll grant like fury and wonder when it is going to stop!

Quite a bunch went to the circus at Tofield. Their reports are varied, some say it was a poor affair, others nothing, yet others rot to beat. In some respects it was a sort of a hold-up all right. A really good circus and menagerie is a boon to the young folks, likewise to the "young" old folks. As the country grows in population, better shows will come along.

Right in your busiest season when you have the least time to [illegible] you are most likely to take [illegible] disease. For sale [illegible] everywhere.

Profits in Poultry Raising

This article is not intended for the particular benefit of our local readers. The latter must realize that we have hundreds of readers at many distant points and in many places where there are people who intend at some time to emigrate to the west. But while this is intended particularly for the perusal of our eastern and southern readers, it has in it facts that should be of some use to our local public which should spur them to better efforts in fostering an industry which they well know would give them good returns.

It is a very regrettable feature in our commercial experience in the west that we should annually witness the importation of carloads of dressed poultry much less the thousands of cases of eggs which have to be shipped in to satisfy the demand for this article.

It has been demonstrated to the utmost satisfaction of all those who have taken the trouble to go into poultry raising that in no place on the continent does the raising of poultry pay better than in Alberta. Given that the poultry raiser goes in for the laying strains and that he pays proper attention to the matter of winter production, he will reap splendid returns for his pains. Good hens of the best laying strains should lay from 120 to 225 eggs per year and upwards. Fowl will bring on the markets from 10 to 15c per pound according to the time of year. Egg production alone should bring in a revenue of from $1.25 to $7.00 per hen if properly managed. During the fall, winter and spring months the demand for fresh eggs and fowl is infinitely greater than the local supply. The person who goes in for poultry raising on a business basis will find his undertaking a most profitable one. And here we might well say that in the Tofield district anyone can collect this business on a paying scale and need only will the problem of securing the necessary feed for the fowls be a light one but the peculiarity to market solves the other phase and a most important branch of the business.

The Purpose of The Girls' Brigade

(By our Girls' Brigade Editor.)

For some time past there has been a movement among the girls of our town known as the "Girls' Brigade." It has caused quite a great deal of comment in as much as the girls drill as a military company and march fully armed. Their first appearance in public was on Coronation Day when they gave a flag drill. Since that time their progress has been very satisfactory to those interested and, by the aid of Mr. Storry, they have secured their guns and some time ago ordered suits of uniform. No doubt there are people who fail to see any good in a girls' military drill and are inclined to look upon it with scorn, but such people surely do not fully understand the purpose of the movement. Any girl who is a member of the brigade must learn that all important lesson of obedience, for no true soldiers dare disobey their orders. The physical exercise they receive is of vast importance in properly developing the body and in erectness of the person. The moral training is always upward, teaching unselfishness, thought for others, and to become more lady-like.

The object of the soldiers of our land is not so much to make war against other nations as it is to preserve the peace in our own country. So it is in the brigade life. It is not the object to teach the girls to fight any foreign foe but rather to successfully combat the evils of every day life. In speaking with their instructor, Mr. Storry, he informs the Standard that in the near future it is his intention to have them instructed, to some extent, along the line of Red Cross work and other lines which will give them a better understanding of life and its many problems. He also stated that he would be glad at any time to meet any of the parents and talk with them that they might better understand the purpose of the Brigade.

Crops are Coming On Very Nicely

Crops in the Tofield district are reported in every section to be making rapid progress. One can almost see them grow. Everywhere all grains are headed out and from the bounteous rainfalls which we have had of late the growth is something remarkable The straw will be of a good length. Present indications point to a record yield.

Fresh Breakfast Comment

Frank Sherlock of the Merchants Bank staff and Wilmer Gold returned last week-end from a two weeks' trip north to Flat Lake and district, some 120 miles north. The returned travelers state that they enjoyed their trip immensely While up north they visited C. C. Harriman, Jud Story and other former Tofielders.

In the competition for "oil pull" engines at the Winnipeg Exhibition, two of the prizes went to the "Flower City" Gasoline Tractor. Farmers in the Tofield District who are contemplating the purchase of an engine should see H. C. Hammond who is sole agent in the district for this celebrated engine.

Richard Grahame of Saurin, Ont., who last year took up several quarter sections in the Ross Creek section of the Tofield District and who spent the winter and spring at his old home returned to Tofield last week and will stay the summer here. His many friends will welcome him back to the Tofield district.

Those interested in buying or selling land or loca in Tofield and district will do well to read the Tofield Realty Co's. advt. in this issue. This new firm (Kallal Bros.) has moved into their bright, new and attractive office on Main St., near the depot and have started into business with a large list of varied lands for sale. See them when listing or inquiring lands.

A. T. Banks and son of Buckley, near Tacoma, Washington, arrived last week to reside permanently. Mr. Banks has purchased the S.A. Hallberg farm at Ross Creek. He paid his first visit to the Tofield district about five weeks ago. The result of his visit was to purchase an improved farm and then go back to bring in his stock and effects. Mr. Banks has come from Parchewan and Hamiltonian horses.

The machine men of Tofield desire to be of assistance to the farmers not only this year but each succeeding year. This year they have gone together and had a full car of twine shipped into the town thus saving freight and lowering the price below Eaton and give also a superior grade Also other deal rs in near points. East, West and South of Tofield have been compelled to lower their price a full cent per pound. All the machine men ask is for the farmers to bring in their orders in town so as to insure them against loss by having to carry over twine to a poultry yard. It will take every farmer this way to use up the car and insure the advisability of bringing in another car next year, which will be to the general welfare of the entire Beaver Lake District. May the farmers always be prosperous.

Tofield Bakery

J. R. Howe, Tofield's genial baker, who so ably supplied all the bread for the 101st Regiment's Camp at the Lake, has now completed arrangements by which officers and men of the regiment for the ensuing year can obtain the same excellent quality of his bread. The officers also complimented him on the despatch with which he delivered all orders at the camp.

Mr. Howe came west to Tofield last summer from Clinton, Ont., and immediately started in the bakery business here. It was not long until he had control of the trade in and about town, and there is no greater testimony to the excellence of his product than his ever growing business. This has expanded until now Mr. Howe supplies large quantities to Viking, Holden and other points east along the G.T.P. shipping to these points by rail.

The parade is called for 7.30 sharp at the Town Hall

That the United States is nearing the end of its tether in the matter of producing beef is intimated by the statement of Armour the great Chicago packer. In view of the fact that reciprocity is the great question which is agitating the minds of the public these days and especially the farmers, the following despatch as it appeared in the Montreal Witness will be interesting. Will it follow that prices to the Canadian farmer will be higher in the years to come than in the past?—

ARGENTINE BEEF TRUST

New York, July 14.—American beef packers must go to Argentine for their product," said J. Ogden Armour today, "if they wish to retain their hold upon the export trade of beef." The Chicago packer was asked what was meant by the American beef man's invasion of South America, when he arrived from Europe on the 'Lusitania.'

"The United States can no longer afford to export beef," he continued "for it is all needed to supply the home demand. This has been the condition for some time and it is more striking now that the American packer every day. there was a great demand in Germany and Great Britain for packed meats, and Argentine offers the simplest solution."

KINGMAN

A. Horte was in Tofield last Thursday on a business trip.

We welcomed a large number of the business men from Edmonton last week. Glad to show them round. They appeared to be well taken with the appearance of Kingman, especially our fine flowing well. Come again.

Kingman Ladies' Aid had a Sale of work on the 19th of July at Kingman. A host of people attended. Refreshments were served. The affair was quite a success.

A Horte & Sons have recently built a large machinery warehouse. They are agents for the Deering machinery.

Crops around Kingman are of the finest and everything points to an early harvest. The grain never looked better at this time of the year during the past six years. The farmers are jubilant over the splendid prospects.

The branch line train service G.T.P., has been a great help to all kinds of business in Kingman. It is a far jump from no train service at all to a daily each way. We are also very glad to have the freight service. The next thing we want is to have a daily mail via train.

A Board of Trade has been organized and meets every second Tuesday. Dr. Emmett is president and A. Bejoves sec.-treas.

We need telephone facilities in the worst way. What can be done in this respect?

AT THE CHURCHES

Church of England

The Rev. C. F. Washburn announced on Sunday Evening last that during the hot weather the shortened form of service would be adopted on Sunday Evenings. The second of the series of sermons on "Celebrated Hymns" will be delivered next Sunday evening at 7.30. The hymn "Lead Kindly Light."

Presbyterian

Divine Service in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will be held every Sabbath morning and evening instead of as formerly every alternate Sabbath morning. Each Sabbath morning Rev. Mr. McCull will give a short address to the children. Subject morning sermon will be "Christ or and Creed." The evening subject will be "The Greatest Book in the World."

Methodist

The Rev. Mr. Law of Alberta College, Edmonton, spoke at both morning and evening services last Sunday. He is an able speaker and gave two splendid addresses. The large choir added much to the interest and inspiration of the service.

The Bald Headed Man may Look Wise

But if He Had Been He Would Have Hair Now

You do not want a scientific treatise on the hair neither do we imagine, but you do want to know why the German scientist who isolated the Hair Germ, Prof. Unna, of Hamburg, Germany, was so elated when he found he could kill it and make it grow hair.

Simply because he could do it better than anything else

It is a well-established fact that Herpicide is the only remedy that destroys the hair germ. Destroy the germ and you will produce a luxuriant growth, as is the case with the majority of the Herpicide users in this vicinity.

Herpicide tonic and pomade are nearly and nearly deposit on the scalp and will penetrate to the root glands. Herpicide is clear as water and does not stain the hair and wash it out. Herpicide is for sale at all first-class barber shops and drug stores. Use Herpicide for a little time to start the hair growing.

It is one of the few remedies and preparations that will do what it is supposed to do, and is good to the last drop. Myst Druggist the recommends it.

TOFIELD, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, JULY 27, 1911.

(Special Despatch to the Standard)

OTTAWA, July 17.—Practically everything is ready for the resumption of the Parliamentary session this week. The Government has been diligent during the recess, and the boards are well cleared for the balance of the work of the session. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's return from the Imperial Conference and Coronation was attended by remarkable demonstrations by the Canadian people all along his route from Quebec to Ottawa, and the enthusiastic welcome accorded the Prime Minister every where gave additional testimony to the esteem in which he is held, and served not a little in giving an effectual answer to those interests which have sought to create party capital against Sir Wilfrid by misrepresenting his position at the Imperial Conference.

Sir Wilfrid was accompanied on his return by Sir Frederick Borden and Hon. Mr. Brodeur, and other Ministers had either preceded or followed the Premier to the capital. When the House meets on Wednesday, everything will be accordingly ready for the resumption of legislative business. The reciprocity debate will continue to hold first place in public interest, and considerable significance will attach to the position assumed by the Opposition. Dispatches from Washington indicate that the United States Senate will probably pass upon the measure on Saturday. If this be the case, the Opposition and anti-reciprocity interests in Canada will have to disclose their hand at an early date. The fact that Mr. Borden has been engaged for some three weeks in assuring the West that no obstruction is being offered to parliamentary legislation, and that his foremost lieutenants in the East have been equally emphatic in declaring the intention of the Opposition to "continue the policy of obstruction to the bitter end," indicates further dimensions within the anti-reciprocity party. Whether these will reach the acute stage of a few months ago, when Mr. Borden was threatened with being read out of the leadership of the party, remains to be seen. To continue the policy of obstruction, in view of Mr. Borden's emphatic declarations in the West, will demonstrate either the utter insincerity of the declarations of the Conservative leader or the fact that he is no longer in control of the party he assumes to lead. The passing of the agreement by the United States Senate will leave the way open for the Opposition to declare itself. The Government members have already discussed fully and in detail the various schedules of the tariff relief arrangement and its benefits to the people of Canada. Liberal members have decided accordingly not to lend any assistance to further efforts to obstruct the issue, and the debate will be left in the hands of the Opposition. It will be interesting to note what procedure is adopted by that party in view of the varied explanations of its adherents.

Among the corporate anti-reciprocity interests of the east, Mr. Borden's western trip has been followed with considerable interest. But his assurances concerning the minor requests of the western.rs are already taken by those interests with several grains of salt. The purpose of the anti-reciprocity advocates has, they declare, been well served by Mr. Borden. So far as the West is concerned the aim is, as one Toronto man put it, to induce the westerners to forsake the bird in the hand for those in the bush. Whether the westerners are willing to undertake this experiment, however, remains to be seen. In the east the sentiment in favor of the Government's tariff relief policy continues to grow in great proportions among the farmers and artizans. Resolutions endorsing the agreement continue to pour into the capital from all parts of Canada, and indications are that the masses of the people are now overwhelmingly in accord with Mr. Fielding's proposals.

It will not be the fault of the Government if the West does not secure the representation to which its great growth in population entitles it. The big task of taking the census has been practically completed and every effort is being made to get the work of completing the returns finished in time to enable a just redistribution to be accorded the province before the election, whenever that may be. Any effort on the part of the anti-reciprocity interests to trick the West out of the representation to which it is entitled will be vigorously met by the Liberals, who have every expectation of securing justice for the westerners in this matter.

A new feature of the anti-reciprocity campaign is evidenced in the efforts made to dragoon Hon. Mr. Haultain, the leader of the Opposition in the Provincial Legislature of Saskatchewan, into their ranks. Prior to Mr. Borden's western trip Eastern interests were busy predicting that Mr. Haultain would be required to "swallow himself" and come out in opposition to the policy of tariff relief. Whatever the plan then was it was evidently unsuccessful. As a result Mr. Haultain is now being anathemized by the anti-reciprocity and Conservative press. The Toronto News, which advertises itself in the big eastern cities as the "chief advocate" of the anti-reciprocity interests, in its issue of July 14th, in an article dealing with the Saskatchewan situation endeavors to insinuate that the Opposition leader in the Provincial House and his supporters were secured in approval of tariff relief by some secret and discreditable influence. Says the article:—"On the very day on which the resolution was to be brought up, a short time before the House met, Mr. Scott sought an interview with Mr. Haultain. What took place at it is unknown, to Conservatives at least. Mr. Haultain emerged from the interview, collected his followers about a quarter of an hour before the debate was due to begin and to their consternation announced that he would not move the amendment, that instead Mr. Scott would amend the resolution in one or two particulars, and that the party was to vote for the resolution so amended. There were no explanations."

The insidious effort to cast discredit upon Mr. Haultain and the Conservatives of Saskatchewan, who refused to play into the hands of the corporate anti-reciprocity interests by sacrificing the masses of the western provinces, and subsequently refused to be dragooned into line at the hands of these interests, throws another significant light on the character of the campaign which is being waged against tariff relief for the masses. It has been charged in the Liberal press that the United States trusts, which were shown to have been financing the anti-reciprocity campaign at Washington, are now directing their capital and energies in defeating the pact in Canada.

BARDO

A number of Bardo people attended services at Ryley on Sunday.

Mr. W. J. Bower has been engaged as teacher of Bardo school for ensuing year.

Some of the visitors from the United States returned to their homes on Monday.

The Bardo Band played at the New Norway Celebration on July 22nd.

Edwin M. Johnson and Ingvard Hangseth have returned from their visit to Norway, where they have been sojourning since last Christmas. They say they are glad to get back to Bardo, and have brought back a number of friends with them.

Never before has Bardo district been favored with such splendid weather as it has had this year The crops are in first-class condition, and the farmers have absolutely "no kick coming" on that score There will also be hay in abundance.

The G.T.P. does more business from Bardo Siding than at many a place where there is a station built, most of this is passenger traffic, but there would also have been considerable freight traffic if there had been a station.

The Temperance and Moral Reform League is inaugurating a campaign for the elimination of bars in this district. Petitions are being circulated for the purpose of having a vote taken for Local Option in November Already the hotel men have subscribed $100,000 to defeat this vote. This action indicates a sense of fear, which augurs ill for the bars. If such liberality had been shown towards the wives and families of drunkards, much good could have been done.

Round Hill

Round Hill purposes holding a celebration on Monday, July 31st, which will be like those of former years, in a class by itself. A full programme of sports including horse races and the customary athletic events will be put on. The prizes for the horse races are very liberal and should ensure some exciting sport. The Bardo Band has been secured for the day and will add much to the enjoyment of the day with their music. The baseball game between Bardo and Round Hill for a purse promises to be in itself an event worth coming to see, as Round Hill expects to muster a team that will make things hot. Bardo's fame for baseball is widespread. A bewery of very large size and first-class music will give those who wish to dance the time of their lives. All who wish a day to remember should make it a point to be on Round Hill on July 31st.

Frank Mohler had a valuable pure-bred bull destroyed by an unknown miserable wretch recently.

The pool-room of Messrs. Castledine & Arik is now in operation and is being well patronized.

The Round Hill Collieries are well advanced in the opening of their mine here. The plant is much the same style as those at Cardiff and Merinville and is being constructed to admit of an output of 300 tons a day. A number of journeymen miners from Edmonton and England are already at work and more will be put on as the work progresses. It is expected that nearly one hundred men in all will be employed by the New Year.

A Farm Bargain

$8.50 per acre buys the N. E. ¼ of Section 6-34-19-W. 4. 100 acres; has a log house 14x18 log stable, 16x18 coal shed 34x42 good well, 9 acres broken; very little waste land. Railways of Dominion Grant Reduced Rates

BUT $10 FARE FROM EAST DOES NOT APPLY TO POINTS IN ALBERTA—ONE CENT A MILE RATE EXTENDED TO THIS PROVINCE.

To relieve a labor situation which promises to be the most acute in the history of the western provinces, the Dominion Government has suspended the restrictions on alien immigration, and until the harvest labor market is adequately supplied, these regulations will remain in abeyance. Immigrants may cross the line for the purpose of engaging in the work of gathering in the crops, without regard to the possession of the sum of $25 as required under normal conditions, and all the other conditions will be temporarily removed.

Advertisements are being inserted in the newspapers of the United States by the Dominion Government and the Government of the Province of Alberta, calling for harvest laborers, and the agents of the two governments in various American cities are using every effort to secure hands. All of the Dominion railways have agreed to give a rate of one cent a mile to immigrants coming into the country during the harvest season, from the point where they cross the border to their destination, official confirmation of these special terms has been received by the provincial department of agriculture.

The railway companies will not comply with the request of the provincial government that the $10 harvesters rate from eastern points be made available for transportation to Edmonton, Calgary and Lethbridge. The rates will be as last year. Winnipeg will be the clearing house for harvesters whose tickets from the east will be available as far west as Estevan, Moose Jaw, Saskatoon and Warman. For points further west a one cent a mile rate will be allowed. All of the provincial government publicity agents are at work in the various centres in the States, in Toronto and Montreal directing harvesters to Alberta wards, and the main body of the work will be in the hands of Publicity Commissioner H. J. Daley, Winnipeg. There will be no through trains to Alberta, but the government agents will use every endeavor to persuade settlers to come this far west.

ARGENTINE BEEF TRUST

New York, July 14—"American beef packers must go to Argentine for their product," Edwin Cudgen Armour to-day, "if they wish to retain their hold upon the exportation of beef." This foreign packer was asked what was meant by the American beef man's invasion of South America, when he arrived from Europe on the Cedric.

"The United States can no longer afford to export beef," he continued, "for it is all needed to supply the home demand. This has been the condition for some time, and it is the more forcibly put to the American packer every day. There is great demand in Germany and Great Britain for packed meats, and Argentine offers the simplest solution."

Letters to The Editor

Editor Tofield Standard

Sir

In your issue of July 20th, is printed a letter signed "A member." It says that "I knew the platform of the U.F.A. before I accepted the position of president." I consider I did. I have belonged to the Farmers' Association since it was started, but Reciprocity in natural products alone never has been a plank nor any part of the platform. It has never been referred by the Central Committee to the Local Unions for consideration. It has never been recommended by any Local Union. It formed no part of the memorials presented by the 600. My views on these memorials were freely stated and well known by those who attended before my election. The members refused me the position knowing my views. Writer says that I know the views of all the members of the local to be entirely different from my own. I do not, nor does he. The membership of our local union has usually been from thirty to fifty. I know that at a meeting held for the purpose of debating the question, the vote in favor was thirteen.

I know the active membership of our Local is decreasing and I am at liberty to believe that it is owing to the political partisanship of the Central Committee. In view of the action of the Pres. and Sec. of Hazelmere Local; of the statements publicly made at Lacombe and MacLeod; of the action of the six by writing the memorial at Vegreville while the hundred members of that Local had never jointly considered the question; of the declaration of the Lloydminster local that the platform of R. L. Borden was more in accordance with the memorials presented to Parliament than the Taft—Fielding agreement; I consider the action of E. J. Fream, by writing our Hon. and the Sec of the Board of Trade, urging the sending of resolutions backing reciprocity, as an utterly unjustifiable interference with the electors. Upon the return of Mr. Campbell, our delegate, I asked him "How did it ever come that the Farmers' delegates consented to accept reciprocity in natural products in lieu of the three or four really good things that were the subjects of the memorials?" "Well, you see," he said, "Our Mr Fielding was down at Washington at that time making this again." "Our Mr. Fielding." I said, "then it is true what the Manitoba Conservatives are saying, that the great bulk of the farmers in the organizations are Liberals anyway." "Well," he says, "the great bulk are." So, if the Tofield Local had to meet and add this test of membership—Which many but probably meet with the views of "A Member."

The writer [illegible] my communication to the Journal.

"I would like you," I wrote Mr. Clare, "through the columns of the Journal, to make a plain, brief statement of the effect reciprocity will have on the price of beef, mutton, [illegible] oats, barley, horses, hay and [illegible] many give facts, figures and arguments by which you have been led to this conclusion." This appeared on July 4th—no reply. The same here as in the House. We know all we want to know about it." Mutton, poultry, oats, eggs, butter, cheese and horses must be sold for less by the Canadian farmer. Beef, pork and wheat will be sold on the European market as American products. Why they will bring a better price to the producer when shipped by the round-a-bout way through the United States is to be seen only by the one who wants to see it.

Agricultural products are not needed in U.S. Free. Taft says, "if we can buy Canada's products, we can get that much more of England's markets." He assures the U.S. farmers that they will sell Canada many times more by the value than Canada will sell them. At Chicago he said that U.S. ships Canada more horses, more potatoes, fifteen times as much of meat and dairy products as Canada ships U.S. He said all that we may export of any amount from Canada will consist of wheat, rye, barley and oats. The world price of these he added, is fixed abroad. The continuous growing of these as claimed by the Toronto Globe and Hon. Frank Oliver, and I might add by all other sensible people, is ruinous to farmers. Senator Bloss quoted a multitude of figures to show that, if anything, the prices of farm labor and of live stock were higher in Canada than in U.S. He also contended that cattle, horses, sheep and swine were all slightly higher in Canada. The St. Paul Pioneer says, "Last year we shipped Canada 7890 tons of hay, 215,000 bushels of potatoes, 60,000 bushels of apples, 215,000 pounds of cheese, 150,000 doz. of eggs, and $625,000 worth of fresh vegetables. The favored treaty nations import into Canada over five million dollars worth of agricultural products every year and pay the duty on them."

Of eight kinds of agricultural products, the United States exported in year ending June 30th, 1910, to the value of $347,442,923. Of that Canada took $23,160,000. The home market in Canada consumed 90 per cent. of all her farmers produced, said, as Mr. Edtor you as well pointed out in the case of poultry, our farmers are not producing enough to supply the home market. Does not Mr. Sibrett know that in proportion to its bulk the meat trade in U.S. is in fewer hands than in Canada, and the difference between the price paid the producer and the price charged the consumer greater in U.S. than in Canada. The New York Journal of Commerce says there are only three men that can export wheat from U.S. About four firms control the meat trade. Neither Mr. Sibrett's premises nor conclusion are correct. There was a time when transportation facilities in Canada were totally inadequate, [illegible] of U.S. [illegible] with their transcontinentals, our lake service and the Hudson Bay, the situation will be completely changed. It is not Canada but the Liberal Party that requires reciprocity. I asked for a full, frank discussion but, as we cannot answer him therefore as "A Member" suggests, let us kick him out. Is it any wonder that no mean a man should be ashamed to sign his name.

Anniversary

TWO years ago this new prosperous town of Tofield started on a successful career as one of the many towns on the Grand Trunk Pacific. In Alberta it has not the pace for the other towns on the same Railroad. Within two years it has grown from a bare spot on the prairie to an energetic center of some 600 people. This is due to the vast fertile agricultural district around and to the hearty co-operation of the farmers, who have shown their loyalty to Tofield in a most appreciative manner. We are proud to live in and do business in such a live town with such a bright future. We wish merely to call your attention to the fact that our store is keeping pace with the development of the town and country

Welcome to our Brother Editors

Ohio Journalists Here To-Day

ON TOUR OF WEST

The Standard extends to our visiting editorial friends from Ohio a hearty welcome to Tofield and western C.T.P. districts. It regrets that such an abundance of moisture has made the roads in the vicinity in such a state that getting around is not as pleasant as it otherwise would have been. There is however much to be seen and which may be heard anent the district and its resources without the necessity of getting out into the rural sections, much though Tofielders would like to take the guests out to view the growing crops.

The long slow famous Beaver Lake District of which TOFIELD is the industrial and commercial centre, is beautiful and fertile country, extending some thirty miles east and west and thirty miles north and south on lines though Tofield, is traversed in the first mentioned direction by the main line of the Winnipeg-Edmonton section of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and in the second or north and south direction, is traversed in the south half by the Tofield-Calgary branch line of the same system. In the district are many individual sections all linked together by fairly good country roads and every community in a healthy stage of development. Round Beaver Lake, Bathgate, Ilsley, Shouts, Bardo, Kingman, Ketchamut, Woodhaven, Stanley Road, Spitzel, Deville, West Beaver Lake, Logan and Rose Creek are various sections. They are each being well settled although there is room yet for hundreds more of enterprising farmers.

Almost without exception, each of these various communities has its School and Post Office, and some even have their churches, thus showing the enterprise which has been manifested by the citizens of these outlying parts.

A trip through the district is a most pleasant surprise to most visitor. Beginning at Tofield—at Tofield—at the end of the car is struck with the advanced state of development in town, the standard of its inhabitants, the enterprise of its people and the many civic improvements. He is led at once to presume that, as is usual in this western country, the prosperity of the town depends almost entirely upon the nature of its tributary territory, the evident prosperity of the Town of Tofield naturally must reflect the character of the surrounding country.

Nor is this presumption in regard to Tofield and district any other than well founded. Drive out into the country in any direction and one gets a splendid glimpse of truly successful mixed farming life. For the Tofield District is splendidly adapted to Mixed Farming.

Along the graded roads leading out into the various sections of the district one sees to-day splendid crops well advanced. Fall wheat, spring wheat, oats and barley average well to four feet in height and the heads of the grain six inches. The Present indications point to a bumper crop. We have had an abundant rainfall this summer, as is usual with us, securing to the farmers a most luxuriant growth. As stated above we expect a bumper crop and one which will far eclipse those of previous years. This means that we will have repetitions of the big yields of the past. Some of these are as follows:—

R. N. Williams —
Oats 116 bushels. 20 lbs. to acre
M. E. Nesbitt —
Oats 96 bushels per acre
J. B. Steele —
75 to 100 bushels per acre
Wheat 40 to 50 bushels per acre
Barley 25 to 45 bushels per acre
I. H. Olson —
Fall wheat 30 bushels and up per acre
Oats 50 to 80 bushels per acre
Barley 50 bushels per acre

Others in plenty could be mentioned, but it is not necessary.

Fall wheat and spring wheat both have yielded great crops all over the district 30 to 40 bushels. Oats often run from 75 to over 100. Barley has run as high as 57 bushels. Some flax has been grown very successfully, but here this has not become very popular.

Vegetables grow in delightful profusion. Potatoes yield well, going from 400 to 700 bushels per acre. Field and garden peas do well.

Alfalfa has passed the experimental stage. There is no need here to emphasize the varied uses to which this crop is put—to immense profit. Farmers in the Tofield district are raising excellent yields of Alfalfa. It has grown to a height of from 30 to 40 inches.

Dairying is one of the most profitable and popular industries in the district. Being in close proximity to Edmonton with its large dairies a splendid market is afforded for all the cream that can be produced. Local business men handle the output for the dairies and the farmers get immediate returns. Approximate averages of returns last year per lb. of butter fat in the cream are as follows.

March 33c.; April 28c.; May 27c.; June 25c.; July 27c.; August 25c.; September 27c.; November 30c. An average for the year is about 27c.

During the year and especially the winter months there is a good market for all the butter that can be produced locally.

With the open range, the growing of tame grasses and fodder, and he splendid yields of grain, stock

TOFIELD, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 3, 1911.

(Special Despatch to the Standard)

OTTAWA, JULY 21—The first week-end since Parliament reassembled finds nothing done. All week the Government has persistently refused for progress in public business, while the Opposition has evaded the issue by obstruction. Hour after hour the Opposition obstructionists have angered the possibilities of reciprocity and redistribution by talking, filling page after page of Hansard with newspaper clippings and other manuscripts from which they read by the hour. The announcement that the census returns are not likely to be completed before October has led them to hope that by obstructing the progress of legislation they will be able to force an appeal to the electorate before redistribution gives the great west the additional representation to which it is entitled. During the past week the House has sat for some thirty-one hours, and of that time speakers on the Government side have only occupied some two hours. In an effort to get on, the Government has insisted on the House sitting until after midnight, but the obstructionists have no far held out. This week Sir Wilfrid Laurier has given notice that he will move for morning sittings in the hope that some progress might be made.

That the policy of obstruction adopted by the Opposition to force an election before the reciprocity issue and the redistribution bill can be dealt with has been officially determined upon by the Conservative press of the large cities is plain, where the interests engaged in fighting reciprocity have the additional western cry which could be used to record itself under redistribution. Speaking in Parliament on Thursday night Mr. J. H. [illegible] Opposition member for Vancouver, alluded to the obstructionist tactics of his party as an effort to "smoke" the Government out into an immediate appeal to the country. "If we could smoke them out of this burrow," he declared, as reported in Hansard (Page 10502) "if we could convince them that this chamber is not a gopher hole, that their duty lies not in this chamber but before the people of Canada, that the people are waiting to give them exactly the reception they deserve, if we could do this we would feel that we had done our duty well." On the same day Mr. J. D. Taylor devoted some four hours of time and forty-five columns of Hansard to asking for information concerning the report of Mr. Justice Murphy on the administration of the Chinese immigration act, an inquiry that Sir Wilfrid Laurier reminded him could have been made and answered in ten minutes, had the purpose not been, as the Prime Minister aptly expressed it, "not so much for the purpose of obtaining information, as for the purpose of killing time and obstructing the business of the House." Is is significant, in view of Mr. Borden's declarations in the west that his party was not guilty of obstruction, to note that in the same discussion the Opposition leader championed Mr. Taylor on his occupation of so much time, commencing the reading of the evidence taken and published months before.

The newspaper opponents of the anti-reciprocity interests in the cities of Montreal and Toronto are making no secret of their satisfaction over the assurance that the obstructive tactics of the opposition will force an appeal to the people before the reciprocity and redistribution issues can be dealt with. The Montreal Gazette, of July 21st, excitingly declares that "dissolution is the only course open to Sir Wilfrid Laurier," and adds with a tone of authority: Every man is determined to stand by Mr. Borden in opposition to the passage of the agreement. . . . The climax will come with a rush and the country be plunged into the whirlpool of the elections." The Toronto News, which is advertising itself in financial circles in Toronto as the "chief exponent" of Mr. Borden in his anti-reciprocity campaign, in its issue of the same date, openly commends the Opposition's plan of obstruction. It says; "There is no reason whatever why Conservatives should be ashamed of obstructing, or should be apologetic about it. The rules of Parliament permit obstruction; it has been known for years that they permit it. . . . . It is a sharp and heavy weapon. . . . . But this can be said every time that R. L. Borden has used it the result has justified him. . . . Obstruction is a perfectly legitimate course when the occasion is sufficiently momentous.

The position of the two parties is consequently clearly before the country. Both have shown their hands in the Parliamentary battle of the past week. The Liberals under Sir Wilfrid Laurier intend to make every effort to advance public business to ratify the reciprocity arrangement and to secure for the country the re-distribution to which it is entitled under the recent census. The Opposition under Mr. R. L. Borden has adopted the policy of obstruction with the purpose of forcing an appeal to the electors before either reciprocity or redistribution can be dealt with. The obstructionists have not attempted anything but time-killing. Throughout the whole week they have submitted no motion or suggestion beyond an indefinite amendment on the first day of the sitting calling for recognition in "some substantial manner" for the Fenian veterans of 1867, thereby precipitating an all-day discussion of a subject determined by the Government of Sir John A. Macdonald some forty odd years ago. With the aid of late night sittings and calling the House in the morning the Government is endeavoring to surmount the obstruction and secure the passing of a redistribution bill at the conclusion of the census which will give to all parts of the country the representation to which they are entitled at the next election. Whether the Government will be able to accomplish its purpose, or whether the obstructive practices of the Opposition will be successful in so tying up the transaction of public business as to force an election on the people under the old census remains to be seen. The situation is unique in political annals and involves the problem of minority rule in Parliament and the country.

Parliament Has Dissolved Elections on September 21st

Ottawa, July 29th.—After one of the stormiest sessions in the parliamentary history of Canada, the Conservatives have achieved their aim of forcing an election upon the issue of reciprocity. Parliament was dissolved this morning by the governor-general, and an immediate appeal to the people will be made on September 21st.

What do the or[illegible] here mean at present? They promise to beat the record of 10-6, which holds the palm so far. It would do one's heart good to take a spin around the district from Mundare to Ryley and go on upon the seeds of wheat, oats, barley and rye. Comparisons are odious, but we think Malcolm McCallum has a belief wheat that heads the list here, though many other fields come in a mighty close second.

When we first saw Beaver Lake in August, 1883, the Indians and half-breeds said that snakes were unknown around it. We believed them and up to 1901 we never saw a specimen, though in '97 to 1900 others reported seeing a few small ones. It seemed strange that they should be so scarce, when all old Vegreville, only 12 miles away they were to be found in hundreds. The wet years caused some this way and now they are quite numerous. Bad luck to them!

After reading what Mr. Stirrett and the others have said for reciprocity and Mr. Francis' rejoinder we think the honors are easily with the latter. When Sir Wilfrid said years ago that they were done with trips to Washington, we thought he was right and we think so still. We are for reciprocity within the Empire, every time.

The Conservative Convention at Vegreville on the 26th of July was a great success. The attendance of delegates was large indeed, a gratifying feature being the number of Galician present. Messrs. Moody and Steele represented this locality. Mr. F. A. Morrison, as expected, was nominated unanimously with great enthusiasm, and delivered a rattling good speech to his cheering supporters. Given a fair fight, Morrison will easily win but fair or foul the friends are ready for the fray, and expect to carry him to victory.

Quite a number went from here to see the Lauder Shows at Vegreville. All but a few say it was a sham affair, with many sharpers attached who tried the public to the limit.

"I live in the State of North Dakota. Up there we have a town where half of the town is in North Dakota and the other half in Saskatchewan. One of the principal streets forms the boundary line. How do you account for the fact that the millers for years have been paying from 10 to 12 cents a bushel more for wheat and the millers have been paying from 10 to 30 cents more for barley, and the merchants have been paying from 20 to 25 cents more for flax on the American side of that street than on the Canadian side? If the Liverpool markets of the world control the prices, how do you account for that fact?"

Canada's Great Western Fair

And Inter-Provincial Stock Show and Race Meet at Edmonton August 8th to 19th, 1911

The Directors of the Edmonton Exhibition Association can promise their patrons the very best attractions obtainable in Western Canada this year. They were fortunate in contracting for the great Parker Shows early in the season. These are the best shows travelling in the Western States and Canada this year. They were secured by the Dominion Fair authorities of Regina and come direct to Edmonton from the Regina Dominion Exhibition with their special train of 20 cars in addition to making the Midway the best of its kind they will also put on the free attraction platform in front of the Grandstand twice each day Madam Alzada Trained Dogs and Leaping Greyhounds; Steiner Trio, Grotesque Comedy Bar Acrobats; Zarabba Head and balance Act; Stanley Eaton Special; Morris, performing and wrestling Ponies. In addition the Directors have been fortunate [illegible] Finks [illegible] and also the [illegible] Campbell's the best acrobats of their kind from the United Fairs Booking Association of Chicago.

It will be noticed that the dare devil acts and sensational acts have been eliminated, the Directors feeling that the general public does not take kindly to acts where human life is put to too great a risk and which acts are not really enjoyable and are over in a minute.

The Directors believe the public like best a good act with plenty of fun and real merit in it and for this reason are sure the patrons of the Edmonton Exhibition Association will go home feeling rested and appreciate the amusements offered.

The Greater Parker Shows will also have free acts in connection with the Midway which will cause a sensation and pleasure to those attending the big Edmonton Fair August 15th to 19th next.

Excursion rates have been granted by the Railway companies from all points.

A DESERVING CASE

Last Sunday week, Hugh Gallagher's house at Rose Creek was totally destroyed by fire about noon. The contents were saved. The occurrence was unfortunate as both Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher have been on the sick list for some time. At present the family is living in an improvised shelter until a new dwelling can be erected. This as everybody knows is an expensive task in this country. The Gallagher's are well-known as an honest, hardy though they have been in indigent circumstances. The old man has spring spent several weeks in Edmonton hospitals. Ward has been conveyed to the Standard that assistance from the people of the district who are kindly disposed as to render such, will be gratefully received. Help rendered in an instance of this kind would be worthy of the thought. Cast thy bread upon the waters and it shall not return unto thee void. The Standard has opened a list and will be pleased to solicit knowledge subscriptions through its columns for the above case.

Splendid Concert at Bardo

Mrs. Martha Sandal of Christiana, Norway, gave a sacred concert in Bardo Lutheran Church last Sunday afternoon, at which a splendid program was greatly enjoyed by a large audience. Mrs. Sandal is a noted singer of Norway, and is touring Canada, particularly Western Canada, giving concerts by means of which funds are raised for the Lutheran Church Ministers' Fund. She is also giving concerts at various places in her own interests. She is possessed with a voice of remarkable range and ability and it is a treat to listen to her. She has consented to return to Tofield in the fall and give a concert under the auspices of a local body.

An ordinary case of diarrhoea can, as a rule, be cured by a single dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. This remedy has no superior for bowel complaints. For sale by dealers everywhere.

Notice

Want Ad. Rates Removed

The Standard learns on good authority that a united request on the part of certain parties in Tofield has been sent in to the department of agriculture for the removal of the commissioners of two Justices of the Peace each of whom resides a few miles out of Tofield. The ground given for such request is that certain decisions given by these officers have not been proper.

Apropos of the above it is opportune to remark that a section of the public in and about Tofield have recently been taking an interest in some cases which for want of something else to occupy their minds has commanded a portion of their attention. In many instances reports of such have been circulated which are badly out of true. In the Bennet case last week there is no instance which shows how much in error certain parties are in public opinion. A statistics of public sentiment, which by the way too often occurs in trivial matters, was caused by the diligent spreading of the report that Mr. Bennet who was charged with cruelty to animals under sub-section (a) of section 542 of the Criminal Code of Canada was not found guilty. This was assumed the facts of the case. The facts of the case, if the public took pains to ascertain them, are that the accused was convicted of the charge, being found guilty. The law provides a maximum penalty of a fine of fifty dollars or in default of payment to three month's imprisonment with or without hard labor. In Mr. Bennet's consideration he was taken in regard to his circumstances and he was allowed his liberty on suspended sentence and the imposition of the costs of the case, six dollars and seventy-five cents. Justices Hunt and Williams sat on this case.

It has been the policy of the Standard to refrain from unnecessary publication of police court cases, but if it is found that it will be in the interest of the public that these be reported the Standard will do so. As it is, too often the public are overtaken with the idea that this is so or that is so when the facts of cases are entirely the opposite.

Buckeye Press Association Visit Tofield and District

Are Delighted with Appearance, Resources and Development

Tofield extended a cordial welcome to the Buckeye Press Association on the occasion of their visit by special train last Thursday evening. A large number of samples of growing grain, including some of fall wheat which showed the grain almost ready to cut, were placed at the depot for the inspection of the Ohio journalists. These received a large share of attention as also did the views of Tofield and district which were mounted and framed and hung along the front of the station. Secretary Ellis of the Board of Trade was on deck with a plentiful supply of Tofield literature which was readily absorbed by the travelers. Everybody on the train made a break for copies of the Standard which had just come off the press and in which was extended a hearty welcome to our visiting editorial brothers and sisters.

After a short time which was taken up in the eager asking of questions about the town and district, all of which were cheerfully and gladly answered, the party again boarded their train and went on to the Tofield Coal Mines on the branch immediately south of town. Everyone got off and took in the novel sight which is presented of the trainer to this scene. The coal stripping process is something new to almost everyone who travels west. To us who have seen it since its inception it has perhaps lost its novelty, but to the newcomer and the stranger it is a sight worth seeing in a lifetime.

The ease with which the coal is taken out, hauled and placed in transit to market struck all with great force and many were the favorable comments passed on the great natural resource possessed by Tofield and the remarkable manner in which it is being developed.

The excursion then proceeded to Camrose accompanied by several representatives from Tofield. On the way south through that portion of the Tofield district much favorable comment was passed on the prosperous appearance of the growing crops and the tasty appearance of many of the farmers residences.

At Camrose the journalists were given a royal reception. Although the Buckeyes arrived late, it was about dark, a large number of automobiles were waiting at the depot to carry the town's guests to the hotels where dinner had been provided by their whole-hearted hosts. Subsequently an open meeting was held in the Opera House at which addresses of welcome were given by Mayor Layton and G. P. Smith, M.L.A. and managing director of the Camrose Canadian. Those were replied to by several of the delegates, amongst whom was Congressman Lentz of Ohio, who gave a truly William Jennings Bryan speech on behalf of the Association of appreciation for the hospitable manner in which they had been received [illegible] only at Camrose but in every section of the West. He eulogized the people of the West for the open hearted and kind manner in which they welcomed the visitor and now [illegible] from the east or south. Language was quite inadequate to properly emphasize the surprise which they felt on viewing the Canadian West for the first time. They had come to the prairie province in the surprise of securing at first hand the truth of the stats ments regarding the country which had already spread broadcast throughout the States by immigration agents and settlers from the south in their letters home. They had found them true. They had found them more than true. The Canadian West was the best that God ever made. The speaker then switched to the subject of Reciprocity which was agitating the American continent at the present time. In a truly patriotic manner he brought argument after argument why two peoples with common ideals and aims should cultivate the spirit of friendship and community of interest. He hope that the boundary line which was but an imaginary line between two peoples with the same ideals should be no barrier to the building up of such a spirit, and he hoped that as a boundary line between nations it would continue for thousands of years.

About 10.30 p.m. the party again entrained for Tofield en route to Wainwright, arriving there shortly after daylight. They were just in time to see the buffalo but were unable to get a glimpse of them as the latter had got wind of their approach and not wanting to run the danger of being captured and taken back to Uncle Sam's country, they had gone back to the hills away from view.

At 2 p.m. Friday the excursionists arrived at Tofield on their return trip to Edmonton and after staying a short time, during which they secured a few photos of parties of their party taken by W. Gold, local photographer, the evening before, after they had taken on the samples of corn and a welcome supply of local grown strawberries, left for Edmonton with best and heartiest wishes for Tofield and its people.

TOFIELD, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 10, 1911.

The election campaign is on. The government (Liberal) has decided to go to the people of Canada with the question "Shall we have Reciprocity?" The opposition (Conservative) says, No. The Liberal party says, Yes. The great question will be decided by the majority voice of the Canadian electors. The leaders of the Liberal party believe that the preponderance of public opinion will be solidly in favor of the enlargement of the market to the farmers of the Dominion, the increase of the markets on this continent from the eight odd millions in Canada to the ninety millions in the United States in addition to our own population. Hundreds of farmers' organizations throughout the Dominion have sent expressions of endorsation of the government's policy to the government. On the other hand the opposition which is making a loud noise throughout the land contends that the people of Canada do not want Reciprocity and that Canada does not need it. The great question will be decided in no uncertain terms on September 21st. That the farmers will have need, notwithstanding the fact that harvest will be on, to record their votes, by all of them, in support for the organized movement is on to defeat the reciprocity pact on the part of the Opposition as it is the determination on the part of the Government to bring it to a realization.

WHERE THE FARMERS MAY LOSE

Farmers through their local organizations are here and there making moves in the direction of putting up indepen-dent candidates of their own.

Letters to The Editor

NOTE—The Editor does not necessarily concur with the views of correspondents published under this head.

To the Editor of the Standard

As a Local Option campaign is now in full swing, and each elector will be called upon in December to decide whether he wishes the local retail sale of intoxicating liquors continued or not, it is wise for us to decide first why we issue a license for the sale of liquor. If anyone can give one reason for it that will commend itself to common sense, we would like to hear it. We all admit frankly that alcohol, as a beverage, is not a necessity, that those who drink it do so because they like it, not because they need it. Also, we all admit that excessive drinking is an evil. In public drinking is allowed, some will surely drink to excess. If we continue the open bar we will have young men becoming sots, wives and children in want and suffering, and many other evils too familiar to require enumeration. How can we prevent this?

What is our custom in other matters? If we had a well in the town, known to contain germs of disease, what would we do? Prevent anyone using the water of course. If we have liquor that makes men sick what do we do? Give someone license to sell it, and make him pay well for the license.

If a grocer sells canned goods containing some injurious substance, how do we treat him? We make him pay well for the privilege; if we did not someone might sell it without a license. If a milkman sells milk from a cow that he knows to have tuberculosis, and it communicated the disease to a customer, and he died, we bring the milkman before the court on a charge of manslaughter. If a bartender sells a consumer liquor known to contain alcohol and he dies of alcoholism, how can we try him for manslaughter since he has paid us for a license or permission to do this very thing?

Now Mr. Editor, I would like it, if some one who knows, would tell us through the columns of your paper, why we use this evil differently from all other evils, and why we license the liquor traffic but no other destructive agent.

Respectfully,
S. Nicholson,
Local Pres. of Local Option Com.

A FARMERS' CANDIDATE

From present advices it appears that the farmers of the constituency are going to put up an independent candidate at the forthcoming election. Rice Sheppard of Strathcona is secretary of this independent organization and a meeting is called for the 21st inst. at Wetaskiwin to choose the candidate. There will probably be three or four contestants for the honor.

GIRLS' BRIGADE SOCIAL

The Ice Cream Social given by the Girls' Brigade on Thursday evening, August 3rd, was an enjoyable affair, notwithstanding the unfavorable weather. After the march through the town, the Brigade was just starting to serve ice cream when it commenced to rain, and a hasty adjournment was made to the Methodist Church where the evening's programme was completed. In spite of stormy quarters, a drill was carried out which would have been very creditable to a much older company. Ice cream was served with admirable system and military precision. Much of the evening's success was due to the splendid music contributed by the Corderoy Orchestra, and to the Boy Scouts who gave exhibitions of restoring life to a person supposed to be drowned and the fireman's lift. Several ladies very kindly assisted at the tables. The benefits of the training was previously seen by many in the many graceful and healthful carriage of the girls, but the regular and efficient manner in which they dispensed the refreshments gained the movement new friends. These present contributed liberally to a collection at the close of the entertainment.

Remember, Sept. 21st, Election Day

The government has appealed to the country for its sanction or non-sanction on Reciprocity. Reciprocity is the means the Canadian and United States Governments have taken to knock to pieces the high tariff wall that now exists between the two countries. High tariff means high prices.

Urquhart & Co. appeal to this community and suburban communities to consider the knocking to pieces of high prices in Groceries, Boots, Shoes and Gents' Furnishings. We are not for Reciprocity. We are in reduction of the necessities of life in provender.

Many of you buy from the T. Eaton people, do you ever consider in cash tra...nsactions the worry in waiting, the cost of mail, express and freight? Bring Eaton's list of prices with you to our store, compare them with ours, the logical conclusion will be the common-sense one that of buying at home.

We do strictly a cash or produce business. You'll admit that this maxim in business is the one that leads to success.

On cash basis the profits are mutual. Satisfaction can be had or money refunded. Neither party has in the rear enemies.

Our prices are right, as low or anywhere in the waving west and lower than many. We invite you to investigate.

TOFIELD FAIR SEPT. 20.

Round Hill News

The celebration at Round Hill on Monday, July 31st was a great success. The threatening weather of the forenoon was responsible for a rather smaller crowd than was expected but the afternoon was perfect and the large crowd which had assembled had a most enjoyable day. The horse races gave some very exciting sport. A baseball aggregation from Bardo and Ryley succeeded in carrying off the purse offered for the winner by defeating the Round Hill master by a score of 8 to 4. The Bower dance in the evening was a brilliant affair a crowd of several hundred, a large and perfect floor and good music making it an event long to be remembered.

A very serious wreck occured on the railway near Dodds early Monday morning when the ballast train took the ditch. The engine and six cars were derailed several including the engine rolles over on their sids. The usual prompt measures were taken to clear the wreck and allow traffic to proceed.

Your correspondent last week viewed an almost perfect crop of fall wheat. It is expected that the twenty acre field will run between thirty and forty bushels to the acre. It should be interesting to the farming community to know how such a successful crop was grown. Fall wheat and oats were own into in June of last year, the field having been well summer fallowed up to that time, an important feature in itself as the field this year is remarkably clean. The oats were cut for green feed in the fall and it is believed that the cut stubble by holding the snow was responsible for the entire absence of winter killing. Barley has been grown in piece of oats in this agsution ten test is objectionable as it shells too readily while being harvested and the volunteer crop of the next year spoils the grade of the wheat. If this system of growing fall wheat in conjunction with green feed should prove in practice as it has in this particular instance the advantage in a mixed farming district such as this would be inestimable.

FAMOUS PEOPLE
BY JANE M. LOTHROP

W. A. FRASER.
Canada's Author, Artist and Engineer.

Knowing the life of William A. Fraser, the book, which he has written seem inevitable. Each is the harvesting of certain distinct years of his living; renewed, revivified and transformed by the alchemy of authorship. The nervous intensity of the writer, the incisive, forceful phrases, the keen observation, the humor, the originality, the sympathy with nature in all its moods, the artistic genius in catching instantly the essentials of a scene or an episode are characteristic of Fraser the man, as well as of Fraser the author. His books are himself; he writes because he loves to write, because he cannot help writing.

Born in Nova Scotia in 1838 of Scotch parentage, his early school days were spent in Boston and later in New York. His unusual artistic ability early became manifested, and it seemed that he was destined for a sculptor's life, but the death of his father changed all his plans. He now paints scenes in his novels in vocabularies rather instead of with brush. It was with regret that he temporarily gave up the role of art for the stern necessity of making a specialty of petroleum; but he was thorough and a second time mastered a new profession.

In 1861 he went to India as an agent for some English capitalists, and later the British government employed him on some work in Switzerland. Nine years he spent in India, Burma and the neighboring countries, not studying the country idly from an armchair, but in nine years of incessant travel, where he saw everything and forgot nothing, and it is the splendid privilege of these years that is preserved in his stories of India.

Then he returned to Boston and married Miss Barber of Toronto, and the year following they came back, with her wife for an eight months' stay in the Ozark. On returning to Canada he settled in Toronto and for six years went each summer, surveying and along the unknown streams of the North West. It was far away from the whirr of humanity's busy wheels, often having no roof but the starry sky, no bed but his blanket, no restaurant but his camp-fire. He met trappers and guides sometimes, grew to know and love the animals of the forest, and his splendid stories of Canadian life and charmingly sympathetic animal stories were the result. They were written but for the payment of price in months of undue worry, never less keen. The first story was published in the "Detroit Free Press" and a few others soon followed, but they had not the rich taste of literary creation. He went each year to the North-West to seek matter inheritance as it cut out his time for writing, and finally, when his health, never robust, failed him to revisit, and he turned his back on it all forever, and determined his life to literature and art. Mr. Fraser has had the honour of having his paintings hung on the line with the work of professional artists.

ROOMS TO LET at Charlie Mc Wats.

Miss Margaret Gold is visiting friends in Edmonton.

Ed. Johnston left for the Capital on Tuesday evening.

Miss McEken teacher in MacKenzie school was in town last Friday.

"Make hay while the sunshines" is the motto of the farmers these bright sunshiny days.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Robson and family of Edmonton spent last week at the Lake being the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Robarge.

Dr. J. W. McQueen, Dentist, will visit Tofield professionally on Monday evening, August 21st. Office at Queen's Hotel.

A large number of Edmontonians are intending to spend a short vacation at Tofield, on the opening of the duck shooting season which opens on the 23rd. inst.

The first to return from the Tofield Business Men's Excursion to the Rockies was J. A. Gray, worth who came in last Tuesday evening. We reports having a swell time. Messrs Rogers and Letournean returned yesterday.

How is it that the secretary of the Board of Trade and Town secretary cannot get on the job until all hours in the morning? Yesterday people from Winnipeg and Ohio waited around for nearly two hours to get information about Tofield and district but to no avail. This thing is getting to much like a whitish for the official. The Standard is published in the interests of the public. It has refained from even merited criticism in regard to this official in the past. If it will be in the best interests of the town that matters in connection with this department of the towns affairs be aired, look out.

A Good Man in Hair Treatment.

The trouble with most women's hair is that they treat it like they do a piece of furniture. They think that a little of your hair is here that look for repair and vitality, you must take care of it. You cannot expect to have thousands of hairs on your head unless you look after it in the morning—not in a hurry, but in the outer edge with a brush—brush the hair back from the forehead—brush in a few hair strokes but it do all that.

Don't use any other pressing thing—it needs attention—brush down the hair thoroughly grooming carefully—by only the ball of the finger tips—you feel how the roots and follicles are stimulated—the blood circulates more vigorously, because the scalp is fully stimulated. It is the first step in the right direction to hair health. Next thing is Nyal's Dandruff. It is the best hair tonic you can use. It feeds the hair, destroys dandruff germs, and brushes off the loose dandruff. It tones up the roots, brightens and beautifies the hair. Nyal's Dandruff is your grooming—thoroughly recommended by druggists everywhere. Sold in Tofield by Tofield Drug Store.

Sunday School Pic-Nic.

The Methodist Sunday School was fortunate in having one of the finest days of the season for the picnic to Cooking Lake last week. Nearly one hundred took advantage of the opportunity and thoroughly pleasant time was spent. After lunch in a pleasant shady spot, the afternoon was spent in boating, races, etc. The Girls Brigade were present and helped with the entertainment by their drill at the Lake and their singing on the train. Everybody voted it a decided success.

Is there any better way to EARN MONEY than to study the ads for opportunity to save it in your buying?

Thinks Tofi'ld Will Be A City

Mr. J. L. Lovering, representing Canada West Townsite Co., Ltd., of Winnipeg, arrived yesterday with two gentlemen, one from Edinburg, Scotland and the other from the States, having come to the town with the view of making investments.

The former of these gentlemen Mr. R. G. H. Cale is not only looking for investments for himself, but represents a large amount of capital in the old country and is making this visit of inspection prior to his return to England next week. From what he has seen of the town and the surrounding country he is much pleased and impressed with the great possibilities for the future of the town, not only as one of the finest agricultural and mixed farming districts he has visited in Canada, but also on account of the extensive coal mines which lie just South of the town and are now being actively worked on a large scale, which means employment to a large number of men. The large clay deposits also foreshadow a large and profitable new industry for making bricks for building as well as tiling for draining purposes, terra cotta etc.

Mr. Belzer who comes from Springfield, Illinois, is connected with various large Flour Mills throughout the United States and Canada. He has visited nearly every city in the U. S. of 10,000 population and upwards and also from Vancouver to Winnipeg and asserts that Tofield presents one of the liveliest and most hustling towns for its size he has seen in the West and the fact that he has made some large purchases in the town would certainly corroborate his statement. Mr. Belzer says he has friends who, he feels sure will follow his example. As an authority on wheat and cereals generally, and having particularly noticed the conditions of the crops all along the railroads he is greatly impressed with the fine condition and quality of the crops around Tofield.

All three gentlemen took a walk over the town and were struck by the natural gas well which the town are drilling and which presents a busy appearance, as the work is proceeding night and day. It is the intention not only to supply the town of Tofield with light and heat but also to pipe it to Edmonton, should the supply be sufficient.

The visitors are also impressed with the fact that Tofield which is already the important railway junction for the Tofield-Calgary branch, will shortly be still more important when the North Battleford line and the C.N.R. road are completed into it. In their opinion with all these enterprises, Indian rim and natural resources, Tofield is certain in the near future, to become a very important centre and they think that real estate values must necessarily increase as the town progresses. If Calgary can grow from a few thousand population to about 50,000 in a few years what can we expect of Tofield with all these numerous possibilities? These men are leaving much impressed with Tofield.

Town Council

Council met last Tuesday evening in the town Hall Mayor Leicourseau and Councillors Emery, Story, Ferguson and Bird were present.

The auditors report for the first six months of the year was read and adopted.

Councillor Story reported that $2,846.44 of the $4,000 for permanent local improvements had been spent up to the present. This does not include the cost of the lumber for the sidewalks, crossings and culverts.

It was decided to call for tenders for the construction of the ditch which is designed to drain the big slough east of town.

A petition largely signed by business men of the town asking that August 23rd be set aside as a civic holiday was received and granted. The 23rd will be proclaimed a public holiday and everybody be allowed to be out with their guns after the ducks which are waiting to be slaughtered.

A letter from the C.P.R. was received which stated that the company had withdrawn the mineral rights on Sec. 1-51-19 from sale. Current accounts were passed.

The Court of Revision sits next Monday, the 21st inst. when appeals from the assessment will be heard.

Must take out License.

The public will no doubt appreciate the warning that all persons who contemplate shooting game of any kind this fall are required to take out licenses before they are permitted to hunt. Instructions have been issued by the provincial game department to prosecute any persons found hunting without a license.

"There are a good many men in the world who love to make resolutions, to listen to tales of chivalry at street corners, and to tear down the character of men who stand higher in the country and have been more successful than themselves. Such actions are evidence of a mean and contemptible spirit and of a narrow mind."—Hon. Wm. Pugsley.

Obituary

Chas. Kasun of Ross Creek died suddenly last week of a paralytic stroke. Interment took place at Tofield cemetry on Saturday. Deceased was an oldtimer having come here some 17 years ago from Minnesota.

George Henry Osborne, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Osborne passed away last Friday evening after a brief illness. The little one was one of a pair of twins and was about 3 months old. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon to Tofield cemetery, the service being conducted by Rev. A. M. McColl.

At the cemetery the service was very impressive. The grave was lined from top to bottom with flowers. The casket which was covered with floral wreaths was lowered and remained in view the entire service and until all had departed thus leaving the impression of the little one being laid to rest in a bed of flowers.

AT THE CHURCHES

Methodist

The Service of Song in the Methodist Church on Sunday evening, was very much enjoyed. The singing by the choir of 15 voices of several songs, carefully selected, was not only a treat from a musical standpoint but a decided inspiration in the worship of God.

Seemed to Give Him a New Stomach.

"I suffered intensely after eating and no medicine or treatment I tried seemed to do any good," writes H M. Youngpeter, Editor of the Sun, Lakeview, Ohio. "The first few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets gave me surprising relief and the second bottle seem to give me a new stomach and perfectly good health." For sale by dealers everywhere.

W. J. Sisl er, special staff representative on crop inspection for the Free Press, visited Tofield on Tuesday and took a drive through the district inspecting the crops. He found that it would take about two weeks for the spring wheat to mature and about three weeks for oats. What fall wheat he saw is ready to cut.

Coming Again

It will pay to wait and have your eyes properly, thoroughly and scientifically examined by M. Mecklenburg, A.M., who is a University Scotsest, and whose 29 years experience enables him to give far better results than you can possibly get elsewhere, will again visit Jamieson's Drug Store, Tofield, on Wednesday, September 20th.

The Local Option Question.

(This column is open for the public discussion of the above question. Correspondents are requested to be as brief as possible)

NOTE—The Editor does not necessarily concur with the views of correspondents published under this head.

To the Editor Standard:

While as to the wisdom of the adoption of the Local Option Act there is no doubt appear in this issue of your paper, let me call attention to a very important fact connected with the liquor traffic. Just as a grist mill or any other machine for destroying wheat, or a sawmill for destroying lumber, so liquor is a machine to destroy men. We would not allow a man to run a sawmill unless he were about to make lumber, or a grist mill unless he were willing to destroy the wheat. Are we to continue to run a machine to make men drunkards?

It is a well known fact that the man who drinks is robbed of his money, is injured a little; if men who drinks much also are injured much. Then how can we keep up the custom except by paying men? There are now in or near Tofield, many (we will not say how many) who are admired by all to be badly hurt by drink. If the public sale of liquor is continued say, for twenty years longer these drunkards will have passed away. Men who are now counted respectable and can "take a glass or let it alone" will have passed on the last stage were they are despised because they "drink to excess," while a new crop of boys will have fallen into the prevision and be following on to take the place of the drunkards latter on.

How will these men believe in "personal liberty" and enjoy the "revenue" from the "traffic" tell us how to get the boys and men to keep the traffic running? The present plan is to have a licensed bar, in a room adjoining the street and any boy can be served and be coaxed in and encouraged to quit. I state a case for illustration and form the habit of drinking, becomes the victim who is not killed to ten time the traffic. There is not one bar but the boys has its patrons who have been ruined by it. How does this square with the intelligence common in all twentieth century civilization

Respectfully,
S. NICHOLSON

Enjoyable Garden Party

The Church of England held an enjoyable Garden party last Monday evening in Gloss's grove. During the evening a program of music and song was rendered. Amongst those taking part being the Cochrane quartette who are a decidedly musical family, the Misses Washburn, Rev. Mr Washburn and others. Over 200 people took advantage of the excellent opportunity to spend a pleasant evening.

Over forty people went up to the Capital Wednesday morning to attend the Fair.

TOFIELD, ALBERTA. THURSDAY, AUGUST 1, 1911.

It is the style in vogue with many newspapers at election times to be bitterly partisan in their news as well as editorial columns. It is the habit to color their news reports of political doings, to say that the statements of the opposition are in briefnidcase gotten up for purely party purposes and that nothing is true but the statements of the party that the paper represents.

The publisher of the Standard is to be above this sort of thing. It is is an ideal difficult to attain and maintain. Independence without neutrality is an ideal which it seems that many of the public fail to understand. The proper sphere of the newspaper of to day is to stand for the interests of the county first. It will then naturally follow that those measures which are being put forward and which are for the country's good will be supported. The best interests of society and politics demand that every man and every party should be superior to his party. The Standard is supporting Reciprocity as a measure, not as the platform of any party. Party servitude is out of date. We hold ourselves free to support that policy which consider it best for the public's good and to discuss the merits of any issue that may arise.

The Dominion government has recognized the right of the Western Provinces to own natural resources, the same as the other provinces of the Dominion. This announcement was the outcome of the interview of seven days' duration between Scott and Sifton with Sir Wilfrid Laurier wherein it was decided that Dominion crown lands will be reserved by the Dominion.

The contract has been let for the grading of a large section of the H. B. Railway. J. D. McArthur was the successful tenderer. The contract involves the expenditure of over $2,000,000.

Thus the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan stand to gain the control of their natural resources and the farmers receive the assurance that the Hudson Bay road is being built. In the first instance the matter is worthy of remark in that it seems to be a reversal of the policy under which the prairie provincial governments took over the management of their respective provinces. In the second instance the seeming stagnation in regard to the building of the H.B. railway as a government road appears to be stirred into life and the farmers will now have some hope that their dreams of a shorter means of transportation of their produce to market will be realized. The only regret we have is that these matters are brought about immediately before elections.

Remember, Sept. 21st, Election Day

The government has appealed to the country for its sanction or non-sanction on Reciprocity Reciprocity is the means the Canadian and United States Governments have taken to knock to pieces the high tariff wall that now exists between the two countries. High tariff means high prices.

Urquhart & Co. appeal to this community and suburban communities to consider the knocking to pieces of high prices in Groceries, Boots, Shoes and Gents' Furnishings. We are not for Reciprocity. We are in redemption of the necessities of life its promotor.

Many of you buy from the T. Eaton people, do you ever consider in such trs. sactions the worry in waiting, the cost of mail, express and freight? Bring Eaton's list of prices with you to our store, compare them with ours, the logical conclusion will be the common-sense one that of buying at home.

We do strictly a cash or produce business. You'll admit that this means in business is the one that leads to success.

On cash basis the profits are mutual. Satisfaction can be had or money refunded. Neither party has in the rear enemies.

Our prices are right, as low as anywhere in the waving west and lower than many. We invite you to investigate.

Mrs. M. McCallum and Miss Mabel McCallum with Mrs. J. R. Steele were a little party that went to the city recently on a pleasure jaunt. They went with the fond intention of having a good time and no doubt had it. Mac and Jim toughed it out as best they could Their time will come by-and-by.

Nobby White and Jim Holden were in Mundare on the 10th conferring with the fair little three. One view they remembered was particularly cheering. It was a huge cotton factor bearing the words; "Vote for Morrison." The winds are cold these days for Nobby and Frank. We are sorry for Frank but not for Nobby.

We see that the government announces that 300 miles of the H. B. railway will be graded before winter. That's the Grit style every time. It's about time such an aggregation of humbugs was consigned to the cold shades of the opposition. Unless all signs fail, they're going there with a bump on Sept. 21st.

We notice that R. A. McKenzie was in Vegreville the other day and opened his head to tell the Observer that his weather eye was a "clean sweep" for the Grits. R.A. will get such a jolt on Sept 21st, he'll give up prophesying for ever and will put a patch over that eye of his.

BARDO

The people of Bardo enjoyed a real musical treat last Sunday when Madame Marta Sandal gave a concert in the Church. Madame Sandal is Norway's foremost soprano soloist. She has a powerful voice of rare richness and quality of tone. She sings Germen and English as well as Norwegian songs but of course excels in those of her mother tongue. The old Norwegian folk songs seems to be her specialty and she sings them with a fervor and spirit that makes us realize at once that those apparently insignificant little ditties heard so much during our childhood days are real gems of music. The concert given last Sunday consisted chiefly of Norwegian hymns and folksongs but upon request she rendered Handel's famous "Angels ever bright and Fair" with her usual depth of expression and feeling. Madame Sandal is pleasing another tour through these parts this fall and those who have heard her are looking forward to her return and we would advise those who have not yet heard her to take the first opportunity of doing so

Letters to The Editor

Editor Tofield Standard.
Sir:

I notice in your issue of July 27 wherein Mr Francis replies to the letter written by "A Member" that appeared in your issue July 20

He says that he knew the platform of the U. F. A. before he accepted the position of President. He admits a reversal of his says "Respectfully in matters products never has been a plank for any party on the platform." If Mr Francis would look up the Constitution, in Sec. 3 where it reads, "to open up new markets and enlarge old ones." He ought to know that sincerity with an [illegible] plans. the [illegible] refers to the Central Committee to the Local Unions for their considera tion. He contradicts that statement altogether when a little further on in his article he says, "I consider the action of E. I. Fream in writing our Sec and the Sec. of the Board [illegible] urging the meeting of two [illegible] reciprocity as an utterly unjustifiable interference with the electors. When Mr. Fream wrote our Sec. he instructed him to call a meeting and discuss the question and if possible get resolutions in favor of reciprocity. He knows the result of that meeting. All the other Locals had similar instructions.

Another Mr. Fream was entirely justified urging resolution on that question just as well as other question than the Constitution and by-laws of the Central Committee abuses the rules laid down in the Constitution. In his conversation with our delegates when he returned from Ottawa he tryes to make it appear that the bulk of the farmers were Liberals. I was pretsent to know what party the majority of the farmers belonged at to but I am at liberty to say that they did not go there to uphold the policy of either of the parties. They went there to present to the government what they considered was their just rights. The men at the head of the delegation were men that had studied the questions and knew what they were asking for, they were men who could look at such questions in the light of common sense and not from any political standpoint.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON
The Merchant Prince of England

The first time that Sir Thomas Lipton came to America was in 1866 as a steerage passenger in an old-fashioned little tramp steamer, and when the vessel neared port he was busily engaged in shovelling coal into the furnaces. The latest time was in 1902, when a whole nation held him in honor as a valiant and true sportsman, making his third brave but vain attempt to take a silver cup back to England. On this occasion he lived like a prince on his steamer Erin, which was a floating palace, with its dining saloon, drawing room, smoking room, conservatory, steam launches, gigs, jolly boats and dinghies—all regulated at his expense and manned by over two hundred men.

Sir Thomas was born in Ireland, but spent his early years in Scotland; his education was a hurried, unconventional, pick-up variety, and at fifteen, with very dreams, he ran away from home, smuggled himself into a steamer and came to New York. His sight delays did not last long, and after working in the rice fields of South Carolina, driving a street car in New Orleans, engineering for a crayon portrait concern, scaling rides on freight cars, and making a day-by-day living as best he could, went back two years later to Glasgow, empty of purse but rich in experience.

The prodigal was received with open arms, and with £100 of his father's savings, he opened a little meat and provision store. He introduced American ideas, worked, as he says, "twenty-five hours a day," and advertised to the limit of his ingenuity. One day, seven of the tallest, gaunt, hungriest men that ever were seen in Glasgow, clad in white duck suits, six feet six inches in height, were going to Lipton's." The next day, seven of the tallest men that could be found, walked the streets proclaiming that "seven of the tallest men have been in Lipton's." Meanwhile, the proprietor stood under the counter.

This little shop in High street was the beginning of Lipton's 500 stores throughout England, his fruit farms in Kent, bakeries in Glasgow, the greatest tea plantations in the world in Ceylon, his curing factories in Liverpool, his ample manufactory in London, his fruit trees in Sicilia, and his other vast [illegible] employment to ten thousand people, and having made [illegible] of $7,000,000 and an income of $750 a minute.

[illegible] the Jubilee Memorial dinner to the poor of London [illegible] he stepped little to him when his eyes filled with tears at the sight of [illegible] people eating at his guests. Not till later did the world [illegible] his generous gift, for the old-style thing he never advertises in his charity.

Our subscribers will confer a favor on the publishers of this paper if they will kindly let us know by a card when they miss receiving their copy regularly. The only way to overcome trouble of this kind is to let us know when it occurs. While we do not claim to be perfect and thus admit that it may be possible for us to err, yet we have no hesitation making the statement that the most of this trouble comes from within the postal service itself. Over this we have no direct control. But if we are informed when trouble exists we are in a position to see that the service is improved. You will therefore confer a favor upon us and incidently one upon yourself if you will let us know when you do not receive your copy regularly.

SIR JAMES M. LEMOINE
Canada's Historian and Littérateur.

At "Spencer Grange," a many homestead amidst great trees overhanging the St. Lawrence, near the quaint old fortress city of Quebec, where every spadeful of ground is historic, lives the genial historian, author and poet, Sir James Marie Lemoine, Canada's genial historian, now working still in the sunshine of optimism, though in his eighty-eighth year.

Born in the city of Quebec, a descendant of one of the old distinguished families of Old France, he spent some of his early years under the kindly care of his Scotch maternal grandfather at Isle aux Grues. After completing his education at the Seminaire de Quebec, he entered the public service as collector of internal revenue at the age of twenty-two. Three years later he was admitted to the bar and practised law for a few years, but his heart was not in it. He preferred reading history and books and writing about them. Surrendering to the spell of the romantic and historic lure of his native city, he became absorbed in and loved by legendary and historic lore of the old romancers, or was led into the sea of historic research by investigation. The range of his writings can be best suggested by the comprehensive title "Canadian History, Legend, Romance and Sport"—a veritable treasure house of Canadian lore, written with a fine literary touch, and pulsing with vital human interest.

Every row of books, which fill him forty-five years ago to write his first contribution to periodical literature, he can put on hand and can likely accept Quebec for the "Chateau Naturelle." is a domineering note in his life. His splendid collection of Canadian birds in the museum of his home attests his loyalty to his feathered friends, and "Spencer Grange" is the mecca of students of Canadian annals, loyally alive to the rare privileges it affords them.

His library rooms are filled to overflowing with books, pamphlets, pictures and literary treasures, but the most interesting room in the house is that containing the choice volumes of his writings, eighteen in English and twelve in French, and the other Professor Cold-water's books represent the smaller part of Sir James' literary product, for he has numberless pamphlets and magazine articles in his many languages, completely buried in the oblivion of ephemeral periodicals.

His genial and extensive literary culture is as deep and vital as ever; his mind is hospitable, sensitive as a barometer to every impression, and he carries his years with a grace and ease that laugh at time and its terrors. For many years the president of the Literary and Historical Society of Quebec, he has also had the highest literary honor in the Dominion—the presidency of the Royal Society of Canada.

Much Pleased With our Town

Mayor Letourneau is in receipt of the following letter from W. J. White who was in charge of the Buckeye Editors Excursion.

Dear Sir,

I would be pleased if you would convey to the public through your newspaper the fact, that after leaving your beautiful little town the members of the Buckeye Press Association of Ohio, expressed themselves to me in the warmest terms their view that a splendid future was in store for that district. They based this view on the splendid appearance of the grains throughout the district around Tofield; on the splendid growth of grasses that were seen throughout all that district, and the advantage that you have over many places in the quality of coal and the ease with which it can be mined; also the additional fact that your town is so well located with such splendid opportunities for drainage.

For your own information and for that of your Board of Trade I append a list of papers represented by the party.

I want to thank your people for their reception of this party.

Yours sincerely,
(Sgd) W. J. WHITE
In Charge of the Buckeye Press Excursion.

An Interesting Photograph

A photograph which will be of interest to many and will be of value in substantiating the statement that the Tofield district is truly varied in its resources was taken last Tuesday when Miss Mabel Mahaffey took a snapshot of the three big fish caught by E. Pruden in Beaver Lake the other day. In the group were Mr. Pruden, Mr and Mrs. Latta and Mr. Mrs. Rosser the latter couples late from Oklahoma. Not only is this a great grain raising and mixed farming country, and not only do vegetables grow to large proportions but we have large fresh water lakes in which fish, small and large abound.

The Manager of Queens Hotel in his very fair letter has given us the basis on which those opposed to Local Option purpose to fight it viz: that Local Option is not a success, and that there is more liquor consumed under L. O. than under license We will not ask for space in this issue to fully answer this contention, but from time to time will give facts to show that this is a mistaken idea.

We will admit that Hensall and two or three places repealed the Act. For the time we will not ask why they repealed it, but admit it. On the other hand, for every place that repealed it, thirty or forty places have continued it. If a majority votes-wise for any thing surely this speaks well for the success of the Act.

Your correspondent speaks quite truthfully of what the state of Ocean Sound WAS but does not say he had the condition of Ocean Sound now BY. During the best year of Local Option there some interests opposed to L. O. made a systematic effort to make the illegal sale of liquor as notorious that it would kill prohibition. They succeed in showing the length,s which some men will go, and created additional sentiment in favor of prohibition. Today in Ocean Sound law and order prevail. There is no more illegal sale of liquor than in license towns, there is splendid hotel accomodation business is good, bad debts are unknown and no weed of a repeal.

As long as there is a large number actively trying to discredit the [illegible] the law [illegible] [illegible] As soon as that opposition ceases as it always does in a year or two Local Option is always and everywhere satisfactory.

The Children's Hair

A Little Extra Care Now May Save After Years of Regret

Children should be taught that the hand particularly the finger nails, should never be used to rub the scalp. Hard and brushes doesn't seem to be necessary. Just the finger tips should be used. Just five full minutes each night is quite sufficient to keep the hair and scalp in a healthy condition. Before bedtime is the best time to use it. Dandruff is caused by the accumulation of dust and perspiration and the hair should always be washed with a mild shampoo. Then it should be dried and another application of Parisian Sage applied. After this has been well rubbed in for a few minutes the hair will have that fluffy appearance that every little girl likes. Parisian Sage will effectually guarantee Dandruff, Itching Scalp and Falling Hair. It is sold by C. E. JAMIESON, Tofield.

RHEUMATISM

Thirteen Months Suffering Cured.

"Dear Sir

"I wish to put my letter on record that you may know of my wonderful cure. I have suffered eighteen months with Rheumatism, and could get no help. I spent at least $300.00 on pills and liniments during that time, but nothing would ease me of the pain. At last I was a strange man. For those 18 months I was in a living night with pain, sometimes sleepless and cranky, causing me to groan and cry out. My wife was nervous and worried. Many a night she would get up and walk the floor for hours at a time, for I never could get a wink of sleep. I was getting thinner and weaker all the time. I was a mere wreck of my former self. Then I got a bottle of Nerviline, and ran hastily over it the first night. I felt relief, and rested as well always drove away from me. Results: Total relief.

"Dated this 25th day of June, 1910.

The Horseman

Now that the snow crusts racing has opened, trainers are getting their horses ready for the season. Next week many mile tabs have been worked out in 2.10, and a few have been worked out in 2.08. Indianapolis at the opening meeting this week, commencing on Monday, July 11, consequently the majority of the horses will be ready to race. Several representatives there. The strongest of all must stand out Lou Dillon, and the Indianapolis track is that owned by R. J. Northcraft, but which is now managed by Hayes Jenney. Recently James set a world's training record of 2.02¾, which is the sensational green pacer, Joe Patchen II., and Lou Dillon is looking forward to a race between the former and the same stable at Detroit, Mich., on July 25. Besides Joe Patchen II., Dan Patch, Bonehill, 2.08¾, stepped his fifth heat in 2.09¾, in the Readville meeting, and those present were almost con vinced that he was in better condition than about to appear. Joe's phenomenal record was made in two heats which chosen appear rather slow as the time of the heats, but the fact is that they will most likely not be really fast. Hodgkins, the driver of Joe Patchen, 2.02¾, and Ben Walker, driver of Dan Patch, 2.08¾, were both game and contested every inch of the way. Hodgkins thinks that Joe should be one of the same sort of a day for the first heat in 2.08¾, and Walker declared that the McKenzie stable was going to make Dan Patch step in Vernon McKinzie has now one of the fastest pacers in the world, and Vernon trailed last year in 2.04 and a third last year in 2.04¾. Dan Patch is now resting and he can be brought back to his best form in a short time. Dan Patch is now in the hot stable, and the horses was in the stables and the horses was in the stables and the horses was in the stables

Editor Tofield Standard:

Sir:

I notice in your issue of July 27 wherein Mr. Francis replies to the letter written by 'A Member' that appeared in your issue July 20

He says that he knew the platform of the U. F. A. before he accepted the position of President. He admits knowing it, but he says 'Reciprocity in natural products never has been a plank nor any part of the platform.' If Mr. Francis would look up the Constitution, in Sec. 6 where it reads, 'To open up new markets and enlarge old ones.' He ought to see that reciprocity with any country that would enlarge our markets would be a very important plank. He says it never has referred by the Central Committee to the Local Unions for their consideration. He contradicts that statement altogether when a little further on in his article he says, 'I consider the action of E. J. Fream in writing our Sec. and the Sec. of the Board of Trade [illegible] sending of resolutions backing reciprocity as an utterly unjustifiable interference with the electors.' When Mr. Fream wrote our Sec. he instructed him to call a meeting and discuss the question and if possible pass resolutions in favor of reciprocity He knows the result of that meeting All the other Locals had similar instructions. I consider Mr. Fream was entirely justified urging resolution on that question just as well as other questions that he considered was of benefit to the farmers. He says it never has been recommended by any Local Union. He certainly must not have been following up what the Locals have been doing in favor of reciprocity, or he would not make such statements. In one of the memorials resented by the U. F. A. to Mr. Borden at Red Deer, it showed how many Locals had reported up to June 27th, on the agreement. 245 circulars had been sent out submitting the agreement for consideration out of these 126 had reported, 107 [illegible] the agreement, 1 detail against and 1 asking for further consideration, leaving 18 [illegible] have not yet reported.

Again he says, "it formed no part of the memorials presented by the 600." I take it that [illegible] the Ottawa delegation. In the memorial presented by D. W. Mc. Craig Pres. Man. Grain Growers, to Sir Wilfred, at Ottawa, Section 1 reads, "That we strongly favor reciprocal free trade between Canada and the United States in all horticultural, agricultural and animal products, spraying materials, fertilizers, illuminating fuel and lubricating oils, cement, fish and lumber." Mr. Francis's statements are utterly without foundation. He says "the membership of our Local has steadily been from thirty to fifty and also meeting, but the attendance seldom ever reached the latter number of the former. Sometimes there were only three members present, making only a corporation of that number. Should any one of the members of the Local have 20 days absence consecutively, he would be struck off the roll, and would have to pay $1 for each subsequent initiation fee, should he wish to be reinstated in the Local. The regular meetings of the Local were held on the first Monday in each month, and the annual meeting was held in January. Any member who failed to attend the annual meeting was fined 25 cents. Girl's Brigade

Last Wednesday evening the officers of the brigade held an interesting meeting and discussed several points. The preparation of changing from the "Girls Brigade" to the "Girl Scouts" was taken up and it was decided to further investigate before making the change. The advantage of the latter over the former is that the girls would then be a part of the national organization and would also do away with the idea of the movement being under the control of any one church more than any other. But as a matter of fact the local organization has no church connections whatever. All the churches of Tofield are represented in the ranks and none is favored more than the others. The girls were glad to have with them, on Wednesday evening Dr. Hammond who has interested himself in the movement to such an extent as to offer to give useful talks to the girls at different times through the fall and winter. The next regular meeting will be next Wednesday evening.

BARONESS MACDONALD OF EARNSCLIFFE

The Widow of Canada's Great Statesman

The story of the life of Lady Macdonald contains many instances that their inspiration, stimulus and motive power in new strength, was the love and companionship of a devoted wife. The debt of helpfulness that the late Sir John A. his friend, Canada's great Premier and statesman, owed to Lady Macdonald, has never been overestimated, according to the testimony of those who knew them both. "All that Lady Macdonald was to the Conservative Premier of Ontario" says one, "Lady Macdonald was to the Conservative Premier of Canada. Their understanding of each other was complete."

On the board of Jamaica, the Dutchess of two other brilliant women —the Empress Josephine and the third Lady Isabel—Lady Macdonald, daughter of Hon. T. J. Bernard, a member of the Privy Council, was born in 1828. The death of her father, when she was still a child, made it necessary to take her to Europe and for a year or more. When she was sixteen, she came to Canada with her sister for a visit, her two brothers, Richard and Hewitt Bernard having made of the local professions at Guelph, and there she met Sir John Macdonald. Thirteen years later, in 1867, they were married in London. It was a memorable year in the calendar of their lives and the history of Canada for it was the year in which the British North American provinces were united in the Dominion of Canada, becoming Premier and [illegible] Lady Macdonald became first [illegible]

Lady Macdonald's interest [illegible] Canadian affairs was with him during the [illegible] years of the Joint High Commission which resulted in the Treaty of Washington in 1871. She was with him, too, on that great trip over the [illegible] Pacific Railway, whose very existence was so largely due to him, and the steel rails of which bound and united Canada into one great dominion as no bonds of law could ever do.

On the death of Sir John, in 1171, recognizing his splendid services to the Empire, and the patient devotion of his widow to all the public interests, Queen Victoria was [illegible] to raise her to the peerage by giving her a [illegible] title of the Baroness Macdonald of Earnscliffe. In the early Colonial days honored —with the Baroness Macdonald of Earnscliffe. It adds her social and philanthropic work [illegible] to the [illegible] of the magazines on Canada [illegible] Earnscliffe, her home [illegible] when she disposed of Earnscliffe [illegible] [illegible] resided in England.

The Local Option Question.

(This column is open for the public discussion of the above question. Correspondents are requested to be as brief as possible)

NOTE—The Editor does not necessarily concur with the views of correspondents published under this head.

Editor Standard:

In the issue dated August 17th, 1911, I noticed a communication from one signed Mgr. Queen's Hotel. Since the B. O. Contest is soon to come I am not surprised to see such articles in print, and from time to time they will appear. I feel it to be my duty to point out one or two things that may have an interest to us all. First, according to our correspondent, "there is more drunkenness under Local Option." To substantiate that he quotes the town of Owen Sound. He says he can prove it to be the case. Now we would like that made good, will he be good enough to give us the statistics of the police court, the testimony of general merchants, the experience of the bankers, and the words of the factory men who employ large numbers of men? Quote their names and get their signatures to that effect.

Second the old "Bogey" come out "that the town goes "Dead" with out a licensed hotel." Again will you please prove that statement? Fact and figures are what want.

In answer to the above, for the two statements are practically one, I want to say according to the best information at hand they are not proven by facts. Says Rev. C. C. Pigeon D. D. after careful study of the question "Moorehead and Fargo years ago two towns of equal size, on opposite sides of the river. One in N. Dakota and the other in Minnesota. Fargo became "Dry" It was said by many "It would go dead." The reverse is the case. Fargo's population according to latest reports is four times that of Moorehead. Taxes lower and its advantage superior in every respect. Grand Forks a city of 20,000 persons separated by the Red River. One part in Minnesota, and the other in N. Dakota. East Grand Forks has 42 Saloons; West Grand Forks has none. East Grand Forks has $10,000 revenue from licenses; West Grand Forks has none. East Grand Forks has an assessment of $284,000; West Oarad Forks has no assessment of $3,500,000. East Grand Forks has debt of $5 per cent.; West Grand Forks has a debt of $1 per cent. East Grand Forks has poor hotels; West Grand Forks has excellent Hotels." Authority for the above statement an article published by "The Pioneer."

Our general Secretary, Rev. W. G. W. Fortune made a special trip to Ontario to see for himself as to whether these stories were correct. He took their testimony verbatim

PLAINTIFF (in his own)—"Do you think I will get the money?"

Counsel—"Where are they at home?"

"On a month's notice for 90 days at a house up here. Nowadays that's just as good as cash."

When the baker was away from the store one day he left a notice on the door that read: "Gone to take a rest from the cares of business."

Upon getting out of jail, some man who had been confined for 30 days wrote a note to his wife. It read:

"Dear wife—Have you paid the rent?"

Her reply looked as her sole helping of pie looked—one-sided: "Dear husband—Yes, why was you not read not?"

"Is it hers and I?" Bernard the other day. "Faith, I'm not sure of the same dinner table, where a wee bit lassie had placed the real homemade article in the middle of the room in the hope that it would be mistaken for a Christmas tree."

Cleveland relates of laughter from Gilbert's writers until Durand, the conductor, would interpose with humble apologies. It was immediately after the production of "Ruddigore" that Gilbert heard the following dialogue between two of his actors:

"Is it true, Jack, that Gilbert is going to write a new opera without any comic parts?"

"Yes, I believe he is."

"Then I'll tell you what it is, Jack, I'm going to chuck the profession and go in for writing."

"Why, what's the matter?"

"Because the most of him was back home and the rest of him was grit."

The visitor to the Sunday school had been asked to talk to the scholars. He began on the usual remarks of youth.

He dwelt at some length upon the attainments of men of whom he had read, and to point his remark turned to a little child near at hand, and said:

"Tell us your name, little man."

In a voice heard throughout the room the little man piped up:

"Sarah Watkins, sir."

James Wilson, the secretary of Agriculture, raided a recent address in Washington on the autumn crops with a crop story.

A countryman agreed, he said, looked carefully at a handful of wheat that had been brought in by a farmer's boy, and then enquired:

"How much more has your master of this, my boy?"

"I don't got no more of it," said the boy. "It took him all the morning to pick that out."

The irritable faced boy who was about to be emancipated from high school by graduation was writing his graduating essay.

"I suppose I ought to wind it up," he ordered with something tensing of sentimental regret, "with something about all such essays, but I don't know any more than the shebang. Say, Jones, what's the last word in that song, 'Home, sweet home' you've got to rhyme with?"

"Roam," said Jones.

There is a monument at Hempstead, Long Island, erected to the memory of a shipwrecked sailor, who was drowned off Far Rockaway one stormy night in the intense wakes of the monument are ordinary inscriptions, its the fourth appears the best but of humor ever found on a gravestone. It reads as follows:

This memorial was erected by the inhabitants of Hempstead in memory of the unfortunate master of the shipwrecked privateer out of the money found on the bodies of the deceased."

He was a man of convivial habits, well known in the lighter circles of society.

"Say, old man," said Jamie as he met him one day, "I was very sorry to hear that the dear old lady died."

"Yes," said the latter, "I felt dam sorry myself."

"I was sorry, too," said Jamie, "when I heard that she had left you nothing."

While in a battleroom a few weeks ago a well-known New York old colonel was heard to remark his right arm in a sling:

"What is the matter, uncle?" he was asked. "Have you broken it?"

"No, sah. Ah been shootin' from mah shoulder."

"Yes, sah."

"Well, sir, I will have it elucidate."

"Well, sah, it's like this," the old man explained. "Ah goes out into de woods an shoots bullets into de trees. Ah draws a circle round each bullet hole, an' I tells a lie when we asks me if I shot de bullets. Dat's de way I works my arm so as to be liable on Lookout Mountain."

The thinner sister is the greatest blank in the world, to the mere id man, parents on the Land.

"I like the fat sister on a monument over several thinner fields in gigantic figures," said Harold Ivor, the well-known Hindoo.

Harold was captured by a tiger in the whereof that he was then, and his body of a young man and he knew of the fat healer for the tiger.

The tiger consented to be led to where the drinks was lost. When the basket was then to go was fright fixed, but consented to compliance and landed in his masterful father town.

"Mumbo, you used to bring me tasty gins. Who can now feed you?"

The tiger did a revolt hastily backed to the jungle and was heard to say, "Master, his skin is much of that does not preserve him a lot bigger than I am."

It isn't I gain you a piece of pie, but mostly I do—indeed the cooking food made graduate. "I don't expect to be here again so soon."

"I failed you ma am," replied the boy in a voice of regret.

"Why, what's the matter?"

"Well, I'm sent at four months' notice."

When I was the first verse the rules, "Dear, and when I sang the next they yelled, 'Improvement!'"

A reverser in the New York National Guard tells his own comments on a not tane new valence of events by a story that is worth putting into circulation. Three hearers, he says, of the admiral by 2, were talking in the vestibule after the sermon. "We must admit," remarked the first, "that the doctor does not always put the meaning into his words."

"Why, no," replied the second, "but he does put a lot of words into his meaning."

"I'm not sure of a coat!"

Well, what sort of a host is a coat?"

Uncle Abner: "Now run away to bed, Johnny, it's time you were asleep."

Johnny: "I'm not sleepy. I'm afraid to go to bed."

Uncle Abner: "Afraid to go to bed! Why, what's the matter with you?"

Johnny: "I'm afraid I'll get up in the night and get a drink of water."

The Publisher: "Yes, the smallness of the type is the only thing against the book. Now, if you could make it a little larger—"

The Author: "I should be delighted. I'll get right to work and write it over."

TOFIELD, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 31, 1911.

"Nobby" White was the unanimous choice at the Liberal Convention of Victoria constituency held in Vegreville last Saturday. It is felt that Nobby will have a hard fight for his seat especially in the the north part of the riding. By the farmers having an independent candidate in the field the reciprocity vote will be split and this will give the Conservative candidate, Mr. Harrison, a boost. Fred is working hard and expects to put both of his opponents out of business. Supporters of White think that they will win but admit that the proposition is a hard one.

The farmers of Strathcona constituency who are in favor of reciprocity and who have put up an independent candidate have on this occasion sown the seed which will result in splitting the reciprocity vote and allow ing the anti-reciprocity candidate that much of a lead. In this constituency it is commonly felt that the seat for Douglas is safe although the increase of cosmopolitan population and the growth of the independent movement during the past two years is such that it cannot be expected that the consensus of opinion will always be as one sided as it has been in the past. All the candidates are out on the hustings and announcements of meetings in this section of the riding may be expected at any time.

It appears that the party split in the Liberal camp at Edmonton has been fixed up and that the three cornered fight which seemed imminent in the riding will resolve itself into a straight government and opposition contest. While the opposition fight being put up is a strong one the Oliverites expect to pull an easy victory especially in the cut'ing points.

THE BIG BROTHER SYSTEM

The Big Brother System of dealing with the little boy who is headed for trouble is gradually becoming known the world over. If a boy is found to be in the position where he is on the downward path, under the Big Brother System he would immediately be handed over to some other chap who is older than himself, and with an experience a little wider than his own. The Boy Scout movement is one of the greatest factors which could possibly be considered along the line of the Big Brother movement. For instance, in every corps of Boy Scouts there is a group of younger and a group of older boys. The Scout cruel calls for the very thing which is needed in providing for the younger boy who is beginning to go wrong. Boy Scouts the world over make the best Big Brothers, and if they see a younger boy getting himself into trouble, you can possibly get elsewhere, and headed to the place where he will again visit Jamieson's Drug Store, Tofield, on Wednesday, September 20th.

that his younger scout brother is set upon the right track. This is such an easy thing to do when every boy of fourteen remembers that he has a younger boy who is watching him and following his actions with a good deal of interest. The scout movement in the greatest deterrent which has ever been discovered in the prevention of crime among younger boys, as it makes use of the spirit of leadership which every boy has, and results in the development of a spirit of responsibility of the older boy towards his younger brother mont.

Scout Masters, Boy Scouts or others who are interested in the idea of the Big Brother plan are invited to get in touch with the Department of Neglected Children at Edmonton.

Coming Again

It will pay to wait and have your eyes properly, thoroughly and scientifically examined by M. Mecklenburg, A.M., who is a University Student, and whose 29 years experience enables him to give far better results than boy getting himself into trouble, you can possibly get elsewhere,

Economize?

I wish to discuss with someone who understand the fore stated word, now you dear reader are that very person.

We all know that true economy is praiseworthy, but will you tell where to strike the happy medium. It is not easy My mind is like a siere, so I can never quote correctly but I read somewhere that economy is not getting what you really need now so that you may eventually get that which you may require, have you not often dallied away your time measuring the pros and cons for getting and not getting an article and hence sold the purchase to the mythical future, which never comes, of course buying without the consideration is performing a rash act. But that baneful desire to save a few cents grown to be an obsession and often leads you to error frequently. I remember a lady once having to purchase a special brand of breakfast food for the kiddies this she secured at a departmental store for twenty cents (and dear enough she found it for the nurse liked it as well as the babies.) Well one day toward evening she chanced to find the tin about empty and went to a corner grocery, who demanded twenty-five for the same article. Gee it! no she left the store highly indignant. In the evening she related the incident to her husband who said "Well where did you get it?" "why" answered she I bought it at the department stores taking the car there and back! "The car there and back" replied he throwing back his head and roaring the joke. The lady humiliated had not a word to say. It was a lesson to her and she sees that great faculty now of thought. Reader that lady became indigent at the gate of the grocer asked, she handed a crowded and dusty car, stood for the entire distance to the store and paid ten cents for fare. Thus the price of the food was thirty cents in money, in person an abundant amount of fatigue, in work, fifteen minutes brushing her wearing apparel.

You, readers, many of you do practically the same thing. You send to distant Mail order houses. Perhaps you will buy a little cheaper, but pay railway expenses, freight and express charges, and a waste of time, which is of more value than you are going to be suited.

Why not call at the store of satisfaction. Our prices are right, our goods are pure and fresh. Our store is undergoing renovations, which also are in a constating state and all for a benefit to mutually share entire, our customers and ourselves.

Tofield Has Very Promising Future

Prominent Minneapolis Business Man Is Elated Over Prospects Of This City

Tofield Aug 25 Tofield last Friday entertained one of the most influential business men of the Mill City, in the person of Mr. F. H. Stoltze, president and treasurer of the Reliance Lumber Co., Ltd., with branch office in this town.

Mr. Stoltze, who has numerous other business interests in Western Canada, is making his first trip through this country, with a view of increasing his interests in the north-west.

The private car of G.T.P. officials Gollinger and Bewey, with whom Mr. Stoltze is traveling as guest, arrived late Thursday evening, and the gentlemen spent the major part of Friday looking over the surrounding country. The party paid a visit to the Tofield Coal Mines, as the guest of Manager Taylor, and freely expressed the opinion that the coal proposition only has a wood rival here.

Mr Stoltze stated that crop conditions are exceptionally good along the line where he has been inspecting the Reliance plants, and feels confident that this section must develop owing to the excellent natural features. That the G.T.P. will be one of the best developments of the time he has no doubt.

An ordinary case of diarrhoea can, as a rule, be cured by a single dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. This remedy has no superior for bowel complaints. For sale by dealers everywhere.

How Much is a Child Worth

Local Option Question

se he knew that there was a feeling that towns were supposed to go dead after they became dry. Merchant joined banker in giving testimony to the effect that business was ever so much better. Managers of factories and foundries were asked to express their opinions, they said their men were always on the job on Monday morning after the town went dry. The names of these men can be produced to prove the above statement.

Further, I have in my hand a letter from Lumsden, Sask. over the signature of one of the most prominent men in that town, in which he says "That town is prospering under Local Option. All business men claim they have been credit on their books than formerly. When the electors voted to close up the bar, the hotel one morning took fire and burned down at 6:30 a. m. A joint stock company was formed and a $15,000 hotel erected. It was praised by all travellers, and at the end of 12 months declared a dividend of 11 per cent. Business has increased, we have three Hotels now. Two banks instead of one, two drug stores instead of one" and two drug stores instead of one personally interviewed every business man in the town last October, says the writer and everyone said that an increase in business to report.

As to the matter of "Want and Suffering" referred to by your correspondent I need hardly say any thing, for the facts are too well known to us all. To go home full of booze and without groceries, or if he gets them he has them charged, is no uncommon thing.

Lord Chief Justice of England says "If sifted nine tenths of the crime can be traced to drink in England and Wales." The Massachusetts Bureau of Labor proved 84 per cent of the criminals were there through intemperate habits."

After a full review of the liquor situation Dr. Gonnat director of the Hamburg prison says "The fact is so evident that anyone who can deny it must be either blind or an idiot.

Bishop of London says "Statistics prove that 75 per cent. of the pauperism and crime of England were due to the liquor traffic."

Chancellor of England from the House of Lords said "that 75 per cent. of the evils of the land were due to the same cause" he further says that 75 per cent. of the social evils would settle themselves if the of the traffic could be effectually handled."

The Blind Pig is quite an argument in the hands of some for the traffic but the fact is we have Blind Pigs now with the license system. And it is not supposed that local option will prohibit any more than the law "Thou shalt not kill" prevents men from shooting each other. What we are after is to save the boys of the land. The man who has formed the habit of drinking will be able to get his drink if he is within an hour as now but we want to remove the Bar, abolish the treating system and remove the temptation from the youth of our land. The present contest is Licensed Victuallers with $100,000.00 vs Local Option. Cast your Vote for Local Option.

Notice to Correspondents

Will our correspondents kindly remember that they will be conferring a favor if they will limit their letters to at least from 200 to 300 words. The shorter and more pithy the better. Readers do not feel like attempting to read a long winded article and we do not feel like setting it either. When one has something to say, say it and quit. After writing an article, read and re read it, trim it and make it more succinct. You will find this good practice and more readers will feel like reading what you have had published

The Bald Headed Man may Look Wise

HARVESTING GENERAL

Harvesting in general this week in the Tofield district. Ward from Ross Creek, Beaver Lake west, East Beaver Lake, Bardo and Kingman sections tell of the onslaught of the binder into the fields of golden grain. The crops have ripened quickly during the past ten days and while many fields are yet not ready for cutting there will be many by the time the binder is ready to go into them fields.

It was thought a couple of weeks ago that the harvesting of the crops this fall would be a matter of difficulty owing to the lodging caused by a heavy general storm. To a large extent the standing grain has recovered, although here and there they are down too bad. Farmers are putting an effort on their binders and this will assist greatly in cutting the down grain.

The yield in the Tofield district promises to be good. All grains will come up to the general average. If the present fine weather holds out the farmers express themselves as satisfied.

Digestion and Assimilation

It is not the quantity of food taken but the amount digested and assimilated that gives strength and vitality to the system. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets invigorate the stomach and liver and enable them to perform their functions naturally. For sale by dealers everywhere.

As usually treated, a sprained ankle will disable a man for three or four weeks, but by applying Chamberlain's Liniment freely as soon as the injury is received, and observing the directions with each bottle, a cure can be effected in from two to four days. For sale by dealers everywhere.

LIBERAL MEETING

Masonic Hall

Douglas and Smith Address Electors

Reciprocity the Theme

Masonic Hall was crowded last Friday night to hear J. M. Douglas, ex-M.P., speak in support of his candidature for re election to the House of Commons, and C. F. Smith, M.I.A. of Chauvas, who is becoming well known as one of the prominent spell binders of the province and who is touring the country with Mr. Douglas in support of the Liberal cause.

Amongst the crowd present were several well-known conservatives who listened with becoming respect to the arguments of the speakers. Mr. Daniel Francis, B.A., who has a prosperous farm a few miles east of Tofield, was present and courteously undertook to defend the opposition's side of the controversy, following Mr. Douglas in a fifteen minute address.

Mr. Douglas opened the meeting with a strong address on the general policy of the government and quickly went into the details of the Reciprocity Pact. In a plain and business like manner he showed what would and would not be the deal would be of great benefit to the farmer and consumer. He quoted from many documents which he had at hand facts and figures in support of his argument. His points were literally applauded.

Mr. Francis was invited to speak in behalf of the opposition and endeavored to cover the arguments of the previous speaker to be fallacious. He received unstinted applause from his sympathizers.

C. F. Smith, who followed Mr. Francis, in language which evidenced a thorough knowledge of the subject, and a deep interest in its bearers, criticised Mr. Francis's remarks in a merciless manner and sought to explode the theories espoused by the former speaker. His numerous allies at the expense of his predecessor provoked again and again the mirth of the audience. Then launching forth into an eloquent, Mr. Smith went into the history of Reciprocity, endeavoring to show his hearers that it had been the policy of all the Leaders of governments, irrespective of party, since before confederation, to promote a free trade arrangement with the U. S. Appleses from Sir John A. Macdonald and his bearers, criticised Mr. Francis's remarks in a merciless manner and sought to explode the theories espoused by the former speaker. His numerous allies at the expense of his predecessor provoked again and again the mirth of the audience. Then launching forth into an eloquent, Mr. Smith went into the history of Reciprocity, endeavoring to show his hearers that it had been the policy of all the Leaders of governments, irrespective of party, since before confederation, to promote a free trade arrangement with the U. S. Appleses from Sir John A. Macdonald and his Conservatives were attacking Laurier on the navy question, not on reciprocity. There they said that Laurier was too imperialistic, while in Ontario they said that Laurier was not imperialistic enough.

Mr. Smith spoke for over an hour covering the many phases of reciprocity and explaining how it would be of benefit to all parts of Canada. One of his particular points made was the statement that the R. C. market in cans was nothing like what some would have us believe. Two townships of Alberta would furnish all the cats required for R. C. for years to come. He touched on many of the items of which he said Canadians would receive better prices on account of larger markets if the tariff walls are taken down. In an excellent and eloquent peroration he pictured the new lease of a greater prosperity than ever before experienced that Canada would enjoy with a measure of free trade in natural products with the U S. and an increased preference with the Motherland.

The liberals claim that the meeting was a great vote getter for them and predict a great majority at this and adjacent polls.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Crafts and Mr. and Mrs. C. Gallinger and family, all of Edmonton, spent Labor Day visiting Tofield and vicinity.

RECIPROCITY WILL CARRY

So says W. T. Smith of Chesley, Ont., a Lodge Shipper.

W. T. Smith of Chesley, Bruce Co., Ont., is in Tofield on a visit with friends. Mr. Smith is an ardent liberal and to the Standard this week stated that he believes that fully two-thirds of the people in the west are in favor of reciprocity. He was in Winnipeg at the time of Ashdown's nomination, in Saskatoon a week and stopped at other places throughout the west. He says that everywhere he heard the reciprocity pact highly spoken of. He believes that with the passage of this bill farm properties throughout all the west will be worth at the start at least $5.00 more per acre. Potatoes, of which Mr. Smith is prepared to buy 10,000 bushels here in Tofield, he will pay ten cents per bus. more than if the tariff remains. Mr. Smith has been for years a shipper of potatoes, apples, cattle and lambs, etc., not only to all points in Canada but to the United States. He says he is satisfied that Farmers in Canada will realize greater prices for everything they grow if reciprocity passes, they will reap the benefit of the amount of duty removed and the enhanced value besides that an unlimited market exists in the U. S. is a fact, owing to the ever increasing demand and decreasing supply. He says I have been shipping all these produce and stock to the United States for years, paying the duty, and have made money. What will the farmers realize then if the duty is removed?

Mr. Smith who comes from Bruce and Grey said "I wish that the good people of Grey would come out, every mother's son of them, and help defeat Sir Wilfrid Laurier." A trip throughout Canada opens the eyes of any thinking person and impresses one mightily of the importance to the farmers and consumers of the proposed tariff revision. Promptly will take a renewed boom throughout all Canada and the farmer will be the one to reap the greatest and most lasting benefit.

Then the intelligent and progressive electors of Bruce will stand behind Archer Wright, the liberal candidate, I have no doubt. Truax is a good man and will be a credit to the country, and in the light of what I have said above I believe the Bruce electors will do their duty.

Big Silverware Campaign.

Famous Rogers' Ware to go into Every home

Bird, Hardware and Furniture, to be Distributors for the World's Greatest Manufacturers in Stupendous Advertising Campaign. Remarkable offer.

It has been hinted in advertisements which have appeared, that Bird, Hardware and Furniture, had something unusual to offer the people of Tofield and vicinity, but the remarkable value of the offer is all who trade with them, can hardly be realized.

It is only possible for this offer to be made, by reason of the fact that Bird, Hardware and Furniture, are to be the distributers of a line of the famous Rogers' Silverware in a great campaign which has been undertaken with the object of placing Rogers' Silverware in every home on the continent.

Having many factories in England, Canada and the United States, with a capacity for manufacturing greater than any five other manufacturers combined, and with a reputation for quality that is not excelled, such a concern is in a position to almost, if not quite, accomplish its wish to have its silverware universally used, as well as universally known.

To secure this opportunity for its customers, Bird, Hardware and Furniture, has been compelled to make extraordinary concessions on every article they sell. They are required to give their customers a DISCOUNT OF TWENTY PER CENT. on every article bought from their store, provided the discount is applied on the purchase of silverware. This makes a further reduction on the price of the silverware.

An advertising campaign which will bring these results is wonderful, MARVELLOUS, ASTOUNDING it is buying advertising at a big price, and none but a concern of unlimited resources could do it—but it is bringing results—results that have made it necessary to double the output of this line of silver four times.

The people of Tofield are fortunate in having a concern of the Bird, Hardware and Furniture, through which they have the opportunity to benefit by this campaign. You can get a card from them telling all about how you may get this silverware. Ask them by post or telephone at their store for one of these cards. "GET A CARD TODAY" the slogan for this campaign

TOFIELD, ALBERTA. THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1911.

THE ISSUE OF TO-DAY

The electors of Canada and above all the farmers of Canada, are to-day confronting a problem, the like of which has not confronted them at any time since confederation. In spite of everything which may be said to the contrary, the great question to be decided is Reciprocity or No Reciprocity. In spite of anything which may be said by the politicians on either side with reference to this great question and its possible effects, it may well be said that the farmer, and we should not leave out the consumer for these two great classes constitute the masses in the country, will look at the matter in the light of what it means to him in dollars and cents.

It is a fact, and no one can deny it, that the increased cost of living has grown to be a question demanding the serious consideration of every bread-winner. The farmer for years has been driving into the matter as it affects him and has been loudly complaining against the wide disparity in the prices of the stock and produce which he raises and those of the cured, finished articles manufactured from these products. He has taken the stand that the prices he realizes is too low and the prices he is forced to pay for necessaries in the manufactured form are too high. In this the private consumer or working man shares the same sentiment and opinion.

It cannot be gainsaid that this is a matter in which every consumer be he farmer or workingman, and every professor is vitally interested.

Will Reciprocity in natural products assist in ameliorating this condition? Will the throwing down of the tariff bars to free trade in natural products assist in ameliorating this condition? The Liberal Party says, Yes. Many farmers and consumers say, Yes. The Conservative Party says, No. The Liberal Party says Reciprocity as it is proposed will not seriously affect the Canadian Manufacturer Many Canadian Manufacturers say that it will. The Liberal Party says, that the effect of this part will be the bettering of the condition of the masses. The Conservative leaders say that we will be no better off. The Liberal Party [illegible] Canadian People to [illegible] East. The Conservative Party say, Let well enough alone.

The Liberal Party says, the enlargement of our markets will create competition for our produce and a consequent increase in prices realized. The Conservative Party says, the markets in the United States are no better than the Canadian markets and that prices will likely be lower

The Liberals say that the competition between the producing areas and the markets by the transportation lines will result in a lowering of freight rates. The Conservatives say that this will ruin our railroads.

The Liberals hold that Canadian railroads and manufacturers are sufficiently able to hold their own against competition. The Conservatives say that these should be protected.

The one says Competition, the other says No Competition outside from amongst ourselves.

The one says, Let us deal with ourselves, our Mother and our neighbor. The other says, No, Let us deal with ourselves and our Mother only.

These are only a few of the thousands of questions, the pros and cons of the proposition as it is being put up to the Canadian elector and of which he is for the nonce the judge and jury. The parties, for and against, are putting up their arguments. Farmer and consumer are on the stand. The parties are the negotiants.

In this great fight there is no need to view the case in any other than in the spirit of common sense. It is a matter of business, not of sentiment. There is no need to attribute to either party any dishonorable motive in endeavoring to uphold his particular policy. Let us assume that each is honest in his contention. Opinions differ. The majority rules. Each side expects a majority in its favor. The 21st will tell.

Economize?

I wish to discuss with someone who understand the fore stated word, now you dear reader are that very person.

We all know that true economy is praiseworthy, but will you tell where to strike the happy medium. It is not easy My mind is like a sieve, so I can never quote correctly but I read somewhere that economy is not getting what you really need now so that you may eventually get that which you may require. have you not often dallied away your time measuring the pros and cons for getting and not getting an article and leave aside the purchase to the mythical future, which never comes, of course buying without due consideration is performing a rash act. But that baneful desire to save a few cents grows to be an obsession and often leads you to error frequently. I remember a lady once having to purchase a special brand of breakfast food for the kiddies; this she secured at a departmental store for twenty cents (and dear enough she found it for the nurse liked it as well as the babies.) Well one day toward evening she chanced to find the tin about empty and went to a corner grocery, who demanded twenty-five for the same article. Get it? no she left the store highly indignant. In the evening she retired the incident to her husband who said "Well where did you get it? "why" answered she I bought it at the departmental store taking the car there and back" "then car there and back" replied he throwing back his head and enjoying the joke. The lady humiliated had not a word to say. It was a lesson to her and she sees that great faculty now of thought. Reader that lady became indignant with the price you quoted, she boarded a crowded and dusty car, stood for the entire distance to and from and paid ten cents for fare. Thus the price of the food was thirty cents in money, in person an amount amount of fatigue in work, fifteen minutes brushing her wearing apparel.

You, reader, many of you do practically the same thing. You send to distant Mail order houses. Perhaps you will buy a little cheaper, but pay railway expenses, freight and express charges, and a deal of anticipation of how you are going to be suited.

Why not call at the store of satisfaction. Our prices are right, our goods are pure and fresh. Our store is undergoing renovations, and prices are being cut to a startling state and all for a benefit to mutually share entire, our customers and ourselves.

Our subscribers will confer a favor on the publishers of this paper if they will kindly let us know by a card when they miss receiving their copy regularly. The only way to overcome trouble of this kind is to let us know when it occurs. While we do not claim to be perfect and thus admit that it may be possible for us to err, yet we have no hesitation making the statement that the most of this trouble comes from within the postal service itself. Over this we have no direct control. But if we are informed when trouble exists we are in a position to see that the service is improved. Letters to The Editor

NOTE.—The Editor does not necessarily concur with the views of correspondents published under this heading.

Editor Standard:

In your issue of Aug. 24th, "A Mere Man" tries to make it appear that I am wrong in saying that "Reciprocity in natural products never has been a plank nor any part of the platform" of the U.F.A. and yet admits the truth of the statement by citing as his only proof the Memorial of the Manitoba Grain Growers.

Mr. K. J. Fream writes me, date August 29th, that the number of paid-up members on the roll of Tofield Union at the present time is eighteen. Surely it cannot truthfully be said the active membership exceeds this, but in using the expression, I meant only those who attend the meetings called.

I was, last March, informed by our Secretary that Mr. Fream's letter to him was of the same tenor as Douglas's telegram which read; "Moneyed interests in the east are pressing reciprocity hard; do your utmost to get your Board of Trade to pass a resolution favoring it." I do not consider that to be submitting it to the Local for consideration, especially after the Liberal Government had pledged itself to carry the Measure.

As to his prices, he was not there to see the sales. He gives no authority for the correctness thereof. He quotes hogs Toronto $6.85 and Chicago $7.70, whereas by a statement signed by T. H. Boyd of Chicago, President of the Boyd, Lunham & Co., Packing firm, Chicago, and owner of the Ingersoll Packing Co., Ltd., of Ingersoll, Ont., the average price paid for hogs at Chicago in the year 1910 was $8.90, the average price paid at Chicago by the Boyd, Lunham & Co. was $8.92] and the prices paid at the Ingersoll Packing Plant by Mr. Boyd's manager, C. E. L. Wilson, was $9.11. Of the fifty million bus. of wheat exported in 1910, one-half says Hon. Mr. Paterson, went through the U.S.A. under bond, bonding costing nothing. The C.S. buyer could afford to pay just as much as under the Taft-Fielding agreement. If the U. S. needed our products, not having enough of her own, there might be a prospect of a gain. Under the agreement U. S. stands a better chance for the middleman's profit. This the Canadian should reap for themselves. D. Francis

What Has Dandruff Got To Do With Baldness?

You see the statement every day that dandruff is cause of baldness is misleading.

True, dandruff often precedes the destruction of the hair.

But it is not that you have much with a scanty supply of hair, or barely half a head strength, who have nothing around a dandruff laden collar all day long. Not by any means.

You have also seen many men whose hair was as rich as a baby's whose hair has been destroyed by dandruff.

That dandruff kills scores of us, and sometimes a good many of us, but let us not overdo the matter.

Of course dandruff isn't a good thing to carry around, but it is only an incident.

The main trouble that causes the hair to fall out steadily causes baldness, is, if you get at the cause and remove it, more of hair you will save dandruff too.

Those who use Nyal's Herpicide find it the most satisfactory hair tonic and dandruff cure they have ever used. It does stop the hair from falling out, will also stop dandruff.

Your Nyal Druggist cheerfully recommends it—$1.00 and 50c in sprinkler bottles.

The Local Option Question.

(This column is open for the public discussion of the above question. Correspondents are requested to be as brief as possible)

Editor Standard,

Would you believe that there are men in Tofield who would care to make money out of the death of their fellow Men? There are some who admit that liquor is killing men, and if it's public sale is continued it will kill more men, yet they want that legal sale continued because they think it makes their property more valuable, of course it does not make any property in town except hotel property more valuable but some imagine it does. Now, sir, the question I would like to ask of the public is: If the drinking of liquor is ruining and killing men, are we desirous of or even willing to make money by it, either directly or indirectly? I would we not rather do without the money than have the price of other men's lives. If (though we doubt it) the licensed bar makes hotel accommodation cheaper, would we not rather pay more for hotel rates and save the harm the bar does? If anyone thinks a licensed bar makes his property more valuable would he not rather have the smaller value than be responsible for the other other man's ruin? Is it not time we ceased to draw a public revenue from the ruin of at least some men? If there must be a sale of liquor, let it be like stealing and murder, something that is outlawed and that we are stamping out as fast as possible, not as something we weak at while we admit the harm it does, because we are paid a bribe in the form of a license fee to keep quiet.

S. Nicholson.

Campbell Scores Liberal Policy

Conservative Candidate Holds Large Meeting in Masonic Hall last Friday.

Masonic Hall was crowded last Friday evening by a large throng of both Conservatives and Liberals to hear the Conservative Candidate Mr. Campbell, discuss the issues of the day from the Conservative standpoint. Mr. Campbell lost no time in tackling the reciprocity pact, denouncing it from every possible view point. The following are some of the arguments which he submitted:

Reciprocity would open the Canadian market to all British dependencies and the favored nations.

We contend that the U. S. market is not any advantage to Canada. The U. S. are bound to open their markets to all these outside mentioned in the Reciprocity pact.

The millers who grind the Canadian wheat are bound to become the millers of the world.

The U. S. requires 70 million bushels of the best grade of wheat for flour for their own consumption. This is bought separate from the wheat for the world market at a higher figure. It is this wheat only that comes at the high figure quoted in the U. S.

The Dakota farmers' wheat will come down to export price. Conditions what will not go up.

Hugo of Ingersoll, Ont., were for the past six years higher on the average than in Chicago. This proved that the prices of hogs in Canada was higher than in the U. S.

The Canadian bacon hog was of better and better quality than the U. S. hog and this was in demand over there. Reciprocity was considered a menace for the U. S. to get our products.

On August 15th, 20,000 sheep from the U. S. were sold on the Toronto market. During the last few weeks enclosed after enclosed were sold at Winnipeg. Reciprocity would make this condition much worse.

The reason why higher prices were paid for stock in Chicago than in Canada was owing to the fact that the U. S. had an excellent chilled meat service. If the Canadian farmers were returned to power they would establish such a service for Canada and Canadians would then enjoy higher prices for stock which they raise.

The U. S is our strongest competitor. Why should we sell to them?

Better build up our own packing plants and canneries than those of the U. S.

Horses were worth $50.00 more on the average in Canada than in the U. S. Reciprocity would bring the price down to a level therefore with the U.S. and be a blow to horse raising in Canada.

Mr. Campbell went into the history of reciprocity for the last forty years and said that when we had reciprocity before cancellation it was because the only market we had was the U. S. They had the means for transportation of goods to market and we had not. Things were different now and we do not need their assistance in this way.

The speaker said he hoped that the day was not far distant when Great Britain would give a preference to them.

Mr. Borden proposes to adopt every suggestion put forward by the farmers' deputation to Ottawa last December. This includes the Hudson's Bay Railway, Chilled Meat Industry, etc.

Mr. Carter of Strathcona, lately from Cleveland, Ohio, gave a short speech following Mr. Campbell and urged his hearers to support the Conservative candidate. His theme was Canada for Canadians. Our natural products for our own mills and factories. He said that all our centres would go dead if our natural products were to go to the U. S.

The meeting was orderly throughout and both speakers were given an attentive hearing.

Tofield Fair, Sept. 29th.

Great Interest Being Taken In Coming Exhibition—Big Prizes and Handsome Trophies Offered

Interest is awakening very fast in the Tofield Fair, which will be held on the 29th inst. Farmers and Farmers' wives are coming in every day 2nd asking for Prize Lists. Then the secretary has on hand to supply all who intend entering exhibits. From distant points have come enquiries and requests for Prize Lists indicating that the interest taken in the Tofield Exhibition is not confined to local territory. All intending to enter exhibits at the Fair this year are urged to get their prize lists at once and make their entries on time. This year entries will not be received on the day of the Fair as it makes too much work and confusion. Make your application NOW.

Girl's Brigade

The girls showed their hospitality last Wednesday evening by entertaining their parents at a concert and social in the Presbyterian Church. To say that it was a success is putting it in mild terms for everyone present thoroughly enjoyed themselves and were surprised at the high class concert put up. Mrs. Cress, Mr. McCauley, Mr. Whillans and others of the best talent of our town took part with their usual success while Miss Emma Irons captivated the audience with her excellent readings. Dr. Hammond gave a fine talk on proper cooking that was much appreciated by all the ladies as well as the Brigade Girls. The exhibition of handicrafting as used in first aid work which was given by some of the girls gave evidence of their knowledge along that line. Light refreshments were served at the close of the entertainment.

Had A Glorious Time.

The following was handed in at the office and the Editor thinks it time for it passes it on.

A number of the local sports journied to Hastings Lake last Saturday week to spend a few days shooting. On arrival camp was pitched and a very pleasant evening spent on the lake, when on returning a very dainty fry was enjoyed, it being prepared by Chris the chinaman. The Sabbath was spent in prayer and song service, Mac and Oliver attired in evening dress sang "Oft in the Night," Jim led in prayer while Josh delivered a very eloquent sermon on "The Stranded Maroon."

Monday was the big day of all, when Name the Hish Diver gave an excellent exhibition of diving in deep water, saving a homestead and $30.00, while W. S. McGeachie better known as Mac gave an exhibition of canoe paddling and muskrat taming.

Camp broke up at 8 o'clock by singing God Save the King and all returned to Tofield by the overland express having enjoyed the outing to the FULL.

As usually treated, a sprained ankle will disable a man for three or four weeks, but by applying Chamberlain's Liniment freely as soon as the injury is received, and observing the directions which each bottle, a cure can be effected in from two to four days. For sale by dealers everywhere.

Kelly Trophy Creates Live Interest Among Horsemen

The farmers of the Tofield district will have something to be very proud of in connection with the exhibition which is being held on Sept. 29th this year. There is no farmer in the district but who is in the horse raising business to a more or less extent and who is improving his stock from year to year by the inoculating of pure-bred blood.

The Kelly Trophy, a fine big silver cup, given by Jas. C. Kelly, Tofield's enterprising jeweler and watchmaker, for the best Two Year Old Colt, Mare or Gelding, raised within a twenty-mile radius of Tofield, and shown at the 1911 Exhibition, will be a trophy well worth striving for. Already many farmers have signified their intention of competing for this trophy.

Mr. Kelly has shown splendid judgment in donating a prize to the Tofield Agricultural Society for the above purpose. The Directors are very grateful to him for the interest in which he met their solicitation for assistance, particularly so as he voluntarily offered the Horse Trophy, showing this branch of mixed farming to assist a branch which as has been said above, appeals to the farmers in the right spot.

Mr. Kelly has only a short time ago set up in business in Tofield and, although he has a large stock of Jewelry, etc., has not arrived, he has built up a good business in the district has, proving by more than satisfactory to his already large clientele.

TOFIELD, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1911.

The Standard last week said that the farmers and consumers of Canada would look at the great question before the people to-day more from the light of business than sentiment. Read what Hon. Geo. E Foster says in his speech at the Colonial Conference in 1904:—"But business is business, and, outside of all sentiment, we in the colonies, as they in Great Britain, must press for what is beneficial to us from a business point of view."

o o o

Sir Wilfrid Laurier expects Canada will send back his party to power on the 21st inst. At Sudbury the other night he said that Parliament would be called within five weeks of Sept. 21st, and in three months we will have reciprocity, and the barriers between Canada and the United States swept away.

o o o

The Sunday Observer of London, England, a tory paper and one of the most influential papers in the Old Country says, "One fails to understand how any Imperial tax should be strengthened by the loss to a progressive, predominant part of the Canadian population of such a rich and legitimate opening for commerce." There is no evidence of fear of political union with the U.S. in this expression of opinion from Britain on the reciprocity question.

o o o

This is a matter of business only. There is no legitimate reason why Canadians should not enter into business relations with any country. We have our final independence.

o o o

A speaker recently said at a Tofield meeting that Canada would get a preference in the Old Country. Let us dispense with any such half-bastardism. No matter what preference Canada may give to Great Britain, we will get no preference from her. Britain is a country of free trade. The colonies cannot begin to completely supply all the requirements of her trade. Hence, we cannot expect for a moment that the Colonies will be given a preference. It is therefore up to us from a business standpoint to work out our commercial future independent of any sentiment.

o o o

Western Canadians proudly boast that within a few years Canada will be producing 600,000,000 bushels of wheat. When this is so, other products will have proportionately increased. We must therefore find a market. What is the sense of waiting until a thing happens before preparation to care for the same. This is a point laid up for consideration by the supporters of reciprocity.

o o o

The Conservative candidates the other night produced figures from Ingersoll to prove that hogs were higher in Canada than in the United States for the past six years. If this be so, then all the figures put forth by the Grain Growers' Guide and the Government Blue Books have lied. They say that figures cannot lie. We don't know about that. Either one of the above sets of figures must be right.

o o o

Mr. Campbell said last Friday night "The millers who grind the Canadian wheat are bound to be the millers of the world." Hear! Hear!

o o o

We must frankly say that we cannot see where our friends on the Conservative side are right in their contention that we should turn down the proposition to secure an open market in the States. Even if Canada does consume 80 per cent. of her own products, let us think of the competition for the other 20 per cent. and with this let us realize that within a few years we will be producing many times over the present amount of our products. If we had factories in every town consuming that which we produce, possibly the home consumption would largely increase, but what about the surplus? For that we need an open market, not a restricted market.

o o o

We choose to regard every farmer and producer as being entitled to all the consideration, in fiscal matters, which is his due. The farmer produces grain, horses, sheep, hogs, etc. The Canadian manufacturer produces his goods and sells to whom he pleases, regardless of party or nationality. The fact is admitted that the Canadian manufacturer sells his goods cheaper in Australia than he does in Canada. Then why should this august privilege be denied the Canadian farmer? But, the latter contends that he will not have to sell cheaper. He will be able to place his produce on a more stable market and upon a market which will on the average give him better prices.

o o o

We might go on endlessly giving questions to be answered and answering them as the contending parties are answering them, but we believe the farmers and consumers have made up their minds and will vote as their best judgment dictates.

The Local Option Question.

(This column is open for the public discussion of the above question. Correspondence are requested to be as brief as possible.)

Editor Standard,

In your issue of two weeks ago I was asked to prove the statement I made that Owen Sound had more drunkenness under local option than it did under license. Below I quote the Police Court Records for six months in each year from 1903 to 1909:—

UNDER LICENSE

Breach of Liquor Lic. Act. 8

Friends, for years I was a frequent visitor to Owen Sound and here are some of the things I saw in that city:—

1st—Illegal selling over the bars
2nd Drug stores doing a rushing business in intoxicating liquors.
3rd—Blind Pigs at work.
4th—Eleven drunks plus a given point on half an hour on a Saturday night. Seven drunks taking dinner at the same time in the same hotel.
5th—More drunkards in proportion to its size than any licensed town in Ontario.
6th—A town full of spotters and whiskey informers.
7th—Men buying whiskey who had voted for local option.
8th—Little beer being sold but plenty of whiskey
9th—Liquor given away just as the Sunday cigar seller used to do when he sold the match and gave away the cigar.
10th—A double faucet on the Keg—beer for the patron and water when the License Inspector came around.
11th—The human bar—Rye in his hip pocket, Gin in his coat.
12th—Young men hitting the bottle in back parts of stables and shops. Boys of 14 taking a drink out of the grocery drivers flask.
13th—Perjury rife, false swearing by informers and false swearing by respectable persons caught drinking to escape the fine imposed by law.
14th—The factory hand who had launched out into the same business had made four hundred dollars in a month selling whiskey to his fellow workmen. The man was discharged.
15th—That employers of labor had more trouble with their men than they did in fifteen years before.
16th—I saw there systems of signals, lights and bells to warn the illegal vendor of the approach of the police.
17th—That there is a vocabulary of contraband—"Firewater," "Fireworks," "Steam," "Disturbance," "Headpiece," and "Second Deluge."
And yet dear reader you call this the uplifting of humanity.
The more I view the local option question the more ridiculous seems the planks that are being riveted together towards the building of a platform.
Now, as this is the last time I will ask for space in your paper, I will ask room for a few reasons why you should vote against local option.
1st—Because my personal liberty is a heritage that I value.
2nd—Because local option is simply the old Scott Act, and you all know what a failure it was.
3rd—Because I know it could not be enforced.
4th—Because a well enforced License Law and well conducted hotel are preferable to dives where illicit selling would flourish.
5th—Because experiments with Local Option have always proved a failure in every municipality where it has been tried.
6th—Because it would have a disastrous effect on many other lines of business and would create an array of spies and perjurers.
7th—Because it would throw a number out of employment and create a contempt for law.
8th—Because it will affect the revenue of the municipality.
9th—Because it will mean an increased tax rate.
10th—Because I believe in temperance which means self-control and not local option which means alleged control by law.
Now dear reader, consider the question carefully, you will hear the local optionists say the place is looking up, but the business men will tell you the reason "because it is on its back."
Friends, young men drink who never drank before. They form themselves into drinking clubs and import the stuff from the nearest wet town. They take it to their picnics and jollifications, perversely delighted in "forbidden fruit." They drink deep, because in a local option town when a bottle is opened the cork is thrown away. They drink hard stuff because beer is too bulky to bring in conveniently. And the hard stuff is generally bad stuff, because the illicit vendor made no bones about doctoring it.
Thanking you for space in your valuable paper, I am,
yours truly,
Mgr. Queen's Hotel.

On subscribers will confer a favor on the publishers of this paper if they will kindly let us know by a card when they miss receiving their copy regularly. The only way to overcome trouble of this kind is to let us know when it occurs. While we do not claim to be perfect and then admit that it may be possible for us to err, yet we have no hesitation making the statement that the most of this trouble comes from within the postal service itself. Over this we have no direct control. But if we are informed when trouble exists we are in a position to see that the service is improved. You will therefore confer a favor upon us and incidentally one upon yourself if you will let us know when you do not receive your copy regularly.

So far no harm has been done by frost to the crops in this locality Harvesting is now general all along from Mundare to Ryley. If prices are reasonably good, the farmers will have plenty of money to spend next winter.

Miss K. C. Kerr, late of Stroma, Alta., is now in charge of our school and is doing good work.

A Sunday School picnic under the auspices of the ladies of the Presbyterian church was held on the 2nd inst., in a grove on J. B. Steele's farm. The weather was all that could be desired and everything passed off in pleasant style. Jack Livingstone's phonograph was a feature of the occasion.

Mr. Morrison brought his gasoline launch up, but, unfortunately no small boat was available to run between the shore and the launch so his kindness could not be taken advantage of. The ladies had a stand where ice cream, lemonade, fruits, etc., were on sale and the receipts were large for the size of the crowd. Dinner was free to all and as usual was of the best. Wilmer Gold was present, also quite a number from Mundare

Mr. Fletcher's letter in a recent issue merits attention. He thinks we are fond of pandering over Sir Wilfrid's utterances. Whether or not this is true, we have at least kept track of them, and noted his inconsistency. If, having as her end man taken a deep interest in Canadian Politics for over forty years, we ought to know both parties fairly well. We have found the promises of the liberal party of the pie-crust order, them of the conservatives are not and never have been. They do what they say they'll do. We oppose the present government for these reasons:

1. As fighting Joe Martin resently said, the government is one of the worst in the world. It's rottenness, he said, fairly stinks in the nostrils of the people of the old country.

2. Mr. Borden's platform suits us exactly, and, if he wins, will be carried out.

3. Reciprocity will benefit nothing, and governor Foss, the New York American, Champ Clark and others say it will weaken the ties binding us to the British Empire. Every ameratanicist in Canada is in favor of it.

Her Secret.

Why She Always Looked So Young

Everyone refers to her as one of Tofield's attractive women, at least for many years, for while recently by the merest accident a friend discovered that she was a constant user of Nyal's Orange Blossom Cream. Her friend asked how she kept it so secret, being surprised that it was not generally known, and was answered that she had always been in that condition, but that she had used Nyal's Orange Blossom Cream for years and kept it secret, as she did not want anyone to know her secret of beauty. Nyal's Orange Blossom Cream is a delightful toilet preparation, and is obtained for 75 cents from Nyal's Druggist, who, if asked, will cheerfully tell you how it is possible to try it, without cost.

Tofield as a Distributing Centre

That Tofield is not a mere speck on the map, but is fast being recognized as a place of importance is clearly shown by the fact that this year the merchants are not only taking care of all the home trade but are also supplying a large number of people who live in the smaller places on the G.T.P. Our baker, Mr. Howe, hardly passes a day that he is not called upon to ship some of "The Staff of Life" to some near by town. R. C. Bird is continually shipping from his large and well assorted stock some article of hardware or furniture or machinery. In buying in car lots Mr. Bird is able to ship to country places to an advantage over having them shipped in by local freight. So far this year he has shipped out from two to five stock of wagons, drills, mowers, rakes and binders, and has also shipped out about 12,000 pounds of binder twine. When the people along the line send to our town to get what is not to be had at home it speaks well for Tofield.

The Tofield Board of Trade met in regular session last Tuesday evening in Council Chamber, Pres. Leggs occupying the chair. All accounts presented were passed. As article that has real merit should in time become popular. That such is the case with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been attested by many dealers. Here is one of them. H. W. Reception at Tofield Presbyterian Church

The Presbyterian Church was beautifully decorated with flowers on Thursday evening last on the occasion of the home-coming of the Rev. A. M. McColl and his bride. A large gathering of members and friends welcomed the young couple.

During the evening an enjoyable musical program was rendered. Mr. J. Cookson occupied the chair and in his address of congratulation Mr. Cookson read some choice quotations which were most appropriate and highly appreciated.

Mr. A. J. H. McCauley gave an address in which he congratulated Mr. McColl in his choice, adding that with the exception of his own wife, Mrs. McColl was the finest lady he ever had the pleasure of meeting.

Mr. Cross contributed a most little speech in which he remarked that once ago the congregation had chosen Mr. McColl as its pastor, now they were met to welcome his partner which he himself and chosen. The bachelors present must have felt the truth of the next remark, namely a man without a wife is a like a ship without a rudder.

Rev. Robt. Whitlaus gave an address in which he pointed out the great importance of the position that a minister's wife has to fill.

Rev. Mr. McColl, who was evidently much affected by the enthusiasm of the meeting, spoke feelingly and characteristically, tendering the best thanks of himself and his wife for the magnificent reception accorded to them.

The ladies of the congregation provided refreshments, and during the evening ample opportunity was given for the introduction of the future mistress of the manse.

Six Cabinet Ministers Defeated, Borden, Fielding, Graham, King, Templeman and Patterson Swept Away in the Landslide

Totals, Conservatives 125, Liberals 79

As returns come in it is plain to be seen that Ontario is responsible for the overthrow of the Liberal Government, of the 86 seats held by Liberals at dissolution the Conservatives have won 72. All the Cabinet Ministers holding Ontario seats have been defeated Manitoba remains the same as before, 8 conservatives, 2 liberals. Saskatchewan will likely return 8 liberals and 2 conservatives In Alberta, while the returns are not complete it looks like 5 liberals and 2 conservatives. British Columbia has gone straight conservative, Templeman and Smith, the two liberals being defeated.

THE BALLOT BOXES

A number of parties and the Edmonton Journal have been actively interested in a number of odd ballot boxes which, amongst others, were shipped to points down the G.T.P. and at Leduc in Strathcona constituency, and a lot of publicity during the early part of the week was the result. The ballot boxes shipped by R. G. Twomey of Camrose to Tofield for distribution down the G.T.P. consisted of a large number of cardboard boxes of approved construction, together with a number of old boxes which evidently had seen the brunt of several electioneering battles, but which it may consistently be said, were not of an durable construction as the new articles. Fault has been found with these old boxes, but our wonder is, why was fault not found with these boxes on other occasions. At the same time, we cannot condone any carelessness of design or construction or any condition which admits of their being opened without being first unlocked. The Elections Act clearly specifies that ballot boxes shall be made of durable material and of such construction that they cannot be opened without having been first unlocked. It would seem to us that the section should clearly specify the nature of construction and thus set all minds at rest.

Editorial Comment

This week sees the end of the Political campaign. Which ever way the result goes, that is the end of it for another term. The majority will have decided. Our readers will doubtless notice the sudden cessation of hostilities by the rival party papers. This will cease and the political sky clear of the storm clouds of party warfare.

ooo

Now that politics are done with, the next event of public interest, locally, is the coming of the Exhibition and Stock Show of the Tofield Agricultural Society which will be held on Friday of next week, on the Society's new Grounds east of Dominion St. The Society has been making great preparations for this Fair and it is up to the townspeople to unite in making the day an hospitable one for all our out of town friends.

ooo

That the Town Council might in the near future consider the lighting of certain streets is a proposal which would meet with considerable public approval. A considerable portion of the sidewalks erected throughout town stand so far above the ground in places that it is positively dangerous for pedestrians to be out on very dark nights. There have been instances repeated of late which, though the results have not been disastrous, yet have been decidedly inconvenient and embarrassing to the unfortunate pedestrians who have had the unpleasant experiences of missing their footing and descended rather suddenly and forcibly into seas of soft mud. It is to be hoped that the municipal well will soon yield a sufficient quantity of material illuminating element which will make our town like the candle set upon the bushel measure.

The suggestion has been made that a quantity of the pressed hay which was put up last winter and brought to town for shipment, but which did not find a market, could be used in fixing the bad mud hole a mile south of town. This appears to be not a bad idea. Coun. Story dealt with several bad holes about town in this manner, petting the baled hay at the bottom of the holes and then piling the dirt on top. The baled hay was the lowest a footing for crossing the hole in handing the slips to and fro while grading.

ooo

It is to be sincerely hoped that the ditching about town will not be shirked by the present Council on to the shoulders of next year's council. The ratepayers well know that it was given to them to understand that part of the proceeds of the $4,000.00 bylaw for local permanent improvements voted by them last spring was to have been spent upon the draining of the big slough in the part south-east of town. It would seem evident that Council did not get its thinking cap on soon enough in the year to get the proper wheels in motion on the most important ditch during 1911. Meanwhile, we understand that at least $3,500 of the $4,000 has been spent in what has already been done to the streets.

Liberals Secure Three Seats by Acclamation

Sir Wilfrid Elected by Acclamation in Quebec East

Toronto, Sept. 18.—The Liberals start to the race on nomination day with three seats to the good, while every Conservative has an opponent. Sir Wilfrid has been elected by acclamation in Quebec East, and Liberal candidates have been elected by acclamation in the constituencies of Two Mountains and Welland, giving the Government three seats already in the next parliament. Jesse Ledue, the Conservative candidate opposed to Sir Wilfrid Laurier in Quebec East, retired from the contest rather than continue in a fight which meant certain and overwhelming defeat. This withdrawal leaves the Prime Minister the other, and Nationalist constituency, of Soulanges, which he is contesting. J. A. C. Ethier, Liberal, has been elected in Two Mountains by acclamation by reason of irregularities in nomination papers of his Nationalist-Conservative opponent Andre Farieux.

J. O. Foley, clerk of the crown in chancery, received the official return this morning. Feuteau's nomination, it appears, was made only in part, official papers and certain declarations were not made out as required by law.

The third Liberal Candidate elected by acclamation is W. M. Gorman, of Welland, who, while opposed to reciprocity, has promised to support the agreement in parliament if the people of Canada give a mandate for his so doing by returning the Laurier Government to power. His return snapped him, it is understood, the approval of the Prime Minister.

Swam English Channel

Deal, England, Sept. 9th—After a lapse of 36 years, Captain Matthew Webb's feat of swimming the English Channel has been duplicated by William T. Burgess, a Yorkshireman.

It was Burgess's sixteenth attempt, as he first attempted the feat in 1904. Burgess started from South Foreland, Dover, at 11.15 o'clock Tuesday morning. He landed at Lasbatelet, a little village two miles east of Cape Grisnez at 9.50 o'clock this morning, accomplishing the passage in 22 hours and 35 minutes. A motor boat accompanied the swimmer.

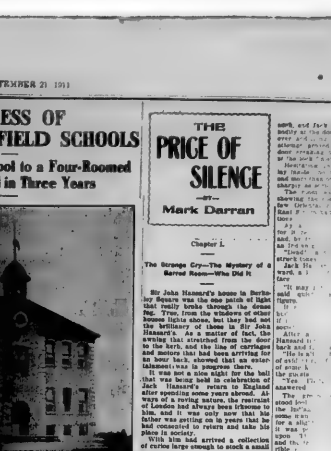
RAPID PROGRESS OF TOFIELD SCHOOLS

From a Rural School to a Four-Roomed Town School in Three Years



From a rural school to a four-roomed town school in less than three years is the history of our school and is an indication of the growth of Tofield in that period. While yet a rural school district it was found necessary to engage two teachers to handle the work. In the early part of 1909 the rural district was erected into the Tofield Village School District, but the Village District had no building for the accommodation of the pupils. Part were taught in the hall above Bird's Hardware Store and the remainder were housed in another building about half a mile distant.

In the summer of 1909 the School Board secured plans for a four-roomed brick-veneered building and work on this building was begun early in the fall. This new building was opened in January 1910 with three teachers in charge, taking only the Public School Work. In September, 1910, the first year of the High School Work, or Standard VI as it was then called was added, making during present year (1911) the Department of Education made certain changes in the High School Work and lengthened the course to four years, divided into four grades—grade IX, X, XI, XII. Grade XI covers the work leading to Second Class Teachers' Certificates. At the time of writing there are six pupils enrolled in grade XI who will go up for examination next June.

The constant growth of the school has necessitated almost continual organization. The four rooms are now occupied, the work of the school being divided as follows:—

Primary Dept. Miss Sibell.
Standard II Miss Wierzba
Standard III and IV—Miss Thomson.
Standard V and Grades IX. X. and XI of the High School—J. A. Young, Prin.

Miss Thomson has charge of the music training of rooms 1, 2 and 3. The rudiments of manual training will be started this year in rooms 1 and 2, and it is hoped that as the school grows this work may be expanded and extended so as to take in all the public school classes. In the higher classes of the public school the work is divided into two sections -(1) Domestic Science for girls. (2) Woodwork for boys.

The aim of the school has been in the past and will endeavor to make itself in the future a strong force in the building up of not only our town or our province, but the nation to which we belong, and it is the desire of the teachers to give to that nation men and women fitted to take their part in the great drama which began for this Dominion in the opening years of the 20th Century

THE PRICE OF SILENCE

—BY—

Mark Derran

Chapter I.

The Grunge Cry—The Mystery of a Barred Room—Who Did It

Sir John Hansard's house in Berkeley Square was the one point of light that really broke through the dense fog. From the windows of the big house lights shone out in such a way that the brilliant rays of Sir John Hansard's As a matter of fact, the awning that stretched from the door to the kerb, and the line of carriages and motors that had been arriving for an hour back, showed that an entertainment was in progress there.

It was not a nice night for the ball that was being held in celebration of Jack Hansard's return in England after spending some years abroad. Always of a roving nature, the restraint of London had always been irksome to him, and it was only now that his father was getting on in years that he had consented to return and take his place in society.

With him had arrived a collection of curios large enough to stock a small museum.

In the ballroom Sir John had built out at the back of the house, dancing was already in progress, though the majority of the guests were content to lounge about and talk while they could make themselves heard above the strains of the string band.

Sir John, a stately old man, was standing near the doorway, and from time to time he glanced towards the clock, as if he were expecting the arrival of some one.

"Probably smoking in his own room," Lady Selina," Sir John answered with a gesture of despair. "I am afraid that the sort of thing does not appeal to him, and he even threatened that he would not come."

"Well, I must say, sort of Jack," Lady Selina interrupted, "that he doesn't now display much interest in the rajah of somewhere or other. He is staying here, isn't he?"

"Yes," Sir John admitted; and somehow the expression of his face did not show any great pleasure at the fact. "Jack met him abroad somewhere, and so asked him here."

A tall man, wearing a diplomatic order, passed for a moment as he was about to pass.

"Is the prince here?" he asked, with a carelessness that appeared to be a little overdone.

"Yes," Sir John answered. "I expect he will be down shortly, but he has been delayed in his room—some curious trick the race, you know, not to get within white men. Do you know Siam?"

The diplomat's hands went up in a careless, deprecatory.

"I have that pleasure," he answered shortly, and moved on.

"This is really getting quite exciting, Sir John," Lady Selina said, with a laugh. "Do the prince's attendants do conjuring tricks or anything—you know what I mean? Mango trees growing out of a little heap of mud, and falling fortunes?"

Sir John frowned, his eyes still on the staircase.

"I have been quite the rage for the prince to tell fortunes," he answered; "but I distinctly refuse to have that sort of nonsense in my house. I consider it harmful."

The evening broke out into a dreamy valse, but above its strains rang out a cry that stopped the dancers as if they had suddenly been turned to stone. The face of the women went white, and the men glanced round nervously.

A second time it rang out, a shriek of absolute terror, then broke off as if it had been choked back.

Mechanically the orchestra had stopped playing.

"It came from upstairs," Lady Selina said, in a shaking voice. "It sounded like—murder!"

Sir John, despite his years, squared his great shoulders and stepped out into the hall. As he did so, a white faced servant came hurrying down the broad staircase.

"The prince's room!" he gasped.

Followed by a dozen or more of the men guests, Sir John hurried upstairs and along the corridor leading to the rooms occupied by Prince Rani Singra. Who the latter was the fashionable world of London would have found it hard to say. Somehow or other he had suddenly appeared in their midst, and probably no one had tried to fathom the mystery.

Everything was quiet now, as Sir John made straight for the door that gave entrance to the prince's rooms. He gripped the handle, but only to find that the door was locked.

"Is anything wrong?" he cried excitedly.

No answer, and the guests looked questioningly at each other. It was Jack Hansard, the diplomat, who broke the silence.

"The cry may not have come from here," he said.

Sir John looked dazed, and passed a shaking hand across his face.

"I wish I had better cared for the police," he said brokenly.

"Why not break the door in first?" a quiet voice suggested. "There may not be very much the matter."

The man who spoke was a tall young fellow of twenty-five, his face tanned by ranch exposure, his figure like that well developed by exercise. This was Jack Hansard, Sir John's son.

"Jack is right," the diplomat agreed quickly. "The police are so fond of making a fuss about thing. As it is a signal, the guests down for examination next June.

The constant growth of the school has necessitated almost continual organization. The four rooms are now occupied, the work of the school being divided as follows:—

HAD TO TAKE THE BOTTLE AWAY FROM HIM

A pleasant-faced little woman was buying something for the baby in a drug store, and happened to notice a man on the floor near.

"Did you sell my dear a bottle of that medicine?"

"I certainly did, and hope it helped him."

"Help him? Why he just helps himself three days. Used to complain about my smoking—said it wasn't as good as when we were first married. He had only taken about half that bottle when I had to hide it or there wouldn't have been a thing in the house for the children to eat. He simply cleaned up everything in sight at the table. Oh! the stuff is all right—I can recommend it—and he certainly thinks my cooking has improved."

She had complained that he was overworked—didn't get enough exercise—had no appetite—was getting a bit cranky, and didn't relish and enjoy his meals. The druggist told him to take Nyal's Dandelion Tonic and forget his troubles. Jim dropped in last to say that he has a great capacity for work and has accomplished better as a result of taking it.

Nyal's Dyspeptic—just a little off color. Lots of us need bile fun. Better buy a dollar bottle. It's worth while. If you try this remedy we know you will be pleased. Nyal Remedies are strongly believe to be the best medicines ever offered. 18

CAMPBELL WILL LOSE DEPOSIT

Conservative Candidate Will Receive A Red Beating

Conservative Candidate Campbell in Strathcona has received a bad beating at the hands of J. M. Douglas and will lose his deposit. Mr. Douglas' majority has already reached the handsome figure of over 2,300 and there are still twenty-three polls to hear from, which will further increase the Liberal member's lead.

Strathcona was the only place of importance to give the Conservative a majority, but this set back to Mr. Douglas from his home town was more than offset by Wetaskiwin, which gave him a good majority, though Mr. Campbell is a prominent resident of the elevator city.—Bulletin, Tuesday, September 26.

Hon. R. L. Borden Reaches Ottawa City is Filled With Office Seekers

Celebration in Honor of Premier-Elect Arranged for Tuesday. Manufacturers Ask for Increase in Tariff—Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier go to California for Month.

OTTAWA, September 26th—R. L. Borden has arrived in Ottawa and will begin organizing of the new government. Earl Grey, the governor general is considering postponing his departure until a few days after October 5th, in order that the Borden government may be fully organized before the arrival of the new governor general, the Duke of Connaught, on October 11th.

Mr. Borden will be called on to give early consideration to several requests for tariff increases. The woolen manufacturers who considered themselves insufficiently protected from British competition by the existing duty of thirty per cent. are anxious that the tariff be increased to fifty per cent. At present English woolens have a large market in the Dominion but domestic woolen industry is stagnant.

Ottawa is filling up with office seekers. The resignation of A. N. Parent, chairman of the National Transcontinental Railway Commission, is expected at an early date. Mr. Parent was formerly Liberal Prime Minister of Quebec. The commission was both attacked by the Conservatives when in opposition.

The Laurier government while administering the government until it's actual retirement, is prevented by custom from making appointments. The private secretaries of the ministers may be given other positions in the service but the real plums offered in vacant judgeships, senatorships, railway commissionerships, etc., will fall to the conservatives.

Lord Strathcona, Canadian High Commissioner, at London is expected in Ottawa next week. He signified to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, last summer his intention of relinquishing his position on account of advancing age. He is a conservative and although the French Canadian minister of militia, was selected to succeed him. Lord Strathcona, did not tender his resignation. If he does so now the appointment of his successor will be made by the Borden Government.

RESULTS OF THE ELECTION

The result of the election is summarized as follows:

	Total elected	Con. Elected	Lib. Elected	Con. Gain	Lib. Gain
New Brunswick	13	9	8	4	1
Nova Scotia	18	8	10	1	7
P. E. Island	4	3	1	2	0
Ontario	86	70	15	19	2
Quebec	65	27	36	19	4
Manitoba	10	7	3	2	3
Saskatchewan	7	1	6	1	4
Alberta	7	1	6	0	2
British Columbia	7	7	0	2	0
Totals	220	129	88	50	13

Net Opposition gains, 33; majority against Government 41; elections to be held, 4.

Ever since the smoke of the recent political battle began to clear away people all over the country had actually to pinch themselves to realize what a mighty turnover had taken place. Nowhere were the actual results really forecasted. It was a surprise to both parties. The reciprocity pact in a day was made a dead issue. In all the provinces excepting Alberta and Saskatchewan the vote was overwhelmingly against reciprocity. In these two provinces but one conservative was elected in each. The new government takes office with a splendid working majority of over 80. Despite rumors to the contrary, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Frank Oliver have signified their intentions of occupying their respective seats in the House with the new opposition. It is now doubtful if Hon. Mr. Pugsley will retain his seat.

Hon. R. L. Borden, the premier-elect will form his cabinet in the course of the next few days and the cabinet will be gotten over before the end of October.

To The Public

The Tofield Boy Scouts are in need of funds to purchase uniforms and equipment, also to buy a new set of some kind where, during the winter months, they can meet for instruction, as they have decided to run a booth on the Fair Grounds on Friday, September 29th. Tea, coffee, sandwiches and cake will be served as well as fruit and candy. Everything will be served at reasonable prices and the boys respectfully ask for a share of your patronage.

Election In Ontario

Premier Whitney of Ontario, has decided to appeal to the country in the second week in November.

Next Sunday evening, the Rev. C F. Washburn commences a series of sermons on "Good Heroes," illustrating his remarks by points served as well as fruit and candy. Everything will be served at reasonable prices and the boys respectfully ask for a share of your patronage. In the Methodist church on the Monday evening following at 7.30 o'clock, when a splendid programme will be rendered, followed by refreshments served by the ladies of the congregation. Editorial Comment

The people have spoken. The verdict is complete. It is as emphatic as it is complete. The people of Canada have given an emphatic answer to any joker who said "Annexation." Champ Clark twanged a chord which vibrated throughout all Canada as it was heard in every state in the Union. This so-called joke played a great part in defeating the reciprocity pact. While the cry had little effect in the three western provinces, Ontario was the battle ground which swung the balance of power to the Conservative side. As an eastern editorial puts it, "The victory was not a triumph of any political party—it was won by a patriotic coalition of Conservatives and Liberals, determined that the dream of a great imperishable Canada should not be dispelled."

The verdict is significant of other great facts. It has proven that Canada is greater than any party. In the election just over, the results of which the United States will be keen to note, it is the great independent vote that turns one party out and another one into power. Canada has prospered mightily during the Laurier regime. But, in Reciprocity, on which proposition it went to the people, confident in the feeling that the country was ready to obtain free trade conditions in natural products with the U. S., it was sponsor for a measure which did not appeal to the majority. The people had the deciding voice and the majority ruled it out. The election was, properly speaking, a referendum. It was made a party question. The mistake was made. The result is that the opposition gain the reins of power.

That Canada and the U. S. will eventually have a certain measure of free trade in natural products is still a probability. Saskatchewan and Alberta and a large portion of Manitoba are together the Granary of the North American Continent and the results of the vote show that the farmers of these three provinces are a force which will demand just consideration of their needs. That these will be respected by the new government will be expected. That the U. S. will in the years to come have great need of many of our natural products is but the logical sequence of conditions on that side of the line. It is therefore quite probable that on such of our natural products its tariff duties will be lowered. That Canada has need of many natural products of the U. S. which are not raised in Canada everybody knows, and it were but right to the Canadian consumer that there should be a corresponding lowering of the duties on certain articles of which we are in daily need. This could be a matter of tariff reduction on the part of each country each for itself, and yet be of great benefit to both.

o o o

Now that the tide has turned and Borden and his party are in power, western Canadians will wait with interest the carrying out of his policy of the building of the Hudson's Bay Road, the establishment of a Chilled Heat Industry, the Government Ownership of Terminal Elevators, the revision of a Permanent Tariff Commission and a number of other good things promised should he be returned to power.

o o o

One of the main features of the year's local improvement work outlined by the mayor on behalf of the council at a meeting of the Board of Trade early last spring was the putting in proper condition for traffic of the road entering town from the east. This road crosses the slough east of the Exhibition Grounds. Some good work has been done on this street but it has been left incomplete and is at present in a little less than fingernail condition. Strange it is that in many instances of this town this condition prevails. Why wasn't what was attempted completed? Attention, in some measure at least, should be paid to the road to which notice has been drawn. The needs of the public demand it.

MINISTER PLEADS FOR EDITOR

Here is a minister who appreciates an editor. At a recent editorial convention he offered the following toast:—"To save an editor from starvation take his newspaper and pay for it promptly. To save him from bankruptcy advertise in his paper liberally. To save him from despair, send him every item of news of which you can get hold. To save him from profanity, write your correspondence on one side of the sheet and send it in as early as possible. To save him from mistakes buy him. Dead people are the only ones who never make mistakes."

A VENERABLE CHURCH
St. Andrew's Church, Niagara-on-the-Lake, Celebrated Its 175th Birthday Recently.
St. Andrew's Church, Niagara-on-the-Lake, has celebrated its one hundred and seventeenth birthday. Among the historic landmarks of Niagara St. Andrew's stands prominent. The old record book of the church, dated September 30, 1794, contains the following quaint entry: "A number of people met this day and resolved that as religion is the foundation of all societies, and which cannot be strictly adhered to without having a place of worship dedicated solely to that purpose, that a Presbyterian church be immediately set on foot in the town of Newark as well as for the supporting and maintenance of the same." The first church was known as the original building was located further to the west, but was destroyed during the war of 1812 by the building burned to the ground and until 1831, when the present church was built services were held in private houses. In 1894 the centenary of the church was observed, which was described by Toronto papers as a notable event. Sir Oliver gave the commemorative, his brother, Dr. Howard, preached from the old-fashioned high pulpit; Hon. John Beverly Robinson also spoke. The history of old St. Andrew's, as written by the well known historian, Janet Carnochan, on this day a faithful member of the church, gives a splendid account of the many trials and vicissitudes through which the church has passed.

That the manufacturers of Hamilton pay much too low wages to the girls employed by them as to make it impossible for the girls to pay a proper price for their board, was the statement made by a representative of the Young Women's Christian Association, who asked for the formation of the Association's tones to the city. The petition was rejected, and the proprietors must pay or go out of the business.

IMPRESSIONS OF CANADA
Dr. John Clifford, the noted Nonconformist preacher of London, England, who recently visited Canada, has given his impressions of Canada and the United States:—
"The people of both the United States and Canada were most anxious to know all about old England. I addressed the largest body of clergymen I am told, that ever met a stranger in New York, and at the close of the gathering, as indeed, at the close of all my similar meetings, questions were asked as to what the old country thought of this and that. 'What is the attitude toward the higher criticism?' 'What is the trend of the mechanical on social matters?' and so on. I was invited to address several Canadian clubs, and sent to advance a list of subjects from which they could select one. 'Social Evolution in England,' was the selected four times out of five, and there you remember that these clubs were composed of the cream of the commercial and the professional classes, you have not come to Canada, you have come to see Canadian friends.

"They are deeply interested in our passing a great deal of public talk, and the evidences that I saw in every city that are planning for the future and for dealing with the mass of newcomers, clearly proved that the new world is going to be a great improvement upon the old, at any rate, they are getting the right way about making it so. Of course, it has its dangers. Materialism is a great dead wall there. The dollar number is in the ascendant, I fear. There is little use for the unemployed. They get the moment that the man who cannot wonder is out of spectacles behind which there is no eye.

CHAPTER II.

John Smith Arrives—A Straight Question—The Blacksmith

A large motor whirred up to the door of the house in Berkeley Square and a man of medium height, wrapped up in a fur coat, stepped out.

"Will you tell Sir John that I have arrived," he said, in a quiet voice to the frightened-looking footman at the door. "I am John Smith."

"Then will you please come upstairs sir," said the man somewhat, after slightly leading the way.

Sitting in the room where Prince Raal Hassard had been discovered, Sir John and Lady Willoughby and George Shipley were still waiting.

"Thank Heaven, you haven't failed me, Mr. Smith!" the diplomat cried.

"Is it a custom of mine?" replied the stranger. "During a long career, mostly, as he took off his heavy coat. He was in evening-dress, a short affair of no mean build, and there was something striking about him. True he was only medium build, though well put together, but it was the face that attracted and held the attention. The dark moustache, no beard, must have been wooden in expression had it not been for the grey eyes. They were hard, and cold, and grey—a fitting match to the rather thin-lipped mouth.

It was seldom that a man had seen John Smith quite taken aback.

"It is very good of you to come, Mr. Smith," he said, as he got to quickly, "though I fear that the mystery will remain one."

John Smith shrugged his shoulders. "Hardly a mystery to George & Co.," he suggested.

"I did not mean that," Sir John said hastily.

John Smith bowed, looked to Sir John for permission, and lit a cigar.

"A reputation for secrecy is not easily made," he said, "but easy to lose. I am here to-night on business, I believe."

Very concisely, forgetting nothing of importance, Sir John related all that had happened, and as he spoke the eyes of John Smith were moving constantly about the room, so that a stranger would have said he were not paying attention.

"And you found him here?" he asked, crossing his legs and leaning back. "I have not been abroad, I presume?"

"Nothing has been proved," Sir John answered him.

John Smith looked from the window, across the chair that lay on the floor, to the table at which the prince must have been sitting.

"And the door was locked on the inside and the window is barred," he mused.

"It is quite a mystery," Jack Hassard remarked.

John Smith turned towards the window, glanced at the sills, and dropped his head again.

"I should like to see this prince," he said.

"There is only the red mark around the throat," Jack answered. "Otherwise there is not a mark."

John Smith looked at the ash from his cigar, and his face was expressionless, expressionless.

"I will see it," he said.

In the bed-room the men found Dr. Meller, who had as yet failed to bring the prince round, while the latter's two attendants hovered round helplessly.

John Smith bent over the bed, turned the clothes back, and glanced for a moment at the red mark. Whatever it told him his face did not express his wonder.

"Thank you," he said, simply.

"If there is any one can save this prince, I believe you can," Sir John said.

"If he can, he can spare time," John Smith said, "because the affair with him," John Smith's eyes were fixed on Jack Hassard's face, "is over. Your skill and his experience may help me."

"I doubt it," the young man said, patiently, looking sharply at John Smith. "But I am at your service. My room is just along here."

As a matter of fact the room proved to be next to that in which Prince Raal Hassard had been found unconscious. Its walls were covered with weapons and other curios; in fact, there was practically only one small space on the wall not occupied. And there had been something there was plain, for the nail still remained, and the paper was darker where the sun had not been able to reach and fade it.

"You have certainly travelled a great deal," John Smith remarked quietly, "for one so young, Mr. Hassard."

He added in a great pair of silver spurs that he drew to the empty space on the wall.

"Yes," Jack Hassard admitted, dropping rather impatiently into a chair. "Don't you think we had better discuss the affair in hand?" he added.

John Smith looked at the young man in mild surprise, and lit a fresh cigar.

"We are discussing it," he answered between puffs. Then he took the cigar from between his teeth, and his jaw set hard.

"Why did you do it?" he asked slowly.

Jack Hassard started in his chair, and his face was a little pale under his tan.

"Do what?" he asked.

"Leave this button through the window," John Smith explained, as he saw no doubt in his mind.

For a moment Jack Hassard sat still, his eyes on the speaker, then he crossed to a cupboard, took a button from it, and threw it at John Smith's feet. The latter picked it up and glanced at it.

"Clifton," he muttered. "I knew it could have been no other sort of rope when I saw a few shreds of it on the window-sill. I say, Jack Hassard, such things are not common in England. Where, now, did you get it?"

Jack Hassard eyed the representative of Cutting & Co. with eyes that were very wide, but there was no origin in them.

"How did you guess that I did it?" he demanded.

"I did not guess," John Smith answered, with a touch of impatience. "I knew. For once in England one has a rope. You have been to Africa, apart from which, you have either your wrist a trifle by turning the rope round it."

A Game of Skill—A Story of the Ascot Gold Cup

BY CYRIL HOWARD

"Pluto has just been given to me," she, in a low whisper, "so I heard a moment ago in the lobby.

"When shall I do?" sent I. "Come up there an' tune Pluto out little the luncheon, so as to kill two birds with one stone?"

"No," sez she. "If you are willin' to take the risk, I think you should go out the front door an' look it after you. Then look around careful and see if he is settlin' fire to the house. Make my reputation as Pluto, so far as merited, but to get hurt—an' don't kill him, if you can help it."

"I won't kill him unless I see him, an' he won't hurt me, if I see him first," sez I. "I'm better keep Pluto an' the gun. I don't want to be betrayed with a couple o' non-combatants."

Pluto was a little black wirely fiend dog, an' he did n't improve me as how no odd friends fighter. I went out an' chased a cat out o' the bushes; but did n't flush no night thing wantin' to disturb the peace, except the gent. He was the most frictionless gent I ever met, but to shoot got my bag before I bored him. Consequent, I decided to play piano through an' after talkin' her that till some, I faded in the hall an' sung it to roost on the leather bank again.

Twice more that night the sleeping ball summoned me to go forth an' chase imaginary burglars, but the gent patience began to get baggy at the knees. I rested in the hall an' let gather the mail before the hunt of the dogs, an' I was glad I done so, for I see my story already. The last time I sung Pluto along an' dropped him into the food bin, where he could taste Christian fare, but not disturb the disturbs' my beauty sleep.

Our plan was almost smooth an peaceful, but most o' the sights I put in my letter to Ruth was true. I was n't able to tell her all I could have found out, as I did n't have the time, but I could tell her enough to make her freakin', until if they'd been any men in that house I would have had to have shove me to be his wife ag' thee arms to remain.

She'd been follin' me all about how it's a mistaken idea to wear a woman's talk 'll flow after it's been slammed up a night. He was from Virginee like he was goin' to college to study chem'stry, that's as far as he was an athlete—a quarter back an' a rest remain. I began to feel shy when I see him, an' I was glad I had on my night costume. I was never speak with no apron on as to be mistook for a waiter.

I drove to the station after him; but nobody got off the train except a new lookin' boy with outlandish clothes, an' a respon-e trunks. He looked like he had pulled out, he was to me "Can you tell me how to get to Mrs. H. Rose's on st"

"I can right you party close," sez I. "That's my present headquarters. You couldn't Help Chester Peters if you are pals."

"Yes, sir," sez he, as though we had made most pleas together. "Please, sir, let's load the trunks an' trip to ward where Ruth is, for I'm troubled with what I've call a famine."

We drove along, an' he was as savvy as a hog an' talked a blage-ige the isle of nothin' that I had ever met up with before, but I was tryin' to fix his real size with no idee of it. I had been lookin' for a sa faster with bulgy' wonries an' a grippy aim. This pash chucked and he was into me with his title to call him, so as not to be sussed, an' I was glad I had n't. He was a lamb, around his neck an' wore' he for me adopted daughter. I had put me shoulder to boast over the kid's head in' right at the start, when he fished up a pair o' eyes that fell in, an' began to pull like a grown up, and then I narrowed that don't make a t one of his hobbies.

"Any sport here?" sez he.

"If you 'a goal at ice-polo," sez I. "I'm on a team that is an easy lick for any bottle Chinamen. I never see a place yet where hostile war was so plentiful as the game on senses."

"I'm not much on the game," sez he, "but I had a shotgun, a rifle an' three revolvers.

"I mean I could n't make a hit at," I "What for?" sez he.

"Why, I could trip a cage watch h a-ways' sez I. "Why, of we'l all throw out a couple o' lines, I guess, it'd take me a solid week to get a bite, at that."

"I'm no" me sleep fire. He was a game fellow, an' his lines was all sinkers and tackle so half to death I never would have realized that a pool hittle feller could 'a been a college athlete, but I see his pictures plain in the papers, time an' again. At college he was a regular fool, an' he'd gone through the whole eight years without ever bein' fired once, an' he'd got on the right side of every professor in the institution. He was a shoe-in for the Rhodes scholarship when a chronic contracted a bad case of pneumonia, an' he had to take a trip to Arizona to get well. He was n't sick enough to be allowed to die, but he was sick enough to be sent away, and this idea was a great success. He got well, an' he got a job on a ranch, an' he was there when I met him. He was a regular cowboy with one o' them big hats an' a shirt with a flannel collar, an' he was as happy as a clam. He'd been there for two years, an' he was n't homesick a bit. He was a regular fellow, an' I was glad I had met him.

We had a fine time that week. We went out in the hills an' shot at rocks an' trees, an' we had a couple of days' fishing in the mountains. We had a swell time, an' I was sorry when the week was over. I had a full breakfast before I reached him there next, but I did n't get much to eat after that. Just as I was my party of the two. Just as I was my party of the two. Just as I was my party of the two

The Local Option Question.

[The column is open for the public for a month of the above question. Correspondents are requested to be brief as possible.]

NOTE: The Editor does not necessarily concur with the views of correspondents published under this head

Beaver Lake East, Sept. 18, 1911

Editor Standard:

Will you oblige by publishing the following copy of a letter from Mr. John C. Miller, President of the Board of Trade and Canadian Club, Orillia, Ont:

J. B. Steele, Esq.,
Mundare, Alta.

Dear Sir:

Mr. Geo. H. Hale, editor of the "Packet," Orillia has just placed me asking that I send you a copy of the pamphlet we got up during the Local Option campaign last year. You will find it enclosed. He also informs me that our "friend the enemy" are asserting that Local Option has been a failure in Ontario. This is of course about what one would expect coming from that source, but the fact that they have been unable to persuade the people most directly interested to have the law repealed ever since it was carried on the straight 56% vote, should convince any reasonable person that they have very little ground for their contention. Local Option has been successful in 97% of the municipalities adopting it, and it is impossible to have people vote for a return to license once they experience for a short time the blessings of closed bars. Nearly every community practiced by opponents of the measure has proven to be a fallacy and every change has been only a change for the better. Taxes are not increased, property increased in value, trade has been wonderfully benefited. People do not quit coming to a town because the facilities for getting booze are done away with. There is far less illicit selling than under the best enforced license law, crime is practically done away with, homes are happier and men are more prosperous. Orillia's experience after 31 years of closed bars causes people who formerly opposed to wonder why they ever tolerated for so long such a social and moral curse and economic blight in their community. People of the desirable kind do not leave town. Our manufacturers are unanimously in favor of the measure, our business and professional men are practically so; at least 90% of the solid progressive men of the community would look on a return to bar-rooms as a curse and the foulest blot that could be brought to the town. Keep right at the good work and may success attend you.

Yours truly,
JOHN C. MILLER

PERHAPS YOUR KIDNEYS ARE CAUSING ALL THE TROUBLE

Did it ever occur to you to suspect your kidneys as the cause of that dull, achy feeling in the small of the back, that tired spot or sore muscles?

If it does, you can't stop the dope yourself to ease a pain, or suppress the neuralgia and slight rheumatic pains, as well as that generally congested stuff's feeling. Get at the root of the trouble—the kidneys.

The time we live nowadays your kidneys don't get half a chance. They are not sensitive and do not give you pain when they quit work. When they quit work for any reason, the result shows itself in many ways—pain in the back—stiff muscles—little shooting rheumatic pains—nervousness—specks and other things.

You are not serious by themselves, but they indicate that the kidneys need prompt help.

Take Nyal's Stone Root Compound and your kidneys take on new life—its sympathetic sloppiness and danger of diabetes, chronic rheumatism and dread Bright's disease is promptly averted.

Just test this out for yourself—that's the only sure way—try Nyal's Stone Root Compound, and notice how soon those nagging symptoms will abate.

Nyal's Stone Root Compound is guaranteed to the public. The Nyal people had no intention as at this first before we found offer them to our customers, and they remedy we know to be all they claim for it.

All hail to R. L. Borden, that noble statesman, on the glorious victory his policy has won. He has high ideals of public life and will see that they are put in practice. Canada now enters on a new era of honest government, British imperialism and progress. Uncle Sam, that fuzzy old speculator, will have it plainly set before him that if the United States had the best of it during the 19th century, to Canada belongs the 20th. We have the resources, the energy and the ability, and a glorious future is before us as a part of the great British Empire, whose heart is the world's metropolis and whose arteries extend to the ends of the earth.

At this poll we were beaten badly. Albert McCallum and Joe McCallum—the D.R.O. and grit agent—strutted about the room as though they owned the earth and that Messrs. Moody and Steele, the Conservative agents were inferior beings who existed simply on their sufferance. The change has come though, and their insolence will no longer avail them. For some time at least, they are relegated to their obscurity which is a fit recompense for their insufferable conceit. It was a sight for the gods to watch the affectionate behavior of the local grit machine, who were calling one another crooks a few months ago. God save the King!

P.S.—I hope R. A. McKenzie is convalescent.

Received Grand Prix

The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway has received a cable from London that the Grand Trunk and G. T. P. had each been awarded the Grand Prix at the Festival of the Empire and Imperial Exhibition now in progress in London.

The building for which the prizes were given contains besides many exhibits of game, views of the popular resorts in the east, and also a large amount of space has been given over to the exhibits from the west, including grain and grasses. Thousands of people have seen these exhibits and much interest is being shown with the result that with the literature being distributed a large number of immigrants will leave for Canada in the next year or two.

MADAME MARTA SANDAL,
Distinguished Norwegian Soprano who appears in Tofield on Monday Evening, October 30.

Noted Prima Donna to sing in Tofield

Madame Sandal is a distinguished prima donna who is on a tour of Canada and who is now in Winnipeg on a most successful engagement will arrive in Tofield on October 29th or 29th, and will appear in a concert given by her under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's church on the evening of the 30th inst. She has been in the various Norwegian settlements throughout the west and has been doing energetic work in the interests of the Lutheran church in Canada.

She was commissioned informally by the King and Queen of Norway to investigate thoroughly the conditions of the Norwegians in Canada, but, she says laughingly, she is afraid to tell them one-half of the fine things about the great country.

Madame Marta Sandal was the protege of King Oscar and was educated by him. She was born in Christiana and when a very little girl her remarkable voice was noticed by his Majesty of singing in the public school. She became one of the favorite members of a children's choir of 8,000 members and at the age of 12 she was chosen by the conductor to sing a solo before the king. Her performance so impressed his majesty that he made her his protege and for the next five years was expense for her musical education at the Royal Academy of Music.

From this time Marta Sandal's career was a series of notable successes, and within a few years she became recognized as the leading exponent of her countryman Grieg's compositions. His last great cycle of songs was produced in Christiana on a great occasion, and Marta Sandal, a very young girl, was selected to sing these songs for the first time in public. Grieg was unable to be present but later he was captivated by her interpretation and immediately became her warmest friend.

Tofield Annual Fall Fair A Brilliant Success

OVER 600 EXHIBITS

Hundreds of People from points along the G.T.P. attend the Fair —Townspeople and the Farmers of Tofield and District turn out in full force—Exhibits of a very high order

Friday last, September 29th, was a red letter day in the history of the Tofield Agricultural Society, the occasion being their Second Annual Exhibition and Stock Show.

The Society for several months past have been busy laying out the race track, erecting suitable buildings for the accommodation of Stock and other exhibits, as well as having the grounds all fenced in, and many were the favorable comments heard of the rapid growth of the Society. Judging from the attendance and quality of the exhibits the Directors of the Society must have received further inspiration to go ahead with the good work which they have been doing for the past few months and erect more buildings because it was proven by Friday's exhibition that the present buildings were not sufficient, many horses and cattle having to be tethered to stakes on the grounds and the Industrial building crowded with exhibits to the very doors.

Many were the sanbeau eyes on Thursday night when the heavy frost to fall, but Friday morning relieved all their fears and proved to be an ideal day for the success of the exhibition.

Great interest was taken in the competitions for the special prize of a $25.00 silver cup donated by John C. Kelly, Tofield's Jeweler, for the best two year-old colt, mare or gelding, from within a twenty mile radius of Tofield. There were six competitors for this prize and it was a difficult task for the judges to decide which animal to award the prize to as there was so evenly matched. Sam Sirrett's horse finally received the prize which seemed to give general satisfaction to the large crowd of spectators around the ring.

Tofield and District has always been known as a mixed farming district, but never was this fact brought home with more force than on Friday last when the quality and quantity of the exhibits in Horses, Cattle, Sheep, Pigs, Poultry, Butter, Eggs, Potatoes and Grain.

The main building where vegetables, dairy and kitchen exhibits, fancy work and flowers, school work, grain, etc. was, was filled to overflowing with interested onlookers during the whole of the afternoon and too much praise cannot be given to the high quality of the exhibits in the above classes. Some fine exhibits were shown in the better classes and at the close of the day many from outside points were very anxious to secure all that was for sale.

In fancy work no better exhibits have been shown in any of the large cities of the Dominion and bespeaks great credit for the ladies of Tofield and District.

Late in the afternoon some very good racing was seen on the new track, both horse and foot races.

When the races were about half over a novelty run was put on. A team of dogs driven by Johnnie Dambswaer started out to go once round the track and ran excellently well until reaching the home stretch when the spectators being over anxious to see the dogs finish their run rushed on to the track and, as a consequence, the dogs came to a full stop and the driver was unable to get them going again. Much merriment was caused by this dog run.

The 1 mile Gentleman's Road Race was followed with much interest. "General Lee," driven by John Lee, sen., and "Dick Ashton," driven by Sandy Logan, ran a great race, but the former keeping up a steady gait, while the latter broke once or twice, won out.

The lunch room was well provided for on the grounds in the shape of three refreshment booths, operated by the Presbyterian Ladies' Aid, the Methodist Ladies' Aid and the Boy Scouts, who for the first time were wearing their uniform.

A word of commendation should be given to the judges who so ably carried out their duties to the satisfaction of all

The Fair was a great success and much credit is due the executive of the Association for the able manner in which they carried out the arrangements of the day. They are already turning their thoughts to the Exhibition of 1912 and contemplate making further additions and improvements to the grounds, so as to be in a position next year to shelter everything that may be exhibited.

Keir 1911 fair and may greater success than ever attend the efforts of the Society in the 1912 Exhibition.

CHAPTER III.

The Prince's Terms Refused—The Blackmailer at Work.

John Smith, having just finished breakfast, was smoking with blue pencil the paper that lay before him, but he looked up as a knock came at the door. His housekeeper entered, with a doubtful expression on her face.

"Prince Rani Singra, sir," she announced.

John Smith licked off another item in the paper, and nodded.

"I will see him," he said.

A few seconds later the Indian stepped into the room. He was dressed in European clothes, save for his turban, and his face was of a muddy color. Behind him followed his two attendants.

"I am glad you have come so early," John Smith said coolly. "I feared that I might have to wait a long time for you."

A startled expression came into the Indian's eyes.

"You expected me?"

"After our conversation last night—yes," John Smith assured him.

The two attendants would have followed their master into the room, but John Smith motioned them back, and closed the door upon them.

Prince Rani Singra evidently wished to appear at his ease, but his efforts were not crowned with any great success.

"It is about that affair last night," he said quickly. "I do not wish the matter to be further pressed further, for the sake of Sir John Hansard. I admit that there was foul play, but I forgive the man who did it."

"I wonder if he forgives you for running Willoughby to shoot himself?" John Smith said, musingly.

The Indian gave vent to a cheking cry, and his eyes were wild with fright.

"I don't know a Willoughby," he managed to gasp.

But John Smith shook his head reproachfully, much as one does at a child.

"Why lie about it?" he asked, and a sudden gleam of anger came into his eyes.

He thrust the newspaper towards the Indian, and pointed at a certain part that he had marked.

"Read it!" he ordered. "It is your work again."

This was the paragraph:

"It is rumored that a certain young man well known in society is shortly to go aboard the Mauretania, and the recent heavy financial losses. It is not revealing a secret to say that only a few weeks ago he entertained a distinguished Indian prince who is now on a visit to this country."

Mechanically Prince Rani Singra passed his eyes over the type, and slowly his expression changed. An evil grin curled his lips, and a defiant look was in his eyes.

"And if it be?" he sneered. "Suppose he is going abroad because of something I know?"

John Smith answered nothing, but on his face was the expression that one sees when one has a card and was ready to make up. Possibly the Indian was right, for his manner changed.

"I will—everything," he said, coaxingly. "I tell you that because of my powers I am wishing a great fortune from these foolish men. Sir John Hansard will tell their secrets. But"—he bent towards John Smith—"I have money enough for you to do nothing."

John Smith did not move, though he could guess what the answer was.

"Very soon," the Indian went on eagerly, "I shall bring my money here. Then I will have all that I require. Nothing can stop them, but your interference—and you make my work more difficult."

"I will pay well for you to leave us alone, though I need pay nothing. For one of them all will be against me."

John Smith rose slowly from his chair, and his eyes were like points of steel.

"Out of here—before I kick you out," he thundered.

The Hindoo sprang was his attitude that the prince started back and snatched a revolver from the bosom of his coat. He aimed as well as he could in spite of the trouble, for John Smith was too quick for him, and before the weapon was discharged the Indian's wrist came down on the bone and his weapon fell to the floor.

John Smith flung the door open, and his arms were round the Indian, and he fairly flung him out to the passage.

The man scrambled to his feet and made a bolt for the door where his attendants were waiting. With his hand on the handle he paused and looked back, and his dark face was terribly evil to regard.

"You will be sorry for this!" he cried.

"I am sorry now," John Smith answered coolly. "For seeing my hands with you."

Lady Minter's pretty drawing room was more crowded than usual, and for the excellent reason that it was known that Prince Rani Singra had honored her by consenting to stay at her house. The Berkeley Square incident had already travelled widely, and it is more than a little probable that more than one man or woman stood beneath in the cold hope that there had been murder. Naturally, the story had taken many forms, the version reading from an attack by one of his own attendants, down to

THAT LITTLE PAIN

IN THE BACK

Is May Not Be Very Sick, but it is a Sure Indication of Weakened Kidneys

You pay little attention even if you don't suspect in the right quarter—you put it to make daily use medicine or to protect your family.

What about that little pain in your back? It's your kidneys calling for health assistance—warning you that old age will not be comfortable—that Rheumatism or Backache will afflict you ultimately.

If you think you are strong and can afford to neglect it, and that you will be all right by and by, or, perhaps you are, and if you are sure you are no worse off, but the kidneys have a well-established habit of repeating offence of that sort.

Why not insure your kidneys against future trouble by taking a good kidney prescription like Nyal's Extra Road Compound? That is just as reasonable as life insurance. Your freedom from well-developed kidney trouble is later practically bring your family more happiness and satisfaction than receiving a present of a million money.

Nyal's Extra Road Compound is a scientific product with a record that is unique for results.

The next—a dollar a big bottle—is trifling as an insurance against future trouble. A strong man takes a bottle of medicine, but the strong man are not as easy victims of kidney trouble as the weak ones.

If you try this remedy we know you will be pleased. Nyal Remedies are sold only before to be the best medicine values obtained.

Noted Prima Donna to sing in Tofield

Madame Sandal is a distinguished prima donna who is on a tour of Canada and who is now in Winnipeg on a most successful engagement will arrive in Tofield on October 25th or 26th, and will appear in a concert given by her under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's church on the evening of the 30th inst. She has been in the various Norwegian settlements throughout the west and has been doing energetic work in the interests of the Lutheran church in Canada.

She was commissioned informally by the King and Queen of Norway to investigate thoroughly the conditions of the Norwegians in Canada, but, she says laughingly, she is afraid by full three one-half of the time things about the great country.

Madame Marta Sandal was the protege of King Oscar and was educated by him. She was born in Christiana and when a very little girl her remarkable voice was noticed by the toucher of singing in the public school. She became one of the favorite members of a children's choir of 5,000 members, and at the age of 12 she was chosen by the conductor to sing a solo in the King Her performance so impressed his majesty that he made her his protege and for the next six years was sponsor for her musical education at the Royal Academy of Music.

From this time Marta Sandal's career was a series of meteoric successes, and within a few years she became recognized as the leading exponent of her countryman Grieg's compositions. His last great cycle of songs was produced in Christiana on a great occasion, and Marta Sandal, a very young girl, was selected to sing these songs for the first time in public. Only those unable to be present, but later he was captivated by her interpretation and immediately became her warmest friend.

The Local Option Question.

The returns is now in the public discussion of the above question. Correspondents are requested to be as brief as possible.

NOTE—The Editor does not necessarily run with the views of correspondents published under this head.

Editor Standard,

I have your recent issue of the Standard to hand and note the reply of the manager of the Queen's Hotel to a communication I transmitted to you and which you inserted. That the public may know now fully the storm centre of our controversy it might be well to say that Owen Sound is one of the Lake Ports into which the C.P.R. boats run, a thriving city of about 12,000 people. After a desperate fight Local Option carried in January, 1908. Your correspondent has evidently come into contact with life in this place as he speaks of "very intimate knowledge of the failures of law keeping."

In answer to my request he has started to prove his case against Local option. Briefly his case may be summarized as far as the proof is concerned as "Under License" Drunks, etc., 68; Breach of L. Act, 16; for three years. Under Local Option for four years:—Drunks 296; Breach of L. Act, 96 Now he would have had a splendid case if he could have stopped there, but the whole story must be told. By reference to the I.O. literature you will find one clause of the law very place. Read the further records of the police department. Almost all the illicit liquor selling has been in the hotels formerly under license. Here is the Inspector's Record—December 18th, 1907, to November 9th, 1908:

Information laid against Hotel Keepers	67
Information laid against Blind Pigs	18
Total	85
Hotel Keepers convicted	35
Blind Pig Keepers convicted	2
Total	37
Hotel Keepers sent to jail	5
Blind Pig Keepers sent to jail	1
Total	6

Statement made and signed by C. A. Fleming.

The above figures are for about eleven months. Now any boy can multiply these by four and you can see where the violations of the Liquour License Act is accounted for in the statement of your correspondent As to the number of drunks that are mentioned let me explain. Every man who is found drunk on the premises of a hotel is more or less evidence against that institution that liquor has been obtained there. So that the natural result is he "points out" on to the street where everyone can see him and the enemies of I.O. can use him as an argument against the Veto, where, in the case of a licensed law and house, the self-respecting proprietor would put the man in some back room and let him have a sleep that he might get over his debauch and very few would come into contact with the drunks.

In all this round-up all names of the prominent business men of the town. They ought to know of what they speak and in a well-ordered community, as Owen Sound claims them. So that the natural result is he "points out" on to the street where everyone can see him and the enemies of I.O. can use him as an argument against the Veto, where, in the case of a licensed law and house, the self-respecting proprietor would put the man in some back room and let him have a sleep that he might get over his debauch and very few would come into contact with the drunks.

But we will assume for argument sake, that all that is claimed true in essence. That there is much drunkenness; more violation of the Liquor Act, etc.; drug store selling are lawlessness, town full of spotters; young men hitting the bottle, perjury rife and falsehood rising, all the well-known sequels to low, grog-shop, steam, distant view, tangle-foot, wranklebegrich. The answer to the whole thing is found in this: That after three years of such a terrible state of things at the beginning of the year 1910 the people carried the city again for local option by a majority of 186. Notwithstanding the efforts of the Mayor of the town and the whole of the liquor interests to defeat it I may say the contest I know in terests of Canada was concentrated, any, 1908. The Rocking Chair

A CHEAP style of entertainment which prevails during the hot weather season is the inspection of the furniture before the windows and doors are open. Furniture dealers are always glad to see you, and if you are a married man you are pretty sure to be asked to step inside and look around. Being one of those private inspectors myself, with the full privileges of a married man, I entered one of these establishments a few days ago, and, after wandering around for a few minutes, I came to a rocking chair that looked as though it was made for me. I sat down in it, and found it was. The arrangement was such that I could rock myself to sleep, or I could sit up straight and read a book. The seat was broad enough for me to cross my legs comfortably, and the arms were just the right height for me to rest my elbows on. The back was high enough to support my head, and the whole chair was so constructed that I could get the greatest amount of comfort out of it with the least exertion. I knew that I was looking at the most perfect rocking chair that had ever been made, and I knew that I would have to have it. I knew that I would never be happy without it. I knew that I would rather go without a meal than to go without that chair. I knew that I would rather go without clothes than to go without that chair. I knew that I would rather go without anything than to go without that chair. I knew that I would rather go without my wife than to go without that chair.

I knew that I would rather go without my mother-in-law than to go without that chair. I knew that I would rather go without my children than to go without that chair. I knew that I would rather go without my self-respect than to go without that chair. I knew that I would rather go without my self-respect than to go without that chair. I knew that I would rather go without my self-respect than to go without that chair.

IMPERFECT KIDNEY ACTION CAUSES RHEUMATISM

Some people don't believe it yet, but it has been definitely established as a fact by expert medical authority. It's a fact, nevertheless, when you suffer from aches and pains in the back, kidneys, bladder, rheumatic twinges, dizziness, specks of gone and irregularity of the kidneys to properly filter the poisons from the blood. Of course you feel bad on this account. Nature intends you should. Backache is her way of warning you. Don't neglect backache and kidney ills. Don't make the mistake of thinking a pill or a potion will cure you. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—the kidney remedy that has cured thousands. Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers in medicine everywhere. 50 cents a box. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that cured your neighbor.

TOFIELD, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1911.

The officers and members of the Tofield Agricultural Society should have every reason to be proud of the successful second annual Exhibition and Stock Show held on the 29th of last month. Although the lateness of the harvesting season operated against the successful issue of the affair from a financial point of view, hundreds of farmers were unable to attend on account of having fields of grain standing as sitting the border, the Fair was most successful from every standpoint. The exhibits were of better quality, variety and number than in 1910. In prizes, three times the amount of 1910 was awarded, the total of this year's awards being $630.00. The business men of Tofield and the townspeople in general appreciate the value of the work in the district and have not the organization with an open hand, assisting it in every way in such a manner as has merited the hearty appreciation with which such assistance has been received.

Beaver Lake East

The recent rains have delayed stacking very much. We may say that fuller information reveals the fact that frost and must have done considerable harm to the wheat crop. It is unlikely that much of it will grade higher than No. 3 Northern and a deal of it will go below that. A good deal of barley is frosted, also some oats.

E. G. King captured considerable plunder in horse prizes at the Tofield fair. He didn't exhibit at the Vegreville fair or very likely would have repeated his success. The prizes offered at the latter show in some departments are not worth competing for. Only the desire to help the affair out prevents some of us withdrawing altogether. The ladies exhibited butter, etc. at Tofield say the judging was not up to the mark. Every suspicion of incompetency or favoritism should be killed as dead as a 'coon' or the fair will wind up.

Quite a number from this locality attended the Vegreville fair. Most of them report it the worst on record. A one-day fair in the principal remedy for deterioration. Farmers cannot afford to give two days to such an affair, especially in a busy time like the autumn. Amongst those who registered prizes were Mrs. Malcolm McCallum and Mrs. J. B. Steele. They also got some at Tofield.

Mrs. Steele won prizes for drawing at Vegreville.

The young mineola here have been distinguishing themselves this fall. Amongst those who have shot geese or wants for ducks are Malcolm J. McCallum, Hugh Steele, J. A. Stewart, J. Watson, Jas. Sinclair and Arty Mundell. In our opinion and that of many others, farmers should be allowed no close game that is eating their grain, whether the close season is over or not. A bunch of fifty or sixty prairie chickens can get away with a lot of grain.

Local Option Vote In November

Commissioners Decide that Ballot be Taken in Districts No. 2 and 3—Much Money Will be Expended by Opposing Forces

That the petition presented by the Alberta Temperance and Moral Reform League, for a vote on local option to be taken in Irvine districts Nos. 2 and 3, has been granted, and that the vote will be recorded about the middle of November on a date which has not yet been decided upon, has been announced by Dr. Strong chairman of the board of license commissioners of the province.

Between $100,000.00 and $200,000.00 will in all probability be spent in the conduct of the campaign within the next three or four weeks. The Licensed Victuallers Association, which has organized for the purpose of fighting the issue, has arranged to raise a fund for this purpose which will total little short of $150,000, is anxious to bring the vote on early in November. The Moral Reformers have asked for a vote on November 21st, and it is regarded as probable that the date will be set for some date during the second week of the month.

Large sums of money are being spent by the reformers in bringing prominent speakers into the province and in the distribution of literature bearing upon the prohibition question in the various centres.

The campaign will be directed for the reformers by Rev. W. G. W. Fortune, secretary of the provincial league. Rev. T. Albert Moore, general secretary of the Methodist and Moral Reform League of the Methodist church in Canada, Rev. D. O. McGregor, associate secretary of the Social and Moral Reform League of the Presbyterian church of the Dominion, and Rev. A. E. Cordon will canvass the two districts, visiting every nook of settled territory which they may find it possible to visit during the limited time now remaining before the day of the plebiscite.

Much Territory Will be Affected

In all eighty-one licenses will be affected by the vote to be taken next month, forty-four of these are in district No. 3, which stretches across the province from the Saskatchewan boundary to the confines of British Columbia and takes in the greater part of the settled area between Edmonton and the Calgary. Twenty-seven of the licenses are in district No. 2, which takes in a wide stretch of territory to the east and north-east of Edmonton.

There are 12,000 persons entitled to vote in district No. 3, and 4,500 in No. 2, according to a careful estimate made by the reformers and the representatives of the Licensed Victuallers Association are working together.

Almost enough to take over two thousand pounds, and then the blinds drawn in the window, and the light came into the room. "Send what you have written."

Mrs. Bowman stood up for time measuring the light died out of the man's eyes, and in the same monotonous manner looked up and passed a hand over wearily across her eyes.

"Why, I I saw nothing," she said, with a hysterical laugh.

"But you have written it down," Prince Rani Singra answered her softly, as if to some one who knew the blinds drawn in the window, the time measured across the paper.

"Sign it!" he ordered.

Just for a moment Mrs. Bowman seemed to hesitate, then the pen moved across the paper.

With a laugh of triumph the Indian Prince rose and waved his hand to the assembly, the light died out of the man's eyes, and in the same monotonous manner looked up and passed a hand

Editorial Comment

To the saner minded certain events which have taken place during the past few weeks in Tofield in connection with the proper preservation of the peace and the maintenance of law and order are a source of keen regret and disappointment that parties, who otherwise conduct themselves for the most part in an exemplary manner, should so far forget themselves as to go far out of their path to interfere in matters with which they have no affair.

While the administration of the institutions under which we all live, and to the regulations of which all of us are subject, may at times be enjoined for the enforcement of that which operates to the end that we may all be made the beneficiaries of peace and good order, it does not behoove us to go out of our path with the view of interfering with the carrying out of justice, no matter what our selfish views may be. We may properly set with a view of mitigating the severity of a penalty providing that the merits of a case can be shown to be sufficient ground for such action.

There has unfortunately in times past been actions on the part of certain elements, waves of sentiment which, though prompted by a fallow feeling of individual for individual, have been mistaken policy as has been shown by the failure of these movements to produce good.

Let us profit by lessons learned. Learn to forget the mistakes made by others by which deeds may have been done which may have been the means of causing selfish pain. Pass up the mistakes of the past and lend a hand in preserving peace and good will amongst all for the future.

There has been to the knowledge of the Town of Tofield from the Victorian Order of Nurses of a grant of $2,500.00 towards the building and equipment of a hospital in Tofield. The G.T.P. Railway Company also showed that they were interested in this matter and made a substantial grant of a block of land within the townsite as a site for the proposed hospital.

It would seem that the offer of the Victorian Order of Nurses of such a substantial grant should not be definitely ignored. While it may be that in the past there may have been not many cases which would demand hospital care, it must be considered that Tofield and District is steadily becoming more populous and that with the increase of industrial activity the need of emergency attendance and care is proportionately increasing.

While this question has been given some slight attention in the past it would seem to be worthy of more consideration than has been given to it. As we understand it, a committee has long since been appointed to take this matter up, but as yet the subject appears to be in abeyance.

Facts Taken From The Census

The four western provinces ten years ago contained half a million people. To-day they contain a million and one-half.

Two thirds of the whole increase of population in the Dominion has taken place in the western provinces.

Saskatchewan leads the provinces in per centage of increase of population. Alberta takes second place.

Winnipeg is now the third largest city in the Dominion.

The three smaller provinces by the Atlantic seaboard show an decrease of population.

In all the eastern provinces the census shows a deplorable falling off of rural population against an increase in that of the cities.

At the next redistribution of constituencies for the House of Commons Canada will lose four members, New Brunswick two, Nova Scotia two, Prince Edward Island one—total nine. The western provinces will receive twenty members more than they formerly had, distributed five to each of the four provinces.

The proportion of members elected by the Eastern and Western groups of provinces will be altered in our favor by twenty-nine.

On Friday of this week, the 27th of October, the electors of the Town of Tofield are asked to vote on the bylaw to authorize a further expenditure of $4,000.00 by debenture on the town well with the view of putting it down further than one thousand feet at $6 per foot in case we do not strike anything worth while at that depth.

While it may be said by some that the municipality is incurring a large debt in connection with this municipal undertaking it should be considered that the stake is well worth playing for. While it is possible that a great flow of water might not be struck at a greater depth than 1000 feet, it is more than probable that a flow of natural gas will be struck which will be of great and lasting benefit to the town and district. That this is likely is evident from the fact that in going down 700 feet no less than four flows of gas have been tapped, each succeeding one being of greater volume and strength than the one preceding. It follows from the fact that these flows have been tapped that the fountain head of supply is lower down and if tapped will be of tremendous importance to Tofield and district.

Speaking of the wisdom of pledging the credit of a municipality Premier Sifton said at Calgary the other day, "it was a good policy for Calgary to pledge its credit to borrow money for sewers, sidewalks street railways, waterworks, so as to develop and attract people to it, to increase the producing power of the people who are in it and the new settlers who are coming into the district." This is apparently the policy of the Council and the electors of the municipality are to say on Friday whether they are behind the council in this undertaking or not.

THE PRICE OF SILENCE

—BY—

Mark Darrah

Printers Read Rogers, but much had yet to be done.

It was only too true that the blacksmith's machine darted not take notice, and it seemed likely that this man would go on making a fortune out of weak people who, inadvertently or not, had done something of which they were now ashamed.

In the darkness of sorrow, uncommon to him, Ashcroft's mind had started to pass up and down the past of his life, as they himself into a state of stupor, and then he roused himself with a start and tried to read, but the realities of life was on him and he started to pace more quickly and down.

"I'd better go out and catch in the fresh air," he muttered. "Ah, I forgot! Jack Hazzard is coming here to-day for news, and he ought to be here soon."

Knowing this, however, John Smith still could not settle down, and at last he wrote a note to Hazzard, telling him that he had gone into the neighboring park, and that he would find him under the grove of old trees, where there are seats, near the duck lake. That done, he pulled on his hat and coat and moved towards the door.

Then his fingers on the handle he hesitated, returned into the room, and took from a drawer his dead wife's beany revolver. He clicked the cylinder open to make sure that it was loaded, and dropped the weapon into his pocket.

Out of the house he went, through the quiet streets that led out into Westminster, and so along towards the park. It was a dark night, with a nasty bite of rain in the air, but John Smith did not trouble about it, though it seemed an absurd thing for him to be going out in such a night as this when he could do so much more comfortably indoors.

Policemen standing by the entrance to the park looked curiously at the man walking through the rain, but touched his helmet respectfully as he passed.

"Dirty night, sir," he said.

"Is it?" said poor John Smith answered absently.

Inside the park the rain was dripping down disconsolately from the leafless boughs of the trees, making the night more wretched than ever, but John Smith took no heed of it.

Neither did a tall, thin man, who, walking quickly, passed him, turned, followed into the park. He moved with a curiously stealthy tread that was not English.

At the duck pond John Smith made a long sort of tiny patch, stepped over the wire fence that bordered across the broken grass to where a seat stood under a clump of trees, and sat down on the edge of the lake. This particular spot was dark, for it was some distance from the path, and anyone passing along the latter would never have seen the solitary figure that seated itself on the damp wood.

Had anyone been there, they have seen the other man as he stood hidden behind a tree, and, a few feet away—the same man who had slipped so stealthily into the park.

In a dim sort of way it occurred to John Smith that he could not be perfectly safe where he was, but he was tired and he seemed to be unable to think. He tried to turn his thoughts to Prince Rani Singra, but all that he could remember was the evil face of Vashti, as he had last seen him with a knife in his hand.

Would they beat him? Would Darling & Co. fail?

Never before had John Smith allowed such an idea to enter his brain, but now it forced its way somewhere from the back of his mind, and seemed almost a certainty, try though he would to shake it off.

What was there to prevent him now? Nothing, as he had done in the hardest cases! But the only answer that would come into his brain was the face of Vashti.

Then the disgrace of a failure came to full force to John Smith, and he felt desperate. No, whatever happened, he would not live to see Darling & Co. fail. Sooner than that—

John Smith's hand was in his pocket, his fingers on the butt of the beany revolver. There was an easy way out of it all. Surely he had had successes enough, and he might as well die while his name was still honored.

Slowly he drew the weapon out, and once more examined it to make sure that it was loaded. He raised the barrel, and the cold rim touched his temple.

Possibly it was the cold touch of the steel, but John Smith dropped the weapon from its dangerous position.

"I'm a coward," he muttered, and all his doubts, all his risks of failure, possessed him, and he could not shake them off. Ay, the grinning face of Vashti might be in his brain now, but it should not!

John Smith's finger squeezed on the trigger, then a hand snatched the weapon away from him. As it fell something like a brick descended on his head, and he started in amazement at the man before him.

"What the dickens are you playing at, man?" the angry voice of Jack Hazzard demanded. "You gave me the scare of my life!"

John Smith's brain was clear enough, and he stared at the revolver that lay in the mud at his feet.

"I—I—I thought I'd be answered before I—I—" he stuttered to a halting like that of a fool.

"I had got to, that should still stronger than my own was saying me on my feet—"

There was a scratch of a foot in mud, and Jack Hazzard swung round just in time to make out a thin figure darting from among the trees. Acting on the spur of the moment, not in the least knowing why he did it, he leapt in pursuit, flinging his arms round the man before it had given a scrap of resistance.

The man struggled hard to loose himself, but Jack Hazzard was strong, and he managed to turn him round so that he could see his face. Then a cry of horror broke from him, and he called out to John Smith, who came hurrying up.

For once in his life the latter's coolness deserted him.

"Vashti!" he gasped.

"Ay, the wit that was stronger than yours," Jack Hazzard answered mockingly.

"You can't mean," John Smith began, "that he could hypnotize me into doing away—"

"I do," Jack Hazzard said with a shudder at the memory of the fiend's power over some Hindoos. "I've seen him do it before, and it seemed likely that this man would go on making a fortune out of weak people who, inadvertently or not, had done something of which they were now ashamed.

"Let me go!" cried the man, struggling in the grasp of Jack Hazzard and John Smith.

"Not something to cost this beggar a blood drive."

Letting the man partly in his grasp, Jack carried him towards the lake. Then, with a mighty heave, he flung him into the water, rolling as he went under. There was only a deep of about three feet, however, so that the man could come wading towards the bank. Dripping from head to foot, he started in rain, and with a sudden he swung around.

With a regular trip John Smith sent Jack Hazzard flying into the mud.

"What the dickens did you do that for?" he demanded sharply, as he picked himself to his feet.

John Smith nodded at the trunk of the man who was now in full flight, and was entering in.

"I am not the only one who has had his escape lucky," he said.

The figure of Vashti had already disappeared in the darkness, and John Smith and Hazzard turned towards the gate. They were silent, realizing the escapes they had had. Halfway there they met the policeman, who was advancing on a run.

"I thought I heard a cry!" he panted. "Then you have better hearing than we have," John Smith answered quietly, and passed on.

The interview later the two men entered John Smith's house, and Jack Hazzard at once began to question his friend.

"I tell you one thing, old man," he said, "I am going to stop with you until that black beast is under lock and bolt in prison or on his way back to India."

John Smith smiled, and lit a cigar with a hand that was as steady as a rock despite all that he had gone through that night.

"Listen," Hazzard answered. "The police have been looking for him by telephone, that the bones of Sir Chart r Harley have been broken in several places, and that the famous Minter diamond, the largest in the world, is missing, and nothing. When the police arrived on the scene they found that it had been taken away. They discovered that Prince Rani Singra, the disappointed lover, had been staying in the house, but also lost valuable jewels."

"The precise truth will be known not yet known, and as he is a very rich man, it is only the minutest value to the gems, which are reported to be very modest, that will stand as a loss to him. There is at present, it is stated, no clue to the identity of the thief or thieves, though Scotland Yard is hard at work on the case."

John Smith rose from his chair, and, yawning as if exhausted, said:

"I suppose that this is our chance," he said dryly.

"How?" Jack Hazzard asked in surprise.

John Smith stood his head, and the smile had left his face.

"My dear Hazzard," he answered, "when I accepted you as a partner it was a stipulation one—for the present, at least."

"But surely you can tell me what you suspect?" Jack Hazzard persisted.

"If it is that Rani Singra committed the robbery, you are wrong. He hasn't the ghost to do it."

Let the fact remains that I shall not call there this morning," John Smith asserted him.

"Then I shall," Jack Hazzard declared, "and I shall there this morning."

"I suggest nothing, my friend," John Smith interrupted. "And I will say one thing—I fancy we have our chance to lay the ghosts by the lands, anyway for a time."

Five minutes later John Smith was seated in his car, was being whirled away via West Ham, and in less than a long before he knocked at the door of Sir Charles Minter's house. A white haired man opened the door to him.

"I am a friend of the detectives, sir," he asked eagerly.

"Then you are answered.

"Then you can't come in," the footman said, positively, as if to shut the door.

"Give that card to Sir Charles," John Smith ordered.

The footman hesitated, but there was something in the manner of this quiet-faced caller that caused him to obey. He returned and presently John Smith was bidden to follow to the library.

Sir Charles Minter, a little old man, with a head far out of proportion to his body, stared curiously at his visitor.

"It is more than good of you to come, Mr. Smith," he said shakily. "I have not forgotten what you did for Lady Charlesworth when she was in Chancery. He threw his hands up distractedly. "I would not lose those stones for twice their actual value, for they have been in the family for years and years."

"The police are upstairs now, but I may as well tell you at once that they admit that there is absolutely no clue to the thief, and have given up all hope of ever getting back their property," John Smith confessed sympathetically.

"May I see Lady Minter?" he asked.

"I fear not," Sir Charles answered. "She is naturally very upset, and although the injury is severe, not of a serious nature, she is confined to her bed."

"Then I will not trouble you," John Smith said. "I am sorry to hear that Lady Minter is ill, but I am sure that she will soon be well again."

"Thank you," Sir Charles said, rising and shaking hands with his visitor. "The message you have given me is nothing to distress me."

Sir Charles was standing at his wife, but as he spoke he turned, and made an sign.

"Very well," he agreed, and went out.

John Smith stood by the window, so that he could not see the expression on Lady Minter's face as Sir Charles told her of the message.

"Lady Minter," he said quietly, "I want you to trust me. I am going to help you."

A slight limb crossed the woman's face, but she looked up, but only to drop her head again the next moment.

"They should help her," she said sadly.

"Were the jewels really stolen?" John Smith asked.

Something between a sneer and a cry of fear broke from Lady Minter, and there was a wild look in her eyes.

"And yet I saw them," she cried. "They were there on the table that last time you were in the room, and I saw the diamonds that they were to have their heart to—to—"

"Yes," John Smith said, as she paused, and he looked at her curiously.

"And that—that—" Lady Minter continued hurriedly, "I saw them there."

"That you had left at bridge room when you went to pray," John Smith said quietly, as he looked at the woman almost pityingly.

"You know!" she cried.

John Smith answered by a nod, and there was a wild look in his eyes, as if he were trying to recall to his mind some incident that had happened a long time ago.

"Then you will help me?" she asked, and put her hand on his arm.

"Because I will give Darling & Co. a chance to do that which they have undertaken," John Smith answered promptly. "If you take my advice, however, you will send everything to your husband."

"I will," the woman gasped.

"Then," John Smith answered, as he left the room.

CHAPTER XI

The Missing Jewels—The Arrest and the Trial

Detective-Inspector Blake and Jack Hazzard looked with some annoyance at the card that had been brought to them by one of his subordinates.

"John Smith," he read and his expression changed from annoyance to interest. "John Smith—why, I've heard of that name somewhere. Let me see—"

"What can I do for you, Mr. Smith?"

Running up with short stairs was a well-dressed, fair-looking man, who still showed a trace of the woman in his features. He was short and slender, and his hands were small and delicate.

"Then you will help me?" she asked, and put her hand on his arm.

"I will," the woman gasped.

A Cure for Rheumatism.—A painful and persistent form of rheumatism is caused by impurities in the blood, the result of defective action of the liver and kidneys. The blood becomes vitiated by the introduction of uric acid, which causes much pain in the limbs and in the joints. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are known to have effected many remarkable cures, and their use is strongly recommended. A trial of them will confirm anyone of their value.

Dolittle was a kind fellow the owner of the numbers at his own initial game, who had fallen overboard. What's the good of talking to him? He knows it's fatal to turn one of the pairs—also where you're at.

We are fond of the old-fashioned custom of having matched him outboard. Some of the men are in the habit of saying "Thanks" into the night.

"Are we the pair?"

"Yes, we are," replied Dolittle, "and I'm sure it is now four flat to put Dolittle."

Never mind, dad," he said, "it is not your fault that you are a fool."

"I'm afraid I haven't answered to the call of the wild," replied Dolittle, "but I'm content. It is much more satisfactory to be a domesticated animal than a wild creature when cooked. The Head and Tail of the Pair are the choicest parts, and are left for the original cats.

"Why, you young scamp, you!" said Dolittle, as the last straggler—a young man aged about twenty-five—came in. "Where have you been all this time?"

"Oh, I've been out in the rain," replied the young man, "attending the sport I love."

"What a pity you haven't taken up golf," said Dolittle, "instead of wasting your time and money on horse-racing, which is a mug's game if ever there was one."

"Mug's game!" he said, "I'll have you to know that I've made a good thing out of it this year. I've had a run of luck, and I've won in the road, clouding into the car. They are left over—to the wages time at Hamilton's—and seven miles up the Mountain Road.

Then there are a scheme to Hunk Hollow, and the players, and the front of the result know the man in the Hollow.

"Hunk obliged for the 5th sect," said Dolittle, "and I'll be glad to have a speed with the magistrate's court next week. I think you'll find it a bit of a change from the usual."

"What's the matter with the old man?" asked Dolittle's son, when the latter had gone. "Has he been drinking?"

"No, he's not," said Dolittle, "but he's a quarter for two, and I dare say he'll be all right when he comes to. He's a helping hand, too."

Dolittle's son put his hat and see his persons hastened to drop some into it. Then, after the old man had come to, he ceased, he emptied the contents of his hat into his pocket, and, after paying the returning figure of the philanthrope who had started the collection, he added: "Now, mother he won't the worse for a drink."

"Well, madam?"

"The silkworm's my husband makes won't enough."

"I'm sorry," said the doctor, "but I'm afraid I can do nothing for you."

"I sight using either recently and asked a tramp stranger as the bar tender was serving that the defendant was the approbated one of those and said:

"How to open English?"

"Mutton," replied the defendant and ran out quickly.

The Ill- continued.

"Mr. Jones, don't sometimes seem Mr. Jones speak Chinese, teach little Chinese boy and Hinkey?"

"No," said Jones, "I don't."

The Chinaman looked at her a moment and answered:

"Madam, if you are not more successful in mastering our language than you appear to have been with your son, I fear that your attempt to enlighten the Celestial Empire will be a failure."

Dolittle's son stopped the other side of the bar, and, turning to the barmaid, said: "She had been addressing a remark to me, and was working for a passage back to China."

The Very Rev. Arthur Percival Winter, D.D., Dean of Hobart, who recently completed his sixtieth year in the Church of England, was an ex-Lance chaplain to Bishop Wilberforce when he was Bishop of Oxford.

When Bishop's "thing of a pheasant" was shot, a friend was discussing it with the Bishop.

"I don't really care whether my gun-father was an ape or not," the Bishop said with rather testy irritability, "it doesn't matter to me."

"I'm sorry," replied Dr. Wilberforce, "I didn't suppose it does, but it made a lot of difference to your grandmother!"

Earl Grey's Tribute To Sir Wilfrid

Former Viceroy Tells Ex-Premier's Sincerity of Purpose

Speaking at a banquet given in his honour by the Royal Colonial Institute, London, England, Earl Grey said that the relation of Canada to the Empire was contained in Sir Wilfrid Laurier's words that the Canadian territory belonged to Canada and in greeting the Duke of Connaught on his arrival in Canada, Laurier was loud and ... the street bearing the inscription: The Empire is Our Country, Canada is Our Home."

A Bigger and Better Canada—How?

The end feature of the census returns is contained in the information that while the cities of the eastern provinces are increasing phenomenally the population of the eastern provinces as a whole is decreasing. This means that the people must be leaving the rural districts in crowds. It means, just as this paper said, that industrial cities are being built up at the expense of the small towns, as a result of the antiquated and unscientific system of the tariff, which foster ... powerful enough to even control the centres of population.

What Canada needs to do is to take down the bars and allow the overflow from the United States to fill up the vacant prairie. A vast army of foreigners come to the States every year. If the trade barriers between Canada and the States were lowered thousands of those people would come on through. Reduce the tariff and half a million farmers from the States would take up Canadian farms in a very short time.

It is inconceivable that we can be satisfied with the result, with the "well enough" about which they shouted so loudly. The whole question of a better and bigger Canada is a question of more people, and how are we to get them? The answer is easy. But doubtless there are those who are so narrow in their conceit as to still believe that we are the marvel of the world.—Calgary News-Telegram.

The funeral of the late Lloyd MacKenzie took place from the parental home, West Beaver Lake, last Thursday, to St. James the Apostle cemetery. The funeral obsequies were conducted by the Rev. C. P. Washburn, B. A., pastor of the local Church of England parish. A large number of friends attended from Tofield.

The Northwestern League of the C. M. is preparing to hold a series of products show in St. Paul. It has refused permission for Canada to occupy a space at this show and the immigration commissioner for Manitoba, J. Bruce Walker, is preparing to hold a rival show in that city at the same time.

The Annual Harvest Thanksgiving Services of the Tofield Anglican Church will be held on Sunday morning next, at 7.30 in Bellamy's Hall. The Harvest Anthem "O Lord how manifest are thy works" will be rendered by the choir Everybody will be heartily welcome

Liberal Party Must Fight the Battle of The Common People Against the Aggression of Capital—Hon. F. Oliver

Winnipeg, October 28.—Hon Frank Oliver former minister of the interior in the Dominion Government. Hon. J. A. Calder, provincial treasurer and and commissioner of railways for Saskatchewan, and Hon. Turgeon, attorney general of Saskatchewan, are in town Interviewed today Hon. Frank Oliver stated that he was on his way west to await the meeting of the House, when he will return to the capital for the session.

Discussing political affairs the former minister said that the great question of the day was that dealing with the relations of capital and labor. All the issues of earlier years were dead, and the problems which the Canadian leaders of the present moment faced were those created by the modern aggregations of capital and the formation of the vast labour unions.

The success of the Liberal party in the future would depend, he said, on the attitude which it took on these subjects, and the vigor with which it fought the battle of the common people against the aggression of capital.

Madame Sandal Pleases Large Audience

Madame Martha Sendal, the noted Norwegian Soprano, gave a most delightful recital last Monday evening in Bellamy's Opera to as pleased an audience as has ever congregated at Tofield. Coming almost an absolute stranger to Tofield she left it in triumph. Right from the beginning of her program she had won her way into the hearts of her hearers. For purity of tone and quality of voice she possessed a marked degree. Notwithstanding the fact that she sang in Norwegian, French and German as well as English, the former songs which were not literally understood by a large portion of the audience, the rendering of each was of such character that showed the great degree of development she has in the training of the voice for concert purposes. One slight disappointment expressed by some who attended was that there were not more numbers in English upon the program. This is accounted for by the fact that Madame Sendal is only learning the English language and on her return next year on a tour of Canada will have mastered this to such an extent as will enable her to render songs in this tongue in as masterful a manner as she does in the other modern languages.

New Provincial License Inspector Appointed.

P. B. Anderson and a number of others from Bardo went to Edmonton last Monday morning to attend the Thanksgiving Dance on that day by the Norwegian Lutherans of the Capital.

A Successful Shoot

Messrs. Emery, Bissett and Venner spent Thanksgiving on a very enjoyable and successful chicken shooting expedition to the W. C. Hillman farm at Rose Creek, Mr. Emery informs the Standard that Mr. Hillman stated to them that he took no exception to shooting parties going out to his premises through the week, but he certainly did so to those who made a practice of doing so on Sundays. As chicken shooting is now over for this year it is doubtful that Mr. Hillman's good nature will be further infringed upon in this respect.

MANY OLD FOLKS WOULD FEEL YOUNG AGAIN

If They Paid Attention to Their Kidneys

Because you may have passed your prime is no reason why your life should be filled with fretfulness, and you a burden to yourself and family.

Your kidneys are a bit tired—that's all.

You perhaps have had to forego the pleasure of afternoon or evening parties and middle age, and your kidneys are to blame.

While there is no chance of making them over again, you can effect a wonderful improvement by taking Nyal's Stone Root Compound regularly.

It is the best prescription for the purpose—ask your own family druggist—he will tell you it stimulates the action of the kidneys—helps them to filter impurities and dumped matter from the blood, and removes that painful irritation of the bladder.

Try it to-day.

If you don't find your sleep improving, your nerves will get into better shape, and cheerfulness will take the place of nervousness.

Don't be impatient, keep on taking Nyal's Stone Root Compound, and you'll soon be romping around with your grandchildren.

Nyal's Stone Root Compound has proven a great benefit to old age.

It's no "patent" medicine, but just such a prescription as your doctor might write.

This remedy is one we are proud to recommend. It is always our best interest to secure best value for our customers.

The Horseman

It idbout double the greatest mile ever negotiated by a trotter was made at Uhlan, 1,567a (mile track), when the old time pacer, Horseman, by Walter, stepped a mile recently over the hi torle half mile track at Goshen, N. Y., in 2.02¾, by the official timers, beating the two sets of the Dunne, 2.04¼ and 2.05¼, made at Allentown, Pa., by 2¾ seconds. It is generally conceded that there is a difference of at least five seconds between a mile track and a half mile track and a first class mile track, as the half mile track is considered the fastest. Uhlan's mile at Goshen was equal to 2.04¼ for a half mile track, and places the fastest in the history. Horseman was 1.58½, made by Lou Dillon behind a wind shield. The mile at Goshen does not stand for much today, to the mile of Uhlan for the reason that it is regarded as the world's record for pacers, made on a half mile track. Describing the wonderful mile, "Ivy Leaf," in the Chicago Horseman says:

"By 3 pm Tanner was ready and the runner warmed up on the back stretch. Having the track to himself he worked with his packs belonged in a basket or box or her. He good blankly into the dis tance for a few time and then inquired softly: 'W e where are the r r r running packs?'

Three times he neared alone, and short scenes they were too. Then with a wire-really there as some here, but the two gill capped and jogged back to the start- and Tanner nabbed for the word and watches clicked as hundreds of hobbies snapped into action their tiny pieces.

"Out wide and in the very centre of the stretch Uhlan settled down to it and reached the eighth in 16 seconds, 15 2-5 seconds, 31 seconds, three quarters, and he stepped the first quarter in 31, a 2.05 clip with the runner trailing. The half was 1.01, which was a 2.02 clip, a shade faster he "d." Kids flashed it a sheer rest up, for a great mile surely was being trotted, and but a break could spoil a record. Uhlan and Uhlan himself may better it. I could get the third quarter in 30 seconds he was 1.32, leaving ample leeway to lower the 1910 mark of 2.03¼. The runner closed on the back stretch and Tanner called to his horse to come inside on the stretch driving for the wire. Uhlan responded like a thor oughbred and finished a mighty fine mile, a real one to one member of his audience who had come from the ends of the country, you understand. When Uhlan finished Tanner knew how new her record was, and while ago, what's more.

Of course, all the fathers were terrified at the idea of driving actually a mile and made its way to the assembly room of the Fairgrounds' But when it it was safely caught they flocked to the track where it was being exhibited, and willingly put their threepences for the privilege of seeing it.

"A Man Eating Shark," I read the announcement outside a dingy looking show in Piccadilly, including a couple of gaudily painted pictures on the grass for the best part of an hour, and eyed the lazy master" in awed expectation.

"Hey, there!" remarked one at last, to the attendant went by. "Whom's the man coming on?"

"What man?" asked the attendant. "Why, the man who's going to eat the shark!"

"There isn't none," retorted the attendant.

"Then what do you mean," exclaim ed the y ked, angrily, "by sticking up a sign to say that you have a man eating shark, eh? 'cause along, Bill! I thought it was a swindle!"

* * *

"Well," said the artist The entire flood his eyeglass and stationed the easel in front of the scene as if, then he went away from it, then walked from the south west corner, then travelled from the northeast corner, then tried it from the middle of the road.

"Good!" he said, finally. "Distinct improvement. Now you're getting a real story. I've ever seen." Perhaps you're right."

TOFIELD, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2 1911.

Editorial Comment

Bylaw No. 61 last Friday received the unanimous vote of approval of the electors voting. There was not a dissenting voice by vote. The voice was disappointingly small, but this was perhaps accounted for by the fact that a number of citizens were absent from town, some in the Capital and others in the country.

The vote goes to show that the spirit of progress still actuates the citizens of Tofield and that it is their policy to make Tofield the leading town, outside of the cities, on the C.T.P. If we are as careful of the disbursements as we have been willing that disbursements should be made which will be used for the permanent improvements of the town, then indeed we will have nothing to regret. It should always be our policy to get the most value possible for every dollar thus spent.

o o o

Wainwright and other towns are having a siege of typhoid. The public should be well enough aware of the cause of typhoid. As yet Tofield has been comparatively free of this disease. That we have been free, so far, should not cause us to be any less careful in the observance of our health regulations. It is only by the close attention to all the rules regarding public and private sanitary conditions that we can be free of epidemic.

The fact that other centres of population are suffering from an epidemic of typhoid or other diseases should open our eyes to the very apparent necessity of a local hospital where cases of these kinds may be attended to by careful and skilled nurses. It were the sheerest folly to wait until the horse be stolen before locking the door. Too often these public utilities are left too long before being provided.

o o o

Word comes from every source throughout the west that a large portion of the West is in a bad way for a sufficient supply of fuel for the coming winter. The people of Tofield and district have every reason to congratulate themselves that they have cast in their lots in this part of the West. Tofield coal is abundant and reasonably cheap. Tofield people never need lack an abundant supply of that which keeps them warm. Tofield mines are not subject to strikes. The coal here is not mined by shafts. It is simply quarried out of the ground by common labor.

o o o

The fact that there is no provincial legislation yet enacted which provides for the procedure, cost, etc., of other than government drains and ditches is one which should receive the serious consideration of many rural and urban municipalities. The present government act is inadequate in providing for drainage schemes such as that which Tofield and the Local Improvement Districts adjacent are interested. There are many of these cases throughout the province. Some endeavor should be made towards having such legislation enacted at the forthcoming session of the Legislature at the Capital.

A Practical Farmer in Charge

The Agricultural journals of the Dominion have repeatedly expressed their view that the Federal Department of Agriculture should have as its ministerial head a practical farmer. The Canadian Farm in referring to the change in the personnel of those held responsible for the various departments of public service owing to Mr. Borden being called as prime minister, gave it as its opinion that any other procedure would be resented by the agricultural community, says the B. C. British Columbian. Continuing, it says, "In Mr. Burrell, member for Yale-Cariboo, as Minister of Agriculture the choice has been most cordially approved by the British Columbia press and should prove acceptable to the agricultural interests of the Dominion. He is a practical agriculturalist and moreover is an authority on fruitgrowing, an industry whose development means so much to the permanent prosperity of that province. In other departments of agriculture, he will undoubtedly be found showing sympathy and intelligent interest and will demonstrate the executive ability to carry the many projects his chief outlined when in opposition for the encouragement of this basic industry.

THE PRICE OF SILENCE

By Mark Darran

The inspector waited patiently for some time after he had finished speaking before he ventured to break the silence.

It was noticeable that I thought of doing for you, John," he remarked, at length, "provided that you consent to act in the way I suggest."

Inspector Blakeland looked indignant, and pulled himself together.

"I can't promise to ... ," he said "but, ... I will do so."

John Smith ... hair in front of his head as ... and looked ... when he was ... "Then we will say ... time," he remarked. "I ... saved a lot of time over ... Master Jewel case."

"You are sure of this?" he cried. "It would not do to make a mistake. How can you prove it?"

"That is ... I do not wish to explain," ... replied, "It is natural that I ... wish to search the rooms ... it is equally natural that you ... with a search warrant. And I can assure you that he ... in you will find ... missing jewels—the imitation ones."

"Imitation ones?" ... detective gasped in amazement.

"Precisely," John ... explained, "In the excitement of ... discovery it was not noticed ... and had been taken. Fortunately it was the wrong one."

Inspector Blakeland ... his face looked questioningly into John Smith's face.

"How did you come to take the case up?" he inquired.

"I have not taken it up, my friend," John Smith answered. "It was after the prince on a ... charge—blackmail—and I shall be only too pleased to see him out of the way for a time."

Actually, John Smith ... afraid that Prince Rani Singra ... was a very ... the part that Lady ... had played, but yet he could ... in knowing that it would make his sentence heavier.

"Well, the jewels are the things for me to see to," Inspector Blakeland said. "Shall I take any men with me?"

Fall Treatment for Cut Worms

As cutworms have done serious damage in many parts of Alberta, particularly throughout the southern portion of the province, during the past season, it is important that preventive measures be now adopted, as far as is possible, so as to lessen the outbreak of these insects in 1912.

The moths which develop from cutworms appear about two weeks after the injury ceases, that is, in most years during July or early August. On emerging they soon lay the eggs from which the cutworms come. Some kinds of cutworm eggs hatch in the late summer others do not hatch until spring. These clusters of eggs are laid on weeds or other succulent vegetation which may be nearby, or upon the remnants of crops. In order, therefore, to destroy as many as possible of these unhatched eggs or the young hibernating cutworms it is necessary to plough deeply all fields where these insects have been troublesome this year. Such ploughing not only destroys many of the eggs and the young cutworms but also numbers of other insects which hibernate beneath fallen plants, refuse, etc. In gardens all remnants of crops or other refuse should be carefully gathered up and destroyed by burning. Fall ploughing should always be practised where circumstances will permit. On account of the copious rains which have recently fallen throughout Southern Alberta, fall ploughing, this autumn especially, is rendered possible and I would therefore strongly urge all farmers to plough as much of their land as is possible before the approach of winter. By such ploughing the eggs of cutworms are buried and thus destroyed, or the earthen cells containing the young caterpillars are disturbed and broken and the cutworms exposed to severe weather which is fatal to them. Not only will fall ploughing destroy large numbers of these insects, but the land of course will be put in much better condition for early spring sowing.

On the first appearance of cutworms in the spring a free use of poisoned bran will avert much damage. Half a pound of Paris green is sufficient to poison fifty pounds of bran. The latter should first be moistened slightly with sweetened water and the Paris green then dusted in gently and the bran stirred so that practically every particle will be poisoned. For field use this mixture can be spread by means of a wheel seeder, and should be put out in early evening, as under normal conditions cutworms only feed at night. In gardens the mixture may be spread by hand, near the plants to be protected.

(Signed)
C. Gordon Hewitt.

A Serious Accident

Leslie Lincoln met with a serious misfortune last Friday in which he narrowly escaped with his life. While drawing a loaded shot gun, muzzle towards him, out of the wagon in which he had been riding the weapon exploded, the charge passing between the biceps of his right arm and his body and tearing a large hole in the fleshy part of the arm The victim of the accident was near Mr. Chas. Plant's and aid was quickly secured there and the sufferer brought to town where Dr. Tofield attended to the wound. Lincoln is doing as well as can be expected.

The prowess of Oliver Letourneau as a huntsman was loudly proclaimed, he having been the lucky man to drag down a fine two hundred pound buck at 200 yards. A single shot turned the trick, a signal tribute to him of the eagle eye. For several days this week the deer was on view in Charlesworth & Lee's meat shop where many drop and in to admire the fine animal. Amongst the bunch that went out to Charlesworth and Lee's Ranch at Blackfoot Lake on the hunt were, Wm. Lee D. Barr, D. Lee, O. Letourneau and Bro Smith and others.

Would Buy Farm Machinery Direct

Calgary, Nov. 3.—E. J. Fream, secretary of the United Farmers of Alberta, left last night for manufacturing centres in Illinois and it is said that his mission has to do with an effort to bring farm machinery direct for members of the U. F. A. It is hoped if arrangements can be made to buy wholesale and save the farmer the machinery at a price which will not include mid dleman's profits. Those approached on the matter refuse to talk but it is true that a deputation will go to Ottawa and if it works out as hoped the venture will have considerable effect on the implement prices in the near future. The farmer would get machinery at factory prices plus freight and duty. The money paid for implements spent would be saved and that it is claimed would total a tidy amount. Until Mr. Fream returns it is impossible to get details as other officials say is only man with authority to speak for publication.

Coun. Ferguson objected to paying Hammond's bill as the bottles in which was contained the acid were not the ones ordered and were of no use to the brigade. Hammond had been instructed to this effect and had agreed to change them.

Coun. McCauley said he thought the mayor's bill should be laid over until the council received a report on the Mahaffy case.

The mayor said that he was acquainted with the witness stand that he had heard nothing but what was in favor of the town that he knew nothing about the Mahaffy case and that his trip to Edmonton in connection with the matter had nothing, so far as he was concerned, to do with the case. He had obtained legal opinion that his expenses should be borne by the town.

Coun. Emery said that if the mayor had gone up to the city as representative of the town the town should pay it.

Coun. Reed stated that he would not oppose the passing of any legitimate bill, but that he thought that in passing this account of the mayor's the council might be committing itself in connection with the laying of the costs, if any, in connection with the Mahaffy case. He thought the mayor might hold the account over until the report on the case could be brought in.

Mayor Letourneau objected to this and said that this account would have nothing to do with any expenses in connection with the case mentioned.

The vote was then taken. The part of Mr. Hammond's bill relating to the acid was held over and all the remainder of the accounts passed together. The motion carried, Councillors Ferguson, Emery and Story in favor and Councillors McCauley asking to have their votes recorded as being opposed.

Bylaw No. 62 appointing R. Nicholson secretary treasurer of the municipality was then presented for the third reading. The mayor pressed for a contract for a definite time to be made with the Secretary pointing out that the experience with the past secretaries was such that it was now necessary. Coun. Reed dealt with the matter by unanimously passing the third reading of the bylaw and the mayor asked that his [illegible]

Editorial Comment

The close of the municipal year is approaching and with it the annual municipal elections. As usual there are three vacancies falling open in the council. Those members going out of office are Messrs. Story, McCauley and Ferguson. The mayor's chair also becomes vacant every year. As yet three does not seem to be many candidates showing up for election. The public, however, are showing signs of interest and it is likely that the elections this year will be of more general interest than these of former occasions.

Our Municipal Affairs

That the Public should take more interest in the doings of the council from year to year is quite natural. That any council should make mistakes in carrying out certain policies is just as natural. This is current history in the councils of the best municipalities in the land. It is not to be supposed that our councils should have been other than ordinary in this respect. That body is itself not wholly to be blamed for this. It cannot be supposed that we will secure the best of local government in the initial stages of our municipal history. As the years pass the most qualified amongst our citizens will be brought to the front and placed in positions of trust.

The public should, as they do learn eventually, that it is they who are responsible for the manner in which their business is transacted. It is up to them to see that the best men possible are selected to manage their affairs. If they do not do so, the blame should not lie at the door of the men who are put into office. This principle applies at all times. By saying so the Standard does not critize the present council in any way. It leaves the ratepayers to form their own opinion on that score. The record of achievements of our past and present councils is already before us.

The Provincial Bye-Elections

In the four provincial bye-elections in the south last week the conservatives won out in each case with strong majorities. This alters the government's position by eight votes, these constituencies being formerly Liberal. The A. & G. W. matter was perhaps the chief subject in discussion before the electors and it doubtless was the chief factor in the turn down of the government. In a large portion of the public mind the A. & G. W. affair superficially is a cause of much disgust while the straight matter of the principle involved does not appear to weigh much. It is the outcome of the Sifton legislation anent the Great Waterways deal during the past eight months which has caused so much dissatisfaction. The finding of Justice Stewart, which, while being in favor of the province, is reported to say in effect that the monies will in all probability be tied up for ten years possibly before the final decision is given in the highest court, will not add to the popularity of the Sifton regime, no matter how proper its course may have been.

Still Room for the Fool Killer

The gun accident the other day appears to have been history repeating itself. The oft repeated excuse of "didn't know it was loaded" does not mitigate the suffering, of the hapless victim, nor does the oft repeated warning of experienced men "not to draw a rifle or shot gun toward oneself" appear to be effective. Only too often these lessons are impressed upon us by the more or less fatal accidents which happen around us from careless observance of the rules of common

A First Impression of Kingma.

Those who live in or near Kingman, know that it is a real settlement, and that it is going on the right way to develop into an important prairie town; but to those who live in the large towns of Alberta or other provinces of Canada, Kingman seems a myth of a place, at least that was how it appeared to me before I arrived in Kingman, for it mattered not, who I asked for Kingman, I was certain to be met with open eyes, and an expression which seemed to say, "are you in your right senses, or have you made a mistake as to the name of the place." It was with a very relieved feeling that I found I was able to book from Calgary to Kingman, for that was really the first proof I had that Kingman was not a phantom city. Now I know it is a real town, as I have lived just outside it for four days; but I can understand the reason for so few people knowing of its existance as it is one of those prairie towns which has, as it were sprung up in a night, this fact is only proof of its capability of future expansion and from what I have observed, together with information I have gained, feel sure it will develop very rapidly when it is known a little more.

Editorial Comment

The conservative party in the province is getting busy throughout the province in a campaign of arousing a live interest in the provincial issue of the day. In their meeting last Monday evening O. Bush of Strathcona and F. A. Morrison of Vegreville in vigorous speeches pointed out the policy of the conservative party with relation to Political Issues of the Day the matters which today are effecting the future welfare of the province and which no doubt, are matters of interest to every elector. They take the stand that the Liberals are committed to the principle of retention of our natural resources, having never rescinded a resolution passed in convention at Calgary some years ago, and that a voice of the people must be heard at the polls before the handing over of our natural resources could be thought of.

The conservative policy anent the A. & G. W. seems to be that the railway to the north should be built without delay. That instead of the province appropriating the monies to other uses, Clarkes should have been settled with on a reasonable basis, and the building of the road proceeded with as a government enterprise. While conservative speakers in criticism of the government's doing re the railway in question and their statements as to what the government should have done, are specific in their remarks, it should be up to them to state specifically what the conservative party would do in connection with this A. & G. W. road if they were returned to power. That is a point on which the public should be enlightened. It is all very well to say what the government should have done, but what will they do if they are allowed the chance. The independent public should be informed.

Hon. W. T. White, minister of finance has publicly stated that the Hudson's Bay Railway will not only be built but will be operated by the government. This will be a most satisfactory announcement to Western farmers.

o o o

The cold wave of the past week extended all over the North American continent, to the gulf and to the Atlantic seabord. Blizzards occured in the North Western States and storms on the Great Lakes. Many people were frozen to death.

o o o

King George and Queen Mary have sailed for India, on a journey which has no parallel in history of the British Throne. For the first time a reigning Emperor of India is going there to be crowned and receive acclamations of his subjects.

o o o

The insurgent Chinese in the great Civil war now raging in that country have so far worsted the government that they have proclaimed a Republic and are asking the powers for recognition. The Manchus have perpetrated huge massacres during the past ten days, hundreds of thousands having been wantonly slain.

Partizens in Office

Political partizanship should not debar any man from honorable employment in the service of the state, of which he is competent to discharge the duties. But there is a great difference between men whose political services have so commended them to position they are qualified to fill, and men who are given positions irrespective of their merits because of their political service.

In Canada the Doctrine that to the victors belong the spoils has never been removed with the same simple and obvious brutality where with it has been applied elsewhere. If a man has done his duty completely and with experience, why should he be displaced because he is a Liberal and an office is established? In the ordinary run of It would be out of place to mitigate a threat against the [illegible] Standard—Phone No. 21.

Threshing Delayed

Owing to the intensely cold snap of the past ten days threshing operations have been greatly hampered. In the vicinity of Tofield north Strathcona is sixty per cent completed while north and east the great majority of the farmers are awaiting the coming of the threshers. The lateness of the season combined with the early freeze up has prohibited the farmers from getting much fall plowing done and the tardiness of the threshing is making marketing of crops very late, in fact very little of this season's crop has yet been marketed.

Coal is Still Demand

The Tofield coal mines which have been unable to keep pace with the demand are being inundated with orders for coal and are busy night and day getting out great quantities of coal for transportation to all towns east, west and south. Tofield coal is finding a ready market not only along the C. T. P. east, west and south but orders are being filled for Edmonton and points along the C. N. R. east and many places on the G. and E. As Tofield coal is not mined in the usual way, but by hole, literally quarried out of the ground. The mines here are not subject to strikes such as in those places where the coal is forced deep down and has to be reached by shafts. Consequently labor supplies all the needed help to take out the coal. As the Tofield Coal Co. Ltd. and the Dobe Coal Co. Ltd's mines the same line from the C. T. P. branch is laid right into the mines along side of the bench of coal and the coal is loaded direct from the deposit into the cars all the earth and dirt having first been removed from the surface of the coal by means of powerful steam driven machinery. There is in sight many millions of tons of coal within a few miles of Tofield.

INSULATING MACHINE

[illegible] Completing the Coil Returns

The Dominion Government is taking [illegible] statistics which were [illegible] the last will was in Montreal [illegible] and many [illegible] machine [illegible] was used only once before and [illegible] by the United States after one week. Chas. W. Eggins is the inventor of the machine, and when it was shown that the machine absolutely handled the surplus of the last American census the Canadian Government by right pounced upon the patentee the use of the patent in Canada. The Government then decided to have their, of the machines built and within a year in view Dr. Blue and Mr. O'Leary are appointed a member of the [illegible] cities in Canada and each of the [illegible] Joseph P. Chott, of Montreal, was appointed Chief Inspector of the machines. Mr. Chott immediately set to work, and by the aid of a few suggestions of Chamberlain, the patentee, Mr. [illegible] engineer, Mr. E. A. Bowman carried the work through. The contention to be tabulated was first entered on punch cards by means of perforations, and the tabulator then compiled all the information from the cards as they go through the machine at the rate of two hundred per minute. The census cards are seven inches long by three inches wide, and are fed into the machine by an automatic feeder. When the machine is adjusted for the [illegible] information the cards are fed over a cylinder, and through the perforations in the cards mercury cups [illegible] electrical contacts, and by means of the cards through four [illegible] the information may be tabulated. By making other adjustments the [illegible] information by perforations [illegible] be tabulated. The saving of the census requires the most accurate workmanship, and it is for this reason that the price is so high as $2,000. Mr. Chott has made the machines themselves with the exception of the motors, [illegible] which were built in the Electrical room of the Department of Agriculture after the census work is completed.

BURIED AT SUNSET

Band Played Sacred Music as Mrs. Mathieu was Placed to Grave

One of the strangest funerals ever held in Toronto was when, without a minister, Mrs. William Mathieu, of Rolina woman, was buried in Mount Hope as the sun was setting. In making funeral arrangements will A. W. A. Mick, undertaker, on account of some old superstition or family lair, Mr. Mathieu requested that no minister should be in attendance at the funeral. He also stated that his wife and his wife should be buried on the sun was sinking. At a cost of $30 a band was secured, and as the [illegible] was placed in the grave the band played sacred music, and headed in the way along the streets. As they [illegible] from the grave the band ceased, but the melody in the stillness of the approaching night as the casket was lowered.

CANADIAN CHEESE

British Merchants and Public Like Its Quality

Canadian cheese is commanding at markets by its excellence in the British markets, according to Mr. C. G. Fish ley, of Kings on, Chief Dairy Instructor for Eastern Ontario, who has returned from a visit in the U. K. country. He saw cheese in London from other countries, and found that the best Canadian product is meeting with a very favorable reception in the English market. The merchants are expressed pleased with its high quality. From present appearances Mr. Publow thinks that [illegible] cheese in 1912 will be about the same as this year, as that good prices will be received for the fall make of Canadian cheese.

THEY PRAISE CANADA

The Editors of Ohio Have Had Their Eyes Opened

Ohio editors have been visiting western Canada. At Congressman John J. Lentz, said:—

"You are getting all our best farm land. You have a good climate for corn, and we never get them back again.

"From what I have already seen I am prepared to state that the people have underestimated rather than overestimated the opportunities.

W. W. Allens, editor of the Standard, Stayton, Oregon, believes:—

"There is no question about it. Canada is wonderful. From Winnipeg and Port Arthur, which I had pictured as little ports on the lakes, simply took my breath away with their size and busy activity."

Mrs. C. C. Day, historian of the Daughters of the American Revolution:

"I feel that this Canadian trip will prove one of the most interesting that I have ever taken. No matter where I go I see the [illegible] of the [illegible] of the wonders of Canada."

E. W. Parmenter, of The Lima Leader:

"You have the best of immigration officials a country could have. They are scared through Ohio picking the flower of our stock of farmers, and those fortunate enough to [illegible] get a look at what Canada offers them."

A Good Roads Movement in B.C.

New Westminster B. C. Nov. 9—The Good Road convention held in this city on November 2 and 3 was the most important step [illegible] taken in connection with the [illegible] Canada, [illegible] formation of the Canadian Good Roads Association and has formed the subject being to secure the building of a first class road from Halifax, N.S. to Alberni B.C. and also to assist in the extension of the Pacific Highway, which now runs from Tia Juana, Mexico to Vancouver, B.C., the plan being eventually make Dawson the northern terminus of this road.

Over a hundred delegates from all parts of Canada and the American Pacific coast were in attendance, including some of the most important advocates of good roads in this continent.

Hon. Thomas Taylor minister of public works for British Columbia, in the course of a speech replete with facts figures bearing on road improvement and extension, made the important announcement that Federal assistance toward the construction of main roads in British Columbia was assured. On behalf of the provincial government he promised a vigorous pursuance of the Fraser Hoods policy with which its name had been associated.

The following were elected officers of the Canadian Highway Association: Hon. President, Hon. Thomas Taylor; President, W. J. Kerr, [illegible] minister; Vice-presidents for B. C. Coast district, A. J. McCaskill, Vancouver Board of Trade; [illegible] Easter, Vancouver Auto Club; A. E. White, Westminster; [illegible] Vancouver Auto Club; F. J. Armstrong, Westminster; [illegible] Clubs Reeve F. Bowser, Coun. Grver; L. E. Marmot, Coquitlam; A. E. Todd, Victoria Automobile; Reeve Nicholson, Saanich; W. Edgett Rowe, Vancouver. Vice-Presidents will be appointed by all middle [illegible] which affiliate with the Canadian Highway Association: Treasurer, T. H. Baxter, Vancouver; Secretary, F. W. Lees, Westminster.

Membership dues were fixed at two dollars per annum, provision being made in the bylaws for a rate of one dollar per member for automobile clubs, board of trade and like bodies, no association being called upon to pay more than $500 in dues in any one year.

Resolutions calling for support towards the building of a Canadian highway were forwarded to Hon. W. H. Alberni, B. C., Hazelton, B. C., and Dawson Yukon territory. Other resolutions calling for Federal assistance were sent to Ottawa, while similar resolutions praying for provincial assistance were telegraphed to Victoria. A request that the provincial government set a standard of road building in British Columbia, and that no grants be paid for work failing below that standard, met with unanimous support. Another in portand resolution was to the effect that the provincial road engineer road building experts of engineers, these to be at the disposal of municipalities and districts having no resident engineers. A course of lectures on Good Roads is suggested in another resolution.

Mrs. A. E. Todd, of Victoria, was elected honorary member of the Canadian Highway Association. Inasmuch as credit for the success of the formation of the Canadian Highway Association is due to A. J. Todd, of Victoria, and W. J. Kerr, of Westminster, who was re-elected their work by being given the first presidency of this ambitious organization.

Alberta Exhibit Draws Attention

Display of Vegetables From Edmonton District Attract Nue York Crowds

There was nothing on display at Madison Square Garden longer during the American Land and Irrigation Exposition, when practically every big farming district of the United States and many in Canada were represented which could overshadow the display from the Central Alberta Development league according to a letter just received by Secretary F. T. Fisher of the Edmonton board of trade from J. L. Potts, who was in charge of the exhibit. This is saying a good deal, considering the fact that the exhibit was gotten together in a hurry and late in the season. How ever it was very creditable as an illustration of what can be raised here, according to Mr Fisher.

The exposition lasted from November 3rd to 9th inclusive. Mr Port writes that the Alberta display was the center of attraction for a considerable crowd, the turnips and potatoes receiving special praise.

Part of the exhibit has been in New York for two weeks, but the three crates of vegetables referred to in the letter were received just in time. Among those who kindly supplied the vegetables for the exhibit were F. H. Hevler, of St. Albans, D. W. Warner, Knowles Brothers, J. H. Cadogan of Gordon Ledge, and Walter Sprole.

The exhibit has now been taken to Chicago where it will be on display at the United States Land and Irrigation Exposition in the Coliseum building from Nov. 18 to Dec. 8 inclusive.

Secretary Fisher is not yet decided what will be done with the exhibit after that, but it probably will be sent to St. Paul from Chicago.

Insurance Investigation

Premier Sifton was waited upon Monday afternoon by a deputation of members of insurance underwriters in the city with a view to the enactment, if possible, of a certain insurance company doing business in the city. The formation of an insurance department by the provincial government is desired by many of the insurance men of the city and it is understood that a suggestion of this nature was made to the premier. STOP THAT COUGH—BEFORE IT STOPS YOU

The whole fight against the white plague is based upon increasing the defensive resistance of your body against the inroads of disease. If your tissues are healthy and your vitality up to the normal, you need not fear consumption. But if you are losing flesh, permitting a low degree of inflammation to exist unchecked, and a distinct danger signal.

Bronchitis does not always lead to lung trouble, but it is the most common forerunner. That persistent, irritating bronchial cough refuses to heavy rye in spite of cough syrups and usual throat treatment. Perhaps you don't realize that the neglected cough has developed into chronic bronchitis and the best cough syrup or throat lozenge can't help much. Your trouble has got deeper and the inflammation has reached a stage where from that membrane to the lungs is only a step, and, taking your temperature and pulse you can't afford to risk that.

Don't be foolish and delay, thinking a change of weather will bring improvement. Get rid of the whole trouble at once by taking Nyal's Cod Liver Compound. It contains no oil, but it does contain every particle of medicinal value without the objectionable grease.

Nyal's Cod Liver Compound is a great tissue builder. It quickly reaches the throat trouble, heals the inflammation, and then your lungs need have no fear from cough.

This remedy is one we are proud to recommend. It is always our best interest to assure best value for our customers.

Whips Are Selected

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 15—John Stanfield chief Conservative whip announced tonight that A. B. Copeland, M. P., had been chosen assistant chief whip. The other whips have not yet been selected, but W. D. Staples, it is expected, will succeed Dr. Beattie as eastern whip. Claude McDonnell, Hon Sir Wm and W. S. Middleboro will likely be chosen again as Ontario whips. Dr. Pauzette will be offered the position of whip of Quebec.

The announcement of the reorganization of the international waterways commission is expected very shortly. The action of the Dominion government will have to be confirmed by the imperial government, and there will be no official news until then. The new commissioners, it is understood, will be Charles A. McGrath, ex-M. P. for Melisse Hon. C. Cross Cregrain of Montreal, and H. A. Powell, ex-M. P. for St. John. Mr. McGrath will likely be chairman. He is recognized as one of the best posted men in the Dominion on waterways and his appointment could not be improved.

Government Offers Aid

Edmonton Alta. Nov. 15—In order to relieve the coal shortage situation in the city in so far as lies within their power, the Provincial Government has undertaken to use only Crow's Nest Pass coal in this city and Strathcona, and in all provincial public building north Pounka. Twenty car loads of this coal have been delivered to the government.

While the government's action may appear to affect the situation to the extent of a drop in the bucket when the total consumption of the city is considered, still if other large consumers of coal undertook to use the Crow's Nest Pass coal a very decided effect would be had on the shortage.

The situation is believed to have reached a point where action by the city council and city officials to adopt some measures looking to relief must be taken.

VOLUME V — TOFIELD ALBERTA, THURSDAY NOVEMBER 30, 1911 — NO 14

1912 Announcement

We will sell for cash until spring opens.

We will sell for 30 days to approved customers.

If any approved customer is unable to pay in 30 days we wish a note in accordance with usual banking customs.

We have extended thousands of credits beyond its proper limit during 1910 and 1911 on account of crop conditions, without using our customers paper at the bank, and it has thrown us open to an attack by any firm to whom we owe money; and their accounts, if correct, must be paid on demand.

The banks are now showing a better spirit toward the farmer in the way of accommodations, and if we can be of any assistance we will be pleased to do so. We have faith in Tofield and Tofield district and in the spring we have plans for further extensions and improvements for our customers convenience, for which end in view we will be collecting accounts until then, paying up wholesalers and disposing of properties which are using up capital.

To our mind the all cash system, as followed by most of the department stores, may be the best paying for the store, but the country still needs accomodation from the merchants at intervals.

We expect to deal only with reliable people and when they need assistance next spring we will be able to give it.

We truly appreciate the splendid patronage given us by our customers since coming to Tofield five years ago, and confidently expect a continuance of the same.

MAYORALTY CANDIDATES

A. J. H. McCauley who has announced his candidature in the contest for the mayoralty of 1912.

Mr. McCauley is a well known citizen of Tofield and is a careful and painstaking business man. He was for a few years secretary-treasurer of the municipality, conducting the duties in connection with that office in a model manner. For the year just passing he has been one of the six councillors who has in touch with all the various branches of the civic business.

By the publication of the above portrait etc. of Mr. McCauley, the Standard does not necessarily endorse, as a publication his candidature. Efforts have been made to secure a portrait of the present mayor J. O. Letourneau, who has also announced that he is in the field for re-election to the mayor's chair. As yet the Standard has not been able to secure his portrait so that a cut could be made from it

Mr. Letourneau has been mayor of the town since its incorporation two years agoand therefore it has been under his regime the all the civic business and developement has been conducted. He has taken an active interest in every branch of the civic business and his policy is to see that the town well is pushed down to 1200 or 1500 feet if necessary. Were it not for this matter which he wishes to see completed he says he would not wish to occupy the presiding office any longer.

"Do you want him to be ill?" she asked sympathetically.

"Yes," he replied.

She picked her fowl away.

He ate and he listened.

"I'm a bit of a specialist," he said, and he came to his feet, and finished the meal.

The saddest young man had wanted to propose to the girl, but for the life of him he did not know how to go about it.

He read books on the subject, and sought information from men who had experience, and while the latter were not admirable, in every instance he found that the positive interest was a distinct aid.

He was walking with her one evening, thinking over these things, when the time became settled.

His stock was her pretty little foot with a smile, looked down at it, and he did so he soon and tied the bow.

When William S. Travers was in the chemistries of the New York Central Railroad, Jay Gould was trying to get West in opposition, and his management of that system involved the question of an intimate knowledge of what was going on in the Central's vital chamber. And so Cornelius Vanderbilt was, naturally enough, invited, and one day, after expressing how helpless he found himself to get on his rival, he turned to Travers with the query: "Well, Billy, how can we get some facts about Gould?" "Why, that's easy," was the reply. "Just you go to Gould and tell him you want to get a pass to Chicago." "Pass!" exclaimed the Commodore. "Pass! Why, I don't want a pass. I'm not one of the 10 Men You Can't Control."

In a rural district of Perthshire a young gleeman once went to a dance on a Saturday night. In vain he reached his best for some interesting subject that could excite up an subject at all suitable for the occasion—not even the weather or the latest murder, and for two long hours he sat in silent despair. Then the girl's patience was equally silent; she, no doubt, re-membered the warning of the old Scotch song, "Men mean be the first to speak, but the last to leave." At last, with his own despair. At last, suddenly remembering that there's a feather on your apron!" he said. "Where did you get it?" "Oh, I found it," replied Jenny! "For I've been out with a gleeman!"

What a chaste! The tourist groaned savagely as he hurried to the station. Rain, rain, rain—from morn till midnight, and he must soon till night! There was no avoid-ing it.

At the station he had a hasty bite and a drink, and entered the train, which was filled with well-clothed individuals and one unclothed unbroken. He was the latter.

But he managed to doze, and when he awoke the train was standing in a station. Eagerly he looked out of one of the windows.

"Is it still raining, parson?" he asked.

The official addressed put his hand out to catch the falling drops.

"No, it ain't, sir," he answered, after a moment's consideration, "but I expect it'll be raining water."

Walt Tess of Tu Can Sit declared that of stealing a mule, but a Tiger, who brought him in "not guilty." The disgusted ex-sportsman left the jury-box and the judge, voicing the general opinion said:

"Gentlemen of the jury, you have certainly done well. You have rendered the evidence, and now if you can not give us a verdict in accordance with right and justice.

Unrefined, the jury retired a second time. They were not about ten minutes this time before they returned with a verdict.

"And now, gentlemen, your verdict sir?"

"Guilty," said the foreman.

A sigh of relief went over from the crowded court, and the judge remark ed:

"Correct! We hanged him two hours ago."

"Robert, dear," said the coy little maiden, "I wish you would tell me what you have me. But give me some proof of it, darling. How can I be sure of such a weak you have?"

"Well, what do you want me to do?" said he, with a grieved air.

"Why, now we are alone, I will be safe in the hands, and then I'll marry you."

About two men the later she confided my ideas to me the other day, and said:

"Robert, dear, have you saved up that thousand yet?"

"Why, no, I have," he replied, "not all of it."

"How much have you saved, dar-ling?"

Just about two!

"Oh, well," said the sweet young thing, "I guess I'll have to wait a little longer, darling. I don't want to marry a man who has to work for a living."

"In which case you may wager," he said, "it is the one with the well-filled purse."

Editorial Comment

The provincial legislature meets to-day. Speculation is rife as to the outcome of this session. The lawsuit over the A. & G. W. affair is still pending with every indication that it will extend over a period running into years. Four bye-elections held recently have resulted in the return of opposition representatives. There has been and evidently is still a division in the ranks of the government side of the house. That the opposition will take advantage of this condition and force the House to a division on a motion of lack of confidence in the government seems to be the general opinion. What will be the outcome of this action will be awaited with interest by the province.

The Standard is in receipt of many expressions of appreciation for its stand last week on behalf of the children. It is only right that they should be protected against themselves. It cannot but be foreseen that some accident may occur some day when less expected if teamsters and other drivers have to steer their way along Main Street amidst crowds of irresponsible youngsters who are allowed to roam at will on that part of the streets which is supposed to be for vehicular traffic only.

The Children On the Public Streets

Monday next, December 4th, is nomination day for candidates for Mayor, three Councillors and three school trustees. With reference to the council particularly, while the Standard does not presume to dictate to any man how he should vote, we would strongly emphasize the necessity of each ratepayer exercising his franchise. We need strong men in Council. We need business men there. We need men who are public spirited enough to give such attention to the town's affairs as is necessary for the public good. We need men there who have an eye to the general good and who will act in a way other than with an eye to their own welfare. We need men there also who are beyond placing placing sentiment before business. So far as the public is concerned, it is a matter of hard cash which they are putting up year by year care, of which needs to be exercised in its expenditure. Too many municipalities are plunged headlong into debt in the first years of their life unnecessarily and from the bondage of which it requires many more years from which to clear themselves.

We Want Good Men in Council

Italian aeroplanes are reported to have been found effective for dropping shells into a Turkish encampment. This is the first time during the course of fighting that the flying machine has justified the forecasts as to its usefulness as a fighting machine, though aviators have been with the army of invasion from the first landing and have rendered valuable service as scouts.

A New Mountain World

As further particulars are received from the exploration party under Mr. A. O. Wheeler, Director of the Alpine Club, regarding their recent expedition over the Grand Trunk Pacific railway through the Canadian Rocky Mountains it is known that the new Transcontinental Railway will be able to offer to its patrons the finest scenery of any of the transcontinental railways in America.

In the last report received the territory in the vicinity of the head waters of the Athabasca and Whirlpool rivers is touched upon and are, Mr. Wheeler states, opening up a field for exploration and research, mountaineering and camping that is absolutely new and of which practically nothing is known. This group of mountains is magnificent. It rises approximately to 12,000 feet above the sea level, and shows contour of the wildest and boldest possible forms. Immense snowfields and huge glaciers are everywhere. Boldest and most inaccessible rise the blank precipices of Mount Goldie, the central point of the group. Again to the south are an endless array of peaks, towers and pyramids, domes, needles and ramparts in bewildering confusion.

An attempt was made to identify the much talked of giants, Columbia Bryce, Lyall, Forbes, etc., but in the chaotic whole it could not be done with any certainty.

Albert Charles, the 16 months old child of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris of Amisk Creek died last Thursday of dropsy. Interment was made on Friday afternoon in Tofield cemetery.

Enlarging Equipment

The Grand Trunk Railway System have placed an order for fifty first class sleeping and twenty five standard baggage cars.

The coaches are the standard equipment, 70' 6" long mounted on six wheel trucks. The inside finish is of mahogany with green relief ceilings. The very latest improvements are installed in them and as they are models of comfort, durability and [illegible] the [illegible] old coaches are being replaced by green plush and the latest [illegible] in green leather. The [illegible] seating capacity of the cars is 60 [illegible]. The cars are heated by steam lighted with Pintsch Gas, and are equipped with high [illegible] lighting, air-brake, and all the latest appliances for safety.

The baggage cars are 60 feet 1½ inches long, with a floor 10 feet 2 inches wide. They are 60 feet 6 inches inside. There are four doors on each car opening in the clear 6 feet 2 feet 2½ inches. The equipment will placed in service on different divisions of the system as soon as delivery is made.

Manitoba Successful

Winnipeg, Nov. 28.—Premier Roblin returned today from the east where he has conferred with Premier Borden regarding the extension of Manitoba boundaries. He said that the Provincial Government had got all they wanted—the inserting of Manitoba as a boundary of absolute equality with the Sister Provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The most important concession he says we want now is better on. In letting Premier Borden's policy then when the other two provinces are being given consideration on their subsidies for their natural resources. Manitoba shall be considered on exactly the same footing. That is certainly as much as his Government could expect, added the premier.

He had nothing to say on the report from Toronto that Ontario is to get access to a port on Hudson Bay through friendly arrangements with Manitoba.

MALE CULINARY EXPERTS

Establishment in Montreal of a Young Cooking School for Men

An invasion of women's rights entire part of the male sex is now imminent in Montreal as a result of the establishment of a novel cooking school exclusively for men, the first of its kind in that city. In it they will be initiated into all sorts of culinary mysteries which heretofore have been deemed only to women, and no man need go to date will be able to make biscuits which will far excel the best that father ever made and rival the famous mother product. Incidentally they will learn to cook meats, make pastry, manufacture a pie or prepare any other dish which may be desired. The establishment of this unique school is not, however, an effort to educate husbands for suffragettes who can care for the household while the wife is engaged in politics or bossing. The idea is merely to indoctrinate the sovereign independence of the male, who at present cannot even to bring the ruler of many households. The founders of the school believe that as soon as a realization is borne in upon the fact that a thread is loose on the part of the cook does not mean that the family will be left in dire straits, a fairer relation will be established all around. Incidentally, a course in the new school does not mean that the pupil will be taught how to do all of the cooking the time his family is in the members or in the immediate future. If the idea develops, as it is hoped, it is expected that summer courses of cooperation will be maintained and the so-called servant problem solved, at least in part.

THEY PRAISE CANADA

The Editors of Ohio Have Had Their Eyes Opened

Ohio editors have been visiting Western Canada. Ex-Congressman John J. Lentz, said:—

"You are getting all our best farmers out here to look over your country, and we never get them back any more.

"From what I have already seen I am prepared to state that the reports have been entirely underestimated the opportunities."

W. W. Atterbury, editor of The Piqua Star, of Franklin, Indiana:—

"There is no question about it. Canada is wonderful. Fort William and Port Arthur, which I had pictured as little ports on the lakes, simply took my breath away with their size and busy attitude."

Mrs. C. C. Dey, historian of the Buckeye Association:—

"I feel that this Canadian trip will prove one of the most interesting that I have ever taken. No matter where I go down through the middle States I shall speak a good word for Canada and her attitude."

R. W. Parmenter, of The Lima Ad vertiser:—

"You have the best of immigration methods at present. Our people here are around through Ohio picking the flower of our citizenship for Canada. These farmers never return, once they get a look at what Canada offers them."

BEES HAD POSSESSION

A swarm of bees, supposed to belong to the apiary of Mr. Hall, Oshawa, attacked a grocery store owned by Geo. Hopper in the centre of the city, a couple of miles from the farm, and caused considerable excitement. Children were stung and business had to be suspended while the bees sampled everything stored in the place. Rev. G. Watt Kerby, pastor of the Congregational Church, who himself has apiarist, succeeded in luring the visitors into a large box, solving the problem for the storekeeper

TABULATING MACHINE

Unique Device for Compiling the Census Returns

The Dominion Government is tabulating the census statistics which were taken in June last with use of the inventor of the tabulator, and when it was shown that the machine satisfactorily handled the statistics of the last American census the Canadian Government brought outright from the patentee the use of the patent in Canada. The Government then decided to have three of the machines built for the census of 1911, and Mr. O'Halloran, inspector of machines in different states in Canada and called for tenders. Joseph P. Case, of 160 Macdonell avenue, Toronto was awarded the contract. Mr. Case immediately set to work, and by the aid of a few suggestions at different times from the patentee has mechanical engineer M. R. A. Kragg, has carried the work through. The statistics to be tabulated are first entered on census cards by means of perforations, and the tabulator then collects all this information from the cards as they go through the machine at the rate of two hundred per minute. The census cards are then taken long by three Jackson wits, and are fed into the machine by an automatic feeder. The machine is adjusted for the particular information which is to be gathered at the time envelope, as the cards go through the machine they are brought in contact with a series of mercury cups of the same thickness as the cards and above the series are the feed and sorter the proper chute. When the card is in the proper chute a series of fingers on an endless chain carries it from the station being fed to that which are about seven inches apart and are fourteen different compartments and by running the cards through for each time the information is gathered is tabulated. By making other adjustments the machine is adapted to a different performance may be tabulated. The making of the machines required the most accurate workmanship and it is said that the cost of the machines throughout will be about $1,000 each. After the census work is completed the machines will be used in the Patent Office, Ottawa, Toronto and other cities.

BURIED AT SUNSET

Band Played Sacred Music as Mrs. Marlatt Was Placed in Grave

One of the strangest funerals ever held in Toronto was when, without a minister, Mrs. William Marlatt, of Salina woman, was buried in Mount Hope at the same hour that the Rev. Dowling funeral arrangements will be held. Mrs. Miles, undertaker, got in touch with the superintendent of cemetery Saturday, May 20, and arranged to be buried at 6 o'clock. It happened that a band should be in attendance at the funeral of Mrs. Marlatt's husband as the son was stationed at the Exhibition camp. The funeral left as the Dead March in Saul was being rendered, the band preceding and wended its way along the streets. At Mount Pleasant cemetery the band in solemn melody broke the stillness of the approaching night as the casket was lowered.

CANADIAN CHEESE

British Merchants and Public Like Its Quality

Canadian cheese is commanding attention by its excellence in the British markets, according to Mr. G. G. Publow, of Kingston, Chief Dairy Instructor for Eastern Ontario, who has returned from a visit to the old country. He saw cheese in London from other countries, and found that the best Canadian product is essential with a very favorable comparison in the British market. The merchants are commonly pleased with its high quality. From present appearances Mr. Publow thinks that there is going to be a big export this year, so that good prices will be received for the fall make of Canadian cheese.

To Erect Mountain Hotels

The Grand Trunk Pacific station recently known as Fiddle Creek, but now that of Hinsdale has also been changed to Minette Hot Springs. It will be in this locality that the first of the Grand Trunk Pacific mountain hotels will be erected, and it is within seven or eight miles of the Minette Hot Springs that are situated just beyond the famous Roche Miette Mountain which looms up to the west of this station.

The whole of the territory in the vicinity of the Miette Hot Springs tation will, without doubt, become one of the greatest resorts in America for the ever increasing tourist traffic with the mountains as an objective point, as everything that goes to make up an ideal mountain resort is found in this locality.

The Miette Hot Springs will become famous the world over as the efficacy of the waters of these springs for medical purposes become more generally known, and as they are without comparison. There are four springs with temperatures as follows: 111, 116, 122, and 127 degrees.

The coal strike in South Alberta is settled and the miners have returned to work.

A Norwegian bark was driven ashore and wrecked on the 11th in terrible gale and blinding snowstorm in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The captain and 11 sailors were drowned.

Two Renegades

In the Outo City of the south the sound of revelry by night were unusually loud and I stood in the open doorway to watch the gay flags of the great ships in the bull of the harbor.

I was a young man and lonely, for I had just arrived from a long voyage, and I stood in the open doorway, for, as Shumway named Jacks, who is right there in the line and time turns, I was still there to translate the sentiment. I was standing there with a long cheroot in my mouth, smoking the cozy kind of cheroot you can buy for a penny apiece, and I was looking out at the lights of the ships in the harbor and listening to the sounds of revelry by night.

I tingled a little with excitement, for I had already had one wild night ashore and had stumbled drunk and disheveled into the dawn. I had been robbed, of course, for the sailor who is not robbed in a seaport town is not considered to have been ashore at all, and I was in the mood to be robbed again. I was in the mood to be anything that offered, for I was young and lonely and had just come from the sea.

Behind me in the room I could hear the voices of the proprietor and his wife and daughter, and I could hear the clink of glasses as they served their customers. Occasionally I could hear the voice of a customer raised in song or in the raucous laughter of a bout of drinking. Then I would turn my head and look back into the room and see the proprietor behind the bar, his wife and daughter serving drinks to the men who sat at the tables.

Most of the men were sailors, for the place was a sailors' resort, and I was interested in them, for I had been a sailor myself for many years and I knew their ways and their talk. Some of them were drinking and singing, some were playing dominoes, and some were playing cards. Some were quarreling drunkenly, and some were telling stories. Some were telling stories that were true and some were telling stories that were not true, but all were telling stories, for that is the way of sailors.

I was interested in them, but I was not interested enough to go back into the room and join them. I was content to stand in the doorway and look at the lights of the ships in the harbor and listen to the sounds of revelry by night.

Then I heard a voice that I knew, and I turned my head and looked into the room. I looked at the table at which the voice had been raised in song, and I saw that the man who had been singing was Jack Dillon, whom I had known in Sydney and Melbourne and Auckland and Honolulu and Yokohama and Hongkong and Manila and Singapore and Colombo and Aden and Suez and Port Said and Marseilles and Gibraltar and Liverpool and Glasgow and Belfast and Cape Town and Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro and Valparaiso and Callao and Panama and San Francisco and Vancouver and Victoria and Seattle and Portland and Astoria

The ice at the curling rink is almost ready for the beginning of the season's fun. In anticipation of some huge sport this winter the ranks of the curlers have been largely augmented. With another couple of cold nights the rink will be in condition for the opening game of the first schedule. The curlers have no other leading thought as they go around these days than the opening of the season which hourly grows nearer

Lumber Waste For Pulp

For the purpose of manufacturing the four hundred and seventy-five thousand tons of wood pulp produced in Canada in 1910 nothing was used except logs of various species which are timber supply deficient or becoming valuable for lumber and other uses. No slabs or other sawmill waste was report ed as being converted into wood pulp, by neglecting which practice Canada is losing greatly. During 1908 in the United States six per cent of the total pulpwood consumption was from slabs and mill trimmings. If economy had been practised to the same extent in Canada during the year 1910, as much pulp might have been produced as from thirty-six thousand cords of wood and not a pulp log need have been cut. This would have made twenty percent more pulp than New Scotia produced in 1910.

Looking at the subject from another view point the gain might

KEEP THE CHILDREN STRONG

Even the Puny Youngster Can Be Made Well and Strong

Keep a watchful eye on the children and when they show signs of lagging in their play and do not appear like their young selves, it is time to find and remedy the trouble.

Particularly after measles, fevers and other brain troubles of childhood, it is time to help them along. Even if they seem to be getting well, tired, fretful, and they have no energy or going backward, it is the time for a good rebuilding tonic—one that will give them strength, flesh and vigor.

Children don't usually take medicine readily, but you don't have to coax them to take Nyal's Cod Liver Compound. It's pleasant to the taste and it is a delight to notice how they soon pick up roses and regain strength. There's no reason why then a healthy, playful, rosy-cheeked boy or girl completely loses by Scott's Emulsion.

You cannot get anything better to keep the little folks in strong, vigorous health than Nyal's Cod Liver Compound. It is a general tonic, sweet to build up the whole system, and as just as good for you as for the kiddies. Many a child owes its present health to this splendid tonic and they like to take it. Every fall and winter it is a good plan to give them a course of Nyal's Cod Liver Compound.

Ask us about this remedy. There's not the least secret in the formula. Let C. E. JAMIESON, Druggist, TOFIELD

That owing to the greatly increasing demand upon the Standard for advertising space, it is absolutely necessary that all changes of copy should be in the hands of our printers on Monday of each week, the earlier in the week the better. To delay the issue of the paper tends to defeat the end the advertiser has in view; to get his copy now in the hands of his customers is immediately as desirable. Shortage of Cars

The scarcity of cars is beginning to be felt in the Tofield and branch line territory. The demand is apparently much greater than the supply. The Tofield coal mines need a large number per day and at almost every point of shipment along the line farmers are calling for cars in which to make shipments of grain. Were the cars available many could be loaded in the district each day. As the shortage is growing daily the effects will become more acute.

The cause of the shortage is apparently the fact that farther east on the system all empties in that section are pressed into service to carry the grain of Manitoba and Saskatchewan to the Great Lakes and they return with coal and freight to all points in these provinces. Very few, comparatively speaking, find their way to the western section of the system so the freight consignments to points in the west are small as compared with the east. Consequently the number of empties is correspondingly fewer. As it is, empty, foreign cars of all other lines included are being pressed into service to accomodate the demand locally for cars.

Parliament High Standard

Ottawa, Nov. 28.—The debate on the address in the House on the speech from the throne it is expected will be brought to a conclusion on Tuesday evening, when a division will be reached on Sir Wilfred Laurier's amendments. There are still a number of speakers who desire to be heard, but it is believed that they will all be able to have their turn between three o'clock on Monday afternoon and midnight Tuesday. While Sir Wilfred Laurier is keeping his own counsel as to what he proposes to do next in the way of bringing up matter for discussion it is not expected that there will be any more amendments to the address.

The debate of last week has made it absolutely clear that the present House of Commons is strong unto weakness of more than ordinary ability. The large number of new Conservatives include many who can think clearly on their feet in speaking and hold the attention of even the old parliamentary wag ... While the Liberals have lost some of their finest talent as a result of the voting on September 21st, many of their best parliamentarians still remain and the new members include a few who promise to make their mark in the House.

That the new parliament is above the average in the calebre of its membership seems to be the general verdict as a result of the first week of the session.

Hotel Nearly Completed

Work on the Chateau Lanrier, the new $2,000,000 hotel contracted by the G.T.P. is progressing favorably. Nearly all the plastering of the hotel is now completed and there remains to be done only the lobby, bar and grill room ceiling. Most of the marble floors for the dining room corridor are laid, and after the work on the lobby is completed, work will be started on the marble work of the floor. Heat and light have been in the building for the last two months, and when the plaster is sufficiently dried in the various public rooms, the decorators will be able to commence the interior decoration. Some of the wood work for the big rooms is in the hotel and the erection of this is going on. The general appearance of the various rooms is beyond expectation and when completed will be of the richest effect, artistic in design, and wonderfully beautiful.

Fitzhugh Townsite Ready

The plans of the government townsite of Fitzhugh has been received from the department of the Surveyor General at Ottawa by Howard Douglas, Dominion Park Commissioner, in Jasper Park, a national reserve, the railway companies in question no property for townsite purposes. The townsites are owned by the Dominion government and lots will be leased instead of sold, the lease being for periods of forty or fifty years.

Two townsites have now been laid out on the line of the G.T. P. in the Jasper Park reserve, the townsite of Fitzhugh and the townsite of Fiddle Creek. The latter townsite is close to the lake station and has been selected by the Grand Trunk as the site for the big hotel to be built next year.

Fitzhugh townsite is laid out on a contour plan with a number of large spaces reserved for public parks.

Anti-No Tomere Decree

Toronto, Nov 28.—"Let us sit as one man against any power that seeks to invade our wholesome marriage laws, to interfere with the sacred status obtained thereunder and to breed strife and misery where holiness and happy household reign."

So closes the memorandum prepared by a committee to deal with the "No Tomere" decree, and after submission to committee of religious communities has been approved and adopted.

The memorandum, will be sent to all editors in Canada, asks. "That it be declared when such marriage status exists it can only be lawfully dissolved under a statute that may be enacted by the Dominion of Canada."

At a meeting held last Monday evening St. Alphonsus congregation decided that for the present it was inadvisable to considered the moving of the church to the Sherwin site.

Editorial Comment

General interest in and about town this week centres on the approaching municipal elections which take place next Monday. Nominations last Monday resulted in bringing out a goodly number of candidates any one of whom are good men and likely to do good work in the respective capacities of office for which they have been nominated, if elected. As the time passes and the municipality grows older the necessity of bringing our best men to the front will correspondingly grow. This is an age of great development and enterprise and events happen quickly. A spirit of activity, almost restless in its nature, pervades the atmosphere. Great need is therefore apparent of being careful and conservative in our attitude lest in our desire for much improvement we may do things which may hamper us in the negotiation of matters which may be of much greater importance to the development of the municipality later and which may crop up for serious consideration at any time

Elections Next Monday

The Standard does not presume to advise any elector how or for whom he should vote. The attitude of this paper is one of strict independence without neutrality, politically and otherwise. It is the freest-talking and independent vote which shall decide the fate of any party. It always should be so. The duty of every elector, in conscientiously acting his part, is to judge on the respective merits of the various issues of the candidates for office as the case may be, to exercise his franchise in the way which he himself feels and thinks is in the best interests of the community.

ooo

Now that the respective candidates for municipal representatives have been selected and an election is in sight, the Standard commends the following observations to their consideration. The article is part of a last week's comment of the Vegreville Observer anent municipal matters in that town, and fits closely to conditions locally:

The Candidates' Policies

"It should be handed straight to any aspirant after municipal honors that he must be prepared to come right out and state definitely what policy he will pursue if elected. We have heard enough of the hazy, flimsy promises that "I favor so-and-so, and stand for this and that" The ratepayers are now just in this position, that they dont give a hoot what any man favors or stands for they want to know what he is going to do, not what he is going to talk about.

"There is no use blinking the fact that this town is divided into at least two different camps on municipal business and it is the unfortunate truth that whatever one side proposes the other side will promptly and gleefully pick to pieces. The process is interesting but scarcely makes for progress. It is to be very much regretted that in a good town like Vegreville with its excellent opportunities for advancement, that factional strife has been with us ever since incorporation. This strife has blocked us at inception, and idiotic in its continuance.

"For that reason the Observer would favor the selection of men be municipal offices who are prepared to be aggressive; who have enough ginger in them to meet trouble more than half way; and who will not be so eternally afraid that some one is getting will get hurt."

ooo

That the early construction of the Hudson Bay Railroad is a certainty is evident from the fact that all work has been arranged by the new Ottawa government and that the Minister of Railways has said that owing to representations made to him, he considered it advisable to look into the surveys in order that there would be new surveys and a delay of some years. The farmers of the west will not rest until they see something tangible being done in the construction of this road

THE ATHABASCA COUNTRY

This 150-Page-Book Sends it at Home to all Surroundings and all Visitors.

The Athabasca is a District broad of results, and has been bred for the dairy in the country of Ayr, Scotland, for almost 150 years. Just what is her origin is veiled in some obscurity, whether the breed has been built up from the native stock of the country by careful selection and good breeding, or whether it was from visits the both of certain cattle brought to and crossed with the native stock of the county.

The good pasturage of the county of Ayr, the forces adverse from the Atlantic, the exposure in all conditions of weather, the breeding for a strong robust constitution, have all combined to produce a breed of cattle that can be transplanted to the cold of Canada, the rocks of New England, the cold, hot, wet or dry West, and the heat of the South, with no apparent discomfort. The distinctions of dairy quality. The Ayrshire cow seems at home in all climates.

The Ayrshire cow, being so admirably adapted by nature to supply milk and cream for the table, has almost always found her place in the supply stables near cities and towns and has seldom been used as a butter cow. Until the advent of the separator, there was a valid objection to the Ayrshire, on account of the very point that made her so valuable as a milk producer. The butter globules being small, the cream rises slowly and with difficulty on separation, and it took a long time for the cream to rise. Since the separator came into general use, however, all this difficulty has been done away with, for the separator extracts the cream from Ayrshire milk as quickly and as fully as from the Jersey, and it churns as readily.

INFLUENZA IN HORSES

Influenza in horses is treated according to the severity of the attack, and the nature of the outbreak. Different out-breaks manifest widely different degrees of virulence, and each of course they must be treated on the merits of the individual case before them. But the horse suffering from the attack of influenza should have the best of care and be housed in a well-ventilated and comfortable box stall, and should be clothed according to the weather. The Ayrshire cow being so admirably adapted by nature to supply milk and cream for the table, has almost always found her place in the supply stables near cities and towns and has seldom been used as a butter cow. Wire-Cut Rondeau

The probable value of lime on an old meadow depends on the physical condition of the soil, and the amount of lime locked up in the soil in unavailable forms. If the soil is a heavy clay and burned to bake, lime would have a tendency to make the soil more friable, but it is more usual soiled to plant growth. If the soil is sour, as evidenced by the growth of such plants as sheep sorrel or horse sorrel, an application of 1,000 to 1,500 lbs. of lime per acre would be decidedly beneficial. Lime also acts to a certain extent on the unavailable plant food of the soil making it available for the use of the plants, but the result of this action of lime in the long run is still greater improvement of the soil.

As a direct fertilizer, lime is of particular value for clover, in fact, clover cannot be grown successfully on a soil deficient in lime. But lime cannot take the place of the other fertilizing elements in which old meadows are usually deficient.

Prepare Roads for Winter

A little attention given the Fall roads now may save the necessity of driving over rough roads all winter. Ruts, holes and mudholes will at this time of the year eatily work into bad road that will make the road to keep bad shape for a long time.

Be sure and fill up the centre of the road and have the crown graded so that the water will run off. Do not have the centre water can stand. The road drag or split log answer can be used to advantage in filling the centre of the road. Remember the crown of the road when properly graded and where rain axial. This will not only be a big difference in the ease of hauling over the two; especially in fall and spring.

"Somewhere" for the Baby

Prof. W. A. Henry's dairy experiments go to show that the ripening of cream before churning increases the yield of butter from fifteen to twenty per cent over the yield from sweet cream. If both are churned in the same way.

Cloths are not the best things in which to put the baby to sleep. Its skin is softer and less that will come into the butter. Brushes are far better.

If every had the gift of speech, any observer they would be given. Cows are the only ones there is nothing time! And what would they not say! If they could, by way of thanks for the spraying every morning!

FARM AND FIELD

DEADLY ORCHARD BLIGHT

Pruned and Then Handled Would Stamp Out this Disease in a Few Years.

There is urgent need that fruit growers redouble their efforts to eradicate the disease variously known as apple canker, pear blight, and fire blight. In some sections of Canada whole orchards have been ruined by the depredations of this disease. In many sections of Ontario fruit men have given up trying to grow pears on account of the ravages of the canker. The disease is gain established at the base of the orchard fifty per cent. Horticulturists who have made a study of the diseases, tell us that did all fruit growers take proper precautions, the disease could be completely stamped out in a comparatively few years. All that is necessary to be noticed, they should be carefully cut out and burned. This is very easily achieved in addition to the fact that the disease would no longer be troublesome, many thousands of dollars worth of apple crops would be saved each year, and poor culture would again be profitable.

Dr. JOHN H. ROBERT,
President, International Dry Farming Congress, Colorado Springs, October 1911.

How About the Coal?

Have you decided which coal you are going to keep and which you are going to sell and ladies for best? Did you keep tab to find out which coal you were keeping and which were keeping you? Last winter, the writer, and my cows in a good time. We all know that but we also know that in the average farmer always has a promising lot of coal, and that is where the shoe pinches. Now in use the Rakosh heater, although it would also do very well for anthracite coal. The farm is not a coal mine. But there are many farmers in the country to make it pay to dig coal for their own use and local use occasional lots when in reach of the railway. The writer has had to do with the biggest coal mine in the world, and knows that the pays the best to those who dig and the milk train has a lot to do with the returns. Now, about the best kind of coal for the farmer, anyone is "Homestead" writer. She has worked a lot of year time and experience in Alabama when the fires were hot? You won't find a perfect coal to be had, the cheapest are. They try right to the dairy farmer. Now, one probably do a little effective cutting and mixing, and the result of that surplus grows food or trusted grain by turning it into wool.

Tofield Star Feeds

Many farmers think that no horse or fuel should be satisfied until it had reached the comparatively modern weight of 1,200 pounds. Horses ought to be fed to work well in practical experience. A heavy horse will be liable to freeding the fuel heavily, to fill up on it for the morning and is compelled for the sake of satisfactory work to do so during the day. There are both advantages and disadvantages to be reckoned with when establishing feeds. It brings before the public the question of the feeding ability of certain foods. It affords farmers an opportunity of knowing their stock and of knowing what feeds may have on a commercially sound basis. Many farmers have been led to feed too considerably so they grow. The best feeds for any purpose are those that are a saker for every buyer, so the breeder has an opportunity of extending the sale of their surplus seed. On the other hand, the horse does the best work, forging with heavy feeding is often a big factor in the business, and in many cases when it pays the price of a powerful tractor to bring out of the prize circle.

It is usually very desirable to add bulk feeds in a natural state.

FARM AND FIELD

GIVE THEM EXERCISE

Animal owners Should Bear in Mind All Nature's Family Requires Regular Exercise.

A farmer's young bull terrier used to look it into his head to play his master's father by the leg. The old man gave tongue, but his son evidently his hands delightedly at the supposition that his father was in earnest. He had to run but it's splendid exercise for the dog.

This case was not a model one, but he held across upon the ruling of exercise in fact there is no animal from man downwards that is not the better for exercise, and this is especially every farmer ought to keep in mind. Both the stables and the sheds in fact must have it; milch cows are the more productive with it; colts of other sire's nurtured in a dry land for sows where they will have to hustle and work it up will prove healthy and result in more solid bacon litters. And the dictum of poultry feeding will strike home to nothing which puts its head constantly laying eggs. In a word it cannot be too soon that every farmer had in his gate its share

JOHN T. BURNS
Secretary-Treasurer, International Dry Farming Congress, Colorado Springs, October 1911.

TEMPERATURE AND VENTILATION

There is an interesting story told by Mr. E. H. Grubb, a near account of his own experience regarding ventilation. In his own words he says: "I had a cow that had been badly injured by a bull. The cow was worth at least $1,000 to me. The Rakosh heater was pressing hard at me. Grubb of the Rakosh heater, although it would also do very well for anthracite coal. The farm is not a coal mine. Cure of Farm Instruments

The main instrument for taking up an implement shed, and its chief protection against the weather, is paint. A mixture above and below. A fourth ago of one to pay. Linseed oil and the thickness attack of damp in the liberal use of oil on the inner surfaces parts of the machinery. This can be applied when the implement is put away for some time, and wards off the corrosive rust which eats the strength so much of the value of the machine. If the lack of labor or money forces the owner to postpone the erection of an implement shed, a temporary protection may be had in the shape of a tool, or a waterproof canvas covering fastened over each implement.

Horse Transport by Rail

The fifty new horse cars which were recently put in service by the Canadian Pacific Railway have been constructed at the Weodstock car shops. At the Woodstock races in Toronto a number of the Southern stable were shipped by one of the cars outright. In order to get them from track to track they had to cover a large amount of railway mileage and be housed that night. Some cars were the safest and best in which to ship them. The cars are built with adaptable stalls and collapsible feed troughs and are a decided improvement on the ordinary cars used for stallions horses.

Like in the Poultry House

Systematic work is very much to real poultry house of any description of course thorough cleanliness is the first essentials, the house and pens all should be cleaned completely once a week. Dirt and droppings should be removed and the floors scrubbed with hot water and lime. This will leave you ready to spread the parasites in the house. A campaign should be started from the time the fowls are housed for the winter. The fowls should be thoroughly dusted with insect powder, and commercial preparations are recommended. Lice and mites, if present in the house, should be thoroughly sprayed with a strong insecticide.

A Des Moines man had an attack of muscular rheumatism in his shoulder. A friend advised him to go to Hot Springs. That meant an expense of $50.00 or more. He could for a quarter and cheaper way to cure it and bought it in Chamberlain's Liniment. Three days after the first application of the liniment he was well. For sale by all dealers.

Famous Governors-General of Canada

XXX

[illegible] Lord Dufferin, who was appointed to succeed Lord Lorne as Governor-General of Canada in 1872, was a man of great ability and varied experience. He had been a colonial governor, a diplomat, a soldier, and a personal campaigner for Liberal principles in the House of Commons before he succeeded Lord Lorne as Governor-General of Canada in 1872.

He was a Marquess of Dufferin and Ava, and Earl of Ulster, also Baron Clandeboye in the Irish peerage, and Baron Dufferin and Claneboye in the United Kingdom peerage. He was born in Florence, Italy, in 1826, and was educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford. He was a brilliant student, and showed his literary ability at the early age of nineteen by winning the Chancellor's prize for prose literature at Oxford. His work was particularly good in history, and he also showed a decided taste for poetry. Among the offices of honor which he held before he was appointed Governor-General of Canada were those of Lord-in-Waiting to Queen Victoria, Chief Commissioner of Inquiry into the affairs of Syria, and a personal campaigner for Liberal principles in the House of Commons before he succeeded Lord Lorne as Governor-General of Canada in 1872.

The Marquess of Dufferin and Ava, as he was then known, became Governor-General of Canada in 1872, and was succeeded by the Princess Louise, Queen Victoria's daughter. They received a splendid welcome, and it must have been a proud moment for Lord Dufferin when he received the Governor-General's insignia of office at Halifax on November 25th, 1872. He was then declared to be duly installed in his office. His work was practically of an ornamental character, but he managed to discharge the duties of his office with tact and discretion. He was a great traveller, and visited many parts of the world. He went to the Holy Land, Egypt and South Africa, and he was also a keen yachtsman. He was a very popular Governor-General of Canada, and his name is given by him on Quebec and Montreal, and he was also created a Knight Grand Cross of the Order of the Empire and of the Star of India.

The Marquess of Lorne, who succeeded Lord Dufferin as Governor-General of Canada, was born in 1845, and was by his own wish the first native-born Governor-General of Canada. He was an exceptionally faithful and devoted son of the country, and took a great interest in municipal matters, in literature, in learning, and in the fine arts. His work is not so strenuous as that of Lord Dufferin. The period is chiefly a social one, and the rank of Governor-General of Canada is not quite so important as it formerly was.

Very different was the condition of affairs when in 1867 Sumner de Chambly, who became Governor of the Province of Quebec. Born at St. Malo beside the sea, he was the son of a naval officer, and had all the sailor's daring and love of adventure. He was a sailor himself, and a soldier too, for he had fought bravely under the Duke of Wellington in the Peninsular War, and had been wounded at Waterloo. He was a man of great courage and resource, his refusal to abandon Quebec when practically fated to be a leader of men, and for thirty years he held the public setting with unfailing patience to establish the power of France in the New World, and to convert the Indian tribes to Christianity

Editorial Comment

Farmers in this and every other district should be careful this season in the matter of procuring seed for next year's sowing. The only satisfactory manner in which to purchase seed is to first ascertain the germinating power. Test the seed.

Test The Seed

Unless this is done many innocent or careless farmers will be fooled beyond their ken purchasing practically worthless seed.

Mr. McCauley last Friday evening called the attention of the ratepayers of Tofield to the desirability of taking up the hospital proposition at an early date. The Standard is pleased that this matter has been broached from the public platform and trusts that the proposition will receive a hearty response from the ratepayers so that early in the coming year the question will be taken up with vigilance and pushed through until this necessity is supplied.

The Proposed Hospital

To the humanely minded it was a heartrending sight one day last week to see a poor victim of a leg fracture being carried to the depot upon a common dray wagon, the only thing beneath him to relieve the jar being the spring of a common cot lying upon the flat of the dray. With the vastly augmented population in and around Tofield with the probability of accidents occurring on any of the lines of railway running out from Tofield, the mines operating in its vicinity etc. the possibility of accident and illness is greatly increased over the past. There are many in this district earning their livelihood far from home and virtually amongst strangers. Many homes could meet the expense of skilled nursing only through great privation as regards the purse. It is but just and in the cause of humanity that this crying need should be met in a spirit of common sense and discretion and facilities provided which are demanded when necessity arises. The G. T. P. has donated the site to the municipality. The Victorian order of nurses offers a cash grant of $2500 under certain conditions. The corporations operating the railways and mines could be gotten to contribute and surely all these with the generous public and the municipality itself could readily co-operate and bring this matter to a successful issue.

The Election

The municipal election for the ensuing year is now over and the personnel of the council selected. To Mayor Letourneau, who is returned to his old seat, the fact of his re-election is a matter of congratulation to himself and he should spur himself on in a greater endeavor to champion the interests of the town. This election is not without its lesson in so far as the mayoralty is concerned. The fact that out of a total of 98 votes cast in the contest, his opponent polled the handsome aggregate of 45 is very significant. The swing of five votes would have given his opponent a winning majority.

The significance of the vote is very apparent. Had the manner in which the business of the past year was done, been entirely satisfactory to the ratepayers, the majority of the winning candidate would have been much greater. The strong vote of his opponent shows this and the inference to be gained is that the demand of the ratepayers is for more business-like methods to be used in 1912.

In the council the newly elected are entirely new blood. Messrs Logan Tousie and Lee are all men with interests in the town and should add weight in the counsels of our civic fathers. We look forward to 1912 in the full confidence that under the guidance of the new council the town affairs will be conducted with foresight, wisdom and dispatch.

On two public occasions recently, Councillor Story has made statements anent the good work being done by the local Board of Trade. In this issue Secretary Nicholson has an important suggestion to the farmers of the district. In this issue also appears a short article showing the results to this part of Alberta of the Central Alberta booth at the Chicago Land Show. All names thus received by the C. A. Development League come to Tofield. every inquiry reaches our Board of Trade.

The work of the board is therefore quite comprehensive. Secretary Nicholson is proving a good man on the job and is doing good work. He merits the whole hearted co-operation and endorsation of all our public spirited citizens who wish the town and district to go ahead.

Advertisers Please Note

That owing to the greatly increasing demand upon the Standard for advertising space, it is absolutely necessary that all changes of copy should be in the hands of our printers on Monday of each week, the earlier in the week the better. To delay the issue of the paper tends to defeat the end the advertiser has in view: to get his store news into the hands of his customers as immediately as possible. One advertiser can thus delay the issue and affect the interests of all o ers who have their copy in on time. Kindly observe.

McNamaras Guilty of Dynamite Outrages

McNamara Bros. pleaded guilty last week to having dynamited the Los Angeles Times building when 21 lives were lost, and the Llewellyn Iron Works. The news astounded the labor world. Unions now are calling for the severest penalties be imposed. Report now has it that the startling wrongs of the case is due to the influence of the big capitalists, Morgan, Rockefeller and others. It is explained that the influential business men of Los Angeles, realizing that under recent developments, the prosecuting defence was absolutely untenable arranged to secure their confessions and secure a less severe punishment.

"We are not after revenge," said one of the counsellors, we realize that the taking of more lives by judicial process, would not wipe out the awful stain of the Times outrage. We want to demonstrate to the labor movement that we fight fair and allow mercy when necessary."

These apples are of different varieties beautiful in their coloring, and and the flavor is in every respect up to the perfect brands grown in Ontario, entirely smiles the inferior favored fruit grown under irrigation in the more southerly regions and is practically all the Pacific Coast States. The conspicuous cause from the orchard of Mr. H. Stewart who has about 15 acres under cultivation, and they represent the first grown on the operated line of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

In the valleys of the Kitsumkalum, Lakelse and Copper Rivers with other areas along the Skeena River there should be approximately 300,000 acres of the ideal fruit lands placed under cultivation in comparatively few years, and much of this land can be procured by preemption in 160 acre lots, the only charge being one dollar per acre in addition to the residence requirements of the law. It is confidently believed that this territory will become the centre of a new and very great orchard district in British Columbia.

At Prince Rupert this summer strawberries grown along the Skeena River and in the valley of the Kitsumkalum, Lakelse and Copper Rivers came into the market for the first time in considerable quantities, and the fruit is reported as being a good sized fresh apple or a small sour apple.

There will no doubt be a class of settlers in this section of the country who are looking for and will get tremendous returns for their labor at comparatively little expense.

For years "The Gateway to the Caribou" has been Ashcroft, where freight and passenger traffic has had to be hauled by wagon and [illegible]

With the beginning of the Grand Trunk Pacific this condition will be entirely changed next spring, when the probabilities are that a 48-hour service will be operated between Tete Jaune Cache which will be the end of steel at that time, and Fort George at the junction of the line between those two points. Ashcroft will lose its normal trade with a thousand miles of territory to the eastward and possibly the same time as the supply point for British Columbia's Central interior. Freight will be carried west from Edmonton by rail to the Cache and barged down the river to Fort George. Quesnel and Soda Creek are much more cheaply than it can be waggoned from Ashcroft to Soda Creek, a distance of 167 long miles. It is a simple matter of economics.

FARM AND FIELD

Tuberculosis Is Curable

Tuberculosis is caused by a bacillus or germ, and the parts of the body usually first attacked are the intestines, liver and spleen, the intestines being taken in with food which has been contaminated by contact with the droppings of affected birds. Examination of the body after death reveals small whitish patches, called tubercles, in the liver, spleen, and on the lining of the intestines, but these may be found in other parts also.

It is not possible to treat this disease successfully, and attention should, therefore, be directed to methods of prevention. Since the hogs are usually affected, the droppings of tubercular birds are the source of infection. Birds which are ailing and which exhibit the symptoms of tuberculosis should, therefore, be destroyed. The stock remaining should be carefully examined, and healthy birds transferred to fresh quarters. The old quarters should undergo a thorough cleaning and disinfecting, and be allowed to remain unoccupied for several months.

Where a serious outbreak occurs it is safer to clear off the entire stock. Then to apply freshly-burned lime to the ground, and rear a fresh stock in a portable house on fresh ground.

The most common symptom in chickens, with the exception of a greenish yellow color. Is the later stages affected birds become very feeble and thin, the comb and wattles shrink in size and assume a dull purple in color. The mucous membranes which surround the eyes and also the mouth are also pale and there is loss of appetite.

SMALL HEN PLOCES BEST

It is pretty generally agreed that, so far as egg production is concerned, the number of hens profitably kept per head depends upon the number of hens kept. The reason is that up to a certain extent household scraps size is remarkable, running to a pail of feeding, but beyond that limit there comes the necessity of purchased feed. For instance, an amateur commences with half a dozen hens, and by careful management and the use of scraps a moderate profit, considered by this result, he resolves to double his stock, and the returns do not show such a high profit per head, because the additional hens have to be divided among a larger number of birds, and more feed has to be bought. In this way the small poultry-keeper often loses ambition to extend operations, and whatever it pays better in the long run to keep a dozen hens that give a small profit per head than half a dozen fifties one half more per head depends entirely upon the season and conditions. An economic principle is the basis of successful poultry-keeping, the fact that the largest profit usually is found to be the most profitable.

Stable Disinfectant

Corrosive sublimate is the most efficient disinfectant under ordinary conditions. It is such an intense poison that it must be used with caution in places to which stock has access, or in the dairy. A solution of one part of the drug in a thousand parts of water that comes to four gallons of water) is the standard generally used.

For gutters, drains and waste-pipes in factories, ferrous sulphate (green vitriol) and copper sulphate (blue vitriol) can be used to advantage. They are cleaned and deodorants rather than as true disinfectants. They have no odor of their own that can be used in any case in the dairy.

Sulphur can be used to advantage in the destruction of mold spores in closed rooms, but the effect of the vapors of burning sulphur on germs is relatively light unless there is an abundant supply of moisture in the air of the enclosed space, in which case sulphurous acid is formed, which is a much greater effect. To have this desired effect, sulphur would be burned at the rate of three pounds to each 1,000 thousand cubic feet of space and the room kept sealed for at least twelve hours. If sulphur is placed in a fire bottle which is set in a vessel of water, the heat of the fire will be avoided, and the heat generated by the burning sulphur will evaporate sufficient water to increase the effect of the fumes.

Hard Hitting Cow

Hard milking is due to an abnormal contraction of the sphincter muscle, regulating the stream of milk from the point of the teat. On the other hand a cow losing her secretion is due to a relaxation or an abnormal expansion of the sphincter muscle at the point of the teat.

Many a valuable, hard milking cow has been ruined by the belief that the milker has been compelled to use a milking tube, when in the main no use a milking tube if one can simply get things started.

The proper method of handling or overcoming hard milking in cows or heifers is the use of a teat plug. The teats should be washed with a germ killer solution and the teat plug dipped in the same solution, then dipped in a little healing ointment and passed up the point of the teat. The teat plug being self retaining should be permitted to remain in the teats from one milking to another. This will positively relieve hard milking in cows and heifers.

The boy's appetite is often the source of amazement. If you would have such an appetite take Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only create a healthy appetite, but strengthen the stomach and enable it to do its work naturally. For sale by all dealers.

Dominion Seed Test

While farmers in the Tofield district can congratulate themselves on this year even returns in comparison with less fortunate results in other localities, yet every district must pay the closest attention to the matter of seed grain for next year.

The greatest assurance for a 1912 crop is to sow seed that will germinate. It is a matter of great assurability as to what grain has been damaged by frost and what has not. The individual farmer cannot afford to take chances on the vitality of his seed, consequently he will welcome an opportunity to send samples to the Dominion Seed Laboratory, Armstrong block, Calgary, where the necessary tests will be made and the farmer advised as to the results. All tests will be made free of charge

In speaking on his worn, Geo. Clark, Dominion seed commissioner said that reports on tests so far showed the situation was more serious than was at first anticipated. He said the tests which the department is making would enable him to determine which districts need most attention, and would probably result in some kind of government assistance being given to the needy districts. In the case of more fortunate districts the tests would enable the farmers to get in touch with one another, so as to know where good seed in their own locality could be secured.

Dr. Hammond is moving into his new and attractive surgery on 3rd Ave. east this afternoon.

Dr. MacQueen, dentist, will be in town all day next Tuesday Dec. 19th.

Team Elect Officers

Last Monday evening, following hockey practice, the members of the Silver Seven Hockey Club held a short business meeting for the purpose of electing officers for the coming season. Harry Rogers and W. S. McConnell were selected to act as managers and R. S. Rudd was given the position of Secretary-Treasurer. The election of a captain was deferred until the personnel of the team is more certain.

The practice nights as formerly arranged were found to be inconvenient to some of the members of the team and it was decided to practice on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The management expects to open the hockey season with a game on the home rink in two or three weeks.

Estray Law

The Alberta law prescribes that the party who takes up an estray animal must immediately notify the brand reader nearest his place to come out and examine the animal and take a copy of the brands, if any, on the animal. Then an advertisement must be inserted in the nearest local paper and also in the Alberta Gazette, and until the law is complied with the holder of the estray cannot collect any fee for his trouble or feed. Prompt action must be taken, the law being very strict in this matter. The brand readers are entitled to a fee of $2.00 for each animal they examine and mileage to the amount of 10c per mile for the first ten miles. The cost for reading and the advertising is a charge against the estray animal and must be paid when the animal is claimed. The party holding the animal is responsible for all charges until it is sold or redeemed by the owner. No charges are allowed for feed between the 15th day of April and the 15th day of November. From November 15th to April 15th a fee to 15 cents per day per head is allowed for horses and cattle, dating from the day on which notice is mailed to the owner of the estray animal or to the Alberta Gazette, but not exceeding the sum of $6.00. South of the 29th township only 5c per day is allowed for feed and the total cost is limited to $3.00.

Notice to Advertisers

The Standard feels that it must emphasize upon advertisers the absolute necessity of getting copy for changes in on Monday of each week. We positively cannot guarantee insertion of change received after Monday, much, though, we would like to accommodate all concerned.

Points for Xmas Shoppers

To one and all at this time of the year comes the almost perplexing thought—what shall I get and where shall I go to get it?—in the bewildering chaos of suggestive ideas that confront one when considering the matter of Christmas giving.

While it is not to be supposed for a moment that in a young country town, such as Tofield is, that the extent and variety of Christmas goods laid out for our approval equals that of the modern city metropolis, one does not need to wander through many of Tofield's stores and notice the splendid selection of goods that has been laid in for our good, to come to the conclusion that it is not wholly necessary to go away from home to secure the opportunity of buying seasonable goods at reasonable prices.

At no time since Tofield became a centre of trade and commerce has the public had the chance of buying goods of all kinds, and particularly Christmas gifts, with that opportunity of selection from an almost endless variety and appropriateness, both in quality and price.

That the public will rise to the occasion and respond with an appreciation which will be limited only when these stocks are sadly depleted from being continually served over is the belief and confidence of the Tofield business men.

Word comes from Athabasca Landing that Mr. Alex. G. McKay, a former resident of this town had been elected to the first council of that town at the head of the poll. We are unable to say anything as what calibre of man the remainder of the council is composed of but if they are all built on the same lines as Alex. McKay, then Athabasca Landing is fortunate indeed in the composition of her first council.

Council

Council decided last Tuesday evening to offer the giving of a contract to Mr. W. Nolser to drill the well from its present depth to 1400 feet more or less, as desired by the town at $10 per foot, the town to supply the casing.

Also to offer to release Mrs. Ginter, administratrix of the Ginter estate, provided a contract be entered into with Mr. Nolser to drill the well from the present depth to the 1000 foot level of 8 inch bore the extra piece of rock drilling and the casing to the 1000 foot level to be deducted from the monies coming to the estate from drilling and casing the 940 feet.

We want you to come in and look around the store before Christmas, whether you are our customer or not. We are displaying many beautiful and useful articles this year, a much greater variety than has ever been attempted in Tofield before and everything is new and up-to-the-minute.

Council

A special meeting of the council was held last Friday afternoon to meet Mrs. Ginter for the purpose of talking over the situation caused the town well. Since the death of contractor Ginter the well has been drilled to a depth of 940 feet and the 8 inch pipe has been put down a 836 feet. Owing to friction the 8 inch pipe cannot be put down to a greater depth. Owing to circumstances in connection with the estate of the late Mr. Ginter, Mrs. Ginter is not in a position to continue the drilling, and she wished to make some compromise with the town the contract and the well town whereby the latter would take into its own control paying Mrs. Ginter a reasonable proportion of the contract price for the drilling which has been done. The matter was discussed at length and a mutually satisfactory solution arrived at, whereby the contract was taken over by the town and Mr. Nair, who has been working with Mr. Ginter since the work began up to the latter's death, and who has been in charge up to the present, was engaged at $140 per month and $125 per month should the well eventually be unsuccessful, $130 per month for two assistants, $5.00 per day per man and team, and secure lease of engines and boilers and equipment at $100 per month. It is estimated that the well may be drilled to the required depth in from two to three month's time.

Dies of Paralysis

Sunday forenoon at eleven o'clock at his home about twelve miles north of Tofield Ciprien Callinot, aged 59 years, passed away. Mr. Callinot was stricken by paralysis last March and has been gradually wasting away since that time and his demise was not unexpected.

Mr. Callinot and daughter came Tofield from Rochester, New York, last August to join his son who has lived on his homestead near Tofield for the past year. He purchased a farm in the Ross Creek district and his made his home there since that time.

Mr. Callinot is a native of France, residing there until twelve years ago when he came to America, taking up his residence in New York City. Five years later he removed to Rochester New York remaining there until he came to Tofield.

The deceased is survived by a son and daughter. He will be mourned by the many friends he has acquired since his arrival at his new home.

Rev. McColl conducted the funeral which took place from the residence Tuesday afternoon. Interment made in the Tofield cemetery.

Editorial Comment

Crime vs. Sentiment

The failure to punish serious crime adequately in the U. S. for years has caused a great re-awakening present throughout the length and breadth of the Republic. The New York Post the other day published a very striking article on the subject from which two extracts may be given.

"That the ratio is," it says, "as between the United States and England, for example, or the United States and Canada, our statistics are too imperfect to determine; but there is no question that murders are many times more numerous, in proportion to population than in either of these countries, or in any country with which ours could be prepared. But it is not in this regard only—serious as it is that the prevalence of a sentimental levity of thought in relation to criminals is productive of disastrous consequences. We don't bother indeed, about the poor devils who are being convicted and sentenced every, day without anything in their cases to give them notoriety; but no sooner does a case figure conspicuously in the newspapers than we are turned over in every conceivable way on its sentimental side, and the mentorousness of the crime is lost sight of in the 'human interest' of the criminal. The wrecker of banks is a staunch comrade and a dead game sport; the wife murderer is not half bad when you get to know him; the debauchee of city councils, and the blackmailer of outshot women, and all moral unrighteousness, is really a sterling fellow who did what he did simply as an agent of forces which he found lying around loose in the community. And in reinforcement of all these particular forms of the notion for whose sake that universal plea in the shape of an 'argumentum ad hominum' 'Can-one-be-sure-you-would-have-done-any-better if you had been in his place?'

"The most serious consequence of indulgence in this shallow sentimentality is not to be found in its immediate effects upon action in specific cases. What is most to be deplored is the weakening, which it must inevitably bring about, of profound instincts that have their root in ages of human experience—of real and effective sentiments in regard to crime, the antithesis of these mushroom sentimentalities. More than in police and juries and judges, society finds its protection from crime in the instinctive association of it with feelings of abhorrence and with the stigma of moral disgrace."

With the tendency breaking out every now and then in Canada, we cannot watch the experience of our neighbors to closely.

The Board of Trade

The old year is now rapidly growing to a close. A New Year will soon be with us. As the old year passes and the new comes in it is up to us to review the past year and get busy formulating plans for the next year's operations. In the Board of Trade we have had the misfortune to have had several secretaries. This has resulted, owing to the lack of personal interest, in a confusion in records and office work. The condition of affairs in the Board of Trade office has of late been brought into a more orderly and effective state and good work is being done. While it is impossible that the present secretary-treasurer will be able to render a satisfactory statement of the full year's work, owing to the fact that he cannot get at what was actually accomplished before his accession to office, he will be able to present a report of what is now being done and to show that the Board is an effective agency in the building up of our town and district.

It is greatly to be regretted that so much of the efforts of the Board seem to be misdirected by the decision arrived at by the management. In this the town council is partly to blame with the executive council of the Board of Trade. Over this there is no need to fret. What has been done cannot be undone and we will have to learn from past, if bitter experiences.

The new municipal council has a number of problems confronting them for solution during the coming year. The effectiveness of the old town council in carrying out the policy on which it was elected, viz: the providing of more adequate fire protection is shown in the bare hard fact that we have not one iota more of protection now than when Tofield was first incorporated a town, over two year ago. This is not the record to be desired of the new council. The Board of Trade can be of one to the council if it only would. It is first up to the citizens of the town to show more of an interest in the development of our municipality, to arouse within themselves more of a public spirit and to take a share in assisting the Council to deal with the problems which confront it.

Youngest Member of P.E.I. Cabinet

The youngest member of the new Cabinet is the Hon. Murdock Kennedy of Bradalbane. He is a son of Samuel Kennedy, Esq., one of the successful men of this Province. He was born in the year 1876. Educated in the Bradalbane school and at Commercial College, he entered upon his business career at the early age of seventeen years. In business he has been highly successful; and no one unacquainted with him can form an idea of the respect with which he is held by by the farmers of the locality he resides in on account of his honesty, industry and capacity for business. He was elected at a by-election held in the first district of Queen's County in 1900 ago, and was re-elected at the last general election,—though strongly opposed on each occasion. —Charlottetown Examiner.

Hon. Murdock Kennedy is a brother of Josh Kennedy of the firm of Hall & Kennedy, Tofield.

FARM and FIELD

BIRD IS 101% BURNED

Hoofs Danger; Loose in Affect Young Animals Rasping on Soft Ground or Snow

Enemy is a common if not general especially in young horses when first put to work in the soft ground in the fields, or deep snow in winter. In such conditions the horse can not lift his legs left and if he is drawing a load the muscles of the shoulders are liable to be strained. The question is frequently asked "Why are the muscles weak after they have been strained." Muscles do not always waste after being strained, it is only when the nerves supplying the muscle or it arises have "—" injured by the strain that wasting takes place.

In the early stages of the derangement there is some swelling and heat in the muscles, and lameness. In such a case the animal should not be moved out of the stable and the swollen part should be bathed well three times a day with the following until the swelling and lameness disappear. Mix one ounce acetate of lead with one quart of water and shake up well; after three well shakings let stand for one hour and use the first thing morning before washing of the muscles and the bandaging of this form of strength should be used stimulating the nerves that have been injured, being in a paralytic state. The stimulating treatment will also increase the flow of blood to the part and this combined action will cause the wasted muscle tissue to be developed. The best treatment for this is rubbing with three ounces of lard and rub a little on the wasted part once a week and continue it until the wasted part is filled up.

PROGRESS AT INDIAN REAR

At Indian Rear, near Saskatchewan, is located the Dominion Government Experimental Farm and the Forestry Nursery Station. An entire section of land is devoted to the work of the station farm which was established some years ago. Extensive experiments with crops have been carried on in a rational and systematic way, and the Director of Experimental Farms has benefited greatly by the results secured at this station. Variety tests with wheat, Oats and oats have given the information by which the wheat situation can be depended on for best results. Systems by which rotations are being tried, results of which will mean much to farmers generally. An eight-year stand of alfalfa has this season produced as high as seven tons per acre. The field has received no cultivation, nor any thing but a growing better each year. Several varieties of Indian corn, have been grown successfully on the farm. A silo is one of the important buildings on the grounds and is in use every year. Considerable work is being done with small fruits. The gardens are filled with every variety of vegetables and are absolutely proof of the opportunities offered in truck farming, for which always good demand for these crops in the local markets throughout the province.

An interesting experiment with apples is worthy of mention. A Siberian crab has been crossed with a standard Wealthy with very promising results, and, adds a writer, the first cross of these two varieties has increased the size of the fruit several times.

Care of Cream

The man who operates a cream separator on his farm should always take to the creamery cream, sweet and high testing cream. Sour cream is generally off in flavor. One can of poor cream is sufficient to injure the quality of a whole churn full of butter.

The first essential of good cream is cleanliness. Dairy utensils are often at fault in this respect. Frequently see milk pails and strainers that are filthy. Dust and dirt particles from the cow's udder all all. It should be remembered that all extraneous matter that gets into the milk quickly sours and gives a dirty or filth. A person should never milk with wet hands. Never blow or dispire the hands to the milk is to be condensed.

There should be a ventilating system in the barn, such that the air is always pure and sweet. Some dairymen are helping to keep this sanitary by the use of liberal amounts of lime sprinkled on the floor.

Early Feeding

Much can be said against having lambs born early, and much against the mothers for a period of eight or nine months. To a serious drain on her resources, and as a rule the lambs are not profitable. They have to be provided, with the result that the mother does not have a sufficient flow which in time to recover. The advantages to be derived from it often recommended it is generally the foal with food, not taken from the resources of the mother, and the foal gets used to being independent, instead of depending upon its mother for a food supply.

FILLING THE PORK BARREL

A hog needs all the time to make pork and should not be expected to make any money while young.

Clover and skim milk are almost indispensable in the rearing of the growing pig.

The man who can raise hogs profitably without pasture can increase his profits many fold by using pasture.

All breeds of hogs look good when taken care of, and all of them will yield good money if rightly handled.

Did you ever come across a farmer who would admit that he did not know how to feed pigs? Not the real hog feeder is rare.

If the pig is stinted in his food at any stage of its life, it can never become a perfect pork producer.

The hen's appetite is often the source of amusement. If you would have such an appetite take Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only create a healthy appetite, but strengthen the stomach and enable it to do its work naturally. For sale by all dealers.

CHAPTER XXXV.

A Mule is Knight Errant

I don't much care to tell what happened after I left that room. I was in a state of fury at the whole business, and with my teeth set I started off it was going to be a long walk to Topfield. I had breakfast—what's a bullcook? I was hungry enough, anyway, and though it gave the town anything of a black eye, I must confess that that beautiful bank had been put in favor of everlastin' bliss."

"Oh, those love affairs are terrible," a sigh of a father's pain with me all the way. I was talkin' the part of a cursed knight. They used to con me over, and I'd get all set for the fight, and then a little sweet agent would whisper in my shoulder saddles, an' I got off an' let the other fellow have it. I'm a sucker for a woman's tears."

"Ha! ha!" Wyatt was once again one of a person it kicks like a mule," he chuckled. "Say, Happy, you're a card."

Wyatt had not set pleasure trip to Topfield, for he had left the city at half past four in the morning, and it was now only eight o'clock. But he was in a merry mood, since I believe that he had a good deal to do with the escape of Miss Patty and myself from the bank, and he had every reason to be satisfied with the success of his stratagems for the best and subsequent welfare of Miss Patty.

I had set three head of horses in the corral, and I was just about to go to my room and get myself food grease when Wyatt came out of the house. "Where are you goin' to do to kill time?" he asked.

"Time?" sez I. "Well, now, I don't know. Mebbe I'll ride over to Sweet Water and get a couple o' pertrichoose to stanks southeast is cornbeef hash an' shoe strings extra a' coffee."

He chuckled up another laugh, an sez, "If you had a good job hitch would you be apt to settle?"

"Settle?" sez I. "I guess you needn't worry about that; I'm so tight wad when it comes to parting with my money that I really fish up a handful an' say, 'Here, Mr. Money, you take a rest for a while.'"

He looked at me a minute without speaking, and then he said, as though to himself, "Well, I'll be hanged!" Then he turned to me. "Say, Happy, I'm sure glad to hear you say that. I was hurt at the, 'I'll get you for this' remark you made over the 'phone, but now I feel better. I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll give you a job at a hundred and fifty per month and found."

"Yes," sez I, "if in when I'm home, sure; I've been here I can't worried none of 'em is sleep, so I may right now."

"No, I don't mean that kind," he went on. "I mean the soldiers of long ago that used to wear steel armor an' fight with lances. Are you game to be a knight errant? I believe I can get you a job as a knight errant on a three months' basis."

"Now look here, Bud," sez I, "them three dollars look mighty entirin' to me, an' I ain't no objection to reason' the matchmen, but I warn ye out on the steel armor an' the spears. If the cowpunchers ever get a notion to wear it in this country, I could do the job a heap sooner'n I could do the job a heap sooner'n I could do the job a heap sooner'n

Events Across Province

New Westminster B. C. Dec. 20—Although the Canadian Highway Association has only been in existence for one month today, the week it has accomplished in this short space of time is conclusive proof that the organization will be an important factor in the development of this country by the building of good roads.

Letters of encouragement have been received by the officers from many cities in the east, and from Hazleton, Dawson and Alberta, the terminus of the proposed Canadian Highway.

Alberni was last week visited by a travelling representative of the Canadian Highway Association, who found every business man in that town in hearty sympathy with the objects of the association. Nanaimo and Victoria have also been canvassed and each city has added considerably to the strength of the membership of this body.

W. W. Foster, Deputy Minister of Public Works, in a letter to W. J. Kerr, President of the Association, outlines the following route as the most practicable for the construction of British Columbia's portion of the Canadian Highway; Alberni to Victoria, via Nanaimo; Vancouver, Westminster, Hope, Princeton Rossland, thence to Trail, crossing the Columbia by the new bridge now in course of erection, and via Summit Creek, along the Old Dewney Trail to Creston, thence following the main Trunk Road into Alberta.

While this route cannot be considered final until all the reports from the surveyors and engineers have been submitted to the Department of Public Works, it is not likely that any important deviation will be made.

By his reference in his speech from the throne at the opening of the House of Commons on November 16, His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught put the stamp of Royal approval on the plan to construct a Canadian Highway that will stretch from coast to coast. His intimation that the Federal and Provincial Governament would work hand in hand with a view to constructing the highways of Canada has already been of great assistance to the men who are taking an active part in the work of the Canadian Highway Association, showing as it does that it only needs proper representative in order to secure at once the commencement of this great national enterprise.

COD LIVER OIL WITH THE OIL TAKEN OUT

A Triumph of Pharmaceutical and Pharmacentical Skill

Oil from the liver of the cod-fish has been used for years for Consumption, Coughs and Colds.

For a long time it has been the general opinion that the nutritious value of Cod Liver Oil was the greater, only part loathe the only drawback being the nauseous taste, fishy taste of the oil. From the first experts have been trying to find means to make it more palatable. They used to "cut" it with whisky—take it in wine—flavor it with lemon juice—anything to get away from that abominable fishy taste and smell.

Now they have done it in Emulsion form, which is nothing but the old "chemical" oil—broken up into still greasy, oily and nauseous globules.

Doctors were slow to find out that the oil was a distinct departure in the medicinal principles contained in the cod liver.

Cream oil is quite indigestible, and will, in time, put the strongest stomach out of order.

A way has now been discovered to do away with the grease and the smell, and the taste of the oil, by the removal of the liver. This is done by removing the fresh oil from the liver by a process of low pulp in the presence of ether, to get an extract like beef extract.

Nyal's Cod Liver Compound is simply this liver extract combined with an extract of malt and hashing with sherry. It also contains the iron hypophosphites.

This combination makes Nyal's Cod Liver Compound a delicious tonic—builds up the system, and makes you well.

That is when you find yourself losing flesh, life, vitality, you should take—even the children like it. $1.00 per large bottle.

If you try this remedy we know you will be pleased. Nyal Remedies we consider foolery to be the best medicine values offered. 11

Silver Seven open "11-12 Season" on Auspiciously at Camrose

Return Game to be Played Here New Years Day

Camrose hockey fans assembled in great force Christmas night at their home rink to see their home team trun the visiting Tofielders to a finish in the opening game of the season at hockey. The visitors literally could not help disappointing them. Somehow the puck kept continually finding its way into Camrose nets. The rubber wandered into them on an average of every three and a fraction minutes of play.

The Silver Seven and their supporters were badly disappointed too. They expected to have to play a much stiffer game. While it was a fast game, this was largely due to there being only six men played on each side, Tofield being one man short and Camrose laying one man off on this account.

The game did not commence until very late owing to the fact that special train ordered by the Tofield club did not show up on time, being tied up somewhere down the line and No. 12 having to wait for westbound No. 1. Owing to the lateness of the hour only a small number of spectators remained to witness the game. The line up was as follows:

Tofield		Camrose
J. Macdonald	Goal	Adams
Haines	point	W. Banford
Herb Lee	Point	Spleasman
Bassett	centre	Newcombe
R. Lee	Rd. W.	Snow
S. Macdonald	Ld. W.	Frozier
[illegible] Officer	[illegible]	Stockton and W. McC.

A return game will be played in the Tofield rink on the afternoon of New Years Day beginning at 2 P. M. sharp. Tofielders will undoubtedly turn out en masse to cheer the Honorable Silver Seven and to assist them by enthusiastic rooting to maintain their sturdy and creditable traditions of the past.

Council Special Meeting

A special meeting of the old council was held last Tuesday evening to pass the third reading of the by-law respecting the levying of the town wall, which third reading was neglected for the past six weeks by oversight. The tender for well sinking of Andrews e of Winnipeg was accepted and 1300 feet of six inch casing, 14.2 lbs. to the foot, at 32 cents per foot f. o. b. Winnipeg was ordered.

Change of Sex Creates Comment

Is Proof of Mendel's Theory, Which Hitherto had Received Little Credence

BERLIN, Dec. 18.—An unusual instance was transacted at the district court here last week. The judge decreed the change of sex of two sisters. One of them was called Louisa, aged sixteen years old, the other was called Gertrud, fifteen years old.

As they grew up these girls felt that girls' dresses and girls' education were becoming unsuitable to them. Moreover, their voices became so deep that they were jeered at in school. The girls became therefore very unhappy, and the parents made an application to the court to change their names. The court acquiesced, and officially changed their names to Louise and Gerhard. The case has created some attention and certainly is an interesting example of recent Mendelian theories.

Children's Xmas Tree

The Xmas treat to the Sabbath School children of the Presbyterian church was held Friday evening in the church. The seating capacity of the church was taxed to its utmost by those who turned out to hear the splendid program. Great credit is due those who so ably prepared the lengthy list of choruses recitations and solos. The children showed by the manner in which the different selection were delivered that no pains were spared in making it the splendid success it was. Santa Claus was prompt in his visit and distributed the gifts from a well laden tree to the school children. If anyone has been overlooked, it was purely unintentional.

The Rev. Whillans acted as chairman for the evening.

Town Mayor Gets Two Years Term

The new town act is now being considered by the legislature in committee of the whole. It was introduced into the committee last Monday and its consideration began at the night session, which lasted until ten o'clock.

The fair progress made enabled the committee to reach only the 70th clause. There are 377. The most important of the new changes so far in the draft enacted that the mayor of a town shall be elected for two years, and that the six councillors elected with him shall be elected for two terms, the first three for two years, the second for one year. They shall continue to be retired in this order

Modern Filtering Plant

In connection with the "Chateau Laurier" the new $2,000,000 Grand Trunk Hotel at Ottawa, it has been decided to establish an ice freezing plant, and the Forbes System of sterilization. This means that every drop of water that comes into the hotel for any purpose is first filtered twice, then sterilized and cooled, rendering it not only absolutely pure from all sanitary standpoints, but clear and free from any coloration.

As regards ice, the water from which it is made will be first filtered twice, then converted into steam then condensed and frozen, rendering the ice not only absolutely hat a beautiful, clear, transparent crystal.

Castle Square Entertainers

The entertainment given by the Castle Square entertainers last night in the Masonic Hall was thoroughly enjoyed by a fair sized audience. Every number on the programme was encored with minor exception. There was variety enough to interest the audience to the last minute, and considered encores were a feature of the evening.

Legislature Adjourned

The Provincial Legislature adjourned last Wednesday for the holidays. 10 bills were assented to by the Lieut. Governor and became law. Two new departments in the government were created; the portfolios of Minister of railways and telephones and of municipalities. Hon. J. L. Sifton assumes the former and Hon A. J. Maclean, the latter. Both were sworn in immediately after the adjournment of the House.

The people of Ontario west in the district from Port Arthur west are reported to be satisfying for the annexation of that part of province to Manitoba.

The unadvertised place is merely a little more pathetic a sight than the inadequately advertised one. For the first has little hope new-a-days—the other impresses one as capable of possibilities.

The Leading Man

(By Margaret Chute)

"Half-an-hour, please!"

Shouting indistinctly, the call-boy tore along the concrete passages, past the dressing-room doors, out of the Riverside Theatre, behind which shone the vestiges of the dingy, cramped little stage of matinee and make-up.

Down on the stage, the lights were already turned from her lurid crimson to the pale blue of letters, postmen past, or sir, and midnight's banks. In her own particular corner of the stage, cautiously dusting the bundle of correspondence, Miss Dane's maid was busy with her duties.

Above the bundle of letters, or other something to do with it, or other, she was trying to look interested.

Carefully covering her beautiful face with photographers did their best to render something of a mask, through which cooling cream, she raised it up steadily.

"I held back a sigh tonight, Danny," she said, impulsively. "I—I—I don't know why. I'm a little upset tonight, I suppose. All I can—at least, I thought I saw someone I knew in the audience. I—I don't—well, what's the use of mentioning it? Sometimes aren't things like that cheerful companion, are they?

Danny looked up, thought, then shook her head. "Can't say, miss, I'm sure. I never looks at the audience, miss. I'm too busy a-watchin' to see if anything's on tonight—that's my business, miss. Not that Mr. Hartley 'll be found in a minute I 'spect, but we've got a matinee this afternoon, very soddes, it was. It's always very soddes when there's a matinee."

"Undeniably!" With a huge powder-puff transferred to her left hand, she took the newspaper in amazement. "Why, she says, 'see the play,' she says, 'it's terrible,' she says, 'it's unbearable,' she says, 'it's dreadful,' she says, 'it's awful,' she says, 'it's simply

Editorial Comment

In the dead of winter "The air bites shrewdly It is very cold." Yet "Now is the winter of our discontent made glorious." by the welcome coming again of the Christmas festive season.

The Fact of Christmas

The origin of Christmas is shrouded in uncertainty. Not until the 4th Century do we read of any date suggested as that on which our Lord was born. The Western Church believed that Hippolytus was right in declaring the date to be Dec. 25th, while the Eastern Church held it to be January 6th. It is not unlikely that the early Christians conceived the happy idea of making the heathen festival of the Sun which was held on Dec. 25 synchronize with the "Sun of Righteousness." Some cynics have contended that Christmas was the production of fertile minds like Dickens, while primarily the opposite is the case, viz. that Christmas created Dickens. However we may seek to trace its origin, nothing can take from the significance of the "Fact of Christmas," and nothing can rob that fact of its surpassing wonder. The man who cannot respond to the magic touch of Christmas; who feels no thrill of joy at its return, ought to be hissed off the stage of life.

Christmas has come and we are glad. We are so glad for the recurrence of the season when men feel that good will is better than ill will; that the hard brows must relax. A time when men feel under a spell, like "the expulsive power of a new affection" constraining us all to feel that our greatest joy in life is to brighten the lives of others with tangible tokens of warm regard. We feel, at Christmas time, ready to believe Tennyson when he says,

"How e'er it be, it seems to me,
'Tis only noble to be good
Kind hearts are more than coronets,
And simple faith, than Norman blood."

While one could earnestly hope that nothing might occur to check the open-heartedness of the season one cannot help expressing the hope that no selfish over-indulgence might be allowed to destroy the gracious feeling which accompanies the season. We have it in our power to tighten the grip of Christmas on the world's great heart and so help the world nearer to the fulfilment of the angel's song, "Peace on earth good, will toward men." We owe Christmas and every true Canadian to bring to Him who is the Prince of Peace.

New Official Suggested

One of the councilmanic candidates in the recent municipal elections touched upon a subject, in the elucidation of which the ratepayers of this town would feel more than superficially interested. This was in connection with the administration of the civic public works department. His proposition was to dispense for the time being with the office of town constable and create an office which would include the duties of constable, public works overseer and general superintendent of streets and sidewalks etc. His idea was that the town would be away ahead in results for the salary expended, over past years experience, if we had an official whose whole time would be given to general superintendence of all the outside work of the council in the administration of utilities, public works and bylaws.

The idea is certainly one worthy of consideration. Much can be said in favor of it, and possibly there are arguments against. Council will undoubtedly have to discuss the matter in some form at an early date.

Agressive Methods of Getting New Business

Agressive methods start the world a-talking. Agressive methods always get the talk, and discussion, everyone knows, is the mother of investment. Travel over Canada or the U. S. and one will be greatly surprised to learn how much talk is going on about this or that place, in any community and you will hear talked about the methods of certain business firms, who are pursuing agressive methods for getting new business. This is the age of the ADVERTISER. Cities and towns as well as individual firms are shouting their wares and the city, town or firm that stays out of the game is like to the man who hid his light under a bushel.

Praises G. T. P. Scenery

A letter received by the Grand Trunk Pacific Ry. headquarters from one of the prominent artists in New York, who has just returned from a trip over the Grand Trunk Pacific as far as the Canadian Rockies, contains the following:- I went to the end of the steel on the Grand Trunk Pacific, then took the trail over to Moligne Lakes which I found to be the most beautiful I ever saw in my life. I had a delightful trip, and made several sketches. Returning I stopped off at Wainwright, and from there went out duck shooting in different directions, and had a most delightful time. Next year I hope to be able to get away earlier and see more of your magnificent country.

COWS AND THEIR HORNS

Under Current Conditions Cows have Use For Horns, Which May be Profitably Suppressed.

As an individual proposition, a neat pair of short, nicely curved, waxy horns on a cow's head may be something to be admired, but as a general proposition the cow of dairy type, reared of milk, butter-fat and calf, has them will surely see them on her mates in the herd and crush more or less loss to the owner. Ages ago when the commerce of Hyperia Maid Orrality, the Helotists holding the Idean coast, ran wild in the forests of Europe it was necessary for the cow to protect her calf from the depredations of wolves and other beasts of prey, and the horns which nature had provided for that purpose were a blessing; but such conditions no longer exist, and our breeders may well set themselves as to what useful purpose can be served by horns on the head of a cow.

Cows are more quiet and gentle, more easily managable with each other in every way when deprived of these weapons. This is readily admitted by all who have seen such cows standing quietly in the barn yard or bunched in drinking at the water tank. Dieterrie Maid Orrality, the famous Helotists maid never had any horns, because their growth was prevented when a calf. Short three weeks old, as soon as slight swelling showed where the horns would be, she was laid on her side and the hair clipped from both swellings. Then the swellings were moistened with water and carefully rubbed with a stick of caustic potash, and the work was done.

Forward and Backward Pullets.

When winter egg production is aimed at the pullets should be hatched so that they may commence to lay by the end of October and be laying at the beginning of November. This is the time when the eggs are most in demand and bring the highest prices. Pullets hatched much later than this likely to cease as soon as the cold weather comes on, while if they are much later there is small chance of their laying before the end of the year. The too-forward pullets should be fed so as to keep them in order that they may be in poor condition, for if they are supplied with a bowl of a nourishing or a stimulating nature they are almost sure to begin laying shortly. The backward birds, on the other hand, should be forced to some extent, and to this end they should be fed generously. They should be kept carefully when pullets should be fattened in order that they may be ready for sale right. Much of a great deal naturally depends upon the variety, upon the season, and upon the manner of treatment. It is not a good plan, however, to force on the backward birds and to starve the forward ones, but to endeavor to keep them growing steadily.

SOME NEW FRUITS

An interesting bulletin, entitled "Some New Fruits," has been published by the North Dakota Agricultural Experiment Station. The object of the bulletin is to give a summary of the principal results with some fruits which have been originated at the station. The experiments conducted are briefly described. Many interesting results from the native and Russian cherry are recorded.

Some promising new fruits have been obtained by the crossing of the native plum and sand cherry with plums from Europe and the Japanese plum. Many new hybrid fruits are now ready to be tested for commercial value. Many combinations have been made and the results of these crossings are awaited with interest. The fact has been established that it is possible to secure fruits combining the hardiness of native stock with the size and quality of the finer fruits from Europe and Asia. It is hoped that similar changes can be taken in South Dakota will be taken by other experimenters in order that the work of hybridizing may be extensively carried forward.

POULTRY BULLETIN

In a recent bulletin W. R. Graham, poultry husbandry at the Ontario Agricultural College, recommends that farmers increase their preference to light horses built for speed rather than "woolliness or dryness."

Heavier horses are to be preferred to meet standard for egg production; it is claimed, and, indeed, given a good ration and to use the high forcing breeds. Mr. Graham says that the best all-round poultry is the Barred Plymouth Rock, which is a good table bird and a fair layer of poultry plant of the colleges that the average of about 150 eggs per hen is the production of eggs and is the fattening of chickens.

Keep the Heifers.

If you must sell some of your heifers, keep the best of the best heifers as you possibly can. If you have a few extra calves on your hands and your neighbor is sacrificing a lot of good heifers, sell your calves and buy his heifers. Your steers will bring you more, perhaps more than you will have to pay for the heifers, and you will have a foundation for a breeding herd, and breeding herds are going to be valuable in the very near future.

Feed.

Should a cheese factory swarming with flies always be found in the fifth and I always find it. Flies are attracted to the factory by the fish, their place is found and removes the flies.—R. W. Ward, Dairy Instructor.

The boy's appetite is often the source of amazement. If you would have such an appetite take Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only create a healthy appetite, but strengthen the stomach and enable it to do its work naturally. For sale by all dealers.

CANADIAN WOMEN AND THEIR WORK

CANADIAN WOMEN IN MEDICINE

Canadian women have taught successfully in such large numbers that the history of the Canadian woman teacher has become a commonplace. No less interesting has been the part taken in the development of Canada by the Canadian woman who has taught. Many interesting stories of women teachers have been written in the short history of the teaching profession in Canada. There is the picture of woman teacher of long ago in the Canadian forest, and the woman teacher of long ago in the country, naming two of the number of women who were once heads of girls' schools in Canada. Numbers of other names will readily come in the recollection of any Canadian. One may be mistaken in thinking so, but surely the old system of education used to allow of the growth of stronger individualities. A strong individuality is a fine quality in an instructor. There are two such individualities which can be taken as types of the Canadian women teacher at her best. Miss Janet Carlechan of Niagara, has retired from teaching and greatly interested in the collection of historical material, in a museum of the Niagara peninsula. She is as much interested in life to-day as she was when she began teaching. Her teaching was based on the individuality of her pupils. In the same way Miss Dow, Principal of the Elizabeth Street School in Toronto, which is now known officially and popularly as The Hendrie School, is an admirable example of the strong individuality of the teacher. Miss Dow has accomplished more practical results for social reformers than perhaps any other Canadian. Her chief aim is to make the best of every boy and girl who passes through her hands. She does not merely succeed in this the best of them. She makes the best. The biographies of these two women are examples of the splendid story of the Canadian woman teacher.

There are a number of Canadian women who have achieved a national

Miss Harriet Johnston of the staff of Queen's University and Kingston schools has been elected more than once to the position of head, as the representative of the Ontario Council in the Dominion Council of Education. Miss Agnes Laut, wife of Miss Machar, Supreme Hughes of the Toronto public schools, who came from the staff of Normal Schools to be head of the public school kindergarten in Toronto, was elected President of the Dominion Teachers' Association as representative of the Kindergarten section. Miss Mary E. M. "I'm all right, Hawkins," was the answer, as he rolled up his eyes, an' I'll be around in a few days."

He was a comical little cuss, as I have said before, and he grew more excited as he talked. He splattered as I stood away from the fountain, while the dust in the trifle kept up a most infernal racket.

By the time I had the bobcats an' the bloodstains in the trousers washed up an' got back to the ranch it was nearly dinner time. Jasper Park

Pleasure seekers and tourists are impatient of travel to Jasper Park B. C. During the past summer a number of parties travelled to the end of the road, and then trailed away into this newly discovered wonderland of the west. They all came out with enthusiastic reports of the grandeur of the scenery along the Grand Trunk Pacific. Mr. Frank R. Kirkbridge of 55 Wall Street, New York has just written to the to the Grand Trunk telling of a trip he had taken in the Athabasca country last fall. Mr. Kirkbridge says in part:—

"The party met the outfit at mile 23 (Hinton) and from there rode to mile 110, stopping two nights on the way. The horses swam the Athabasca at mile 116, and the journey across Shovel Pass to Lake Maligne was made over the camel-back trail which had been built by Otto Bros. for the park authorities in the spring. From the time of leaving Hinton the scenery became more interesting and beautiful. Maligne Lake was the climax of the trip. It is unique in the succession of constantly changing views—a new peak, glaciers and wooded foreground—which opens up as one rounds one promontory after an other through the length of its 18 miles. The party spent two days camping at these different points on the lake, exploring valleys and climbing mountain ridges, each of each of which disclosed new beauties.

On our return we took the train at the end of the steel, then mile 98. We are glad of this opportunity to express our appreciation of the thoughtfulness and courtesy of all the Grand Trunk Pacific officials on the construction trains. The trip was undertaken on the recommendation of the Otto Bros., who had previously guided some members of the party in the region near Field, B. C. Their enthusiastic reports of the new country to which they had moved were more than justified. The party consisted of Miss H. H. Kirkbridge, Miss W. B. Kirkbridge of Philadelphia, Miss M. R. Taber, Miss J. Taber, Miss R. Rose-ll, Mr. A. Killiver, Mr. R. Ingram and myself, all of New York. This was the first "tourist" party to visit Maligne Lake, the pearl of the west.

Beaver Lake

On Nov. 22 our friend D. M. McCallum, B. A., C. E. of Winnipeg was united in marriage to Miss McLeod also of that city. Duncan is a young man who has reflected great honor on his parents and this locality by his ability and high moral character. His many friends wish the young couple long life and great happiness. Duncan is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McCallum.

The most of the farmers here have got their threshing done. The McCallum-Daby mill did it for them. There are a few others who are anxiously watching the slow approach of the Spengler-Miller outfit. We hope another week will see their troubles over.

"H. D." who, apparently, had retired from a "literary lark" is out strong in this week's Observer. Were we to give our pen the free range he does, we'd get it good and plenty in the way of abuse; but with H. D. it's all right, in some cases, as he generally tosses up those whose sense of humor is a saving quality. Here's a little tidbit.

"Jim Stewart is at Meadow running the 100 h. power at the flour mill. Since the government changed hands he's got to earn an honest living."

Here's another.

"If I were writing for the Spicy Times, the Tofield Standard, or even the Edmonton Journal, I wouldn't hesitate to say that the great bulk of the wheat that poured out of the separators was No. 1 hard but as this sheet (the Observer) is utterly bereft of guile, I feel bound to admit that the quality of the grain is variable, capricious and streaky.

A pleasant family reunion took place at the country residence of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mahaffey on Christmas Day. Among those present were; Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Mahaffey, Mr. and Mrs. Morton, Mr. and Mrs. H. Adams, O.H. Mahaffey and family, Ross Yager and Floyd Mahaffey. An enjoyable Xmas tree was held at the same residence on Xmas Eve at which a number of the neighbors were present.

Negotiating for Peace

Peace negotiations have been under way in China, between the revolutionists and the imperial government. The former insists upon the abdication of the emperor and the formation of a Chinese republic. The government shows signs of yielding, having come to the conclusion that the revolutionists are, while insistent in their demands, truely patriotic in their sense of duty to their country.

U. S.-Russia War Scare

Pres. Taft of the U. S. has suddenly given notice to Russia that the U. S. abrogate the treaty of 1832 with that country. It is generally understood that this action has been led up to on account of the fact that Russia refuses to allow U. S. citizens of Jewish nationality to enter that country and that the U. S. nationally resent this attitude. It was thought for a few days that war might result but subsequent events show that Russia chooses to ignore the action of the U. S. in its entirety. This is practically a snub for the retent United State.

BARDO

Rev. Mr. Gudjon of Camrose is to hold service here next Sunday in Mr. Rossings place and who has later removed to his home in Improving.

The Public School Closing Festival last Thursday was a great success. The pupils staged the play "The Merchant of Venice" from Shakespeare to the delights of a crowded house. During the evening presentations of substance and form of cut glass to Miss Brown, the retiring teacher and a pair of gold glasses to Mr. Brown. Miss Brown's resignation took effect at the close of last term. She is now safely married to a young farmer in Saskatchewan. Bardoose wish her every success.

A splendid Christmas service was held on Christmas morning in the Bardo church at which Rev. Mr. Jothen, pastor, officiated. The choir rendered suitable music. A special free offering, always taken up at this occasion, annually for the pastor, resulted in the magnificent total of $60.00.

The Sunday school festival is being held on Thursday evening at the church.

Upon arrival in the district is a gentleman who will be of good service to the community, Mr. Farve lately from South Dakota, carpenter trade, has rented F. Bernstrand's farm near Kingman. He is at present superintending the building of T.A. Rosen's new residence. He is a strong temperance worker, a good speaker and often assists actively in the pulpit.

DAIRY CREAM BUSY

Thresh and Fire Hazards Would Not Be, Says Expert

There is expert need that from grossness indicate their others. In conducting the cleaner variously of cream, of cream, poor judgment and fire blight. In some sections of the country orchards have been ruined by the depredations of the. Such fruit men have given up trying to get rid of the pests. The disease once it gets established in an apple orchard, will depreciate the value of the orchard fifty per cent. Dairymen who have made a study of the disease, tell us that did all fruit growers take proper precautions, the disease could be completely stamped out in a reasonably few years. As soon as cankers are noticed, they should be cut out and burned. If such a policy were rigidly adhered to, the "Pure and Dairy," the disease would no longer be troublesome, many thousands of dollars' worth of apple trees would be saved each year, and poor culture would again be possible.

Dr. JOHN R. WEST,
President, International Bay Tuesday Congress, Colorado Springs, September 26th.

How About the Cows?

Have you decided which cows you will milk next winter and which you will sell? Have you? Then you have done more than the majority of dairymen have done. Many have not yet decided which cows they will keep and which they will sell. Some, or quite a few, have had heavy cows in a good thing. We all know that the cow that gives but the cream has a ready sale at a premium. Why have so many had heavy cows in the herds and heavily producing cows in the minority? Because they have not been weighing the milk and testing it. Are there no cows in your herd that are not producing for the boss and to get at least an occasional test which is sure to save him money. If not, why not the test with the object in view of getting rid of the boarders? The cow that is not paying her milk value but a bit to do with the returns. Don't keep that beef critter either, especially "Bossy-cow" critter. She has wasted a lot of your time and hasn't she a nuisance when the flies begin to bite? You won't find a perfect cow in the herd, the chances are. They are to be found in the dairy papers. But you can probably do a little effective culling and perhaps find one for some of that surplus grass feed or bushel grain by turning it into beef.

Exhibiting Fruit

Many farmers think that no boxes of fruit should be exhibited until it has reached the comparatively maximum age of two years. Keeping fruit is not found to work well in practical experience. A breeder may not believe in feeding the feal heavily, in order to fit it for the show ring, but he is compelled by the rules of advertisement to do so other people do. There are both advantages and disadvantages to be reckoned with when exhibiting fruit. It brings before the public the breeding ability of certain strains of fruit. It affords breeders an opportunity of testing their fruit against the productions of their neighbors, and it has at times been the means of introducing fruit that will improve immediately on their previous. This has often been both ways, as there must be a seller for every buyer, so the breeder here an opportunity of disposing of their surplus stock. On the other hand, the farm does the feal by having quite heavy feeding is often the cause of an inferior animal in winters too when it pays the price of remarkable victories by being out of the prize ribbon.

It is usually very desirable to exhibit fruit in a natural state.

Weight of Milk.

The best authorities give the weight of one gallon of milk, of average composition, as 8.6 pounds. A milk rich in fat will weigh a little less than this and a poor milk more. If however a milk is made poor by the addition of water it also will weigh less than before the water was added. The weight of cream is very much less since it always contains some part that increases the volume without adding perceptibly to its weight. It will weigh from a little less than 8 pounds to about 8.4 pounds per gallon, according to the per cent. of fat that it contains.

Rotation is as necessary to the growing of profitable crops as variety of food is necessary to the health of the individual.
